SYDNEY, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1908. 26 PAGES. PRICE 1d.

SUMMARY.

The "Daily Chronicle" writes that the Admiralty stipulates that in war time its control of the Australian navy must be absolute.

Application forms for old-age pensions were issued yesterday at all post-offices in the United Kingdom.

It is estimated that 50,000 people in the poor districts of London applied for the forms.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie has given £250,000 as the foundation of a hero fund for the United Kingdom.

The object of the fund is to reward the heroes of peace, and to maintain their widows and children.

Mr. Carnegie has now distributed £34,000,000 in charity and education.

All the great northern international mills have closed.

Bulgaria has seized the Bulgarian sections of the Orient railway, and claimed a proportion of the profits hitherto paid to Turkey.

The Porte has addressed a Note to Bulgaria, demanding the restoration of the railway to the company.

The "Times" says that the action of Bulgaria is manifestly incorrect diplomatically, and against international law.

Thirty-six competitors started in a 25-h.p. motor car contest in the Isle of Man to determine the highest speed with an unlimited consumption of fuel.

A Hutton car, built by the Napier Company, and driven by W. Watson, won the race, covering the distance, 339½ miles, in 4 hours 44 minutes 45 seconds.

The second and third cars were Darracqs, occupying a few minutes longer than the Hutton.

There is a serious increase of cholera in St. Petersburg, which is largely due to the strike of grave diggers.

The highways are scoured to obtain grave diggers. The military authorities will not allow the soldiers to do the work.

A typhoon occasioning great loss of life and property has swept over the Philippines. No details have been received.

Since 1900 there have been killed by disasters in the French navy 288 officers and men, the financial loss being estimated at £3,460,000.

Two electric trains in Philadelphia came into collision in a fog. Seven persons were killed, and 72 were injured.

Mr. George Renwick, the Conservative candidate, has been elected for Newcastle-on-Tyne.

The debate on the question of the federal capital site was resumed yesterday in the House of Representatives by Mr. Wilks.

The Dalgetyites were few among the speakers, it being generally acknowledged that the name would remain.

The Prime Minister was asked whether in the event of Dalgety being adhered to he would place a sum on the Estimates to enable the capital to be built.

Mr. Deakin said that if there was a desire for an early transfer to the capital members should be satisfied with temporary accommodation.

The debate was adjourned until Tuesday, when it is expected the bill will be put through.

In the Senate no different result is anticipated if the bill goes to that Chamber with Dalgety as the choice of the Representatives.

Mr. Chapman, Minister for Customs, was seized with sudden illness while at lunch at Parliament House yesterday.

After resting for two hours he recovered sufficiently to be taken to his residence.

Proceedings were commenced in Melbourne yesterday against an alleged combine in the shipping trade.

The summonses were obtained at the City Court for service on Huddart, Parker, and Co., Proprietary, Limited, and on the company's manager.

The complaint was that defendants refused to answer certain questions put to them by the Crown Solicitor under powers of the Act.

The Chief Commissioner has replied to the recent deputation from the Enginemen and Firemen's Association asking for reforms.

Mr. Johnson said he was doing his best to curtail and do away with the necessity for overtime.

The practical vision tests could not be conceded, owing to the difficulty of getting a similarity of circumstances under which tests could be made.

The Minister for Works is making a trip over the route of the proposed railway from Tarago to Braidwood.

The provisions of the measure regarding accommodation for seamen are regarded as unfair.

H.M.S. Gibraltar arrived late last night from Plymouth, with relief crews for H.M.Ss. Challenger and Prometheus.

She has a prisoner on board in irons charged with having thrown gun-sights overboard. He will be tried by court-martial on Monday.

The bill to establish a Bureau of Agriculture was read the first time in the House of Representatives.

It provides for the distributing of new and valuable seeds and plants and for carrying out experiments, etc.

The Speaker of the House of Representatives has received from Lord Northcote a message sent from Manila in reply to the resolution passed by Parliament.

The ex-Governor General says: "Lady Northcote and I deeply appreciate the generous resolution adopted in both Houses."

Mr. Lee informed a deputation from Lithgow that he recognised the Local Government Act required amendment in certain particulars.

The death is announced of ex-Judge Wilkinson, in his 78th year. He represented St. John's, Glebe, in the synod for several years.

At the trial of Drivers Milburn and Dolman the point was argued whether evidence as to lateness in the running of trains was admissible.

The Chief Justice said that as a feature of the defence in mitigation of punishment it might not be admissible.

In the suit in which Catherine Mary Callaghan, more generally known as Marie Narelle, is petitioning for divorce, judgment was reserved.

A deputation waited on the Premier to ask that remedial steps be taken to lessen the dangerous nature of rock-chopping.

Mr. Wade promised to have the views of the deputation conveyed to the Works Department, and the matter would be investigated.

A representative deputation waited on the Minister for Education to ask for a new site for a Public school at Flemington.

Mr. Hogue promised to meet the wishes of the deputation at the earliest possible moment.

The boiler of the steamer Sophia Ann has been recovered, and that of the Rescue has been blown up.

The volume of trade in the wool market during the week has been of moderate dimensions.

The business recorded in copper stocks yesterday showed a better feeling, and prices indicated a recovery.

Barrier shares were also in better request, and gold stocks commanded attention.

FARMER AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

PEERLESS RACE SUNSHADES.

A glance at our Pitt-street Window Show of Sunshades will convince you that we are exhibiting the finest lot of Sunshades yet seen in Sydney.

Probably this may sound a somewhat boastful assertion, but we are content to rely upon your verdict. The show includes Sunshades of almost every price, size, colour, shape, and pattern. We quote a few, but you must see them to judge of their beauty.

Fancy Sunshades, floral patterns, smart handles, 4/6, 8/11, 12/6, 17/6, 21/.

New Stripes and Checks, principally "Bayadere" effects, prices, 5/11, 8/11, 12/6, and upwards.

The New Bag Sunshade—has a smart bag attached to handle, toning with colour of shade, useful and fashionable. Chere effects, 25/ to 30/ each.

Tussore Sunshades, lined green cotton, or any other colour preferred, prices 3/6, 3/11, 5/11, 7/6; or, lined Silk, 10/6, 12/6, and 14/6 each.

Plain Silk Sunshades, all colours, stylish handles, prices 6/11, 8/11, 13/6, 15/6 upwards.

BLACK RAINPROOF SUNSHADES.

Can be used as protection against sudden showers that sometimes suddenly overtake one in summer, 3/11, 4/11, 5/11, 6/11, 7/11, 8/11, 10/6, 12/6, 17/6, 21/, 25/, to £3/10/ each.

Farmer's Half-Guinea Black Rainproof Shades are sterling value, and unexcelled by any in the city.

OUR DAILY SPECIAL LINE.

GLOVES FOR THE RACES,
WHITE KID TO-DAY, 7s 11d.

These Gloves are below the Elbow Length, and usually priced at 8s 11d per pair. They are the finest quality Kid, of French Manufacture. We have chosen this Line as being in great demand for Race Meetings, Garden Parties, and in fact, as being useful for all occasions where a smart Costume is worn; white being always useful, and adding a light chic appearance to Costumes of any shade.

The reduced price is for to-day only. Orders by telephone will be executed, also from the Country if sent immediately on receipt of the newspapers announcing this special line.

EMBROIDERED COLORED LINEN ROBES

These are to be found in our Dress Department. They are beautiful Goods of the finest French make, and play an important part in the Fashions of Paris and London to-day. Those we show are White Linen, with coloured Embroidered designs, most artistically treated. As is usual in these Goods the Skirt is shaped and fully 3¼ yards of material is supplied for the Blouse, with Embroidery for Collar and Cuffs. No two of these are alike, and for the woman in search of an exclusive Gown at a short notice these Goods are admirably suited. The prices range from 89s 6d to 5½ guineas, according to the elaborateness of embroidery or otherwise.

EVERYTHING FOR GIRLS' WEAR.
SPECIAL SHOW ON MONDAY.

On Monday we are making a special show of Girls' and Children's Frocks and Millinery in these Departments, which are close together on the first floor, near our Underclothing Section. The keynote of the display is to be practicalness. These Dresses and Hats are designed with the idea of filling the need of useful, serviceable, everyday garments for children and girls for school and general wear. For full particulars see our advertisement in this paper on Monday morning, or, still better, call and see the goods themselves.

CARRIAGE PAID

On all goods, excepting Furniture and Floor Coverings, to any Post Office, Railway Station, or Seaport throughout the Commonwealth.

DAVID JONES, LTD., SYDNEY.

YOUR NEW SUIT FOR THE HOLIDAY.
READY FOR WEAR.

It is almost too late now to order a Suit to your measure; but clad in one of our Ready-to-wear Summer Suits you will be smartly as well as economically dressed.

The fabrics are excellent—the patterns new and stylish—and the workmanship is as good as ever we could put into them—in short, the general effect of these suits is one of perfect good taste.

OUR 2-GARMENT SUIT consists of a stylishly cut coat with long roll collar in high-class, well-designed flannels, striped effects. Unlined, to ensure coolness and for washing; with patch pockets. Trousers built in present style, slightly narrowing at the ankles. PRICE, 25/, 30/, 35/.

OUR 3-GARMENT SUIT is unquestionably smart in appearance. The patterns are new and selected especially for the Australian Summer. Each garment represents the extreme of good fashion in every way. And the materials are the select Greys and Browns with and without stripes, as you please. PRICE, 35/, 42/, 45/.

PATTERNS POST FREE.

A MATTER OF DEMONSTRATION.

Goods WELL BOUGHT are HALF SOLD, runs a trade maxim recognised in all up-to-date establishments. Our ENORMOUS RESOURCES enable us to BUY to the BEST ADVANTAGE, and offer

TOP QUALITY AND BOTTOM PRICE.

THE NEW PALACE EMPORIUM.

As an apt ILLUSTRATION we direct ATTENTION to the ENGLISH-MADE WASHING TUNIC SUITS FOR BOYS, shown in one of our GOULBURN-STREET WINDOWS. GOOD CLOTHES PLEASE the WEARER, LAST LONGER, and SATISFY all CONCERNED. The SUITS WE quote are all GOOD WASHERS. The MATERIALS are all SELECTED for QUALITY, and embrace the SEASON'S PATTERNS and COLOURS, whilst the CUT, STYLE, and FINISH are FIRST-CLASS.

There is NO SKIMPING in FABRIC; the TUNICS are WIDE ENOUGH across the shoulders, and LONG ENOUGH in the sleeves, and the KNICKERS are STRONGLY MADE. In all, they DEMONSTRATE the MARVELLOUS ECONOMY there is to be found in an ABSOLUTE TRUST in

ANTHONY HORDERNS' FAMOUS LOW PRICES.

Recognising the necessity for a Dramatic School for bringing into prominence amateurs of talent, Mr. McKay has opened an Academy (on similar lines to the Gower-street School, London), to be known as "THE SYDNEY MUFFS DRAMATIC ACADEMY."
An expert staff of teachers has been engaged, who will instruct in Elocution and Dramatic Art, Singing, Fencing, etc., and all subjects essential to a stage career.
From its inception five years ago the "Muffs" Society has been instrumental in raising a sum of £1500 for city and suburban charities, and the following plays have been produced:—"The Merchant of Venice," "As You Like It," "The Honeymoon," "The Village Priest (by arrangement with Herbert Flemming, Esq.), "Rob Roy" (in conjunction with the Highland Society of N.S.W.), "Caste" (by kind permission of Geo. Rignold, Esq.), "Harvest," "The New Boy," "The Shaughraun," "The Arabian Nights," "The Microbe of Love" (first time on any stage), "The Tame Cat" (first time on any stage), etc., etc.
From the foregoing it will be seen that the "Muffs" Society has been particularly active, and, as it is proposed to enlarge its scope and produce plays of a high order, students of talent will have abundant opportunity of appearing before regular Sydney Theatre Managers, who have been pleased to add their names to the "Muffs" list of patrons. In connection with the Academy a Class is being formed for the exclusive study and production of the works of Shakespeare, "The Merchant of Venice," "and Twelfth Night," are to be put in rehearsal immediately. The "Muffs" intend giving a series of 4 subscribers' performances per year at city theatres. TERMS: £1 1s PER ANNUM, entitling the Subscriber to two reserved seats at each of the four performances. Plays by local authors will be read and their production arranged for, if suitable. CONCERTS MANAGED. Further particulars will be given on application to the Secretary.

AN IMPRESSION OF THE STEINWAY PIANO.
THE PERFECTION OF PIANO CONSTRUCTION HAS NEVER BEEN EXEMPLIFIED SO WONDERFULLY AS IN THE STEINWAY.
The STEINWAY is an instrument that has won its way into the very heart of the musical world. Our greatest living musicians pay it the highest compliments, while in the past it was a delight to such men as Liszt, Wagner, and Rubinstein, who have left behind them testimonials of its rare qualities. To-day the models are, if possible, better than ever. They possess that full, deep, rich tone that thrills the hearer; at the same time the exquisite sympathetic singing quality that has gained them so much of their artistic renown. The STEINWAY is an instrument that makes a direct and instantaneous appeal to all who hear it. Though we are business men, and to sell these instruments is part of our vocation, still underlying this there is a strong sentimental feeling that we are helping forward all that is beautiful in music when we submit a STEINWAY Piano.
WE ASK YOU TO ALLOW US THE PRIVILEGE OF MEETING YOU IN OUR SHOWROOMS JUST TO DISCUSS A STEINWAY.

IMPERIAL MARINE OIL ENGINES Represent the Pinnacle of Progress attained in Oil Engine Construction.
Unhampered with old-fashioned patterns, the designers of Imperial Engines (after 22 years' actual experience, backed up with ample capital) set themselves the task of producing an Engine comprising all the latest-known improvements (deficient in other engines), and the product of their skill has been the introduction of the IMPERIAL. Little wonder that this Engine is rapidly superseding old-fashioned types. Imperial Engines are the Best. G. W. WHATMORE, 11-5 Loftus-st.

CHAPTER I.

Philippa Adelstane was sixteen years old, and the heiress-presumptive of Welwysbere Abbey, in the county of Devon; of the great property appertaining thereto, and of a very considerable fortune besides.

She lived with her mother, Catherine, the widow of the late Sir Philip Adelstane, at Shepherd's Rest, a small farmhouse on the side of a steep wooded hill, which afforded views of a fair broad valley and of a wide expanse of agricultural country divided into chessboard squares of arable and pasture, and backed by a far-reaching chain of blue hills.

Below the cottage where Philippa dwelt could be discerned the turrets of the Abbey among the trees of the deer park. The farms of her expected inheritance were scattered over the hillsides. In the valley itself, the low roofs of Welwysbere village bordered a single street, dominated at one end by the square brown tower of the village church, and at the other by Squire Chilcott's white house, which stood a little apart, surrounded by its own grounds and solid farm buildings.

Welwysbere, being entailed in the male line, was now the property of Sir Cecil Adelstane, who had succeeded his uncle, Sir Philip. But Sir Cecil had been married many years, and was yet childless, so that the eventual succession of Philippa to her late father's estate appeared certain.

Sir Cecil had almost ceased to regret the non-arrival of his expected sons; he was fond of his young cousin, and proud of her good looks, which nearly resembled his own.

His family pride was further soothed by the reflection that it would not be the first time in the history of the Adelstanes that the Abbey had descended through a female, and that Philippa's son would be entitled to assume the name and arms of the family, as the son of her ancestress had done in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, nor were his descendants a penny the worse for the circumstance.

But if Philippa had inherited her fine features, straight profile, and haughty expression from her father, she no less resembled her grandmother, Lady Sarah Adelstane, in the brightness of her colouring, her tall, well-formed figure, and the ruddy tint of her splendid chestnut hair.

Old Lady Sarah recognised the reproduction of her former self with unfeigned pleasure, and when she learned that Philippa, in addition to her beauty, had also inherited her early wilfulness and headstrong temper, she was more amused than concerned. Lady Sarah had long since acquired philosophy, a possession which doubles in value with every year of advancing age.

She was no longer beautiful, but she insisted, with great spirit, upon rendering herself as picturesque as possible. Her height had dwindled, for the burden of years weighed down her shoulders in spite of the most gallant efforts she could make; but her blue eyes were still bright, her white wig was becomingly dressed, and her delicate, wrinkled face was even shrewder and merrier now than in the days of her youth.

On Philippa's face the merriment was lacking. Though not so entirely devoid of humour as her cousin, Sir Cecil, she was yet too young to appreciate her grandmother's light-heartedness. The levity of Lady Sarah pained no less than it puzzled her.

Lady Sarah had passed her eighty-second birthday; thus, since she could no longer extort her friends' admiration for her youth, she liked to astonish them with her age, and by adding an imaginary decade was enabled to allude to herself as a nonagenarian with perfect cheerfulness.

She did not see her grandchild often. She lived in London, and spent her winters abroad; but as the little house in Curzon-street was too small to accommodate visitors, and as Philippa's mother seldom or never left home, their meetings were confined to the rare occasions when the old lady took it into her head to visit her grandson at Welwysbere.

These visits were infrequent, for though she was fond of Sir Cecil, she detested his wife, Augusta; and was convinced besides that the damp of the West Country was detrimental to her constitution.

About the time of her granddaughter's sixteenth birthday, however, she invited herself to the Abbey for Whitsuntide, and Philippa made haste to acquaint her mother with the news that Lady Sarah was coming.

She entered the oak parlour of Shepherd's Rest breathless with the haste she had made in climbing the narrow, high-banked, winding lane from the village to her home.

"Granny is coming to the Abbey, mother," cried Philippa, "and Cousin Augusta says that when they all go back to town after Whitsuntide she wants to take me with her. Oh, mother, I like Cousin Augusta better and better every moment, she is so deliciously kind to me. I had no idea she was such an angel. To be sure I was only a child when I saw her last—not fourteen—and she owns quite frankly that she never cared for children. But now I am grown up we are to be real friends. I think it's sweet of her to be friends with me, don't you?"

"My darling, how you have overheated yourself," said Catherine.

"Bother!" said Philippa, "and I thought you would be so excited to hear the news about Granny, mother. I almost ran all the way."

"So I am, very much excited," said her mother, placidly. "But, for all that, I wish you would not run uphill in this warm weather. I am very glad Granny is coming, and we will go together to call upon her directly she arrives."

"Yes, yes. But about my going to town, mamma? Don't begin by saying at once that I am not to go, as you always do——"

"You know I never accept such invitations for you, Phil."

"Yes, but listen," said her daughter, imploringly. "It is quite different from Cousin Augusta's usual written invitations, which you used to say were hollow (though I am certain now they couldn't have been). She really means it, and Cousin Cecil wants me to go too; and, what is more, they are not only going to ask you themselves, but they are going to get Granny to speak to you about it."

"Indeed," said Catherine.

Philippa stood looking down upon her mother, tapping an impatient foot upon the polished oaken floor of the little parlour.

Against the background of innumerable books which lined the room from floor to ceiling, her handsome, fresh-coloured face and bright hair stood out with striking effect.

Catherine looked up from the writing-table, where she had been making up her farm accounts, at the dearly loved face, now deeply flushed with purest carmine; at the curved mouth, with its short upper lip and corners sulkily drooping; at the straight brows drawn into a frown above the black-lashed deep-blue eyes.

"After all, I'm sixteen," said Philippa, rebelliously.

"At sixteen," said Catherine, and she tried to laugh, "London is, happily, not obligatory. You will not come out for another two years, you know."

"But that's no reason why I should never go anywhere nor have any pleasure, no matter who asks me," cried Philippa, with a sudden smothered sob. "Cousin Augusta says I ought to go to town before I come out, and make friends with people of my own age, and Cousin Cecil thinks so, too. You know he never says anything without thinking it over. And, after all, he's my nearest relation, and my guardian in a way."

"No," said Catherine, "it is I that am your guardian, though I very gladly take counsel with your Cousin Cecil. Sit down, my darling, and let us talk it over quietly together. If you want to go to town so much, though it is a bad time of the year for me to get away—what with the hay and one thing and another—still, you come first, and I will see what can be done. But I have no idea of handing you over to Augusta. I will take you myself, darling. Only, I thought last time we went to London, Phil, that the trip was not a success. You said you never wished to go again."

"Of course it wasn't a success," said Philippa. "Why, you know I hated it. You hated it yourself, mother. It would be just like it was before if you took me. A horrid hotel, and at the last moment Aunt Dulcinea would insist on coming with us; and there we should be, like regular country cousins, all of us bewildered, and not knowing where to go or what to do, and everything hateful. I would rather stop at home if we are to go like that."

"It would not be like that again," said Catherine; but her mind misgave her faintly. "You are older now, and we could go to concerts and theatres and picture galleries, and—and—I daresay Aunt Dulcinea wouldn't want to come."

"You know she would," said Philippa. "And you'd say it was unkind not to take her. Of course we can't hurt her feelings—and theatres and concerts are all very well in their way——"

"I should think so," said Catherine. "Why, when I was your age——"

"Oh, mother, don't," said Philippa, despairingly. "I know so exactly what you're going to say. How a travelling circus or a fair seemed the wildest excitement to you when you lived with your cross old aunt in Calais; and how you were quite contented to go down to the pier every day with Sophy, and see the steamer come in; and how grateful you were to my father when he bought you a sixpenny fairing. You have told me a thousand times."

"It is quite true. I have told you very often," Catherine acknowledged; but she felt a little pang, nevertheless, as she heard the sacred recollections of her girlhood thus ruthlessly epitomised. "It did not take very much to content me in those days."

"Well, I am not a bit like you, and it wouldn't have contented me," said Philippa.

"I don't know what would content you, Phil, you are so restless."

"It would content me to go to London with Cousin Augusta."

"And leave me——?" There was a sound of pain in Catherine's low voice.

"Of course, if you put it like that," cried Philippa angrily, "it takes away all the pleasure. But either way it will be horrid, I suppose; everything always is. If you don't come, you will think me cruel and heartless to go without you, though I don't feel a bit like that," and she shed tears, even whilst resisting with impatience her mother's attempted caress. "And if you come, why, I know you will hate it, and have nothing to do, and only be longing to get back to the farm and the dairy, and feel sure everything is going to rack and ruin without you, as of course it will."

"I always meant to take a house in London when you were eighteen," said Catherine, meekly.

"What would be the good of that? You don't know anybody in London," sobbed Philippa.

"But Lady Sarah does. She would take care you had all the proper invitations. And I could go everywhere with you, as your mother should."

"Not nowadays," said Philippa. "It's a most old-fashioned idea, mother. And it's all very well; but, as Cousin Augusta says, Granny can't go on for ever; her friends are as old as the hills; even if she would be bothered to think about me, which I am sure she wouldn't. And when Cousin Augusta is so kind, and when you know how much I love her——"

"Your love is only two days old," said Catherine, smiling.

"It's just as real as though I had known her for years. More real, for I haven't had time to get tired of her," said Philippa, innocently. "Oh, mother, I do think it's very hard I'm to be cooped up in this horrid, dull old farmhouse for two whole years more. You know yourself everyone wonders why we live here at all."

Catherine was silent; her gentle eyes regarded her daughter wistfully. But whilst Philippa was in this mood she could not remind her why she held the little house sacred. She said to herself, besides, that the child had some reason on her side. Catherine was aware that the family in general criticised her home, and found it a most unsuitable residence for the young heiress of Welwysbere.

"It won't be so dull for you this Whitsuntide, my darling, since Augusta has come home, and especially since you have taken this sudden liking for her."

"But she will be gone back to town in a few days. And she said herself that they would be a very dull party—all elderly people—only Granny, and the Ralts, and old Lord John——"

"Your Cousin Cecil said they would certainly spend this summer down here, after their long absence from Devonshire."

"But Cousin Augusta hasn't said so," said Philippa, shrewdly.

"Anyway, David Moore will be at Bridescombe," said poor Catherine, searching for further consolation. "You were so anxious to see him when we read about him in the newspapers during the war."

"Of course I want to see him," said Philippa, dolefully. "Anyone would like to see a hero like that. But I should see him in London just as well if he's going to be at the War Office. Besides, after all, he's Hector and Lily Chilcott's uncle, not mine."

Catherine glanced at her beautiful daughter, and smiled tenderly to herself. What a child—what a baby she was yet, though she looked so tall and womanly!

NOTES.

Club secretaries are slow in furnishing club news. I hear of friendly encounters and team matches being played. There are many who would like to be present at such encounters, and would be pleased to hear of any arranged that they could attend.

It is officially announced that the Barker v Drouillard match articles were signed on July 11. The contest will commence on November 2 at Kansas City, Mo., and will consist of 50 games for £250 a side, under the two-move restriction openings, the referee to be appointed when the contestants meet on the day of the match.

Commenting on the proposed "international" between England and Scotland, Mr. H. F. Shearer, in the Dundee "People's Journal," makes the following novel suggestion for the pairing of the teams:—The teams should be 12 a side, and should be divided into four sections of three players each. This order of merit should be determined by the committees of the respective associations. Then, in a three days' match Nos. 1, 2, and 3 on the one side would play against each of the like number on the other. Nos. 4, 5, and 6 likewise, and so on. My idea is that each couple should be compelled to play six games, and that each tie should be finished in one day.

CURRENT LITERATURE.

A STUDY OF THE CONGO.

In "George Grenfell and the Congo" Sir Harry Johnston has produced the fullest account of this part of Africa that has yet appeared. It fills two sumptuous volumes and is exceedingly comprehensive in scope. Much of the material is based on the diaries and researches of the late Rev. George Grenfell and the records of the Baptist Missionary Society, several members of which incidentally collected much important ethnological and geographical information. But Sir Harry Johnston has added to this stock of data from every available source. A collection of 496 photographs and drawings lends a unique interest to the work. George Grenfell went out as a missionary in 1874, and he died at Basoko in 1906. He was a good type of pioneer, and to him we owe the earliest reconnoitring of many of the navigable tributaries of the Congo. Politically he was a firm friend of the Congo Independent State, and the King of the Belgians often appealed to his devotion, experience, and authority. During the whole of his long residence he was assiduous in collecting material of scientific interest and of the most varied description. It is of rather ironic interest that he received for his services the sum of £180 a year. Sir Harry Johnston begins with a sketch of the work—other than religious—done by the Society in Fernando Po and the Cameroons and in Congoland prior to the arrival of Grenfell. Grenfell's early journeys are then described. Three or four chapters are given to the foundation of the Congo State and its vicissitudes, and the first volume concludes with a number of important appendices from Sir Harry Johnston. The second volume is of more general interest and importance. It gives a reliable account of the anthropology and ethnology, the arts and industries, the folk-lore, and the philology of the Congo peoples, and sketches the natural history of the Congo basin. The discussion of the pygmies of Central Congoland, for instance, is quite absorbing. There is some reason to believe that these tribes once stretched right across the equatorial belt, and that they represent a survival from before the beginning of the Stone age. Lord Mountmorres, indeed, states that he saw a primitive and simian type that he mistook for chimpanzis, until they fired tiny arrows at him. They were arboreal in habit! Most of the tribes do not run to more than four feet in height, and their language is of curiously primitive grade. The next stage in evolution above the pygmy is the forest negro, with very long arms and proportionately short legs. The Nilotic Group—characterised by very long legs—is said to be an early hybrid with Caucasian invaders in, say, Neolithic times. The chapters on native diseases tell us that sleeping sickness was known on the coast a century ago, and that it was probably carried to the upper reaches of the Congo by Stanley, whence it spread rapidly to all parts of the Congo basin. Smallpox is an introduced disease, that makes terrible ravages among savages, who have developed no immunity towards it; and the same may be said of several other European diseases. The account of "initiation ceremonies" shows many points of resemblance between these and those of the Australian aborigines, including the use of the "bull-roarer." The whole book is a mine of information. (From George Robertson.)

THE ANIMAL MIND.

A most fascinating book for the general reader, who will probably be unfamiliar with recent works in experimental psychology—the only psychology worth having—is Professor Margaret Washburn's "The Animal Mind." The subject is a difficult one, but the exposition is particularly clear and readable. Strong emphasis is quite rightly placed on the comparative method. There has been too great a tendency to assume that the mental processes of animals are identical in kind with our own—a view that leaves out of account the multiform possibilities of evolution and that has the slenderest basis in observation. Almost useless is the anecdotal method based on the older natural history. How much there is still left to discover is shown by the existence of three groups of writers, of whom the first believe that consciousness should be ascribed to all animals, the second that it should be ascribed only to a few, and the third that we have no satisfactory evidence of mind in any animal. Response to stimulus is of course no evidence of consciousness; and variation in behaviour is so only when it can be shown to be definitely the result of previous individual experience, but if we accept the power to learn by experience as the test of mind the position of the second group of writers, which includes Loeb, is assured, for even a narrow range of experimental work shows how restricted this power is. Another argument that has to be used with much caution is that from structure. Only a small portion of the animal world, for instance, possess eyes, ears, and so on, near enough like our own to make analogy a safe proceeding. The sense of hearing for example is highly problematical right up to the crustacea and the insects. In the lowest vertebrates the question is almost as obscure. So, though many invertebrates have eyes the whole body often reacts to light. In fact, the more closely animal behaviour is studied the wider the field for "tropic" reactions not involving consciousness becomes. At the same time the dawn of consciousness must have come slowly, and in the higher animals at any rate we should expect to find something like "ideas." A very full bibliography adds to the value of this book. (From George Robertson).

IMPRESSIONS OF HENRY IRVING.

"Impressions of Henry Irving," by Walter Herries Pollock, is a little book that will appeal to many readers. Walter Pollock was a close friend of Irving from "the time when he first set his foot on the ladder of fame right down to the end of his splendid career. When they first met Irving was going to a night rehearsal of "The Bells," in which he made his first great success as Mathias. Mr. Pollock chats pleasantly of the long record of Lyceum successes, touches deftly the criticisms which the Master had to survive, and enlivens his narrative with frequent little episodes of a personal character. Mr. H. B. Irving, in a prefatory note, says: "Had my father lived he had intended to have written his reminiscences, in which, no doubt, he would have given to those who came after him the fruits of his experience, the lessons learned, the ideas formed, in the course of a career of strenuous endeavour and singular achievement. But this was not to be. It rests with those who knew him well, who at different times were his companions, to convey to those who neither saw nor heard him some idea of a personality the power and impressiveness of which none can question." (From Dymock.)

THREE EMPRESSES.

Josephine, Marie Louise, and Eugenie are three names that recall many a pageant and many a dramatic and touching scene. The three plays, "L'Aiglon," "More than Queen," and "Madame Sans Gene," attest some of the wide interest they have stirred, and it is obvious that Mr. H. A. Guerber had here the material for a capital book. He has not failed to make good use of his opportunity. Josephine, the first wife of Napoleon, was born at Martinique, on her father's plantation, 1763, on the day the island was formally restored to the French after the Seven Years' War. An aged negress is said to have predicted that she would marry, have two children, lose her husband by a tragic death, and then be "more than Queen." Her first love affair was with a young English lad, but the parents checked it promptly, having determined to marry her to the son of an old neighbour, who had returned to France, the 19-year-old Viscount de Beauharnais. He was a favourite at Court, but Josephine did little to help him play a brilliant part, and recriminations soon resulted. For several years they were separated, but lived more happily after 1781. The viscount was an ardent Republican, and was one of the first to give up his title at the Revolution. But this did not save him from the guillotine a few years later. Josephine, however, frequented the drawing-room of Barras at the Luxembourg, and here probably she first met Napoleon. This proved his first serious passion. When they were married they both registered the age of 28. Napoleon, however, knew that Josephine did not love him. He left almost at once for the campaign in Italy, and disturbing accounts of her frivolous life reached him both there and in Egypt, still as First Consul he felt her indispensable not only to his happiness but to his position. The coronation of 1804 and the brilliant winter of 1805 followed, but the shadow of the divorce of 1809 soon began to appear. The unfortunate though rather shallow-souled Empress died four weeks after Napoleon's arrival at Elba (1814). Marie Louise of Austria, Napoleon's second wife, was born in 1791. Never was marriage more summarily decided, or with less regard to the private inclinations of the parties. It took place in 1810. Napoleon was over 40, and Marie Louise 18. Both behaved well, as fortune had it, and presently the Emperor was devoted to his little son, the King of Rome. This lasted four years. With the abdication at Fontainebleau the real troubles of Marie Louise began; but she could plead little excuse for her desertion of Napoleon, and his affection for her, which had grown to be quite real, lasted till his death in 1821. The young Duke of Reichstadt died in 1832, but Marie Louise enjoyed a monotonously comfortable existence until 1847. Eugenie de Montijo became the wife of Louis Napoleon in 1853, and lived to see the downfall of the Empire, and the deaths of her husband and son, the Prince Imperial, who was killed in Zululand in 1879. (From Dymock.)

PETRONIUS ARBITER.

The publishers have been well advised to add to the "Scott Library" a version of that portion of Petronius which describes the feast of Trimalchio—one of the most vivid sketches in all literature. Whether the Petronius of the "Satyricon" is identical with the man whose portrait has been left us by Tacitus we do not surely know; but whoever he was he lived about the time of Nero, and he was a man of consummate ability. Only a few scattered fragments of his book have come down to us, and perhaps there is nothing in the lost literature of the Empire that we regret so much. His work may be best described as a realistic novel—probably the first of the species. It has only a slight affinity with the Greek romances, and the term "satire" is a misunderstanding. Petronius has no moral purpose, and if there is vice in his picture it is simply because that picture would not have been complete without it. Wit and humour abound, but what strikes the reader most is the extraordinary verisimilitude of the narrative. It is kodaked from life. The life, no doubt, is of a sort that a moralist would condemn, but that does not make it the less real. As far as we know it, the heroes of the story are two young men and a boy, who in the course of sowing some very wild oats get into all sorts of scrapes and mingle with all sorts of company. It is one of these episodes that forms the text of "Trimalchio's Banquet"—a pretentious feast given by an upstart millionaire, who, however, is painted with a certain saving grace of generosity and good humour. It is probably familiar to few English readers, and they will be well repaid the trouble of running through the present version, which very successfully reproduces the spirit of the original, and skilfully glides over passages where a strict adherence to the text was not desirable. For the serious student of Latin literature Petronius is of course of many-sided importance. German scholars have devoted whole dictionaries for example to his vocabulary—a vocabulary that must have made Cicero turn in his eminently respectable grave—while his grammar would ruin the reputation of a schoolboy. But this, of course, means that he reveals to us the actual evolution of the language, and from this point of view his "mistakes" are worth their weight in gold. The fragment, too, has had a remarkable literary history. It was discovered in Dalmatia in 1663, and its fame induced persons to forge completions of it up to the nineteenth century. We note that the "Scott Library" now includes 125 volumes, another recent volume being "Singoalla," a medieval story, now first translated from the Swedish of Viktor Rydberg.

THE BARBARIANS OF MOROCCO.

Under this title Count Sternberg gives a timely description of Morocco, for which Mr. Douglas Fox-Pitt, who accompanied him, has drawn twelve excellent colour illustrations. Seen from the harbour, Tangier looks as though thousands of pigeons in their snowy whiteness had settled on the coast; but once you land the "scum of European barbarism obtrudes on the senses at every step." Over Fez, however, the author became genuinely enthusiastic—he calls it beautiful as the sunshine, lovely as the sky. "Within the old walls an ancient age dreams peacefully on. The colours, the smiling idylls of the roofs, speak of an existence which was the same thousands of years ago as it is to-day. Nothing has been spoilt, nothing disturbed." The people, he tells us, hate the French and dread the Europeanisation of their country. There are in Fez 5000 refugees from Algiers. The author, who apparently is a good Catholic, is very bitter against the French, whom he calls the barbarians of the twentieth century. On the other hand, one of his acquaintances assured him that the German Emperor was regarded as the guardian angel of Morocco. A chapter is devoted to the case of Kaid Maclean, and the author gives Raisuli a high character. The book is slight enough, but it makes a readable narrative. (From Dymock.)

THE RISE OF MAN.

There is a great deal of miscellaneous information in Colonel Conder's "The Rise of Man" (Murray, through George Robertson). He deals mainly with social and religious evolution, and his conclusion is that there is "an eternal purpose working through the ages." Evolution is the new argument from design. Science is that which enables us to explicitly formulate this fact, and therefore Colonel Conder regrets that it does not play a larger part in education. A "vast mass of semi-educated population" has been created, and these persons are "still the prey of impostors as ignorant as themselves, and of a cheap daily press as pretentious as it is ill-informed." Religion must play the most important part in civilised history, but no existing Christian Church is destined to supremacy. We rather suspect that in Colonel Conder's opinion it will be the "pure truth" of the Plymouth Brethren that will survive. The gallant Colonel, however, has read widely, and the facts that he has thus become acquainted with make a useful synopsis of several departments of knowledge. Thus he sketches in a few pages the early history of science. Science is a subject in which the Colonel is evidently much interested, and he accepts unreservedly the fact of evolution. He gives a good account of early man, and goes on to give the leading data about ancient civilisations. Another section is devoted to historic religions. His comment is hardly a safe guide, but most of his facts come from reputable authorities. He discusses everything between animism and Islam, and then gives two separate chapters to the Hebrews and historic Christianity. These chapters are frank and well informed, and so is the brief description of the "heresies of the first few centuries of the Christian era." The volume as a whole can be recommended to the general reader, who has neither time nor inclination for a more complete and critical study of the thousand and one topics touched on, though such writing does nothing to advance the sum of knowledge. There is a good index, which is quite overwhelming in its suggestion of out-of-the-way lore, and when we remember that the author's first work appeared in 1878, since which time he has composed 15 volumes more or less related to Biblical criticism, we must admire his energy and perseverance.

RECENT FICTION.

"Fairy Tales from Far Japan" (R.T.S.) is a pleasant little book by Susan Ballard. The stories are quaint and intrinsically interesting, and they are excellently retold and illustrated with thoroughly Japanese pictures.

"Lady Beauclerc and Socialism" (Walter Scott Publishing Company) is by the Rev. H. T. Perfect, whose "One of a Few" series has been so well received that he is encouraged to go on indefinitely. The "socialism" is an appendix in which the author expresses his views on this subject.

Messrs. Macmillan publish a very good shilling edition of "Hereward the Wake," a book which we hope will never lose its popularity with boys; and "Waverley," and Victor Hugo's "Ninety-Three" are added to Nelson's excellent library of reprints.

"Five Little Peppers," by Margaret Sidney (Fisher Unwin), is a pleasing enough child's story on conventional lines. Father was dead, and mother had hard work to pay the rent of the little brown house and provide for the mouths of the five little Peppers; but to help mother was the great ambition of all the children, and the story tells how they did it.

"The Quests of Paul Beck," by M. M'Donnell Bodkin (Unwin) is a collection of short detective stories. Paul Beck has already achieved some celebrity as a "rule of thumb" detective. He is a good deal nearer the real thing, no doubt, than most of the popular heroes of fiction in the same time; and this explains why he is less brilliant than some others whose acquaintance we have made. Twelve episodes are here given, and they include several varieties of murder, the story of a Spanish prisoner, the theft of a ruby, and of some wonderful diamonds, and finally a dramatic motor-car pursuit of stolen wedding presents. All the stories are crisply told.

"HERALD" FOURTEENTH TOURNEY.

The "Sydney Morning Herald" fourteenth international problem tourney.—Conditions: (1) Competitors may send in as many original problems in diagram, accompanied by full solution, as they please. "White to play and mate in two moves." (2) Each problem to have a nom-de-guerre or motto. The composer's name and address to be enclosed in a separate sealed envelope, with the like motto. Seals will not be broken until the awards are made. (3) Each problem to have but one author, not to have competed in any other tourney, or been published before. (4) Problems to be addressed "The Editor, the 'Sydney Morning Herald,' Sydney, Australia," and reach this office by December 1 next. The prize we offer for the problem that the judge (Mr. F. J. Young, of Hobart, Tas.) deems best is five guineas. Should he so recommend, two special prizes will also be awarded. Competing positions to hand to date, 35.

OUR FIFTY-FIFTH TOURNEY.

The "Sydney Morning Herald" fifty-fifth quarterly solution tourney opens with next issue. Conditions: Solutions the unaided work of solvers must reach this office by Monday fortnight after the appearance of problems, which are confined to one two-mover a week. The key move only need be given. In the case of unsound problems, if there is no solution, a statement to that effect is necessary; if more than one, any one of them will score. An incorrect solution prevents points being obtained for a correct one accompanying it. Special section: Conditions same as above, except that all problems appearing during the quarter are included, and a point given for each key of an unsound problem with more than one solution. We have pleasure in offering a memento in each section for the highest score or scores. Noms-de-guerre may be used, but names and addresses should accompany first and last solutions. As complaints reach us from time to time of letters going astray, competitors in sending current solutions are recommended to repeat those of the previous week.

NOTES.

The Sydney School of Arts C.C.—The sealed handicap tourney is drawing to a conclusion. All games unplayed on 30th inst will be forfeited. Recent results:—Spedding v Volckman, draw; Spedding v De Warre, draw; Savage beat Calvert, Parker beat Calvert, Parker beat Savage, Spedding beat Swain (forfeit), Parker beat Leamore. Scores to date:—Amor, 6½, Bamford 4½, Daplyn 3, De Warre 6½, Muir 6, Savage 10½, Spedding 15, Taylor 10½, Tyler 13½, have completed their games. Calvert, 13½ and 1 to play; Kinman, 13½ and 1 to play; Leamore, 10½ and 2 to play; Parker, 15 and 1 to play; Simmonds, 8 and 1 to play; Volckman, 14½, and 1 to play; Wood, 7½, and 1 to play. It will be seen that highest points lie between Spedding, Parker, and Volckman, who have all excellent scores. The opening of the sealed handicaps will be a time of much interest.

THE CHAMPIONSHIP OF THE WORLD.

At the conclusion of the twelfth game the score was:—Lasker 6, Tarrasch 2, drawn 2. At the end of five games the score was: Lasker 4, Tarrasch, 1; so that of the last seven games played each contestant has won two, and three have been drawn, which is very even going. As Lasker only requires two games to win and Tarrasch needs five, the odds are all on Lasker. His opponent, however, is a magnificent player, and may yet have surprises in store.

MANY WEEKS OF AGONY

With Eczema on Arms and Legs.—Could Scarcely Sleep for Months.—Tried Many Treatments Without Results.—Could Not Work for 11 Weeks.—Completely Cured by Cuticura.

"My trouble began with irritation on the legs and right arm, which developed into eczema. In a few weeks' time I was in perfect agony. I was prevented from attending work for eleven weeks, and although I tried remedies suggested by my friends, they were all used without any effect, and two doctors failed to do any good. One day I decided to make another attempt to get rid of my complaint, and purchased a full set of Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Pills, and in ten days I found the irritation disappearing. I would not have believed it possible for any remedy to afford such comfort in so short a time. I was able to sleep at night—a thing which I had not been able to do for months—and in the course of another week there were unmistakable signs of the eczema being mastered. I persevered with Cuticura, and in six weeks, using two supplies, I was cured.—George Harrison, Poole-terrace, near South Milford, Yorkshire, Eng., June 11, 1907."—Advt.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

Mme. Ada Crossley, who is expected to arrive here to-day from Adelaide, will be nowhere more warmly welcomed than in Sydney, where already the three great musical societies have arranged a reception in her honour for Monday. Amongst the artists who will make their debut at her concert on Thursday evening, special interest will attach to Mr. John Harrison. There is an element of romance in this singer's career, as he has risen from the position of warp-setter in a cotton factory at Colne, Lancashire, to that of one of England's leading concert-room tenors. Both his parents were intensely musical, and he was further assisted by the encouragement of Mr. and Mrs. Schofield Clegg, wealthy musical enthusiasts, under whose advice he studied as a light baritone with Fk. H. Dale, of Manchester. In 1902 he visited London to consult Santley, who at once pronounced the voice "a genuine tenor," and sent him to Mme. Amy Sherwin. This artist assiduously trained him for a year in the oratorio tenor repertoire, and in German lieder. Mr. Harrison owes much to the accomplished Tasmanian diva and teacher, as with his debut at the Boosey Ballad Concerts in 1903 he at once leapt into fame. "Since then," remarks the tenor, "I have sung every year with that most brilliant society in all England, the Liverpool Philharmonic (Dr. Cowen), and last year at the Cardiff Festival under the same conductor. Mme. Crossley was in that cast, and also with me at the great Birmingham Festival, under Dr. Richter, two years ago. My last engagement at the Albert Hall with the Royal Choral Society under Sir Frederick Bridges was in "Acis and Galatea," when Henry Dearth, a young English basso, who is likely to become famous, made his mark. I met my good friend, Sir Charles Santley, last Christmas in "The Messiah," at Manchester, when Dr. Richter conducted, and the quartet included Agnes Nicholls, Ada Crossley, and myself. We were all deeply moved by the tremendous reception accorded the veteran baritone in recognition of his knighthood, just conferred. I value very highly my appearances with the Glasgow Choral and Orchestral Union under Mr. Joseph Bradley. He is a conductor and teacher very highly thought of at home, and Sydney was wonderfully lucky to secure his services. It would prove tedious to mention all the stars I have been associated with. One very long tour with the German pianist, Wilhelm Backhaus, included the Sydney contralto Alice Hollander, who gave up a big classic career for the sake of an immediate high salary at the halls, and Miss Lilian Foulis, a violinist who also has many near relatives in this city. From October 1 last to the end of March I was touring the United Kingdom with Mme. Ada Crossley—probably one of the most successful tours ever undertaken. For that reason Mr. J. C. Williamson stipulated for the engagement of exactly the same group for the antipodes, and it is this happy little family of good artists and good friends which will appear before you next Thursday."

This evening Mr. Frank Thornton opens his farewell fortnight at the Palace Theatre with another of the famous farcical comedies with which his name is inseparably connected in this part of the world. His "Lord Fancourt Babberley," the harmless little sprig of aristocracy who is bullied and persuaded into impersonating Charley's aunt from Brazil—"where the nuts come from"—is one of his most finished impersonations. This actor first appeared here in Brandon Thomas's farcical comedy on Boxing Night, 1893, at the Criterion Theatre, at a period when he was in partnership with another favourite actor-manager, the late Charles Arnold. The English history of the play is that of the greatest money-maker the stage has known. Mr. W. E. Penley, the first creator of the dual role, originally borrowed £1000 from a financier to stage the piece at the Royalty Theatre, London (December 21, 1892). This happily adventurous speculator drew £600 a week as his half-share of the profits for the first year. Penley also drew £600, and the author was "in it" to the tune of £160 a week. The royalty itself was too small to yield such results, but after the first six weeks the play was transferred to the Globe. It ran there continuously until December 21, 1896, exactly four years, the number of performances being 1466. At the Vaudeville "Our Boys" pleased 1362 successive audiences, after which comes "A Chinese Honeymoon" at the Strand Theatre, where it passed 1200 performances.

Miss Carrie Moore, who makes her reappearance at Her Majesty's Theatre to-night, after an absence of five years, as Sonia, the merry widow of Franz Lehar's famous light opera, may fairly be regarded as the brightest, and certainly the most precocious "singing soubrette" that the Australian stage has produced during the past decade or two. She was the youngest singer who ever appeared in leading parts with the Royal Comic Opera Company, taking rank as such through her successful appearance, at the age of 17, as Maid Marion in De Koven's opera "Robin Hood," with the Savoy prima donna, Florence Perry, in the second part as Annabel. Before she was 20 Miss Moore had played three or four of the best Gilbert-Sullivan characters in Mr. J. C. Williamson's company, and when she left Australia in 1903 it was to replace Letty Lind in the important soubrette role of Ellen, at the Apollo Theatre, in "The Girl from Kay's." Her success as Peggy the Sandow girl in "The Dairymaids," at the same theatre in 1906, and again last year at the Apollo in Edward German's opera on "Tom Jones," will be remembered. In the latter, her dainty song, "All for a Green Ribbon to Tie in her Hair," made the hit of the piece. Last Christmas this vivacious actress was appearing as the prince to Miss Phyllis Dare's Cinderella at Birmingham, when Mr. Williamson persuaded her to come back here for a six months' tour. Miss Moore has enjoyed seeing old friends and familiar places once again, but cannot extend her stay, as she forms an important element in the first pantomime enterprise in London of her old friend and manager, Mr. Robert Courtneidge—at one time so popular as a comedian on this side. Mr. Courtneidge intends to stage "Cinderella" at the London Adelphi Theatre at Christmas, with the Birmingham cast as before, including again the favourite actor, Dan Roiyat. Miss Carrie Moore is confident that this production will make a great stir, and is eager to be in it, with which object she will have to leave Sydney early in November for London. Before sailing from that capital, Miss Moore saw "The Merry Widow" several times, and modestly setting aside her own impersonation, she thinks the Australian production stronger, and has met many people similarly qualified to give an opinion who agree with her dictum.

Miss Margaret Anglin's appearance to-night as Katharine in "The Taming of the Shrew," at Her Majesty's Theatre, Melbourne, may possibly form the most complete performance of the old comedy ever given in Australia. The work has not been staged in any shape or form since 1881, when John Dewhurst put up David Garrick's three-act farce, "Katharine and Petruchio," at the Melbourne Theatre Royal. The question remains as to how much of it the stars of old times used to give. It is known that G. V. Brooke made his farewell in it on 26th April, 1856, at the Melbourne Olympic Theatre, before he passed from the ken, though not from the memory, of Australian playgoers. Mr. James Smith, a Shakesperian authority of note in the Victorian capital, states that although Miss Anglin's version will omit the Induction, it will still remain more faithful to the original text than any other presented. The American actress, according to her representative, Mr. Louis Nethersole, is also to revive "Camille" and "Frou-Frou," but has abandoned the idea of "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray." Miss Anglin herself writes that she is "feeling very well and happy in her work, but misses the sunlight of Sydney, the Melbourne sunlight not having been yet turned on."

PROOF BEYOND QUESTION.

DR. J. BOND SULLIVAN, M.D., M.R.C.S. (Eng.), Etc., WRITES:

"Knock, Ennis, co. Clare, Ireland.

"Sirs,—Having recently got from you a bottle of Kutnow's Powder, from which I personally derived much benefit, will you now kindly send me a larger supply. I really feel unsatisfied without it myself, and I have recommended it to several lady patients, who approve of it greatly. An aged clergyman to whom I recommended Kutnow's Powder tells me he finds it both effective and agreeable."

H. C. MOFFATT, ESQ., WRITES:

"Boyton Manor, Codford, Wilts,
"January 17, 1908.

"Thanks for parcel of Kutnow's Powder, which I received this morning. I have used this Powder for some years, and find its effects are most beneficial—in fact, I am hardly ever without it. I can fully recommend it as being the best aperient powder I know of; its action is not violent, while it is invariably the same, and can always be relied on."

A CLERGYMAN'S WIFE WRITES:

"The Manse, Blennerbasset, Brayton, S.O.,
"Carlisle, 9th March, 1908.

"Sirs,—Thank you for your bottle of Kutnow's Powder, which I find very efficacious, pleasant, and agreeable to take.—Yours very truly,

HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE.

THE FAMOUS REMEDY FOR COUGHS, BRONCHITIS, PNEUMONIA, PLEURISY, ASTHMA, & CONSUMPTION.

Those who have taken this medicine are amazed at its wonderful influence. Sufferers from any form of Bronchitis, Cough, Croup, Difficulty of Breathing, Hoarseness, Pain or Soreness in the Chest, experience delightful and rapid relief, and to those who are subject to Colds on the Chest it is invaluable, as it effects a Complete Cure. It is most comforting in allaying irritation in the throat, and giving strength to the voice, and it neither allows a Cough nor Asthma to become chronic nor Consumption to develop. Consumption is not known where "Coughs" have been properly treated with this medicine. No house should be without it, as, taken at the beginning, a dose is generally sufficient, and a Complete Cure is certain.

BRONCHITIS AND PNEUMONIA CURED BY HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE.

AFTER OTHER TREATMENT HAD FAILED.

Mr. W. G. Hearne.—Dear Sir,—From a strict sense of duty I feel that I should publish the following statement, so that others may know what to do when the awful fact is evident that a life is in danger of being lost:—In September, 1906, my little girl, aged at that time 3 years, contracted measles, and in the following October was attacked by Bronchitis, Pneumonia, and Congestion of the Lungs. She was attended by a legally qualified doctor of high standing, but his treatment was not successful in arresting the progress of the illness. On Saturday, the 21st October, 1906, he said that her life was in danger—that there was very little hope for her. For eight days and nights she had been prostrated by cough, pain, and fever, and was lying like a statue, unconscious. At this stage I was persuaded by a friend to obtain Hearne's Bronchitis Cure, with its auxiliary medicine for the Fever and Congestion of the Lungs, as directed in the Catalogue of Medicines which accompanies each bottle of the Bronchitis Cure. I gave the medicine as directed, and there was an improvement from the first dose of Hearne's Bronchitis Cure. The improvement continued after each dose of the medicine. In a week she was perfectly free from the Pneumonia, Congestion, Cough, Pain, and Fever, and was well, except that she was still weak. In a fortnight she was quite recovered, and is now in splendid health, and stronger than ever. Any person asking for information about this grand medicine can be supplied by me, or by any of my neighbours who have witnessed its wonderful effects. It absolutely snatched my child from an early grave. Yours gratefully,
D. GARDINER.

BRONCHITIS.

IMMEDIATE RELIEF—EFFECT WONDERFUL.

Mr. Hearne.—Sir,—I was very ill with Influenza and Bronchitis. A friend of mine persuaded me to try your Bronchitis Cure. The first dose gave me immediate relief, and after taking the second bottle I am thoroughly cured. Its effect on me has been most wonderful. I am 73 years of age, and I trust that you will make use of this statement by publishing it for the benefit of humanity generally. Yours most respectfully,
THOMAS R. TREZISE, Reedy Creek, Victoria.

CONSUMPTION.

TOO ILL TO LEAVE HIS BED—A COMPLETE CURE.

Mr. W. G. Hearne.—Dear Sir,—I am writing to tell you about the wonderful cure your medicine has effected in my case. About three years ago I began to cough. At first the cough was not severe, but it gradually got worse, and I became very weak and troubled with night sweats, pain in my chest, and great quantities of phlegm. On several occasions there was blood in the expectorated matter. I had been treated by a doctor, who pronounced my case to be consumption, and various other treatments had been tried, but without benefit. It was at this stage that I heard of your Bronchitis Cure, and sent to you for a course of the medicine. When it arrived I was too ill to leave my bed, but I commenced taking it at once, and gradually improved. I am glad to say that the two lots of medicine you sent have effected a complete cure, for which accept my very best thanks.—Yours gratefully,
J. BLAIR, Westminster Bridge-road, S.E., London.

PNEUMONIA AND PLEURISY CURED BY HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE.

AFTER OTHER TREATMENT HAD FAILED.

I, Prudence M'Kee, of Carr-street, South Geelong, in view of the importance of a person making it quite clear what treatment was successful in curing a serious and complicated case when the medicine, directions, and treatment of a legally-qualified doctor had failed, state as follows:—

My son, Henry M'Kee, then aged 8 years, had been attended by a legally-qualified doctor, who pronounced him to be suffering from Pneumonia, Pleurisy, and a stoppage of the passing of Urine. Under the doctor's treatment the child gradually got worse, and the doctor pronounced the case hopeless. He told me that the child could not live. At this stage I obtained from Mr. W. G. Hearne, chemist of Geelong, a bottle of Hearne's Bronchitis Cure, and gave it to the child according to the directions which accompany each bottle of it. The child improved after the second dose of Hearne's Bronchitis Cure. He continued to improve each day from each dose of Hearne's Medicine alone, and within three days he was free from the Cough, Pneumonia, and the Pleurisy, and the Urine was passing satisfactorily. He was out of bed at the end of a week, completely recovered, and he is now in perfect health.
PRUDENCE M'KEE.
Carr-street, South Geelong, 6th February, 1908.

BRONCHITIS AND PLEURISY.

AFTER OTHER TREATMENT HAD FAILED.

Mr. Hearne, Chemist, Geelong.—Dear Sir,—Some months ago, in Sydney, I suffered from a severe attack of Influenza, and was confined to my room for about a week, at the end of which time, feeling somewhat better, I got up and tried to transact my business as usual. But I got up too soon, for the very next day I had a relapse, and suffered tortures from what the doctor told me was pleurisy and bronchitis. The pain from the former in my chest and shoulders was frightful, and for four long weeks I was confined to my bed under the care of a well-known Sydney doctor, and all the time his medicine gave me but temporary relief. The landlady of the hotel (the Cleveland) where I resided told me of a medicine—Hearne's Bronchitis Cure—from Victoria, which had cured her of a bad attack of Bronchitis and pains in the chest, and begged of me to try it. I did so, and, in thanks and gratitude to you, tell you that, after the second bottle, my cough had ceased, but, what is more astonishing, the pains from pleurisy entirely left me, and in about a week I was able to attend to my duties as usual. Yours faithfully,
J. BRAHAM, Melbourne "Punch" Office, Melbourne.

ASTHMA—A 17 YEARS' CASE.

PREVIOUS TREATMENT FAILED.—CURED BY THREE BOTTLES.

Mr. Alex. J. Anderson, of Oak Park, Charleville, Queensland, wrote:—"After suffering from Asthma for seventeen years, and having been under a great many different treatments without benefit, I was induced to try Hearne's Medicine for Asthma. After taking three bottles of this medicine I quite got rid of the Asthma, and since then, which was the beginning of 1883—fifteen years ago—I have not had the slightest return of it. The medicine quite cured me, and I have much pleasure in recommending it."

Speaking in February, 1908, he states:—"I am keeping very well. Never have the slightest return of the asthma."

"Hearne's Medicine cured me of asthma, from which I had been suffering for twenty-five years, during which time I had used almost every patent medicine on the market—including asthma inhalations—without getting a cure. It was eight years ago that the cure was effected by Hearne's Medicine, and I now feel stronger than I have felt for years—in fact, I feel splendid."
C. WISEMAN, Meredith, Victoria.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS! The great success of HEARNE'S Bronchitis Cure has induced a number of unprincipled persons to make imitations, each calling his medicine "Bronchitis Cure," with the object of deceiving the unsuspecting, and so getting a sale for an imitation which has none of the beneficial effects that HEARNE'S Bronchitis Cure has. Consequently it has become necessary to draw your attention to this fact, and to request you in your own interests to be particular to ask for HEARNE'S, and see that you get it.

HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE, Small Size, 2/6; Large Size, 4/6. Sold by all Chemists and Medicine Vendors, and by the Proprietor, W. G. HEARNE, Chemist, Geelong, Victoria. Forwarded to any address, when not obtainable locally.

LIFE IN LONDON AND THEREABOUT.

(CHRONICLED BY HENRY W. LUCY.)

King Edward as a Diplomatist—Continental Fancies and Fallacies—Two Historical Felons—Dr. Dodd and Fauntleroy—Captain Marryat's Portsmouth.

WESTMINSTER, Aug. 21.

I happened to be in Germany at the time of the visits of King Edward to the Emperors of Germany and Austria, and was much struck by the manner in which the press discussed the events. In anticipation of the King's arrival, during his brief halts at Cronberg and Ischl, the principal journals were gravely occupied in conjecture as to the topics of conversation between the monarchs, and their possible influence upon international affairs. For a couple of days after the close of the interviews, when the King had reached Marienbad, and the telegraphs flashed the momentous news that his Majesty, taking his matutinal glass of water at the springs, engaged in lengthy conversation with Mr. Harry Chaplin, the papers still pounded away, discussing reports of what the King had said about the new state of things in Turkey, what Emperor William was understood to have replied, how the conversation drifted to the subject of conditional disarmament, and how the burden of taxation pressing heavily on both nations is likely to be affected by the conversation.

To those familiar with the principles and the working of the British Constitution this way of regarding a casual friendly morning call by an uncle upon an affectionate nephew seems comically futile. It is rooted in the diametrically different conditions of affairs established in the nations, one existing under a certain measure of despotism, and one blessed with a constitutional government, the basis of which is the will of the people themselves. The German Emperor's rule is tempered to some extent by the supervision of the Reichstag. Even in Germany treaties affecting the peace of Europe are no longer made on rafts moored at Tilsit or elsewhere. Nevertheless, the strong personality of the Emperor William undoubtedly does in appreciable measure dominate the course of German policy, and an interchange of views between him and an even more responsible monarch—the Czar, for example—might have important results, affecting the peace of Europe and the prosperity of their respective nations. Our King, God bless him! is in the happy position of knowing that the direction of foreign affairs, as far as they concern this country, is in the hands of his Ministers, who are answerable solely to Parliament. His Majesty's views on particular points of policy would receive from the Cabinet the respectful attention due to an alert mind trained by long experience. But the idea that his Majesty, en route for his annual "cure" at Marienbad enters into secret engagements with foreign potentates which shall frame the policy of Great Britain, is purely Continental.

Autograph letters of two historical criminals have come to light in a collection prepared for sale on the same auction day. One writer is Dr. Dodd, executed for forgery in 1777. For some 20 years he lived in the very odour of sanctity. He was editor of the "Christian Magazine," chaplain to the King, and Prebendary at Brecon. He founded Charlotte Chapel in Pimlico, and held two benefices, being rector of Hockliffe and vicar of Chilgrove. In 1774, in the prime of life and good fortune, he came to grief, being struck off the list of Royal chaplains for improper solicitation of preferment from the Lord Chancellor. He next became tutor of the fifth Lord Chesterfield, and took advantage of his opportunities to forge the name of his pupil to a bond for £4200. It was on conviction under this charge he was brought to the gallows, in spite of a multitude of petitions, one presented by Dr. Johnson clamouring for mercy. Whilst awaiting execution, he wrote "Thoughts in Prison," a book greatly prized by the devout. One of the autograph letters now offered for sale is a copy of Archbishop Tillotson's first sermon, painfully suggestive of intention to read it from the pulpit as his own. Another, dated August, 1774, offers a tragedy to the manager of a theatre.

The other notable felon is Fauntleroy, the banker. He, also a light of the religious and social world, was convicted of forgery and executed on November 3, 1824. He was a partner in his father's bank, Marsh, Sibbald, and Co., London. In his defence read in court, he gave a pathetic account of his long, silent, secret struggle to bolster up the credit of the bank, undermined by large losses. Four years elapsed between his fraudulent sale of stock, committed by a customer to the care of the bank, and the crime leaping to light. Meanwhile esteemed and trusted in the city and in the neighbourhood of his home at Brixton, he lived a life of constant dread. When the blow fell, some who had been beguiled into trusting him, revenged themselves by spreading charges of other offences alleged to have been committed by him. The autograph sheets now offered for sale are dated October 20, 1824, were written in prison, and contain an emphatic repudiation of these charges. As in the case of Dr. Dodd, public petitions, praying for commutation of the capital sentence, were widely signed, and ineffectually presented.

I wonder if anyone nowadays reads Captain Marryat's novels? When I was a boy they were among my chief delights, a pleasure, I understand, shared by my generation. Nothing changes more absolutely than the fashion in novels, and I fear the idol of my youth has been shelved. Portsmouth supplied the background for scenes in most of the stories. Making holiday in the Solent, frequently landing at Portsmouth, I have made a pilgrimage through its streets, picking out the old familiar names. Broad-street is not hard to find, and there is "The Point," at which men-of-war boats were wont to lie whilst the press gang was ravaging the public-houses. But where is the famous Tavern of the Blue Posts, of which the Jarvie, who brought Peter Simple down on his first journey to Portsmouth, remarked, "The best inn is the Blue Postesses, where the midshipmen leave their chestesses, call for tea and toastesses, and sometimes forget to pay for their breakfastesses." Alack! many a day has gone by since the Blue Posts might claim the title of the best inn. Perhaps the midshipmen demoralised the place. Possibly, accustomed to more exciting episodes, it was not able to exist under influence of the gentler manners which came over the middy in the long peace that followed on Trafalgar. At any rate, the Blue Posts gradualy sank in public estimation, losing custom and forfeiting character of respectability, till there were few to weep its fall when, nearly 40 years ago, a fire broke out, burning the inn to the ground, Blue Posts and all.

"The George," where Nelson slept the night before he set sail for Trafalgar Bay, where Percival Keene and his mother called to see Captain Delmar when the young middy joined his first ship, still hangs out its sign. The Common Hard is there, too, though if Peter Simple might to-day walk along it with his friend O'Brien, or Mr. Chucks, the boatswain, he would not recognise the place. There are strange-looking craft in the harbour, that forge ahead without sails, run in and out indifferent to wind or tide. The Hard itself is not much altered since Peter Simple's day, and there is but little novelty of sign in the shops, except that some have been rigged up with new fronts. There are the same windows full of naval uniforms, cocked hats, and cutlasses; the same collection of foreign coins, cracked china, bits of old gold lace; and here is what looks like the very "chest containing an officer's suit of clothes" which Peter Simple 70 years ago had the opportunity of buying as a bargain. With these exceptions, the Portsmouth Captain Marryat knew and limned with graphic pen in many stray passages of his novels, has passed away with the fleet sloops of war and the stately wooden frigates in which Peter Simple and his mates of the gun-room used to disport themselves and serve their country.

THE CROWNING TRIUMPH of modern medicine lies in the pleasantness of its great remedies. This is exemplified by the unparalleled popularity of California Syrup of Figs, the pleasant, natural laxative, of which millions of bottles are sold every year. It is made to do pleasantly, gently, naturally, that for which violent purgatives were too often used with harmful effects upon the system. It is a tonic, a strengthener, as well as a cleanser of the liver, kidneys, and bowels, and its use may be discontinued as soon as the organs are cleansed and corrected. Of chemists everywhere, 1s 9d and 1s 11d.—Advt.

WONDERFUL JAVA.

A TRIP IN THE DUTCH INDIES.

(BY COL. THE HON. JAMES BURNS, M.L.C.)

I.

Leaving Port Darwin in the steamer Airlie, on Friday, August 14, we reached Sourabaya on the 18th, after a perfectly smooth run, which we were assured can always be relied upon, the sea being like a huge lake, with only the lightest of pleasant breezes. Approaching Sourabaya either by Madura Straits or the Straits of Bali, some of the high Java mountain ranges are visible. The Lombok Peak rises to an altitude of 10,800ft, and the Bali peak rises from the water's edge to a height of nearly 10,000ft. The highest mountain in Java is the Semeroe, which is just 69ft under the 12,000. The great charm of life in Java is the variety of climate which can be obtained, and at 6000 or 7000 feet frost is frequently experienced, while the air is dry, crisp, and bracing, and altogether unlike the misty damp conditions experienced in high altitudes in colder climates. The railway running through Java scarcely attains a height of 3000ft, but much higher altitudes and cooler conditions can be gained by driving short distances from stations at various points. The coast line of Java is about equal to that of England and Scotland, the population is about 30 millions, of whom only 50,000 are Europeans, some 20,000 of these being Dutch troops. There are many half-castes, who are counted as Europeans, and we were informed that, if we had any doubt as to whether any person was European or native, we should look at his feet: if he wore boots then he ranked as European, if not he must be native or Asiatic.

IN A FOREIGN LAND.

Our small party (five Australians) landed at Sourabaya in the evening. Some 20 merchant steamers were in the harbour, also a Dutch man-of-war, and many praws and other small craft. No trouble was experienced at the Customs, and after a drive of four or five miles in a kosong, drawn by two ponies, we arrived at our hotel. Accustomed to a 6.30 dinner on board we at first thought the 8.30 and 9 p.m. Java dinners somewhat late, but were soon accustomed to the new meal hours. A boy attends to your room, and also waits upon you at table, and, generally speaking, you call for your boy if anything is wanted. All the other boys know your boy, and will let him know you have arrived if you happen to have been out. One noticeable feature at Sourabaya, and a good many other Java towns, is the quantity of marble and cement utilised for floors, walks, yards, baths, etc.; wood is apparently avoided, and cement, tiling, marble, or stone used instead. In this way, with wide open spaces, lofty tiled roofs, shady trees, and exceptional ventilation in the houses, much is done to cool the air, and the difference between the low iron-roofed, shadeless, and narrow verandah dwellings of tropical Queensland and the Dutch and native built houses of Java is very pronounced. Everything in Java seems to be absolutely different from Australia, and beyond a doubt you feel yourself in a foreign land. English is practically unknown, excepting in a few of the principal hotels, and the Malay tongue seems to be the medium between Europeans and Javanese, as well as with Chinese and other Asiatics. A few Malay words are easily picked up, and signs or expressions have to do the rest.

Although next to Batavia, Sourabaya is the largest city in Java, having a population of 200,000, there is not very much to be actually seen in the city itself, though it is undoubtedly a great commerical depot, and there is a very busy air in the streets, carriages, motors, and other conveyances being mixed with the pedestrian traffic, there being no side-walks in the Java towns.

PLEASANT TRAVELLING.

Travelling in Java is very economical; the railway fares are less than in Australia, but care should be taken to send on any heavy luggage to Batavia or elsewhere, as its conveyance becomes troublesome in visiting the high lands. If a week or a fortnight is spent in crossing from Sourabaya to Batavia, the heavy luggage should be sent on by steamer, and only a few handbags or portmanteaux taken for running through the island by rail, a distance of about 600 miles. The journey can be accomplished if desired in 22 hours, during two days, as the trains do not travel at night, and passengers sleep off the train for the one night they spend en route at a station called Maos, where good accommodation is provided.

Leaving Sourabaya in the morning, we reached Samarang in the afternoon, and found a town of considerable importance with about 150,000 inhabitants. The Hotel Pavilion is a very stately structure, the whole of the 30 feet wide verandah, the halls, bathrooms, etc., being of white marble, with stately columns and pillars. The Australian tourist will soon become accustomed to the peculiarities of hotel life in Java. He will be shown a marble bathroom, large enough almost for a bedroom, and the only articles in it will be a brass water tap, a tank, and a three-legged stool. Turning on the tap, he fills the tank, and sitting on the stool he ladles out the water with a chitty or dipper, and pours it over his head and body, thoroughly freshening himself up, and cooling himself down. His bedroom will have a very large opening for a door, but only the bottom part is actually closed to keep out any stray people or animals, and the same applies to the windows. As for the beds, they are of an exceptionally large size, being 7 or 8 feet square, and only furnished with a sheet to cover the mattress, a pillow, and what is known as a Dutch wife, or bolster, upon which the sleeper stretches his limbs and generally tries to keep cool. If the night is unusually warm, the Dutch wife comes in for a bad time, and often gets kicked up and down against the bedposts, without danger, however, of retaliation or protest.

A TROPICAL SCENE.

From Sourabaya to Samarang takes 9 hours by train, and every variety of tropical agriculture seems to flourish by the way—sugar-cane, rice, tobacco, coffee, tea, cocoa, tapioca, kapok, cocoanuts, and a host of other products. The whole country seems to be rich in agriculture, and even alongside the roads, kapok and other trees are planted, and any revenue derived from same helps to pay for the maintenance of the road. Samarang is the second port of call for the Australian steamers, which usually call at Sourabaya, Samarang, and Batavia before proceeding on to Singapore. We stayed one night at Samarang, where we arranged for a local resident to join our party, and also secured a boy, who could speak a little English, to look after luggage, and generally make things easy in conversing with the natives. Sending our luggage ahead by train, we motored to Salatiga, some 30 miles inland, at an altitude of 2000ft. The thermometer stood at 90 degrees at 2.30 when we left Samarang, and an hour and a half later it was only 65 degrees at Salatiga. During the night it was even cooler, and we were glad to have a light blanket to sleep under. The Hotel Kali Saman was most comfortable, and like many other hotels in Java had a magnificent colonnaded marble verandah in front, some 40 feet wide, which is very pleasant, as well as very effective.

ONE OF THE LIGHTS OF THE WORLD.

Salatiga is a beautifully laid out town, and is a Dutch cavalry depot. The scenery all round is very fine, and a mountain peak rises to a height of 2000ft or 3000ft within a few miles. Next morning we drove to Toentang, 4½ miles, where we took the train to Moentilan. Leaving the Kali Saman Hotel, we had two carriages, each drawn by four ponies, and a baggage cart—each vehicle had a driver and an attendant, who stood up behind or ran with the ponies. For the conveyance of our party, now numbering seven (including native servant), with 10 ponies and six drivers and attendants, the hotel charged 8 guilders 75 cents—equal to 14s 7d—which could hardly be considered excessive, considering the imposing cavalcade the party formed. About five hours by train and tram brought us to Moentilan, where we again had two carriages and baggage cart waiting to take us to the famous Boro Budur Temple, about an hour's drive. Alongside the temple an accommodation house has been erected, and we found the Hotel Bara Boedoer comfortable and economical. The Boro Budur Temple is undoubtedly one of the sights of the world. Its history, shortly, is that 1200 to 1500 years ago the Buddhists came from India, and Buddhism taking a strong hold on the Javanese, the erection of this huge temple was undertaken, and it is estimated that it must have taken about 1000 men from 50 to 100 years to build. Afterwards, when the followers of Mohammed gained the ascendency, this temple seems to have been abandoned, and it would appear as if the Buddhists had covered up the marvellous carvings and masonry with earth. For centuries this huge temple has lain unknown, and become simply a huge mound overgrown with trees and jungle. About 90 years ago, when Java was under British rule, under the famous Governor Raffles, the structure was discovered, and gradually the earth and brush were removed, and now the ruins stand out a veritable world's wonder. It is something like a mile and a half to walk all round the terraces and galleries, and the sculpture work contains thousands of figures of men, animals, flowers, ships, and everything emblematic of the Buddhist faith, all out of hard basaltic stone, as well as many statues of Buddha, all in a wonderful state of preservation. The temple is about 100ft high, and a whole volume might be written about this stupendous structure. We also visited the Temple Mendoet, a few miles away, in which there is a huge image of Buddha.

THE NAVY TO-DAY.

ON THE BRIDGE.

THE FLEET AND A MAN.

I.

It is a night in June some years ago in the North Atlantic; not a fair sample of midsummer night, either, but a night so bitter that the watch turns in with its jackets frozen as white as Father Christmas. A night so dense that the ships of the cruiser squadron, feeling their way through the grey fog blanket in line ahead (which is navy for Indian file) can make out no trace of the next ahead, not even the glare of her stern light. She is there, no fear of that, her stern just 250 yards from your ram; but she might have been sunk an hour since for any sign of her that you can see. All you know is that you are pitching head on into a dumb blank wall. The only guide to go by is a splashing, foaming, dancing little patch of grey, which races like some imp of the sea through the black water beside the bridge. It is really a white barrel tied by a tow rope to the stern of the cruiser ahead. So long as the officer of the watch keeps that bobbing white cork alongside of him abreast of the bridge he knows that his ship is in her station. In the far corner of the bridge, beyond the dim yellow haze of the charthouse windows, and the binnacle light, beyond certain dark muffled forms as watchful, and still as figureheads, save where their white breath comes and goes through the circle of the light, you may just make out the bent figure of the lieutenant of the watch as he peers down toward the muddy surface. As you stare at it from the Domain, the bridge, even of a big steamer, may not seem so very high. But it stands, for all that, much higher, than the roof of a two-story house. From up there that barrel looks a long way down. If it is not kept well in sight it has a way of vanishing quietly and quickly into the fog ahead or astern. Even as you watch it, it begins to edge slowly forward like an overtaking train. The bent figure leaves the side, and you hear the distant chilly clang of a gong in the engine-room. That is an order to add another revolution to the speed. A brake seems to have been put on the barrel for you crawl up on it again.

BEHIND THE MANTLE.

All that comes in the ordinary way to his Majesty's fleets at sea. As a matter of fact, on this particular night, when Lieutenant Tommy Fawkes, R.N., left his warm bunk at midnight in flannel trousers and a sort of pea-jacket, and climbed shivering up to the bridge, there was no white barrel to be seen; only the vague flare of a light somewhere forward in the fog. Sometime before the barrel had vanished. Possibly the long beak of your own ship knows more about it if it would only speak. So Mr. Fawkes' predecessor, the officer of the first watch, put on a revolution or two, and shoved the ship's nose random into the mist until a faint halo showed on the port bow which was the stern light of the ship ahead. It seemed a long way off to Tommy, when he came on the bridge, and he said so. He heard that the captain had thought so, too; and had found it was not 50 yards away. He had ordered his ship to close in, and before they knew where they were there was another light right above them, the steaming light on the mast of the next ahead. After that they fell back in a hurry.

The captain had turned in. Tommy's orders are to keep that light just in view—to punch along, keeping his ram not 50 yards astern of a ship he can barely see; with another ram 250 yards astern of him, tracking him by a barrel tied to his tail. In each of the four frail bows, with which he was set there to juggle, lives a small township of some 700 souls. To add to his comfort, next ahead of him but one is a ship which, if anything goes wrong, may tell Mr. Fawkes all that the Admiral thinks of him. With the knowledge of all this to steady his nerve Mr. Fawkes, who is only 21 after all, and whose experience consists in having navigated a destroyer pretending to be a tramp at 10 knots from Falmouth to Gibraltar and back, uncaught by the B cruisers, which were playing at war, sets himself to pound after the next ahead as softly as a London detective. For 81 minutes by the chart-room clock all went well; until, for some reason or another, the light in front seemed to go ahead into the fog. Probably it was a thicker crack than usual that whisked between. But Tommy was not to know that. He rang at once for another couple of revolutions; and slowly but surely pulled that light back to him. It grew and grew, and he began to wonder whether it was not almost as bright as it had been, as it ought to be. . . . . Allmachtige! What's that up there? High above, ever so high, almost up above Tommy's head, there is calmly shining a constant gentle little speck of yellow. That light is not on his ship. It is on the mast of the next ahead. "We're on top of her," yelled from the bows. We are. A rush to the telegraph to signal off some of the speed. The helm hard a-port—and, as the ship's head swings slowly off to the right, Tommy is conscious of a hazy deck light and an awful grey side dreadfully close beside him. He is not clear of shocks yet. And he knows it all too well. As the bow of the ship falls off to starboard two other things happen. She loses her way, and her stern swings out to port, like a great tail, across the path which she was travelling, and which the next astern is travelling still. Tommy knows that the next astern is uncomfortably close. He has felt her in the nape of his neck all the time. She has been following his vagaries as closely as she could; and here she comes sure enough. He can make out the stem of her like a purser's dirk parting the cold mist just clear of his stern.

NOT IN THE BOOKS.

Tommy had time to shiver then. Nobody was going to sink now, for all that his Majesty's 10th Cruiser Squadron was clumped around the stern of its happily unconscious flagship like the fringe round a dishevelled tassel. The only thing was to get things quietly straightened out again before the fog thinned, and the Admiral woke up. The light of the next ahead had passed and vanished into the fog before Tommy was able to start in chase of it. There was nothing to do but to punch ahead as straight as might be. But with the luck that helps the young, not three minutes had passed before he found the glare of her right ahead of him.

I would there were space to relate the other events of that interesting night. How the next ahead hung out another buoy instead of the sunk one. How after a time this buoy began to zig-zag first to the right, then to the left, and Tommy concluded that his next ahead had lost sight of the flagship's barrel, and was executing a sort of curve of search all of her own to find it. How finally, to Tommy's intense indignation, she waltzed calmly across Tommy's bows—performed, in fact, very much the same evolution that Tommy himself had performed earlier in the morning—and finally disappeared into the dark. How Tommy, to his inordinate gratification, searched for and found a light ahead for the second time that night. How the man who relieved him, and split a pot of cocoa with him at 4 a.m., discovered that Tommy had found the flagship; and that the next ahead was following Tommy; how, without unnecessary fuss, they quietly executed in the dark a sort of general post not provided for in the text books; and were there in the morning, all in their places, puffing ahead so calm and fresh and innocent, that even Tommy wondered if it had all been a nightmare.

THE NEW WAY.

That night is typical of work on the bridge. The bridge is deserted in battle; the navigator would have to keep station from the conning tower, coolly, mathematically judging the distance of that wallowing stern ahead, with a different haze to hide it, the deck burning under his nose, and something clipping and chipping and crashing through the stanchions and cowls at his back; and one will realise that the work of the executive officer needs, perhaps, in short spells of great stress, even steadier nerve than work in the engine-room. It certainly reaps a more obvious reward, because it is done in the daylight, and people clap their hands when it is done well.

There was a time, not ten years since, when appearances were a great deal more sought after in the navy than they are now. The public does not know much about how a ship is to win the next sea fight; but it does know when a ship looks pretty and painted and neat, and when it sees such a one it claps its hands. About the public a commander may not care over much; but he does care when the commanders of other ships grow green with envy, and that reward is to be had for the trouble of winning it any day. There is another reward, which is only to be had by long years of unpretentious work—which may probably never be had at all. At least it is years and years ahead in the precarious future, when the great grey moves fast through a fog of its own making, with its teeth bared and its lips curled back, and the dregs of the last explosion oozing from its reeking gun muzzles. It may be that a ship will never even have a chance of proving what it can do in that awful trial; or, if it does, that not even the rest of the fleet, much less the crowd on shore, will ever know of it. But that sea-fight after all is the reward which the ship is there to win. And some years ago there were those in authority who determined that the navy should set scientifically preparing to win sea fights, and not to look pretty, and should practise everything that pertained or related to or in any distant way bore upon what a sea fight was likely to be—and that at high pressure, night and day, and whether or no anyone that slaved his eyes out in the practice was or was not ever likely to see, hear, or smell even so much as the outside of a sea fight before he died. And by way of making the true reward for this preparation more present that Admiralty ordered that confidential reports should be sent to it of the work of each young officer; and it rewards and punishes them without ceremony according as that work is good or bad.

The consequence is that the ships of 1908 are not painted more pretty than a new petticoat. They do not glitter and shine and sparkle in quite the same way as ten years before. But it is the sober truth—which few outside of the navy dream of, and no one inside of it thinks of denying—that for doing the work of a sea-fight the navy of 1908 as far excels that of 1898 as an engineer excels a rockchopper. The details of it—how half the ships in the navy, when they shoot at a thing, hit it so often as was thought quite impossible for any ship a few years back; how they can stow their coal and ammunition, one bidding against another, in a time that was undreamed of; how they have spread and fastened their awning in the Channel Fleet in 10 seconds, and cleared the ship for action, or had out their nets, or moored their ships, where a year or two back they would have been looking round to begin. These are bald plain facts, at which the public is not startled simply because it does not know them. But they are kept for the next chapter. Only one result of this extraordinary enlivening of the past few years can be given here.

THE RESULT.

The Navy at the present time exists purely for business. It used to manoeuvre once a year in public, with special correspondents on most of the flagships, and a big flourish of trumpets at Spithead to start with. In these days, about the waters in which an enemy is most likely to be found some day, preparing for that visionary seafight, at high tension all the time, go four big battle squadrons. On the coast of Portugal (which from time immemorial, by some ancient arrangement that would probably still be binding in war time, is always made free to the British fleets when there is trouble toward) is a wide bay of a harbour known as Lagos. There once in each year the four fleets, or most of them, meet on business that is strictly private. For a month or three weeks there exists over the face of the Atlantic the nearest thing to the real thing. There is no public there at those meetings, no tugs to carry wide-eyed tourists and their cameras down the lines, and no correspondents jumble it all up. And yet any man in the Navy, officer or seaman, will tell you that such sights have been seen there in the last two or three years as have never been seen at a review or anywhere else before, and, it may be, will never be seen again.

CROWDS ON THE SEA.

Of late these meetings have usually been ordained just when the world was settling down to its Christmas dinner. About December 20 ships at home and ships abroad, solid fleets of battleships and cruisers, destroyers in little droves, not to speak of single ships of every sort and kind that have been recruiting their health in English yards, are tumbled out to sea. Two or three days later, on to a spot ticked off on the charts, but marked in no other way, a mere patch of grey, heaving Atlantic, out of sight of any land, there peeps above the skyline first a faint smudge of smoke, then a little notched fringe of topmasts—the first sign of the 14 great battleships of the Channel Fleet. As they come over the horizon there are other smudges of smoke, other masts, other funnels showing up over the edge of the sea in the south and in the west. Up they crop, thicker and thicker, here, there, everywhere, like the pine forest around the rim of the western plains. Squadrons, divisions, big ships and small ships, for some two or three hours the ocean is alive with warships old and new trooping in from every quarter of the globe to that meeting. It is like the reunion of old weatherbeaten faces at some travellers' club, after many years. Delighted little crowds squeeze themselves into the gunports of every ship. "There's the old Duncan"; "Here's the Good Hope. Was on her under ——, in nought four. Wonder if old Nobbie is still with her"—and a hundred other excited comments from men that know every rope and pin and every other gadget aboard of their old friends. The crowd thickens till, in some years, its heads may be counted in hundreds. In one year the day for that reassembling fell out stormy, blowing half a gale. But they reassembled all the same. The battleships closed in, all a-bobbing and a-curtseying, their forecastles awash all the time. As for the scouts—swift flimsy little whisps of some 3000 tons—they were plunging and kicking like wild horses racing round a paddock. The watch was tied on to the bridge, the engineers lashed up by their engines, for fear of falling into them. When they moved about their engine-rooms they crawled on hands and knees. They were all miserably seasick—it had been quite superfluous to swallow anything for the last 48 hours. But they came in and swung round sharp and short altogether—a sort of a tumbling feat in that seaway. And settled down to the work that brought them there.

THE MAN.

The story of that work is told shortly in the "Times" and the service magazines. It was carried on under a man that retired a year ago, a man that had a horror of advertisement, a man of whom nine-tenths of us have never heard, a man of whom you will be told more in a wardroom than of all the rest of the powers that be put together, a man that was beyond all question the greatest English sailor since Nelson, a man that a fair part of the service believes the greatest seaman there ever was. In the manoeuvres, year after year, since the later '80's, when he took his fleet unseen in fog into an Irish harbour through the very midst of a blockading fleet, has invariably found by some strange instinct the one thing to be done, and has always done it; the man, and the only man, who has handled immense modern fleets as though they were a four-in-hand, pulled them, and tugged them, and swung them within a biscuit toss of each other's rams, apparently by sheer intuition; the man who has drilled them and dressed them down, and sweated and thrashed them, stopped their leave and cut short their holidays, until they ended by almost worshipping him; and has finally made possible scenes such as the only two which there is room here to describe.

The first was on a time when some hundred or so of the warships of the ordinary sea-going fleets of England were at their work off Lagos. They were to anchor that day in Lagos. So they anchored, the whole bunch of them. They anchored at one and the same instant. They steamed straight in, the whole regiment of them, each ship in its proper division, each division in its place. A signal pennant was sent up, and the moment it started to come down again every ship dropped one anchor; with the way still on her, dropped a second; went astern, ran back till her cables were the same length; shackled them together. That was all. There was no one to see it, save perhaps a grimy Portuguese fisherman or two. Even the town of Lagos was out of sight, over the water.

THE GRAND FINALE.

The other spectacle was away from the land altogether. It was that Admiral's last command, the climax of 52 years of single-minded wonderful work. He was leaving his last fleet in a week or two—his last and greatest fleet. So just for one morning he took all battleships, forty of them, out of the bay, and worked them as one fleet, the biggest fleet that was ever worked together; and worked them as no fleet was ever worked before. He took the highest speed of the slowest ship, which was full speed for the whole, and hour after hour he flung that whole fleet at its full speed this way and that, up and down, and across, with the ships at two cables' distance from one another.

To realise what that means you must know that to work a single division at that distance at full speed is an unheard of thing. There were seven divisions here, and one mistake in the signals would have piled one on top of another like trucks in a railway smash. But for hours they weltered after one another, and split and divided and joined and swung their great sterns round at racing speed like the skirts of a chorus girl. The public when it read over its morning tea and toast that the battleships at Lagos were exercised yesterday at full speed skipped the paragraph, and went on to something it could understand, the test match, or the horrible details. The pity of it, that such a spectacle was wasted on a fisherman or two and a providore. But all the navy knows, and, after all, that is what matters. In every ship's company for thirty years there will be men who were there. They speak of it as the sight of their lives. No one knows when the results of that day's impression will die. It may well be as fruitful as a great victory, and a worthy end of a great career.

The man who did it went over the side a month or two later. He had begun by fighting Arabs with the hilt of a broken sword. He rose by living for his work. He worked with a third of the usual staff. He hated women, dances, holidays; he dressed shabbily. But if he said: "The enemy will on Monday be either at A or B," there on Monday the enemy was. He had an immense courage, and a charm which won every captain in his fleet. His last signal was: "I hope that you will continue your discipline to the last, and that there will be no cheering when I go over the side." He refused to go to the Admiralty, because there was a retiring age, and he had come to it. The King made him Admiral of the Fleet, and rumour says that he argued with the King.

We all know of "Charlie" Beresford; we all know of "Jack" Fisher; we all know of "Percy" Scott. In spite of his personal modesty it is just a little surprising that we never heard of Admiral Sir Arthur Knyvet Wilson, V.C.—commonly "Tug" Wilson.

LAW REPORT.

BANCO COURT.

A TRAINER'S CLAIM.

Hart v Ryan.

Mr. James and Mr. M'Manamey, instructed by Mr. J. B. Frawley, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Mack, instructed by Mr. George Bourne, for the defendant. This was an action brought by William Hart against Mary Josephine Ryan to recover the sum of £142 20s, amount claimed to be due to him for services rendered as a trainer, etc., in connection with two racing ponies, the property of the defendant, and known respectively as "Dolly Huon" and "Owyinda." Plaintiff's case has already been stated. Defendant, except as to £46 10s, pleaded never indebted, and a set off to the amount of £64 4s 6d for board and lodging supplied to plaintiff and his assistant at Richmond, stabling accommodation, and money advanced.

NO. 1 JURY COURT.

ALLEGED MALICIOUS PROSECUTION.

Cox v Aslin.

Mr. J. A. Brown, instructed by Mr. E. R. Abigail, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. W. A. Walker, instructed by Mr. R. H. Levien, for the defendant. This was an action brought by Alfred Ernest Cox against George Aslin, to recover compensation for alleged malicious prosecution and assault. His case was that the defendant, in whose service he had previously been, laid an information against him on a charge of being the bailee of a bay gelding, of the value of £18, the property of defendant, and fraudulently converting the same to his own use. Plaintiff said that he was taken into custody on the charge, and was remanded from time to time, and that for a portion of the period he remained in custody. He was subsequently brought before a stipendiary magistrate, who, after hearing evidence, dismissed the information and discharged the plaintiff. He said that the proceedings were taken by the defendant falsely, maliciously, and without reasonable or probable cause; and he claimed £500 damages.

Defendant pleaded not guilty.

The evidence having closed, counsel addressed the jury.

His Honor, in his summing up, pointed out that the jury had to deal with three different counts in the plaintiff's declaration. Two of them were for maliciously prosecuting plaintiff, one being in respect to a bay horse, and the other in regard to a grey horse. The third count was what was known as false imprisonment, in connection with the charge as to the bay horse. Plaintiff said that he was prosecuted by the defendant without reasonable and probable cause, and with malice; and the burden was thrown upon him of proving that these allegations were made out. Even if they found that there was an absence of reasonable and probable cause there would also be the question whether the defendant was actuated by malice, which meant in law not illwill alone, but some indirect motive, and not an honest desire to vindicate the law. The indirect motive suggested by the plaintiff was that the defendant desired to get £150 which was owing to him, and took the criminal proceedings complained of for the purpose of enforcing his claim. There might be other considerations, but what they had first to determine before they could find for the plaintiff on the first and second counts of his declaration was that there was a want of reasonable and probable cause for the prosecution, and that the defendant had been actuated by malice. If, however, the evidence was so evenly balanced that they could not say on which side the truth rested they must leave things as they were, and find for the defendant. With reference to the other count, which was one alleging false imprisonment, the defendant sought to justify that by saying that he thought he had reason to believe at the time that the plaintiff, being the bailee of the horse, fraudently converted that horse to his own use. It was for the jury to determine on the evidence whether the defendant acted with reasonable and probable cause and without malice in the proceedings taken against plaintiff.

NO. 2 JURY COURT.

BUGGY ACCIDENT.

O'Sullivan v Poole and another.

In this action John O'Sullivan sued Frederick Laghlan Poole and Alfred Lockwood Holmes, coffee and spice merchants, of 232 Sussex-street, for £750 as damages for injuries received through being knocked down by a buggy driven by defendants' canvasser, in Hay-street. Defendants pleaded that they were not guilty. Messrs. L. Armstrong and W. Curtis, instructed by Mr. E. J. Peterson, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. J. Garland, instructed by Mr. J. W. Abigail, for the defendants.

(Before Mr. Justice Sly.)

APPEAL AGAINST AN ORDER.

Re R. M'Pherson (W. M'Clelland and others, respondents).

Mr. Mocatta, instructed by Mr. F. Marriott, of Nowra (by his agents, Messrs. Perkins, Stevenson, and Co.), appeared for Robert M'Pherson, and moved to make absolute a rule nisi, by which William M'Clelland, of Bomaderry, farmer, and the Children's Court at Nowra had been called upon to show cause why a prohibition should not be granted to set aside the order of the Children's Court on May 5 last against M'Pherson. The main ground of the appeal was that the Court had no jurisdiction to proceed ex parte upon the complaint, inasmuch as there was no service upon applicant of any summons under the Infants' Protection Act, nor proof of any such service. It appeared that the Children's Court issued a warrant for the appellant's arrest, but it was never enforced, and upon his return from Queensland, where he had been for about 12 months, he was served with a summons for disobeying the order, which had been made ex parte in his absence. Mr. Bradburn, instructed by Mr. H. A. Moss, appeared for respondent M'Clelland, and admitted that a prohibition must go, as it was clear that in the absence of a summons the Court had no jurisdiction to make the order appealed against. He, however, asked that respondent should not be made to pay costs owing to the delay of the appellant in appealing. He also mentioned that the girl was a State child in the service of respondent, who was not related to her, and he had taken the proceedings against appellant as a matter of kindness to the girl.

Rule absolute for a prohibition; question of costs reserved.

(Before Mr. Justice A. H. Simpson, Chief Judge in Equity.)

VOLUNTEER LAND ORDERS.

Capel v Williams and others.

His Honor delivered his reserved judgment in this case. It was one in which Daniel Capel sought, amongst other things, a declaration that certain applications for land in the land district of Bingara were duly made by virtue of volunteer land orders held by him; that it might be declared that the areas of Crown lands were available at the date of each application; that it might be declared that upon lodging his application the lands described in the application became Crown lands contracted to be granted to him, and ceased to be available for conditional lease; that an order for specific performance might be made; and that damages might be awarded for the failure to grant the application. The plaintiff had become possessed of the volunteer land orders by purchase, and on Wednesday, June 27, 1906, he tendered to the land agent at Bingara properly drawn applications for two blocks of land of 50 acres each, but Francis John Michell and Frederick Richard Michell applied for the land on July 28 as a conditional lease. It was granted to them.

His Honor, in his judgment, after setting out the Land Acts and the section dealing with this particular class of land, and dealing with the circumstances of the case, said it seemed to him that the land was not open to conditional sale until July 28, 1906, consequently the plaintiff's applications were too soon. There was no doubt that this inflicted a grave disadvantage on holders of volunteer land orders, who try to take up land which was thrown open to conditional purchase after reservation. The law set the land open on a land office day, which was a Thursday; the holder of a volunteer land order could not by the regulations apply on a Thursday. If he applied on the previous day he was too soon; and if he applied on a Friday he would be almost certainly too late. That was a matter for the Government to consider, but he could not see that it exceeded its rights in making a Thursday the first day on which the land was available. The suit was dismissed with costs.

Mr. Canaway and Mr. Pike, instructed by Messrs. Ellis and Button, appeared for the plaintiff; Dr. Cullen, K.C., and Mr. Hanbury Davies, instructed by the Crown Solicitor, appeared for the defendant J. L. Williams (nominal defendant on behalf of the Crown); and Mr. Harriott, instructed by Mr. B. A. M'Bride (for Mr. T. P. Ryan, of Bingara), for the Messrs. Michell.

DIVORCE COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice G. B. Simpson.)

COSTELLO v COSTELLO.

His Honor delivered his reserved judgment in the petition of Verena May Costello against Dan Gill Costello. His Honor said there was sufficient evidence of desertion. He would grant a decree nisi, returnable in six months.

At the hearing Mr. H. S. Nicholas appeared for petitioner, instructed by Messrs. Bradley and Son, agents for Mr. J. A. Bamber, of Sydney.

MISS MARIE NARELLE'S CASE.

COUNSEL'S ADDRESSES.

Counsel resumed addresses in the suit of Catherine Mary Callaghan, formerly Ryan, and more generally known as Marie Narelle, against Matthew Aloysius Callaghan, for divorce on the ground of drunkenness and non-support.

Mr. Whitfeld, instructed by Messrs. J. S. Williams and Sons, appeared for the petitioner; and Mr. P. K. White, instructed by Mr. F. J. Tanner, for the respondent.

Mr. White said that petitioner herself had admitted that when she left him she left him neither on account of drunkenness nor of non-support. As for non-support, they parted friends; and by never writing to ask him for support she had practically agreed not to look to him for it. The first time after then he had earned any money worth speaking of was at Dubbo. He said he had sent her £2, and she had said she didn't want it, but would keep it for him. As for drunkenness, petitioner would say he lost his positions through it; but there was no evidence of his being a habitual drunkard within the meaning of the Act.

Mr. Whitfeld said that the respondent had raised three objections. The first was that petitioner had delayed to take proceedings; secondly, that she had separated from him; thirdly, that he had supported her. As for delay, it only debarred divorce if it were not only unreasonable but culpable. In the case of Newman v Newman there was 13 years' delay because a mother wished to avoid a scandal. In Meadham v Meadham there was a delay of 14 years, and the petitioner got relief.

His Honor: In this case Mrs. Callaghan wants to be free from her husband because, long before she went to England, he ceased to support her. Now, in 1908 she is endeavouring to be free from him by reason of what took place in 1902.

Mr. Whitfeld: She began proceedings in 1902. There was no indifference.

His Honor: If she had gone on with a divorce in 1902 she might perhaps have got a divorce. She said she discontinued the case because she could not get 50 guineas for Mr. Reid. His Honor did not think that explanation a very good one. He himself had heard her sing at Government House before she went to England. He thought she could easily have raised the money.

Mr. Whitfeld said if she had proceeded with a suit too precipitately she would have ruined his chances of reform. As for the separation, it was never meant to be final. And the obligation to support continued.

His Honor said that he must reserve judgment. He had not made up his mind at present. He had to preside at two long circuit courts in Bathurst and Dubbo, but would give judgment as soon as possible.

WILLIS v WILLIS.

In this case George Willis sued for divorce from Ethel Margaret Willis on the ground of her alleged adultery with Richard Carter, co-respondent, at Narrabri and Sydney. The issues on behalf of the respondent were whether the petitioner, by neglect and misconduct, conduced to or connived at the adultery (if any).

Mr. Windeyer, instructed by Messrs. G. S. Beeby and Moffatt, appeared for the petitioner. The petitioner said that he was married according to the rites of the Roman Catholic Church at Moree.

His Honor found all the issues in favour of the petitioner, and granted a decree nisi returnable in six months. The allegation of adultery "in Sydney" was struck out of the petition.

(Before Judge Heydon.)

NEWCASTLE CARRYING TRADE.

Mr. H. A. Lloyd, secretary of the union, appeared for the trolly draymen of Newcastle, and moved for the nomination of a wages board without election; Mr. H. P. Abbott (for Mr. A. H. Burke, of Newcastle) appeared for the Master Carriers' Association of Newcastle, and for certain wholesale merchants in that city; and Mr. W. Wine, for the Newcastle Master Retailers' Association. After evidence had been heard and affidavits read his Honor said he would recommend that a board of two members on each side be nominated without election, to consist of Mr. John Pitt, master carrier, of Newcastle, representing the wholesale merchants and carriers; Mr. E. W. Bull, of Waratah, grocer, representing the Master Retailers' Association; and Mr. Charles Oatley and Mr. H. H. Lloyd, as representing the employees.

SOUTHERN COLLIERIES BOARD.

Mr. H. A. Mitchell, on behalf of the applicant union of employees, appeared in support of an application that certain matters be referred to the board; and Mr. Kelynack, instructed by Messrs. Curtiss and Barry, for the Southern Colliery Proprietors' Association.

Mr. Mitchell mentioned that it had been suggested to him that the application was premature, inasmuch as the board was not yet properly constituted, no chairman having been appointed. He had received a letter from the Attorney-General's department asking if the members of the Southern Collieries Board were willing that Mr. W. Edmunds should be appointed chairman of the board. His section was quite willing, but did not know whether the employers were.

Mr. Kelynack said the employers were agreeable to Mr. Edmunds' appointment, but the board had never been called together to elect its chairman.

After some argument the application was allowed to stand over in order that the necessary steps might be taken to call the board together to choose its chairman.

SHOP ASSISTANTS' UNION.

Mr. Stuart Robertson appeared for the Shop Assistants' Union, and moved for the constitution of a board; Mr. Kelynack, instructed by Messrs. Read and Read, appeared for the master retailers, and (instructed by Messrs. Sly and Russell) for Messrs. Pattinson and Co., Limited, as representing the Pharmaceutical Society; Mr. E. T. New appeared for the New South Wales Retail Grocers' Association; and Mr. J. H. King for the Country Storekeepers' Association.

Mr. Kelynack applied for a postponement of the application. The committee of the Master Retailers' Association felt that it was not in a position to deal with the matter, and had convened a meeting of the members to consider it. Messrs. Pattinson and Co., Limited, also wished a postponement, as the Pharmaceutical Society would meet on Wednesday to consider the question.

Mr. New said the Retail Grocers' Association proposed to hold a meeting on Tuesday next, and asked for an adjournment at least until after the 29th instant.

Mr. King said the Country Storekeepers' Association would ask for an adjournment for at least a month. Its membership was composed of storekeepers from Broken Hill to Tweed Heads and to Albury. It was hard to get the committee to meet together. Its ordinary meeting would be held in November, but he wished to get them together during next month.

Mr. Stuart Robertson opposed any adjournment.

Mr. Kelynack called attention to the wording of the notice. As it stood, it would apply on a board so large as to be altogether unworkable. There were the ordinary shop assistants, and he presumed this meant those who were not working under any award, then they were chemists, carpet warehouse employees, and many others.

Mr. Stuart Robertson said the application was intended to cover persons engaged in the following sales departments:—Tobacconists, electroplate, chemists, machinery, including heavy ironmongery, saddlery, stationery, electrical appliances, bicycles, bicycle accessories, photographic appliances, jewellery, sewing machines, agricultural implements, grindery and cutlery, trunks, distributing depots in the retail trade, shop assistants in timber merchants' establishments, office assistants to timber merchants, typewriter sellers, sanitary appliances, tea shops where tea is sold, and groceries and provisions. It was not intended that the first application to the board should deal with more than groceries.

His Honor said it appeared to him that one good man could deal with all these articles.

Mr. Stuart Robertson intimated that he would be willing to accept one good man, as suggested by his Honor.

The question of postponement was then considered, and Mr. King argued in favour of a prolonged adjournment, owing to the distance which some of his committee had to travel in order to reach Sydney. It would take some time to communicate with them all.

His Honor said a little time should be allowed. He felt that a week would hardly be long enough, while a month would be rather long. Still, he had to go to Newcastle for a week after next week, then he had to go to Goulburn for some time.

After some further argument, the application was postponed until October 20.

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT COURT.

(Before Judge Rogers.)

A WIFE'S ALLOWANCE.

Swinson v Swinson.

Mr. Roseby, instructed by Mr. H. Dawson, appeared for the plaintiff, Edith Maud Swinson; and Mr. Bradburn and Mr. Curtis, instructed by Mr. S. Bloomfield, for the defendant, Arthur Fitzgerald Swinson. In this action the plaintiff, who is the wife of defendant, sued to recover £16 arrears of allowance, stated to be due to her under a deed of separation. The case was partly heard on a previous day, when the defendant was allowed to add a plea by way of cross-action for molestation at the hands of the plaintiff, and an adjournment was allowed to enable her to answer the plea. Plaintiff now orally pleaded denying the statement on which the cross-action was based.

Mr. Roseby argued that there was no legal molestation on the part of plaintiff of defendant, and that even if there was, no pecuniary damage had been proved or could be awarded.

His Honor, who did not want to hear Mr Bradburn, said it was clear that plaintiff must get a verdict for this £16. The question he had to consider was whether defendant could recover on the plea of molestation in the cross-action. The case was an inexpressibly sad one, and he wished he had the power of bringing these people together again. It had been argued that there had been no proof of molestation, but he considered there were two distinct instances of molestation. The first was when these two detectives were sent up to Hillgrove, and the second was that defendant was never allowed to see his children alone. It was next argued that even if molestation was proved, there could be no pecuniary damage awarded. He quoted from a decision of Mr. Justice Denman, Q.B.D., in which £100 was awarded for molestation, and said the decision had never been questioned. He had a difficulty as to the amount of damages, but under all the circumstances he thought defendant was entitled to £50.

By consent, a verdict was entered for plaintiff for £16; and a verdict for defendant for his cross-action for £50, defendant not to demand costs, and not to press for the payment of the £50, which might be set against claims by the other side.

CITY CORONER'S COURT.

CAPSIZE IN THE HARBOUR.

YOUNG MAN DROWNED.

Mr. Adrian (Acting City Coroner) held an inquest yesterday concerning the death of Daniel Flaherty, 24, a draper's assistant, lately living in Womerah-avenue, Darlinghurst, which occurred on Sunday last, when he was drowned owing to the capsize of a sailing boat in Taylor Bay.

The evidence showed that a party of nine young men left Rushcutter Bay in a yacht called the "Charlie" on Sunday last. Arthur Griffiths was in charge of the boat, and they sailed down towards Middle Head. At about half-past 12 they came back towards Taylor Bay for dinner. When nearing the entrance to Taylor Bay a sudden squall struck the boat while she was on the top of a wave, and she capsized. They were all thrown into the water, but managed to scramble on to the upturned boat. Griffiths called out, "Are we all here?" A number of voices called out "Yes." It was not for some time afterwards that they noticed Flaherty was missing. Although a yacht and a rowing boat passed near the scene of the accident no assistance was rendered the party, and at last one of their number named C. Phillips swam ashore and tried to get a boat. Before he could do this a launch came out and picked his friends up. The police were informed that deceased was missing, and his body was recovered on Tuesday last near the spot where the accident happened.

A verdict of accidental death was recorded.

DIED FROM SCALDS.

Mr. Adrian (Acting City Coroner) recorded a verdict of accidental death at the inquest held yesterday concerning the death of Louisa Connell, 84, lately residing in George-street, North Sydney, which took place at her residence on September 23 owing to scalds received on August 15.

The evidence showed that deceased was sitting in front of the fire in the kitchen on August 18 while some corned beef was boiling in a pot on the fire. Her granddaughter went out of the room for a few minutes, and on returning found that the pot had upset and the boiling water had fallen on her grandmother, severely scalding her. Dr. M'Master attended deceased up to the time of her death.

POLICE COURTS.

A SUSPECTED PERSON.

William Bansfield, 42, cook, was at the Water Police Court yesterday charged with having a quantity of clothing in his possession reasonably supposed to have been stolen on September 21. The evidence of Constable Conley showed that on the date mentioned he was in Sussex-street, when he saw accused carrying a bag from which some garments were exposed. Accused disappeared behind an iron fence, but the constable kept him in view, and saw him emptying some clothes out of the bag. When questioned by the police officer accused stated that he had picked them up, and, later, that the articles had been given to him by a man on the wharf. The reply not being considered satisfactory, accused was arrested. A fine of £2 was imposed, with the alternative of a month's gaol.

ALLEGED THEFT FROM A STEAMER.

John Burns, 34, cook, and Frank Miller, 54, painter, were charged at the Water Police Court yesterday with stealing from a cabin of the steamer Noorebar, then lying at the Druitt-street wharf, a watch and chain, a trinket, and 5s in money, of the total value of £7, the property of Charles M'Vey, on September 18. The evidence for the prosecution was to the effect that Constable Hollis saw accused in George-street, Camperdown. When near Church-street Burns handed a watch to Miller, who went into a pawnshop, followed by the constable. Miller was found with the articles in his hand, with the result that both men were arrested. Charles M'Vey, an engineer on the Noorebar, stated that whoever removed the property from his cabin must have had a duplicate key. Accused, who had nothing to say, were each committed for trial.

AGAINST AN ORDINANCE.

The multiplicity of ordinances under the Local Government Act continues to puzzle people in the suburbs, and as failure to comply with some of them means pains and penalties it is essential that those who suffer through either ignorance of the law or neglect should have their cases made widely known for the benefit of others. Particularly is this necessary when it is remembered that the infliction of a fine does not reflect in any way upon the character of the person who has to pay it. A case deemed to be the first of its character under the Act was heard at the Ashfield Court, before Mr. E. L. Maitland, S.M., when E. W. Cooper was proceeded against by Inspector Van Treight, of the local council, for using a butcher's cutting-cart without a license. The ordinance under which the summons was issued was 56, part 3, and Inspector Van Treight stated that he had warned the defendant that it was necessary for him to take out a license. A plea of guilty was entered on behalf of the defendant, and a fine of 10s, with 3s costs, was imposed.

A SUMMER HILL ASSAULT.

At the Ashfield Police Court yesterday, before Mr. E. L. Maitland, S.M., Timothy Kainy, 18, a carter, was convicted for assault and drunkenness at Summer Hill on September 19. Evidence showed that the defendant entirely lost control of his tongue and actions after drinking in an hotel. For the language defendant was fined £3, in default two months' gaol; and for assaulting Constable Samuel Stafford in the execution of his duty, he was bound over to be of good behaviour for six months, in sureties, self in £10 and one in £10, or two in £5.

TUEN GOW.

The adjourned case, in which a number of Chinese were charged with being found without lawful excuse in a common gaming-house at 443 Pitt-street was concluded yesterday at the Central Police Court. Mr. Maund, who appeared for the defendants, intimated that his clients wished to plead guilty. Three Chinese were fined £2, or one month, and one 10s, or seven days. In the latter case there was a doubt as to defendant being on the premises.

In connection with the same case, George Lee, 40, doctor, Charlie Gow, 45, grocer, and Ah Lee, 50, dealer, were charged with being banker, croupier, and keeper respectively. In each case a fine of £10, or two months in default, was imposed.

RESTAURATEUR AND COOK.

Complainant told the Bench that until Sunday last he was a cook in the employ of defendant. On Sunday morning an order was issued for four porridges. Witness did not hear until the order was repeated. Miller then came in the kitchen and punched witness. He was hit and flung out of the kitchen by Miller. The assault was entirely unprovoked.

Defendant, who is the proprietor of a restaurant, pleaded not guilty. He stated that on the Sunday morning in question complainant was dilatory in getting breakfast ready. Witness went into the kitchen and remonstrated with complainant, who answered that if witness interfered with him he would walk out, and subsequently threatened to throw a plate of porridge over witness. Witness himself attended to the porridge, upon which complainant swore and picked up a chair. Both then closed, and fell on the floor, striking a table in the fall. Corroborative evidence was given on behalf of the defendant.

A fine of 5s, with £1 10s costs, or in default seven days, was imposed.

A DANGEROUS HOBBY.

THEFT OF KEYS.

John Ryan, 23, waiter, appeared before Mr. King, D.S.M., yesterday, at the Water Police Court, to answer a charge of stealing 22 keys, of the value of 22s, the property of Wm. Barford Franklyn, on or about July 15 last. The evidence showed that when accused was seen by the police he was asked how he had so many keys, to which he replied that it was a hobby of his to collect keys. Asked if he had any of the keys said to be missing from Mr. Franklyn's hotel, he replied in the affirmative, and said that he had about two dozen. He said he knew he was doing wrong in not returning them to Mr. Franklyn, seeing that he had found them in Mr. Franklyn's cellar. William Barford Franklyn, licensee of the Cambridge Hotel, Market and Castlereagh streets, said that accused was employed by him in July last, as a generally useful man. From something witness heard he made a search, and found a number of keys missing from the telephone room and the office. One belonged to the cellar, where the liquor was kept, and another to a room containing cigars. Accused had no authority to take them. A number of the other keys opened drawers and cash registers in the house. Accused said that he was clearing out the cellar when he found the keys amongst a lot of rubbish, and thinking they were of no use or value he kept them, as the collection of keys was a hobby of his. After taking the keys he placed them on the mantel shelf, exposed to the view of anybody who entered the room. He denied having used the keys at all. Accused was fined £2, or in default one month's imprisonment.

CORRESPONDENCE.

"I suffered for a long time with severe pains in the back, over the kidneys, and under the shoulder blades, and back of my neck. My back became so lame that it was with difficulty I could move about. I suffered thus for many weary months. I tried various advertised remedies, which failed to give me the relief I sought, until Warner's Safe Cure was brought to my notice. I took that medicine with marvellous result. In a short time the pains and aches had all left me; I am now in good health. I also suffered a good deal from Rheumatism, but the Safe Cure has also eradicated all symptoms of that complaint from my system."—From Mr. U. Davidson, bootmaker, 62 Commercial-road, Prahran, Vic.

"I have been using your Safe Cures for twenty-six years, and have found them most beneficial; in fact, Warner's Safe Cured cured one of my daughters of dropsy at the age of thirteen. She is now a healthy woman, with a family of five healthy children. Several doctors had pronounced her case hopeless, and as a last resort I tried your Safe Cure. I can also recommend Warner's Safe Nervine for sleeplessness."—From Mrs. Wm. Greaves, Picnic Park, Lyndhurst, N.S.W.

"About two years ago I was suffering from a serious form of kidney disease. I had pains in my loins and back, and the pain in the back would frequently extend as far as the back of the head. My urine was loaded with sediment, and other symptoms pointed to great constitutional disturbance. I was in this condition for many months, and almost despaired of recovering my lost health, as I had tried so many remedies without avail, when I was advised to try Warner's Safe Cure. After I had taken the contents of a few bottles of this medicine my pains were alleviated, and, continuing the treatment, all symptoms of disease of the kidneys vanished. I am now once again in vigorous health. I have recommended Warner's Safe Cure to others, who have taken it with good results."—From Mr. S. H. Part, Bernard-street, Rockhampton, North Q.

"Some years ago pain in the back began to trouble me a good deal, but I did not take much notice of it at first, thinking it would pass off, but as time went on and I became much worse, and my general health began to decline, I was forced to give it attention. My appetite was failing me, my nights were much disturbed, and I could scarcely stoop for the pain in the back and under the shoulder blades. I had heard Warner's Safe Cure spoken of as a cure for kidney troubles, so decided to try it. Before I had taken the contents of half a bottle I was greatly relieved. I continued to take the medicine for some weeks, when all symptoms of the complaint left me, and I could eat and sleep well. I have had no return of the complaint since that time."—From Miss A. Fletcher, Clare-street, Portland, Port Adelaide, S.A.

"Some time ago, when lifting a heavy weight, I accidentally received a very severe strain in the back, in the region of the kidneys. The pain was so severe that I could scarcely stand upright. The pain would shoot upwards between my shoulders, and was awful whilst it lasted, depriving me of all rest and sleep at night. The remedies I tried failed to do me any good. In fact, I got worse, and was afraid I was in for a very serious illness. When I was just about as bad as possible, I commenced to take Warner's Safe Cure, and I am pleased to say that in the course of a few weeks I quite recovered. My back ceased to pain me, and I could get my natural sleep, which I had not been able to do for a long time. I feel that I am quite cured, not having felt any pain in the back since that time, and I am now able to do my work with ease and comfort."—From Mr. T. G. Hillsberg, baker and pastrycook, 106 Vivian-street, Boulder City, W.A.

In addition to the regular 5s and 2s 9d bottles of Warner's Safe Cure, a concentrated form of the medicine is now issued at 2s 6d per bottle. Warner's Safe Cure (Concentrated) is not compounded with alcohol, and contains the same number of doses as the 5s bottle of Warner's Safe Cure. H. H. Warner and Co., Limited, Melbourne, Vic.—Advt.

Serious Words.

It has been long demonstrated that the teeth are destroyed by chemical and bacterial processes. A whole scientific literature exists proving beyond the possibility of doubt that it is impossible to preserve the teeth without keeping the mouth antiseptically clean and in a healthy condition; that is to say, free from microbes and fermentation processes.

But in spite of all this the majority of us confine the care of our teeth to brushing them with tooth-powders or tooth-pastes, as if the whole art of keeping the teeth in good condition merely depended on superficially cleansing them from impurities, just as dust is removed from china. The teeth are discoloured, attacked, and ultimately brought to distress by something far more serious than dust that can be brushed off—by microbes and processes of fermentation. And it is necessary to combat these processes in the only way in which they can be combated; that is, by antiseptics, and by liquid antiseptics that will wash the whole mouth.

Only a moment's reflection should convince everybody that one can reach only the external surface of the teeth with preparations like tooth-powder and tooth-paste; but our teeth are not so obliging as to decay only in places which we can conveniently reach with the tooth-brush. On the contrary, mischief mostly begins precisely in those localities which are difficult of access—such as the backs of the molars, in the interstices of the teeth, and other cavities. Thus it is self-evident that in order to protect the teeth from injury and to keep them sound it is absolutely indispensable to use an antiseptic fluid which will come in contact with all parts of the mouth and teeth, penetrate hollows, pass between the interstices, enter fissures, antiseptically cleanse the backs of the molars, and, in short, be effective everywhere.

The necessity of this is also demonstrated by the fact that almost every one who cleans the teeth daily with such antiquated preparations as tooth-powders and tooth-pastes has damaged teeth, particularly the back teeth. How many millions of teeth are yearly sacrificed to this childish method of cleaning?

We want a fluid antiseptic cleansing preparation which will wash the whole mouth, reach the remotest corners, and by means of its disinfectant powers arrest the processes injurious to the teeth.

This result can be secured with absolute certainty, as has been demonstrated by modern science by the new liquid dentifrice, Odol.

Odol is the first and only preparation for cleansing the mouth and teeth which absolutely counteracts the causes of microbic fermentation. While all other preparations are effective only during the few moments of application, the antiseptic and refreshing power of Odol continues gently but persistently for hours afterwards. This absolutely certain effect, scientifically proved, is principally due to an entirely new and unique property of the preparation which causes it to penetrate the interstices of the teeth and the mucous membrane of the mouth, to a certain extent impregnating them, and thus securing an after-effect lasting for hours which no other mouth-wash can produce, not even approximately.

Owing to this characteristic, peculiar only to Odol, the whole oral cavity, to its minutest recesses, is completely freed from and protected against all fermenting processes and injurious bacteria.

It follows that every one who daily and regularly cleanses his mouth and teeth with Odol will practise the most perfect hygiene of the mouth and teeth in accordance with recent scientific principles.

It should be borne in mind by purchasers that the full-sized flask at 2s. 6d. is more advantageous to them than the half-sized flask at 1s. 6d., as it will last twice as long.

WHY STAY FAT?

ARE YOU JUST STOUT, OR ARE YOU SO FAT THAT YOUR LIFE IS A BURDEN AND EXISTENCE A MISERY?

"Oh! Do tell me what you take that puts fat on you so," says your dear slender girl friend whose slimness is a source of much anxiety to her, and who, being thin, imagines she would give the world (if it were hers) just to be like you are. LITTLE DOES SHE REALISE YOUR AGONY OF MIND, the positive discomfort under which you daily labour, the constant dread that your heart is likely any day to show sudden and serious results from its overcrowded, compressed condition due to the fat pressing around it. Not to mention your physical disabilities in the way of getting about, of which your more fortunate sister knows nothing whatever.

ABSOLUTELY NON-INJURIOUS. "FATCURE" THOROUGHLY RELIABLE.

Is the only successful, and at the same time harmless fat reducer that has ever been discovered. Its efficacy has been undeniably demonstrated in thousands of successfully treated cases. "Fatcure" is a vegetable extract compound, put up in palatable tablet form, is easily and (if required) SECRETLY TAKEN, and its use is not followed by any harmful or unpleasant after effects. It is totally and absolutely non-poisonous, and can in no wise work any injury to the general health or the constitution; and though it reduces excess weight by as much as a pound a day in many cases, not the least unpleasant symptoms follow in its wake. On the contrary, improved conditions in the general health become noticeable even in less than a week after its use is begun. Over ninety per cent. of all patients report improved conditions in health within a fortnight from start.

"Fatcure" reduces the average case by about 5 pounds a week, without the assistance of drastic exercise or a starvation diet. Many cases lose as much as a pound a day.

Most fat people have great difficulty in breathing, and find the least unusual exertion a genuine hardship. "Fatcure" makes work or exercise a pleasure instead. A great many fat people suffer from impeded heart action, with always a likelihood and possibility of more serious consequences to follow if proper measures of restoration are neglected. "FATCURE," by eliminating the fat from around the heart and intestines, absolutely prevents any possibility of fatty degeneration of the heart or even of the kidneys taking place. These are common ailments to obese subjects.

Rheumatism, Constipation, Kidney, Bladder, and Nerve Complaints are common to overfat people. "FATCURE" does not cure these complaints, but by removing the excess fat the constitution is strengthened, and the attacks become less frequent, and in many instances permanently disappear altogether. When the excess fat is once removed by "Fatcure," and the weight brought down to normal, the relief is permanent and lasting, and there is no return of the old condition. You do not need to be constantly taking the treatment; the fat is gone for all time, and does not come back.

If you will carefully consider the foregoing statements we feel sure that, with us, you will ask yourself—Why stay fat? and will see the absurdity of your condition. What is being done for thousands of others can just as well be done for you. You can be readily and permanently cured if you will.

SEND OR CALL FOR A FREE TRIAL SAMPLE OF TREATMENT AND FULL PARTICULARS.

2d STAMP. 2d STAMP.

So that you may know just what you are getting, if you cannot call, send a 2d STAMP, and let us send you a free sample and a very interesting booklet on the subject of obesity. We will post same to you in plain package, free of observation or distinguishing marks.

IF YOU CAN CALL we will weigh you privately, and supply all particulars. Lady attendant and private rooms for interviews.

Hours: 9 to 5 Daily; Saturdays till 1 p.m.

THE WATWORTH CO., Suite AA, Linden Court.

There is no "FAITHCURE" about the use of "FATCURE." The fat is entirely removed, and does not come on again! You actually see the results.

Mrs. LOCKYER, of Yetman, N.S.W., writes:—

It seems truly wonderful that a person's weight can be so readily reduced with nought but benefit to one's general health. In a few weeks your wonderful treatment reduced me from eleven stone to six stone ten lb, and my general health improved wonderfully. I am now quite as thin as I wish to be, after less than two months under your splendid treatment, and am sincerely grateful.

Mrs. M. J. MARTIN, of Garwong, writes:—

I have been taking your treatment now for only the past few weeks, and find I am reduced almost two stone already. I had no chance to weigh before, but I knew I was losing steadily, because I found it necessary to make all my clothes over. My breathing is much better, and my general health has improved wonderfully, just as you said it would. I am delighted with the results, and shall lose no opportunity of advocating the use of Fatcure.

SCIENCE NOTES.

W. G. P.

ATMOSPHERIC MANURE.

The manufacture of manure from air, which it will be remembered was begun on a commercial scale two or three years ago, seems to be making steady progress. The Birkeland Eyde process is an electro-thermic method of making nitric acid by the combination of atmospheric oxygen and hydrogen, and the acid is converted into calcium nitrate and used instead of Chili saltpetre as a fertiliser. These works are steadily employed (at Notodden in Norway), and lately they have been greatly enlarged. The amount of Chili saltpetre exported in 1907 was 1,740,000 tons. To get this amount from the air 280,000 tons of nitrogen would have to be fixed; but the atmosphere over every nine acres of the globe would provide this amount. A strong rival to this process is what is known as the cyanamide method. This consists in forming calcium cyanamide by heating calcium carbide in a stream of nitrogen. Just as the carbide yields acetylene when treated with water, the cyanamide yields ammonia, chalk being left behind. Experiments show that the cyanamide decomposes in this way in the soil, and it may therefore be applied directly as a manure. One of its advantages is that it is not very soluble, and is therefore not liable to be washed away. The nitrogen is separated from the air by the Linde system of fractional distillation, and the oxygen left over is a useful by-product. For combination of the nitrogen and the carbide a temperature of about 1000 deg. C. is required. The old retorts are now all being replaced by a new type of electric furnace. The cyanamide is applied to other purposes besides manuring. Melted with a flux it gives a mixture containing 25 per cent. of potassium cyanide, which works as well as the pure product for gold and silver extraction. Ammonia, of course, may be readily obtained from the cyanamide and worked up in various ways. Another product is used in the manufacture of organic dye-stuffs. Several works have started to exploit this process, especially in Italy, where hydro-electric power is readily available; and between them they have an output of about 45,000 tons of nitrogen. Large works are being erected in Austria-Hungary. Some 10,000 tons a year are being made on the Rhine, and there is a nice little plant at Notre Dame de Briancon, in France.

RADIUM IN SEA-WATER.

Professor Joly has been making some curious investigations as to the radio-activity of sea-water. Last April he had sent him some sea-water from Valencia, County Kerry, and he found in it ten times the amount of radium given by any other observers. This led him to have collected a large number of samples of sea-water from various parts of the world, and all these gave fairly consistent results. Oceanic radio-activity, of course, is to be explained by the transport of dissolved and suspended radio-active matter to the ocean. This suggested that deep-sea sediments should be particularly radio-active, and experiments now recorded show that this is the case. Although the actual amount of radium in a given volume is of course minute, the quantity in the entire ocean must be very considerable. It is not known whether the radio-active matter is in true solution or finely suspended. It is found that a part of the radium may be filtered from sea-water which contains organic matter and has been left standing, and Professor Joly suggests that it may be precipitated as a sulphate by bacterial action. However that may be, it is undoubted that deep-sea sediment is exceptionally rich in radium, far richer than average terrestrial rocks. Blue mud, green sand, globigerina ooze, red clay, and other deposits were examined, and those richest in radium came from the central parts of the Pacific. There should also be uranium present, of course, but efforts to detect the exceedingly small quantity to be expected do not seem to have been very successful. Uranium, moreover, does not lend itself very well to spectroscopic methods of quantitative analysis. Professor Joly makes an interesting inference. He says it is possible to show that a very slow rate of collection of calcareous ooze on those areas in the Pacific from which arise the coral islands might give rise to depths of deposit with radio-thermal effects in their more deeply buried parts sufficient to considerably raise the temperature of the earth's crust beneath them, and in this way the thickness of the rigid crust may be reduced by 25 to 50 per cent. "Thus it seems not improbable that the problem of the unstableness of the Pacific is in its nature continuous with that of mountain-building along the continental margins, and that both alike are dependent on the thermal effects accompanying radio-active transformations progressing in sedimentary accumulations."

COSMIC DUST.

It is a common idea that space is empty, but for the large masses known as suns and stars separated from each other by immense distances. Cosmic bodies, however, exist, both bright and dark, of all orders of magnitude down to the larger and smaller meteors that penetrate our system, and shower down continually on both earth and sun. Space, moreover, is thickly strewn with cosmic dust, expelled by the violence of reactions going on in incandescent stars, of which our sun is one. This dust is gathered up in the higher portions of our atmosphere, and as Arrhenius has pointed out, it then may account for many important phenomena. The enormous volume of dust particles poured forth by the sun carries with it solar gases that condense on their surfaces. It has been suggested that it is in this way that the traces of hydrogen in our atmosphere reach it. The amount of such dust reaching us is probably very variable, and a rather distinct parallelism is said to have been made out between sun-spot maxima and its maximum occurrences. When the air is rich in dust the conditions are favourable for cloud formation. Auroral lights regularly give rise to a characteristic sort of clouds. Klein compiled a table on this connection between the frequency of the higher clouds at Cologne and sun-spots, and demonstrated that for over half a century the maxima and minima of the two phenomena were in agreement. A similar relation is said to hold of Jupiter's clouds. Streamer lights are said to strictly conform to the 11.1 period, but this is said not to be the case with the auroras of Iceland and Greenland. Arrhenius regards both forms as arising from solar dust projected into the higher reaches of the atmosphere, and he has given elaborate explanations of their appearances based on this hypothesis. Closely akin in cause are variations in terrestrial magnetism. The gas krypton is characteristically present in the polar lights, and Arrhenius suggests that this also is brought by the cosmic dust from the sun. The Zodiacal light seen in the tropics at sunset or sunrise receives a similar explanation. The glow is due to dust particles illuminated by the sun. Cosmic dust no doubt plays an important part in stellar evolution. Heated by radiation falling upon them, these minute particles travel to distant portions of space, and, becoming trapped in gaseous nebulae form the beginnings of a new universe.

ARTIFICIAL CAMPHOR.

Natural camphor is extracted from the wood of a tree of the laurel family indigenous to China and Japan. The synthetic, artificial product has been made on a commercial scale for the past five years, a rapidly growing market being found in the celluloid industry. Celluloid is nitro-cellulose (gun-cotton), with which is incorporated camphor and a suitable solvent, such as acetone. Camphor is a terpene derivative, whose formula occupied chemists for twenty years. Kekulé came near it as long ago as 1873, and Bredt gave a satisfactory form of it in 1893. It was then possible to proceed to the artificial synthesis, and the artificial product is identical with natural camphor, with the single exception that it is optically inactive. Oil of turpentine, subjected to careful fractional distillation, yields a portion known as pinene, and this, when saturated with dry hydrochloric acid gas, yields a chloride which is converted into the isomeric camphene when the acid is removed by heating with ammonia. The camphene is converted into borneol (Borneo camphor), and by oxidation this gives the artificial camphor required. The process includes six distinct operations. The result is quite equal to the best Oriental product, and the supply depends merely on the amount of turpentine available.

HEROES OF THE SURF.

LIFE-SAVING METHODS.

(BY A. W. RELPH.)

Since surf bathing has become such a popular pastime on our beaches much attention has been given to the question of providing improved methods of life-saving, and to the apparatus already provided on the beaches for the safety of the bathing public. It is recognised by all who indulge in the pastime that there is some danger attaching to it, although the danger is not so great as it used to be when the currents and undertow were so little understood.

At Manly, where the sport may be said to have originated, for here it was that the bathers fought for and won the privilege or right of all-day surf-bathing, the municipal council has for years kept a number of life-lines and belts in special boxes on the beach, and also has employed a professional lifesaver, who during his term of service has saved the lives of over one hundred people from the undertow or drawback. A surfboat was also provided, which has done good work on occasions when people have been carried out to sea. Buoys anchored just outside the breakers were tried, but hitherto have not proved a success, for the seas in stormy weather have been so strong that the buoys have been carried out of place. Several other schemes have been suggested with the view of protecting the bathers, but hitherto the most successful method of saving life has been by means of the life-line and belt. Last season the life-saving clubs at Manly, Bondi, and Coogee adopted large reels, on which the lines were rolled, and these, being portable, proved very useful and suitable for the purpose, the line never tangling as it had done previously when coiled in a box. These life-saving clubs were formed with a view of adopting improved methods of rescuing people in distress in the surf, and at once commenced to train their members with that object. The practice at the abovementioned beaches during last season was, immediately a person was seen to be in distress, for a rescuer to swim straight out to support him, in the water, and using the second or third method of the Royal Life-saving Society, commence to bring him shorewards, swimming on the back. At the same time a second rescuer ran for the reel, donned the belt and life-line, and swam out to take the patient, others at once taking charge of the reel and line. On reaching the supporter the rescuer, with belt, took over the patient, while the other swam in a few yards, and, taking hold of the line, gave the signal to pull in by holding up his hand. This system was practised towards the close of the season, and was found to be most successful. In rough weather, when heavy seas are breaking the second rescuer with the line has a difficult task, for the cork belt round his body is a serious encumbrance. He needs to be a powerful swimmer. This question of life-saving in the surf soon assisted to focus much attention on the methods of the Royal Life Saving Society, which had already been taught among the young people in the schools and swimming clubs.

Each of the life-saving clubs on the beaches (there are now 23, covering the beaches from Wollongong to Newcastle) affiliated with the Royal Life Saving Society, and really became to some extent branches of that body, disseminating its teaching, adopting its methods, and drilling under its instruction. These methods, while perhaps better suited to saving the lives of people drowning in smooth water, have so far proved the best yet proposed for saving life in the surf also. But there is much difference of opinion even amongst members of the Royal Life Saving Society as to which—in rough water or surf—is the better of two methods—what is known as the second method of rescue or the third method—and in both of which the rescuer swims on his back. No doubt the newly-formed Surf-bathing Association will soon give the matter consideration. But fortunately, as a general rule, there are several rescuers within call, and the belt and line are brought into use; and in this case one of the two present methods of the Royal Life Saving Society is unquestionably the best—the second or the third, whichever seems best suited to the rescuer at the moment.

This fact having been established, it is much in the interests of the people that the methods of the Royal Life-saving Society should become known and practised by old and young alike. The society holds examinations of its candidates from time to time under qualified and tested examiners, the hon. instructors and examiners being all volunteers, who give up much of their time for love of the work. Proficiency certificates are awarded to those candidates who pass satisfactorily. And this examination is by no means an easy matter for a man whose joints are commencing to get stiff, or whose wind is not sound. One must in the first place have a proper and correct knowledge of swimming on the breast and on the back. He must swim a hundred yards on the breast and fifty on the back. He must also rescue a supposed drowning man in the water by four different methods, carrying him from 10 to 20 yards on each occasion, and diving from a platform. In the first method the patient swims out the required distance, and turning towards his rescuer treads water. The rescuer then dives in and swims to the patient, who, like a drowning man, clutches him by the wrists. The rescuer releases himself from the other's grip, catches him by the arms, and turns him on his back by a smart twist, then, clasping his hands round the patient's head and ears, and holding his face above water and well back so that he may breathe, he swims on his back, carrying his patient so, to the shore.

The second method is similar to the first, except that the patient clutches the rescuer round the neck, and a different method of release is used by the rescuer, and when swimming with his patient to the shore the rescuer holds him by the muscles of the arms. In the third method the patient pins his rescuer's arms to his side, gripping him right round the body. The rescuer again uses a different method of release, and, turning his patient on his back, catches him through the armpits, hands resting on his breast, and so carries him to shore, swimming again on his back. In the fourth method the patient grips again as before, but in this method is supposed to keep his senses, and instead of the rescuer swimming on his back he makes the patient hold his shoulders easily, front to front, and then swims with the breast-stroke to the shore, carrying his patient in front of him. If the patient or drowning person only keeps his head this is the best method of all. The rescuer must then swim out in the water, and dive from the surface and pick up a certain object from the bottom in 6ft to 10ft of water. Resuscitation drill must also be practised to the satisfaction of the examiners, and students will be pleased to know that the rather complicated methods of former times, when the tongue of the patient had to be held out and the arms manipulated, will this season give way to what is known as the Schaffer method, which is very simple and very easily learned. By this method the patient is laid with his breast towards the ground, face a little turned, and the rescuer simply presses his hands firmly at regular short intervals on the small of his back above the lungs. It is claimed that this will expel the water, and at the same time induce breathing.

During the winter months the secretary of the Royal Life-saving Society has been north, south, and west throughout the State, teaching these methods, and undoubtedly the saving of many lives in the future will be the result. But it is on the beaches of New South Wales where most benefit will accrue from this teaching. Perhaps surf bathing will never be absolutely safe. The undertows change very frequently, and the tide often causes a drawback at a spot that a few moments before was absolutely safe. Holes and gutters are made in a few hours where before was a level sandbank. The pastime is yet in its infancy, and many improvements will no doubt be made in the future to guard against these dangers.

But the work that is being done by the surf and life-saving clubs in forming and drilling brigades of their men who will be able to lend help and save life when occasion arises—who, as a matter of fact, are constantly on the watch for accidents—is the best safeguard that the public could have, and these clubs are offering every encouragement to their younger members and to the best swimmers to take up the work. The Bondi Surf-bathers' Life-saving Club aims at a high standard of efficiency on the part of all its members. Its objects are altogether those of life-saving, and its rules make it compulsory for all who join to pass an examination and obtain the proficiency certificate of the Royal Life-saving Society within the first year of their membership. In the second year those who have obtained their certificates must go a step higher, and win their medallions. Already several of its members have won the hon. instructor's certificate, and are qualified to take classes for instruction under the rules of the Royal Life-saving Society. The Manly Surf Club opens its ranks to the public, as its objects include the obtaining of improved accommodation and increased facilities for surf bathing, and the promotion of the interests of surf-bathers generally, as well as life-saving objects similar to the Bondi Club. This year the executive officers and committee must, according to amendments recently made in the rules, largely consist of men who have won their proficiency certificates, and with the cooperation of the members of the Manly Swimming Club the life-saving department of the club will be considerably augmented, and every effort will be made to encourage members to obtain their certificates and become expert swimmers. Last season 25 members won proficiency certificates, several won medallions, and one his hon. instructor's certificate. This season the certificate holders will, like Bondi, drill for the higher standard of medallions. The North Steyne Life-saving Club, at the northern end of Manly Beach, has similarly a strong life-saving department, and 25 of its members are also certificate holders. The Coogee Life-saving Brigade, winners of last year's Roth's Challenge Shield competition, and the Newcastle Surf Club also have a number of certificate and medallion holders, and will this year aim at further promoting the efficiency of their members. These clubs and many others are now combined in the Surf-bathing Association of New South Wales. In the life-saving competitions held at the carnivals during last season the rivalry was very keen, the competitors training actively for weeks beforehand, and many thousands of people attending and viewing the events with eager interest.

When sport is combined with usefulness and humanitarian objects, such as are aimed at by these clubs, then that sport is worth encouraging; and it is worthy of note that since these clubs commenced their work on the beaches no lives have been lost, and many have been saved when in serious danger. The beaches around Sydney, if made attractive to the dwellers in the city and suburbs, will assist in building up a fine healthy race of men, quite equal to their brothers who live outback in the bush and open air of the country.

When Australia needs them, as some day no doubt she will, these men, trained athletes, tanned with the sun on the beaches, strong and brawny with the buffeting in the surf, will be well fitted to take up their trust and do duty for their country.

POULTRY.

Questions relating to fancy or commercial poultry-keeping, diseases, etc., should be addressed to "Ancona," "Herald" Office.

Beginner.—You should commence in a small way by purchasing a pen or two of Leghorns, Wyandottes, Orpingtons, or Langshans. For your purpose a cock and, say, three hens can be had for from 30s to 40s. From these you can breed a fair number the present year for next year's operations. The cockerels to be sold, and pullets kept for laying. Before you think of going into business in a big way better to visit some of the poultry farms now in operation, and see the methods adopted.

Perplexed.—Fully-formed but failing to hatch, is an experience common to all who use incubators. The causes are many—too much or too little moisture; too high a temperature at some period of incubation; weak fertilisation; or a diseased condition of some of the hens.

G.H.J.—A trap-nest is one into which the hen goes to lay, and cannot get out until she is liberated by the attendant, who records the egg laid, the hen being known by a numbered band on the leg. It is a system which takes up a great deal of time, few practical poultry keepers troubling about it.

Novice (Wollongong).—The addresses of the competitors are published each month, usually on the first. The address you inquire for is A. F. Emmott, Moruya.

Minorca.—The breed are well-known layers, of large white eggs, usually averaging 2½oz each. An advertisement in the "Herald" will find you the breeders of such.

Leichhardt.—Such instances as you mention have been recorded, but are not of common occurrence.

At the Parramatta and District's Poultry Society's annual meeting, held in the School of Arts in that town, the report and treasurer's statement were adopted, which show a most satisfactory financial year, with a balance in favour of the society. The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:—Patron, Hon. J. Cook, M.P.; vice-patrons, Messrs. J. R. Moxham, M.L.A., L. L. Ramsay, J. Grainger, James Burns, Dr. W. S. Brown, and Dr. R. P. Waugh; president, W. Muston, vice-presidents, Messrs. W. Noller, W. Webb, C. H. Ridley, J. H. Hemsworth, Dr. E. C. Hall, and Mrs. C. A. Cannon; hon. auditors, Messrs. F. J. Thomas and G. Watt; committee, Messrs. G. Wales, W. L. Booth, T. Ferris, G. A. Paul, W. Hemsworth, D. Brown, A. Burnett, A. M'Nab, J. Smith, E. W. Harris, A. Muston, and J. H. Saunders; hon. treasurer, J. Chippendale; hon. secretary, A. Robinson.

The latest farmers' bulletin issued by the Agricultural Department is entitled, Refrigeration on the Homestead. The title scarcely does justice to the contents, as apart from the refrigerating machines, etc, the temperature suitable for every class of perishable product is given. Detailed instructions are supplied in connection with the storage of eggs, and exporting of poultry, rabbits, etc. The temperatures most suitable for the storage of the various fruits and vegetables are supplied in detail. The pamphlet is by Messrs. H. V. Jackson, of the Agricultural Department, and A. E. Lea, engineer to Messrs. Birt and Co. Those interested are invited to send to the Under-Secretary for Agriculture for the bulletin.

Poultry Bulletin No. 1 has been issued by the Agricultural Department, and applies largely to the Western districts. Information is given regarding hatching, feeding, rearing, marketing, etc, together with tables showing the cost of consigning fowls and eggs from the various Western railway stations to Sydney. The bulletin concludes as follows:—"We have about the best all the year round market for poultry and eggs in the world, and there is no immediate fear of it being overdone, any increase in the production being more than met by increased consumption, due to the now steady influx of population; and, further, the future progress in the industry must be looked for, not to large specialist farms devoted solely to poultry, but to the small farmer, cottagers, orchardists, labourers, and roadside dwellers, for to these small producers the world over is due the immensity of the poultry industry." Residents of this State engaged in any form of rural industry will recive such of the bulletins of this department free as may be of use to them in their special branch of agriculture.

Mr. Wyndham, who has for several years had charge of the poultry section at Wagga Experimental College, has left that institution for a position in Western Australia. Mr. Wyndham, who was popular at the college, made a success of the poultry farm, and contributed practical articles to the "Agricultural Gazette" on turkey-breeding and artificial incubation.

It is a complaint against the Chinese population that their frugal mode of living enables them to undercut Europeans both as to manufactures and products of the soil. Poultry-keepers, however, can bring no such charge, the Chinese being the best poultry-purchasers that attend the weekly auction sales, when they invariably secure the choicest ducklings on offer. On Friday last at two of the auction-rooms 10s 6d per pair was realised for young Muscovy drakes, Chinese being the purchasers. The city purchasing poulterers realise this, and always congratulate themselves on an occasional sale day when there is an absence of the Celestial. The big duck farms are also regularly visited by the Chinese of the neighbourhood, and there they select the best quality, always paying the highest current rates. It is occasionally asked why Chinese do not breed their own ducklings; possibly it pays them better to do something else.

Poultry of all sorts continue dear. At last Tuesday's sales Indian Runner ducks, which have but small repute as table birds, fetched 6s per couple; and Muscovy ducks 6s 6d. As illustrating the difference between poultry prices now and some years ago, it may be mentioned that in 1899 the late James Rudden, of Liverpool, England, came to Sydney with the object of establishing an export business in poultry and rabbits. He visited the farm of Mr. S. Ellis, Botany, and secured 500 Muscovy and other ducklings, the pick of the farm at 3s 6d per couple, the majority superior to those mentioned above. Poultry products from that period till now have increased in price by nearly 100 per cent., with the result that the firm mentioned never got beyond the first 500 ducklings. On the other hand their rabbit business became established, many thousands of pounds being annually distributed by the firm in Sydney, all arising from the fact that poultry feed is dear, while rabbits are reared and live on other people's grass.

While poultry-breeders in this State have experienced excellent prices for their products throughout the season, such cannot be said of the English market. A late trade paper quoted good-conditioned, fully-grown, Surrey fowls at 2s 6d to 4s; country fowls and Irish considerably below this, and says: With the exception of a few West-end shops, which cater for the fashionable trade, the season has been far from a good one, and in many cases it has been positively bad. A good deal of money has been lost on Russian poultry, and, although it has now been all cleared, the result has not been at all favourable to buyers. American fowls have mysteriously disappeared; some say they availed themselves of their return tickets; other accounts make out that they are still in store; but in either case, importers only have themselves to blame for the trouble, as had they made the goods cheaper at first the trade would have bought more freely, and been able to supply their customers, many of whom went without poultry rather than pay the exorbitant prices asked.

The recently-formed Ladies' Poultry Club held its first social at the Masonic Hall on Wednesday evening. Prominent fanciers and others to the number of over 100 attended. Cards, dancing, and other entertainments were indulged in up till a late hour.

BROKEN HILL.

Mr. G. Marriott, corner Chloride and William streets, Broken Hill, N.S.W., writes:—"This last three years I have always kept a bottle of Dr. Sheldon's New Discovery in the house. My boy used to suffer very much with croup. We have often had to go for a doctor in the middle of the night, thinking he would choke before morning. Also my little girl suffered with croup and bronchitis very badly, but since I have tried Dr. Sheldon's New Discovery I have never had a doctor to them. My little girl's bronchitis is cured, and if ever I find the slightest sign of croup on either of them I give them a dose of New Discovery, and it stops it at once." Dr. Sheldon's New Discovery, for Coughs and Colds, is an unequalled preparation for the cure of all Chest Complaints and Lung Troubles. Obtainable everywhere. Price 1/6 and 3/.—Advt.

IN THE GARDEN.

FLOWERS, ETC.

Propitious Spring.—Spring, it may be said, has fairly set in, and unless some sudden change takes place we may expect one of the best we have had for years. It is some time since at this season of the year everything looked so bright and full of promise. In garden, field, and orchard there is every promise of a good season. Some little fear of late frosts exists in some places, for the vines have shot well, and the air is clear and cold mornings and evenings. Still, the flower gardens everywhere are beginning to be bright. The spring bulbs, etc, such as hyacinths, anemones, ranunculus, ixias, freesias, and others are making the gardens attractive, and the famous Brompton stocks waft their exquisite perfume all around. In short, the weather has been highly favourable.

Handsome Trees and Shrubs.—Among choice specimens now coming into flower may be noted the Judas tree (Cercis siliquastrum), a model of beauty with its wealth of purple blossom and delicate young foliage; the ever-welcome Wistaria sinensis, too often confined from developing its noble proportions; the shrubby Moutan peony, very handsome alike in leaf and flower; magnolias, two or three species; Aphelandra aurantica, a very desirable plant with scarlet and orange flowers; gorgeous azaleas, noble veronicas, spireas, etc, in countless profusion. Amateurs should now make a note of anything that appears to them particularly choice, that in due time it may be ordered from the nurseries.

New and Old Favourites.—The many varieties of dianthus are well adapted to our climate. The larkspur, lobelias, lupines, mignonette, nasturtium, and others are well known; but there are new varieties worth inquiring for. Amongst recent novelties in the family of nasturtiums may be mentioned Crimson Beauty, a vigorous and rapid grower, suitable for covering arches and trellis work, having flowers of a deep crimson scarlet, rich in colouring. A new variety of sweet pea, for present sowing, is also introduced to the amateur's notice, and called New Dwarf Cupids, which will prove useful for edging to the flower borders, or growing in masses, being just as fragrant as the tall varieties, and contain a variety of lovely tints.

Pansies.—Any pansies that are growing straggling it will be well to remove a little soil round the plants, and put on a top-dressing of rotten manure and loam in equal parts, adding a little sharp sand. Then peg the shoots down to the ground, these will root and give abundance of young plants.

Leaf Mould.—Leaf mould is an excellent material for plants in pots, or for the generality of bedding plants. It is rich in the inorganic constituents, without any excess of nitrogenous compounds, and hence it promotes a healthy and vigorous growth, without forcing or artificial luxuriance. When it is thoroughly decayed it forms a very rich and nourishing medium for all kinds of plants. Sand can always be mixed into the upper soil of a pot by stirring it in without injury to the roots, and if the soil looks green and dank upon the surface of the pots several teaspoonfuls can be thus added with decided benefit to the plant.

Rooting Cuttings of Tuberous Begonias.—The leaves and stems of many of these begonias being so soft and woolly an over-close method of rooting the cuttings should be avoided. A house or pit commanding a top and bottom heat of from 60 to 70 degrees is the place to root the cuttings in. They should be kept rather dry till rooted. The atmosphere should be sufficiently moist to prevent the leaves flagging. This attended to, but little water will be wanted in the soil till the somewhat fleshy stems begin to form roots. The safest and surest time to propagate tuberous begonias is when they break in the spring. Each shoot should be heeled or cut off close to the crown of the tuber or bulb, and each such shoot will not only grow and root freely, but will also form a bulb or tuber. Great mistakes occur in inserting cuttings without buds.

Hanging Baskets.—The most suitable baskets for ferns are those of a plain description, made with stout galvanised wire. They should be elegant in outline but not fanciful, and unless required for any special purpose should be of medium size—say from 12 to 18 inches in diameter, according to the size of the structure in which they are to be placed. In filling them place next the wire work a thick layer of sphagnum, or other moss, to prevent the soil coming through between the wires. Then fill them with a mixture consisting of either peat and sand, or peat, loam, and sand. When loam is added it should be in proportion of one part to every three parts of peat. Drainage is hardly required, for the superfluous water will have every facility afforded for its ready escape round the sides. When planting the baskets place one good bold plant in the centre of each and several smaller ones round the central plant, and in a few weeks they will look well. The after management consists in supplying the plants with water by occasionally dipping them in a vessel of water—the cultivator will then be certain that the soil is thoroughly moistened—and in sprinkling them overhead during the summer season.

When ferns cease to make a vigorous growth it may be considered that the soil requires renewal. The early part of the spring is the most suitable period for renewing the soil. The ferns must be removed from the basket, and a good slice of soil taken off all round, to admit of their being returned to the same basket with a liberal quantity of new compost. If the basket is 12 inches in diameter it will be quite safe to remove 2 inches of the old soil all round.

The Bush House.—Many plants that object to too much heat and want plenty of air will do far better in the bushhouse than the greenhouse. Fuchsias will bloom for months in it, and if they are fed a little will grow on in attractiveness and beauty. All the Rex tribe of begonias will grow splendidly in the shaded part of the bush-house, while the tuberous begonias will bloom for several months if they are placed where they will get plenty of light and air and not the direct rays of the sun, but they must have good rich soil, and must not be allowed to suffer for want of water. Many amateurs know that many very fine ferns do remarkably well in the bush-house. Adiantum gracillimum and other varieties of great beauty will grow in perfect health and with much vigour in a house of this kind, and I would suggest that this be more generally tried by those who grow the best known ferns, and wish to use the fronds largely for cut flowers.

Soot a Good Fertiliser.—It is well to save the soot that falls from the chimneys when the latter are cleaned. Twelve quarts of soot to a hogshead of water make a good liquid manure, to be applied to the roots of plants, or a less quantity in the proportion of a pint of soot to a pailful of water will make a liquid manure of the greatest value for flower beds and plants of all kinds.

VEGETABLE GARDEN

The principle of thinning crops as one means towards securing perfect growth is indeed commonly recognised, but too seldom acted on. In no culinary crop, perhaps, is this remark so well illustrated as in the case of garden peas. If we look at a crop of peas when they are just vegetating we shall in almost every case see the plants standing thickly together, forming then in their embryo state an unbroken line. And they are generally allowed to grow on without any alteration in this respect. In nine cases out of ten two-thirds, often more, of the seed is wasted, and the crop is thereby injured. All the larger growing kinds of peas, therefore, which are to supply the summer and autumn crops should be kept thin, both by sowing fewer seeds than is usual, and subsequently thinning out the plants if necessary, so that the plants may stand clear of each other. The plants, too, instead of being allowed to run up to great height should be topped once or twice, to make them bushy. If these two points of practice are attended to, in conjunction with each other, the pea crops would be found to furnish successive supplies in much better condition than is now often found to be the case.

Scarlet runners and dwarf French beans will continue double the length of time in bearing if the beans are gathered as they become fit for use. A good way also of obtaining a succession of produce is to denude the plants on half of the plot of their flowers, when they will at once throw out fresh lateral shoots and flowers, and be from a fortnight or three weeks later than the other half. Such a plan is worthy of adoption by those whose ground is limited. Another excellent way to obtain late produce is to entirely strip the plants of both fruit and blossoms, top the shoots, and point over the ground, and apply a rich mulching of manure, and, if dry, well supply with water. They will soon fruit freely as at first.

ORCHARD, ETC.

The present is an excellent time to supply top-dressings to fruit trees and bushes, so as to assist them to carry a crop of good fruit this year, and also to lay the foundation for future crops. After pruning, and the surface soil is lightly forked up, it is a good plan to put one or two good barrow-loads of rotten manure immediately over the roots, and the after condition of the trees will bear testimony to the advantage of the dressing to keep the small fibrous roots close to the surface, and of thus rendering root-pruning unnecessary. Perchance some may say: "My trees grow too strongly, but I am unable to find any strong roots." The reason of this is that from lack of food on the surface the roots have struck deep down into the cold subsoil, consequently the growths made each year are long-jointed and sappy, and fail to ripen, and the flower buds do not set. The mulching will draw the roots upwards and bring them under the direct influence of the air and sun. It also prevents them from being injured by drought, as if put on now it will not dry up and disappear so quickly as if put on later in the season.

AT THE EXHIBITION.

Some Side-Shows.

LONDON, Aug. 21.

The Franco-British Exhibition is fulfilling many and various functions. Among them is that of making the fortunes of sundry clear-sighted men in the amusement business. Of the numerous side-shows on the ground there are one or two that have drawn tens of thousands of pleasure-seekers daily, and there are others towards which the stream of patronage falters not in its steady onset week after week.

The twin arms of the giant flip-flap soar through space incessantly. The thrill is a brief one—the journey lasts but three minutes—and it costs sixpence. Ever since the exhibition opened the flip-flap has done enormous business. It carries some 50 people on each trip, and its entrance gates are constantly besieged by a long queue of patrons, who are content to wait an hour or two for their three minutes' turn in mid-air.

The scenic railway is a bigger success still from the point of view of patronage. Its double-banked queue stretches for a hundred yards all day long. This ingenious contrivance consists of some light cars, and about a mile of track, laid through built-up scenes representing mountains, in the forests of which stuffed bears, lurking promiscuously, reminded me of a farce comedy in which Mr. Anson used to play the part of a heavy tragedian, who, being also an exponent of realism, and having to produce a scene representing the "wooded groves of Greece," did so by means of two small trees set inside a tub, the said tub being otherwise useful as an accessory to the bird life of the "groves," in that it provided a perch for an unconscionable parrot. However, the scenic railway train, with its wild plunges down inclines and its generally exciting few minutes of swift locomotion, is affording unbounded, if brief, delight to thousands. It had a splendid advertisement a few weeks ago, when the Queen, during one of her incognito visits to the exhibition, was discovered making the merry trip. The scenic railway was booming before that. Since her Majesty's unexpected ride business has been phenomenal.

A similar excitement, without the device of scenery, is had from the Canadian toboggan, the cars of which whirl round several descending circles at an enormous rate of speed. This also is an unfailing attraction.

The Senegalese Village, wherein a native African community, huts and people, are to be seen in all the primitive dirt, affords amusement for large numbers. Personally, I have never been able to get far enough away from it. Within its enclosure an appalling noise goes on perpetually. It issues from the Senegalese band, which happens to consist of little else than tom-toms. The thud of this barbaric music shakes the earth over a wide radius from its source.

The Irish Village was intended to similarly recreate a corner of the green western isle. Candour compels the statement that it does not fulfil expectations. The widely-advertised colleens are there, certainly, and they do their best towards an exposition of local colour. They look picturesque in their short skirts, with their scarlet hoods about their heads, and they exploit a more or less alluring brogue. There is, however, a general air of unreality about this show that is not reassuring.

The Indian Village has fallen upon an evil day in respect of one of its chief attractions. The piece de resistance of the animals' performance was a diving exhibition by elephants, who jumped from an inclined board into a pond of water. A visit by a representative of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has led, however, to the prosecution of the trainer. It was alleged that the beasts were unduly goaded into the water, of which they were really afraid. I understand that the trainer has left this country somewhat hurriedly in consequence, and the Indian Village has since been shorn of a potent attraction.

The Ceylon Village and its 150 dusky inhabitants offer a realistic picture of a native settlement, such as may be seen at Colombo. It is so realistic, indeed, as to include begging by the children, while their elders are not above accepting a trifle from the sympathetic stranger. They will even ask for it if he appears not to show a coming-on disposition.

There is a good example of a helter-skelter, which is very popular, and, until the recent unfortunate explosion of its companion airship, just about to be launched, a captive balloon offered opportunity for adventurous ascent some hundreds of feet. The Pathe Cinematograph, a representation of Old London, another of the Johnstown Flood, a weird Egyptian entertainment known as "Pharaoh's Daughter," and various other shows, make up the amusement side of the Exhibition. Some of them diminish in interest from the moment of one's entrance. They are invariably promising from outside. And in addition to all these avowed amusements, there are various working exhibits that offer attraction to the casual section of Franco-British patrons, who are thus, it will be seen, richly provided for.

Superb by Night.

Picturesque enough by day, with its fine spaciousness, its hundred palaces gleaming white in the sun, its lawns and gardens a picture of ordered beauty, the Exhibition by night becomes a superb spectacle. A million lights twinkle from the buildings. They stretch in long rows, or they are festooned into graceful designs, across the facades. From the Court of Honour, at the entrance, the view down the Exhibition grounds, through the miles of avenues and buildings, everyone of them ablaze with light, is a gorgeous one. Seen through the contrasting mass of white artificial light, the blue sky doming the towers that surround this central court has the deep, dark tone of the ocean. At your feet, a cascade of water, lit from behind by prismatic lights, dashes into the canal below, whereon the swan-boats, grotesque enough by day, glide within the dimness of the bridges with an effect that is almost of Venetian beauty. The giant arms of the flip-flap, now lit from end to end, rise in air constantly, and throughout the long sweep up to the perpendicular and back to the original horizontal, their flashing electric bulbs dominate a scene of fairy beauty, in which the myriad lights upon the palaces, their reflected sparkle from the winding waterways, the ever-moving throng of people on the avenues, and the music of the bands, make the Exhibition an unrivalled summer night resort for Londoners.

All the palaces, save that which houses the pictures, are open, and brilliantly lit from end to end, within as without. The side-shows are in full swing, and they, too, take on an added glory by reason of their elaborately ornamental lighting equipment. Many thousands of people are spread over the grounds. They walk, or are wheeled in the chaises roulantes, by means of which an enterprising French firm ministers, at the rate of half-a-crown an hour, to the needs of elderly or otherwise wearied visitors unwilling to negotiate the miles of road on foot. The chairs along the main avenues, and round the band-stands, are filled all night by hundreds, whose chief desire is to leisurely enjoy the cool, refreshing air, the beauty of the surrounding scene, and the music of the bands.

There are four first-class military bands in constant work. The place of honour, a circular and sunken band-stand in the Elite Gardens, surrounded by an amphitheatre, containing some thousands of seats, is occupied day and night by the magnificent band of the Grenadier Guards—60 strong. Neither on the continent nor in England have I heard so fine a military band as this. In England, it has quite ousted the famous Coldstream Guards from their long-enjoyed pride of place. Its performances are distinguished by a beauty of tone, a harmonious balance, a precision of technique, and an artistic finish of detail, that give to any hour spent within reach of its strains, a rare musical distinction. The other bands are well worth hearing, for they are attached to crack regiments, and have high reputations,—notably those of the Scotch, Irish, and Life Guards. They are not quite of the calibre of the Grenadiers, however.

At 10 o'clock every night there is a display of fireworks in the Stadium, and for half-an-hour or so streams of rockets, throw many-coloured showers of light through the air, and spread a last touch of brilliancy across the scene. That is the crowning glory of the Exhibition's night. Thereafter, the surging human tide turns homeward.

If it were not that the picture galleries are, necessarily, closed, I should say that to see the White City by night, in all the gay and varied brilliancy of its feast of lights, with its suspicion of garishness, toned and softened into sheer beauty by the cover of semi-darkness,—is to see it at its best. And its best is worth seeing.

ENGINEMEN'S GRIEVANCES.

CHIEF COMMISSIONER'S ANSWERS.

THE EYESIGHT TEST.

In connection with the recent deputation that waited upon the Railway Commissioners from the Enginemen and Firemen's Association of the Railways, asking for a number of reforms, the Chief Commissioner has now replied. On the request that men be paid not less than six days a week Mr. Johnson said that if there were any such men in the service he would like to know of them. A list of cases where excessive time had been worked was submitted to him every month, and he frequently asked for further information, because he was as strong as anybody against excessive hours being worked. The men knew also that a number of engines were in the hands of from one to three and in some cases four different sets of men. During the past two years and certainly during the last 12 months there had been a great growth in the business, and extra hours had been far too many. He was doing his best to curtail and do away with the necessity for overtime. If he agreed to pay the staff time and a quarter for overtime worked the same effort might not be made to get through quickly, but if overtime were done away with the difficulty would be got rid of altogether. Additional engines were also coming to hand. He recognised that for the business done on long sections of single line the present engine power was deficient. Starving stock and fodder traffic was responsible to a large extent for Sunday running, but the circumstances were exceptional.

He would prefer to arrange proper relief so that even 10 hours would not be necessary. But it was difficult to provide relief. Every endeavour was being made to reduce the hours, and they could take it that he would do all in his power in the matter.

In consequence of the number of men required, the supply of cleaners had not been equal to the demand, and he had had to agree to fuelmen of experience being employed as acting firemen. He was not in favour of the suggestion that cleaners be not taken on so young, as he considered it an advantage to start young men in the work of their life at an early age, assuming that their ordinary education had been completed. At Doncaster and other important sheds in England it was not an unusual thing for cleaners to be taken on at an early age. It would not be fair to have a hard and fast rule. The employment of fuelmen on the footplate was an expedient to get out of a temporary difficulty, and it was not intended to be a general practice. He much preferred to take firemen from the cleaners' ranks, and give them a chance to work up. That was what he intended to do, but he did not say there would not be isolated cases where others than cleaners would be appointed to the footplate.

In connection with the restriction on holiday passes at Christmas and Easter, he asked how could he make one rule for the metropolitan district and another for the country? The issue of passes had to be restricted, because the men were occupying accommodation which should be available for the public.

Half an hour for putting an engine away was, if anything, too much. If the request that an hour be allowed for preparing and half an hour for putting engines away were granted it would mean that nearly one-fifth of the total time the enginemen were on duty would be occupied in preparing and putting away engines.

The scale of expenses to drivers was put back to what was paid the traffic branch of the service, because he liked uniformity of service. So far as he knew the traffic branch was perfectly satisfied. In the case of the men sleeping away from home, barrack accommodation was provided in most cases, and he would like to extend it.

In this State the men had the advantage of a practical vision test. Since taking office he had done all he could to place the vision and hearing tests on a reasonable basis, and he could not entertain the proposal. His objection to the practical tests was the difficulty of getting a similarity of circumstances under which tests could be made. The only way to get a similarity of conditions was to adopt the artificial light, where the intensity would be the same for every man. That was why he was opposed to the practical tests. The proposal would not be fair. The tests for men entering the service were fairly drastic, but for men already in it they were very reasonable.

He was sorry he could not see his way to do what was asked in regard to the vision tests for tramway motor drivers. A man driving a steam motor on the tram lines required a better degree of sight than the driver of an express train. The latter had a long distance in which to see ahead of him, whereas the motor driver had to see things close at hand, and not always in front of him, such as children running across the rails. Therefore he required a higher standard of vision. The existing tests were not adopted without consideration, and could not be reduced.

Mr. Hollis had himself answered the question in regard to steam tramway drivers being paid increased wages, also time and half for Sunday duty. Steam trams were disappearing, and if he had the money he would speedily do away with them.

Mention had been made of the necessity for leave to enable men to recruit their health, but he did not think a man's health required recruiting after 15 years' service unless there was a breakdown, for which, no doubt, they were all making provision in connection with the friendly societies. He was afraid he would have to continue his practice that after 20 years' service, should an employee's health become impaired, and the medical officer certify, one month's leave would be granted.

The Chief Commissioner answered a number of other requests concerning matters of detail, and to most of these he gave a favourable reply.

EGG-LAYING.

"HERALD" AND "MAIL" THIRD ANNUAL TEST.

For the week which ended last evening the 360 hens at the "Herald" and "Mail" competition at Berowra laid 1838, as against 1810 for the corresponding week at last year's test. Messrs. Lawrence's White Leghorns, and Gordon's Langshans did best with 38 each, while quite a number of pens laid 36. Mr. White's Langshans have now got into second place. The other three pens of this breed are also improving their positions. Appended are the results to last evening:—

THE CRICKET SEASON.

THE CLUBS AND THE PLAYERS.

CHANGES IN PERSONNEL.

The senior cricket season will open on October 3. The juniors are already in full swing.

The first day of October is the traditional first of the cricket season, though there are few of our leading players who will not have had a knock before that date is reached. The second fortnight in September has in previous years afforded an opportunity for pipe-opening, but now the grounds are for the most part so backward that there has not been a chance for practice matches, and probably they will not have any time to spare before the beginning of the first round of competition fixtures. The Sydney Cricket Ground authorities cannot see their way clear, as they have done in previous years, to put up the nets for the last week in September.

The season will be a quiet one, and the relief from the strenuous stonewalling of last year should be appreciated. More attention will be paid to the rank and file, who will have better opportunities for play and for improvement, for which there will be a big incentive in the hope of participation in the Australian Eleven tour, which will begin probably in March next. The departure of that team will mark an epoch in the cricket history of Australia, for the control for the first time will be under the Board of Control. The financial arrangements are for future consideration. The feeling is apparently in favour of a limitation of earnings by the players. The only thing apparently now left for the players to decide is the appointment of manager, which Mr. Frank Laver, no doubt, has in his pocket.

INTERSTATE.

There should be far and away more interest taken in interstate engagements than was the case last year. For one thing there will be no English eleven here, and for another the other States, Victoria, South Australia, and even Queensland, have considerably improved sides. Victoria have a Clement Hill in the person of Vernon Ransford, another fine colt is C. Mackenzie, who learnt his batting on the matting at Seymour, and M'Alister and Armstrong, the old horses for hard journeys, in addition to quite a number of promising players. South Australia may have "Clem" Hill, retires and reappears, and if they have him they will put a strong side into the field. There are Mayne, whose style reminds me of F. Iredale's, Dolling, who takes a lot of shifting, Gehrs, who has not quite fulfilled his promise, but has a lot of cricket in him if he would only let it come out, O'Connor, who might get into the Australian Eleven, Claxton, and other good men. The success of Hartigan in test cricket last year should do a great deal for the game in Queensland. New South Wales will again have a very strong side without a tail, or not much of a one. Last year the team put up a world's record of 572 for the fourth innings of a match. There will be the usual cry of a weak bowling side when the Australian team are picked. Macartney may fill the place once occupied by J. J. Ferris. Saunders would be a certainty for England only that some of the authorities there think he shies. That was the reason why he was left behind in 1905. One would think from this that the best bowler in Australia on last year's showing is more leniently treated by the umpires here than he would be in England.

THE CLUBS.

North Sydney, who last year had the unique experience of winning the premiership in the three grades, will have a side apparently good enough to repeat the record. The first team will be practically the same, a remarkably solid all-round side—any one almost might get a hundred—and supported by two fine bowlers in L. A. Minnett and F. B. Johnson. The latter may be an absentee sometimes. He is a sea-going engineer; his position, however, did not stop his cricket much last year. Fisher, Hopkins, and Deane complete a fine quintette of bowlers. Glebe, who ran up to North Sydney, are losing no one; Bubb has gone to Mosman to reside, but he will be qualified to play for Glebe for a few months. Blanksby, from Redfern, is sure to find a place, but it will be hard to find a man to drop for him. Like North Sydney, Glebe are a fine all-round team, sound in batting, and in bowling have splendid combination in Bowden, Kelleway, and Cotter, three interstate men.

Middle Harbour will be a much improved side. Bull, from North Sydney, Middleton, from Sydney, and Anderson, a Queensland player, have joined the club, and should strengthen what has always been a hard-working side. Redfern have lost Blanksby and C. Hopkins, the former to Glebe, and the latter has gone to New Zealand. W. Louden, who had a most successful season in 1907-8, is trying to climb the ladder; he will play for Redfern, and may gain a place in the trial matches. M'Kell, a good bat and fast bowler, from the country, will also play for Redfern. Two good players in Rogers and Harvey will be absent from University, but some good men are expected from the schools. Matthews, the "rep." footballer, will no doubt gain a place, and others likely to be promoted to the first grade are Nathan and Williams. The side all round is a good one.

RETURNED PLAYERS.

Cricketers have ever found it hard to retire from the game. Numerous cases could be quoted showing retirement, return, retirement, return, and so on. W. Richardson, the old interstate player, retired a season ago, and he is now back again with the Sydney club, which will, however, lose the hard-hitting and fast-bowling Middleton. F. Lee is likely to return to the club, and if so will be first "stumper." There are a lot of new members, and amongst them F. Garratt and probably Hutchins, from Redfern, both promising men. Sydney will run four teams. Central Cumberland and the State lost a fine left-hand bowler when Conolly went to Maoriland. O. Smith, who headed the batting and bowling averages for the combined teachers' tour in New Zealand last year, is a new man for the club; he is also a good reserve wicket-keeper. Outside of Conolly all old men are available, and also M'Grath, a junior from Penrith, a batsman and change bowler, and Antill, the New South Wales baseballer, who is a hard hitter and fast bowler. The side will be a strong one; any team with the two Waddys, Cranney, Single, Deans, and Pye would be. Pye, the captain, is growing aldermanic and, as a natural consequence, fond of bowls. Amongst the colts may be mentioned Ayres, slow legbreak bowler, Barry, medium right-hander, with a bit of pace, and T. Garrett to uphold an honoured name in the annals of the game.

Waverley are losing no one. They will regain Keele, fast bowler, and have some well-performed juniors from Centennial Park, notably A. J. M'Intyre. The club has a new ground to the south of the present oval, and a new pavilion is being erected for the old ground. All teams will be stronger. Gordon are losing Hickson, who has gone to Tamworth, Black to Boggabri, Addison to North Sydney, and Pitt has retired. The absence of two slow leg-break bowlers like Black and Pitt will weaken the attack considerably. The principal men of the side will be Iredale, Macartney, Jordan, Hartigan, Proud, P. Johnson, and Bamford. Macartney is just about leaving hospital after an operation which he thought advisable to have performed before undertaking the English trip. M'Lean may play for Gordon, or for University.

MACKAY RECOVERING.

Noble and Trumper are a pair who might win a match almost at any time. Paddington look to M'Cloy, Collins, and Sayle to redeem their promise of last year, and there are also M'Intyre and Garnsey. Thirty new members will be available for selection. J. R. Mackay is back in Burwood after his unfortunate experiences. He was knocked down by a motor cycle when in South Africa, and is very gradually getting over the shock and injuries. Emery has gone to Petersham, and Ward Prentice is with the footballers in England. In other respects Burwood will be pretty much the same as last year, though some smart colts may be found in a list of 20 new members. Petersham will experience a lot of changes. Cooper has gone to North Sydney, Breakspear to Tamworth, Preston to Bermagui. They are gaining W. Farnsworth and W. Unsworth, late of Redfern, Emery from Burwood, E. Oram will be back from Grafton, and Blundell, the crack Public school bat, and N. Hives, the footballer, of Dubbo. The bowling will rest with P. Newton, who played for New South Wales last year, Rough, Scott, S. Smith, and others. The team are stronger than last season. A large dressing-room has been erected at the ground.

There is a probability that Folkard, Meaney, Schmidt, all of Callan Park, will throw in their lot with Balmain, and their inclusion would materially strengthen the side. M. H. Blaxland, the State's successful left-hander, has gone to the Northern Rivers. He might have had a chance of going to England. Jansen will not be available until late in the season. There are quite a number of new members. W. Bull, Kemmis, Whitting, Barrell, Fitzhardinge, Baker, Janes, together with Bury and C. Walker, new members, will doubtless be the mainstay of the batting, while in the attack will be carried on by Sullivan, Whitting, Fitzhardinge, Robson, and L. M'Kew, who, being an acquisition from Leichhardt. S. Bowden will return from England later. The wickets will no doubt be kept by C. M'Kew, a young and brilliant stumper from Leichhardt.

THE FLEET VISIT.

AS THE WORLD SAW IT.

STRIKING COMMENT.

THREE POINTS OF VIEW.

All the London papers which came by this week's mail give a big space to the fleet's arrival in Sydney. Most of them have about three-quarters of a column of cabled description; the "Morning Post," "Daily Chronicle," and "Evening Standard" made it the text of leading articles. But from first to last the "Times" gives it far more importance amongst its cables than any other paper. It gives on the same Saturday morning on which the fleet left New Zealand a long description of its leaving. The day before the fleet arrived here it described minutely the decorations in Sydney. It quotes more than once from the leading columns of the "Sydney Morning Herald," on the morning of the fleet's arrival—at the time when Sydney was all at South Head—the "Times" manages to get the news that it had been sighted off the coast at 6; next day, a full description.

Reuter's put the crowd at 300,000; the "Times" at 500,000; the "Daily Mail," 250,000. The headlines show what they thought of the warmth of the welcome. "Enthusiasm Beyond Belief" ("Standard"); "Enthusiastic Welcome" ("Daily Chronicle"); "Enthusiastic Greeting" ("Morning Post"); "Welcome by 300,000 People" ("Daily News"), and so on. The "Pall Mall Gazette," being published on Friday afternoon, takes in the march through the streets. It calls the welcome "Uproariously Warm" "A Sort of Popular Frenzy." The "Daily Mail" says:—

Last night the cliffs from Manly to North Head and from Botany to South Head looked like a vast bivouac stretching over 14 miles. Men, women, and children—undismayed by the cold, for it is winter here—wrapped themselves in blankets and waited for dawn and the coming of the fleet.

For all the papers do not so much wonder at the reception as discuss the reason of it.

BLOOD THICKER THAN WATER.

The "Daily Chronicle" gives the orthodox view—perhaps the Australian view. The English were quite interested enough in the visit to know what "the fleet" was. The article in the "Daily Chronicle" is simply headed, "Australia and the Fleet." It says:—

The Commonwealth of Australia, in the heartiness of its reception of the American fleet, seems likely to equal (we do not know that it would be possible to surpass) the Dominion of New Zealand. This cordial fraternisation is very gratifying in this country, where the maintenance of the most friendly relations with the American people and Government is an object of universal desire, and an axiom of our policy.

The "Pall Mall Gazette" says:—

The real value of yesterday's demonstrations is their striking testimony to the satisfactory relations between the Imperial Government and the Government of the United States. Newfoundland may look on a little coldly, and nobody can blame her; but elsewhere throughout the Empire Admiral Sperry's diagnosis of the "magnificent and warm-hearted reception" will be accepted without reserve. The occasion was one for waiving international etiquette in the matter of armed landings, and Mr. Deakin was happily there to do the right thing.

WHITE AUSTRALIA.

SYMPATHETIC ARTICLES.

But some comments go further, and put the warmth of the welcome to Australia's—shall we say—want of white companionship in the Pacific. The cables had touched the point. The "Standard" had said:—

The general view one hears expressed among all classes (in Sydney) is that the visit will strengthen the national aims, especially with regard to the White Australia question and the claims for a dominant voice in the development of the Western Pacific.

And the "Daily Mail":

In the minds of some of the spectators is the conviction that should "white supremacy" in the Pacific ever be in danger the United States and Australia might be summoned to a common defence.

A Reuter's message in all the papers gave an interview with an officer of the Connecticut, who said:—

No one in the fleet doubted that the people of New Zealand felt that the coming of the fleet to Australasia was the recognition of a future of identical interests in the Pacific, having in view the preservation of the Anglo-Saxon States for their own people.

As a comment on all this the "Morning Post" says:—

The interview mentioned in the telegram published this morning indicates clearly enough that in the American fleet everybody attributes the enthusiasm of the welcome largely to the political sympathy between America and Australia in respect of their resolve to exclude Asiatic immigration. This resolve, being purely defensive, offers no legitimate ground for resentment on the part of Asia, nor is there any sign that Asia does resent the adoption by Anglo-Saxons of this traditionally Asiatic principle. The only real danger of active enmity arising comes from the reckless assertion, still sometimes made in this country, that the British policy is to insist on an open door in the East, while barring the door in the Dominions.

SYDNEY'S WELCOME.

The uproariously warm welcome given to the United States fleet at Sydney was what one might have looked for. One seems to understand at once the mood of the Sydney crowd. All the talk of recent years about colonial and Imperial navies, the sea-power strength of Japan, and the German menace to the mother country, must have been followed in Australia with an interest greatly heightened by the sense of isolation and remoteness. A friendly fleet appears, and is greeted with a sort of popular frenzy. In the circumstances, any greeting less whole-hearted could only have seemed sinister.

THE AMERICAN VIEW.

The "Times" is the only one which gives the American view. Mr. Smalley, from New York, cables:—

The newspapers this morning contain glowing accounts of the reception at Sydney of the American fleet, a reception which, according to the correspondent of the "New York Herald," surpasses anything encountered since the ships left Hampton Roads. In several cases the despatches are supplemented by leading articles. The "New York Times" says:—

This manifestation of Australian friendship for the United States will not pass unnoticed or be forgotten. . . . We have always had a friendly feeling for Australians. Henceforth they will be more frequently in our minds, and we shall be inspired to seek a larger knowledge of them. Kinsmen they truly are, and the word will stick. The greeting may be taken as a notification to all the Powers that, in any future international complications involving the Far East, the Commonwealth is to be reckoned with. She has to contend with some of the very problems that perplex us, and as our battleships, carrying the message of peace around the world, dropped anchor at Sydney, the cheers and salutes from the shores had a significance which will not be missed by the nations.

The "Herald" thinks that the keen appreciation by "our Antipodean cousins" of this assurance that America realises her power, and, if necessary, is prepared to use it, is one of the many reasons why the United States should have a big navy. The "New York Tribune," after noticing the similarity of "many social, industrial, and other questions" that vex the Commonwealth and the United States, says that for obvious reasons the fleet is particularly welcome in Australia.

A STRIKING LEADER.

"MORNING POST" AND NAVY.

But by far the most striking comment on the visit is a leading article in the "Morning Post" on the morning of the fleet's arrival. We quote almost in full. It says:—

Australia is not to be outdone by New Zealand in the warmth and splendour of her greeting to the American fleet. Nor will the statesmen who direct her affairs be unmindful of the assistance which its presence may lend them in promoting the naval policy they have at heart. The main business of the approaching session will be, Mr. Deakin was lately reported to have declared, the defence proposals of the Federal Government, which include the initial measures necessary to the creation of an Australian navy. Australians are not likely to be deterred from embarking on this enterprise by the living spectacle of what has been achieved by the American people, who at the time when the colonies were first federated numbered only about the same as the Australian people to-day. The most formidable opposition hitherto confronting Mr. Deakin has been not hostility or apathy in Australia, but the dogged obstruction of the Admiralty in London, who cannot see why, if French colonies subsidise the French navy with cash, Australia and Canada should not subsidise the English navy. Observing that some of the smaller British colonies accept the principle of cash subsidies, the Admiralty apparently consider that the others may reasonably be expected to do the same. In other words, they fail to understand that given a certain set of circumstances colonies grow into nations, and that the national point of view is essentially different from the colonial. For twelve months past Mr. Deakin has been trying to obtain the co-operation of the Admiralty in working out a scheme, which, while laying the foundations of an Australian navy under Commonwealth control, would ensure a homogeneity of ships and training so as to promote efficiency in a fighting alliance. Continued obstruction on the part of the Admiralty can only mean, in the long run, that the Australian navy will grow up on a smaller scale and in a less efficient form than if hearty encouragement had been offered from this end. No greater disservice could be rendered by any State Department here, either to the United Kingdom or to the Empire, than to delay or prevent the beginnings of an Imperial naval alliance, which alone can ultimately secure to the Empire, including this country, a perpetual command of the sea.

All history shows that navies must be grown from seed, and the seed is not prohibitively expensive. Mr. Deakin's proposals—which seem to involve within a year or two an annual expenditure of about half a million sterling—are proposals for preparing and planting the seed, with the expert assistance of the Admiralty, in order that a later generation may enjoy a fruit not otherwise obtainable at any price. But behind the reluctance of the Admiralty there lurks undoubtedly the political apprehension that a squadron owned, manned, and controlled by Australia could not be relied upon implicitly to support the foreign policy of the United Kingdom in all emergencies. This political objection is, however, a matter for statesmen, not for naval experts, the proper relation between the two classes being that the statesmen provide the political hypothesis upon which the naval experts have to base their technical work. If English Cabinet Ministers dictate, as they ought, the hypothesis of Imperial alliance—not colonial dependence—the problem for the naval experts is not how to secure one navy under one control in time of peace, but how to promote the utmost efficiency of allied navies, taking it for granted that there will be unified control in war. Meanwhile it would be the task of the statesmen to assure the stability of the Imperial alliance, so as to remove the possibility of failure to co-operate when the crisis came.

DEAFNESS AND OTHER EAR DISEASES

PURE, NATURAL, AURAL KINETICS.

Adversity may have its sweet uses and lessons, but the affliction of partial or total deafness is one that separates you from your fellows, debars you from the pleasantest paths of life, and buries you in a tomb of silence—awful in its loneliness.

If you suffer from any ear trouble, however slight, it is well to be cured at once, and avoid further complications. If you have let the matter develop into total deafness, do not despair, but write for particulars of a remarkable reliable treatment that has restored perfect hearing in thousands of cases, many of which had resisted all other treatments, and been considered entirely incurable prior to this "EAROSCOPE" treatment.

This is no idle boast, but solid fact, supported by the written testimony of many of our grateful patients, some of whom had already been declared incurable, and were agreeably surprised to find themselves so easily cured, after having given up all hope of ever again enjoying good hearing—life's greatest blessing.

READ THE FOLLOWING LETTERS AND JUDGE FOR YOURSELF.

GEORGE GILLICATT, Esq., BILAMBIL, TWEED RIVER, N.S.W., writes:—"It is with much pleasure that I testify to the benefit my daughter has received from the use of your Earoscope, although it was a severe case." "I shall recommend your treatment to anyone suffering from that distressing complaint."

Miss C. PIGGOTT, c/r. Cambridge and Kerr streets, LEEDERVILLE, PERTH, W.A., writes:—"I am writing to inform you of the progress in my hearing since using the Earoscope 4 weeks to-day. I am pleased to be able to write you that since using the Earoscope I have not had a return of the headaches which were so frequent before; also, the noises in the ears have almost ceased." "The left ear I can hear a small clock tick about 5 feet away, and about 3 feet away from the right ear. I think it is remarkable for such an improvement in four weeks' time."

MRS. ELIZA UCCLES (68 years of age), of 257 RILEY-STREET, SURRY HILLS, N.S.W., writes:—"I am delighted to tell you I cured myself completely with the Earoscope. The noises have all gone, and my hearing is perfect now. I thank you very much, and will always speak highly of it."

JAMES TAYLOR, Esq., Beauchamp Crescent, Wadestown, WELLINGTON, N.Z., writes:—"I have pleasure in reporting that my head-noises and ringing in the ears have gone, and I think my hearing is a little improved already, which I consider very good, as I have only used the 'EAROSCOPE' a few weeks."

REV. HENRY GAINFORD, of ADELAIDE, S.A., writes:—"The Earoscope you sent me has wrought a marvellous change in my hearing. The change is so pronounced that I feel it my duty to recommend it to all sufferers from deafness, in whatever stage it may be."

MR. J. SMITH c/o Mr. J. E. TOMLINSON, MALVERN, GRAVESEND, N.S.W., writes:—"I received the Earoscope (2) two weeks ago, and am delighted to tell you that my hearing came back to me again. I was at a dance last night, and the sweet air of the music sounded lovely, and very plain to my ears. I was also at a lecture, and was sitting in the back seat, and I heard every word quite plainly—something I have not done for years."

C. WOCKNER, Esq., Clapton, Rosalie, via JONDALYON, Q., writes:—"I am writing to tell you that the Earoscope is giving me every satisfaction. I was as deaf as a post, and after one week's treatment I can already hear my watch tick by putting it close to the ear—a thing I had not experienced for years."

MISS O. V. DOBSON, HILL VIEW FARM, CLUNES, N.S.W., writes:—"I received the Earoscope safely this morning. I also tried it, and find it quite pleasant to use, and it seems to be just what I want."

DAVID LINDSAY, Esq., of 98 VICTORIA-STREET, DARLINGHURST, N.S.W., writes:—"The Earoscope is certainly a wonderful treatment. I never expected to be cured, and it was a happy surprise after so many years of suffering. I thank you heartily, as you have made a new man of me entirely."

WM. ANDERSON, Esq. (77 years of age), of HAYCROFT, VIC., who was troubled with Deafness and other Aural complications for over 25 years, writes:—"The Earoscope has not only cured my Deafness and Head-noises, but also improved me in general. For years previous I had been troubled with heart complaint, and I am glad to say that even this heart failure has been cured with your Earoscope, and I feel now 10 years younger, and am stronger and brighter than I have felt for years."

HENRY E. SMITH, Esq., GREY-STREET, GLEN INNES, N.S.W., writes:—"After following the treatment with the Earoscope, in the left ear (for which I got it), I can hear the train a mile away. I found no trouble to use the Earoscope—it is quite simple and pleasant. I will do all I can for your treatment, as I think the Earoscope is worth its weight in gold."

W. P. J. MOONEY, Esq., Gympie, Q., writes:—"Your treatment was a God-send to me, and it is certainly a blessing to poor suffering humanity."

MRS. JENNY STUART, 62 BONDI-ROAD, WAVERLEY, N.S.W., writes:—"I am happy to tell you that I am now completely cured."

W. J. JACOBS, Esq., STANTHORPE, Q. (who was troubled for nearly 40 years), writes:—"I herewith gratefully wish to inform you that the noises have entirely stopped, and I have regained my hearing, so that I can hear ordinary conversation. I may state the right ear was totally deaf, and at my advanced age all my friends and myself think it marvellous."

Tit-Bit for Working horses.

MR. HARRY BRIGHTWELL, Carrier, Sydney, states:—

I have in steady employment forty draught horses. Whether ordinary fodder is cheap or dear, I find the horses never do so well as when I give them daily with their food a little Sunlight Oil Cake. About 1 lb. at least per horse per day mixed with other fodder makes their coats bright, and keeps them in good working condition. Sunlight Oil Cake is quite a "tit-bit" to working horses after they have been accustomed to it, and every horse ought to have from 1 to 2 lbs. of Sunlight Oil Cake each day. I am sure it pays horse keepers to use Sunlight Oil Cake.

SUNLIGHT OIL CAKE is a highly concentrated fodder with such a low percentage of moisture that a little of it is very satisfying to an animal.

SUNLIGHT OIL CAKE has a higher feed unit value than bran, pollard or maize. It has over double the feed unit value of chaff.

SUNLIGHT OIL CAKE is a tit-bit that horses relish; it keeps their stomachs in good order and their coats and condition soon shew where SUNLIGHT OIL CAKE is fed to them daily.

Even when grass is plentiful every horse should have "body" added to his food and nothing will give that "body" better than SUNLIGHT OIL CAKE.

ON THE LAND.

FARM AND STATION.

A NOTABLE COMMISSION.

HOME LIFE ON THE FARM.

Among the many notable directions in which President Roosevelt has turned his strenuous energy there are few that should be more prolific than the appointment of a commission on country life to investigate more particularly the social conditions of the rural community. The personnel of the commission should guarantee a report of great value, not only to the United States, but equally to this country. To place and keep a contented people on the land is the ideal of every great statesman, and Mr. Roosevelt has again demonstrated his claim to that designation. The natural law of life will ever result in the wholesome exchange of units between city and country, and it is well that it should be so, for it is mutually beneficial. Some of the finest characters that have figured in the world's story have emerged from the farm, have stepped out from the log cabin nesling in the forest, the pioneer's home in the mountain ranges into the strenuous turmoil of political and industrial life, and altered history. Similarly men have turned with grateful hearts from the stress and heat of the crowded city, and begun life anew on the land, with results as beneficial to their neighbours as to themselves. Free from the trammels of past influences and time-worn prejudices, they strike out a new furrow, and ofttimes prove to those who anticipated failures that in agriculture, as in all things, the old order must give place to the new.

But this is the greater side, the golden exchange that quickens a nation's pulse. Unfortunately there has been a less attractive feature, and for years we have seen a steady drain from the country, and generations of hardy rural manhood swallowed up in the overgrown city. None who have lived amongst or mingled with the people on the land can deny this is so. If President Roosevelt's commission shall teach us the ways and means to escape this drag on a country's prosperity it will have done a great work. "No nation," writes the President, "has ever achieved permanent greatness unless this greatness was based on the well-being of the great farmer class, the men who live on the soil; for it is upon their welfare, material and moral, that the welfare of the rest of the nation ultimately rests."

These are true words that should be imprinted in the minds of our legislators and others who would shape the destiny of this land. But let it be remembered that the President does not refer simply to the material, the pounds, shillings, and pence prosperity. "I doubt," he continues, "if any other nation can bear comparison with our own in the amount of attention given by the Government, both Federal and State, to agricultural matters. But practically the whole of this effort has hitherto been directed toward increasing the production of crops. Our attention has been concentrated almost exclusively on getting better farming. In the beginning this was unquestionably the right thing to do. The farmer must first of all grow good crops in order to support himself and his family. But when this has been secured the effort for better farming should cease to stand alone, and should be accompanied by the effort for better business and better living on the farm. It is at least as important that the farmer should get the largest possible return in money, comfort, and social advantages from the crops he grows as that he should get the largest possible return in crops from the land he farms. Agriculture is not the whole of country life. The great rural interests are human interests, and good crops are of little value to the farmer unless they open the door to a good kind of life on the farm."

Here we are getting at the basic necessity—attention to the home life on the farm. The question of keeping the young folks on the farm is one that has always attracted writers on farming matters, and it is little wonder, for they cannot but recognise its pressing urgency. Fortunately it is also attracting a steadily increasing proportion of our farmers themselves, and in this State alone there is to be noticed a welcome change in the surroundings and home life on hundreds of our farms. The farmer has begun to realise that the making of a home is greater than the making of money alone, and the old rough-and-ready style of yesterday is slowly vanishing. He realises that he and his are entitled to the comforts and conveniences of civilisation equally if not more so than any other section of our people. Needless to say, this fact is thoroughly understood by President Roosevelt, for he writes:—"It is especially important that whatever will serve to prepare country children for life on the farm, and whatever will brighten home life in the country and make it richer and more attractive for the mothers, wives, and daughters of farmers, should be done promptly, thoroughly, and gladly. There is no more important person, measured in influence upon the life of the nation, than the farmer's wife, no more important home than the country home, and it is of national importance to do the best we can for both. The farmers have hitherto had less than their full share of public attention along the lines of business and social life. There is too much belief among all our people that the prizes of life lie away from the farm. I am therefore anxious to bring before the people of the United States the question of securing better business and better living on the farm."

It is then to the brightening of the home life on the farm that we should give attention. This by no means overlooks the first essential duty of a State from an economic standpoint, the duty of seeing that land is available for the farmer's son when he is stepping out on the threshold of manhood. In this country at least we can feel that recognition of this duty is being forced upon our legislators, and that from the midst of party strife some equitable means to this end will resolve. But after that there is much to be done. While as a practical people we know that in countless cases circumstances prevent our farmers from doing much to better home conditions, circumstances that decree constant toil and struggle, resulting so often in the children being sickened with it all, and turning to the attractions that the city offers, we are not without confidence that the unlocking of our lands will also relieve these conditions. But there are also to be found thousands of homes where these conditions do not apply, and where much can be done to make the homestead a silken cord holding the young generation. While wise laws can help largely to this end, education and friendly social co-operation in our farming centres will perhaps be found to do more, with the result that a healthy, happy home life will be an attraction for the young folks, nullifying the glamour of the city, and our nation will be immeasurably richer, not only materially, which is the lesser end, but morally and physically.

ITEMS.

Applications called by the Queensland Department of Agriculture and Stock for the position of Government Dairy Expert, in succession to Mr. Thomson, have closed. It is understood that some twenty-five applications from all parts have been received, and these are now being scheduled for Cabinet consideration.

A Victorian landowner has found that the best way to deal with wild oats is to convert them into ensilage. The first silo on his property was put up to deal with a 150-acre paddock of wheat which had become badly affected. Early in the spring, instead of allowing the crop to ripen for hay, it was cut green, and the material before being given a chance to seed carted direct to the silo. If such a crop is left for hay it has to be ripe enough to prevent heating in the stack, and by that time the wild oats seed is so far advanced as to shake out on to the ground.

The Queensland pastoralists have been endeavouring to get a reduction in the railway rates for the carriage of live stock, on the grounds that it would facilitate the moving of live stock, and be the means of giving cheaper meat, while assisting the expansion of the meat export trade. One argument used was that the carriage of stock per ton was double that of certain lines of goods. It was mentioned that the cost of droving, if the roads were open, was less than the cost of carriage by rail. The latest information is that the request is not likely to be granted, as it is contended that in Queensland the rates on live stock are lower than those in any State, and that the prices of cattle are so high that the concession is not warranted.

Recent experiences of the veterinary officers of the Victorian Agricultural Department have shown the necessity for their being keenly alive to the danger of being outwitted. During the present season there have been sixteen instances in which horses previously rejected by one examining officer have been submitted at subsequent parades to other examining officers, either under the same name or under another name. Of course the object is either to trap the veterinary officers and bring them into ridicule, or to obtain a certificate for a horse already declared unsound. It has been decided that in future when any such cases are detected the guilty person will be deprived of the right of submitting any horses for examination in future.

Mr. Frank Wyndham, Tamworth, reports having sold Collymongle station, near Collarendabri, on behalf of Mr. Geo. M'Lean, at a satisfactory price, to Mr. H. A. Duncomb. The property comprised 12,332 acres freehold land, 19,153 acres c.p. land, 20,288 acres c.l. land, 30,180 acres 18th selection, 25 years to run, 33,840 acres improvement lease, 28 years, 22,603 acres p.o.l. and o.l. land, a total area of 138,396 acres; together with about 70,000 sheep, 50 horses, and 50 cattle.

THE WOOL TRADE.

MODERATE VOLUME OF BUSINESS.

Business has been confined to transactions by private treaty during the week, and the volume of trade has been of very moderate dimensions. A fair demand has existed for wools of good staple, and several lines have been placed at a parity with the rulings current at last week's series. The parcels available are mainly skin wools and passed-in lots from the last auctions; the vast bulk of the wools in store are being held for the public sales that open on Tuesday, October 6 next. Shearing is now proceeding apace, and wool is arriving rather more freely; there is still a considerable decrease, however, compared to the corresponding period last year. Moderate-sized catalogues are therefore likely to greet buyers when they meet for the transaction of public business on the first Tuesday of next month. If the season keeps open and rains occasionally fall, as it is greatly to be hoped that they will during the early summer months, the offerings will continue on the light side, and the decrease in the receipts of wool at the seaboard continue to show a falling-off compared to last year. Whether these climatic conditions obtain or not, the prospects this season as a whole are for a shortage. Hence the decrease that is shown in wool arrivals to-day may be gradually augmented. As an instance of decrease in some of the clips in Riverina, it may be mentioned that on one run, where about 130,000 sheep were shorn last season, only about 37,000 head were put under the machines this season. That is exceptional, and does not represent losses to that extent; for sheep were sent from the south and south-west to the north and north-west, and it is difficult to get them returned, owing to the insufficient trucks and haulage power on the railways. All the sheep, perhaps, are not wanted to be returned just yet, for feed is only fair in parts of Riverina, and unless rain falls within the next three weeks it will again be a period of anxiety for some sheep-owners and wool-growers. Perhaps better examples of the smaller numbers of sheep shorn on some Riverina stations this season compared to last are the following:—50,000 head last year, as against 17,000 this season; 62,000, as against 29,000; 57,000, as against 21,000; 56,000, as against 19,000; 64,000, as against 25,000; and so on. These figures are indicative of previous very adverse conditions, and must be taken into account in estimating the wool situation. Much of the wool from this State and Victoria will evidently be short and tender, while South Australia promises to have a good proportion of sound, well-grown wools. These factors are some set-off against the heavy supplies available at the forthcoming London sales. Moderate supplies here and heavy available quantities on the other side tend to equalise matters in growers' favour better than if huge quantities had to be lifted simultaneously at each end. Light offerings for some time to come should therefore be advantageous to wool-selling interests.

CURRENT SYDNEY QUOTATIONS.

Rates current for the principal descriptions of staple now available on the Sydney market may be quoted as follow:—

HAND TO MOUTH BUYING.

Under all the circumstances, keen interest is evinced in the forthcoming London sales. The total available quantity is 255,000 bales, of which 88,000 bales are held-over wools. Out of the quantity available 12,000 bales are to be held over, leaving about 243,000 bales, as compared with 96,000 for the corresponding series last year. Stocks in manufacturers' hands were never lighter, and as there is no increase showing in the world's output this season the outlook is not so bad as it might be. Trade generally is not too good; there are too many unemployed in Great Britain and the United States. If it were otherwise the available supplies at the forthcoming London series would not be a bar to an improvement. As it is, it is expected that the closing rates of the previous series will rule at the opening next week. How users have been holding off in the hope of bringing values down is alluded to in the Bradford "Observer" of August 14 last, wherein it remarked that "users come into the market only to satisfy their barest immediate requirements, and of course under such conditions they are not able to make any impression on rates." The offerings at the September-October London series since 1901 are as follow:—

Year.	Bales.	Year.	Bales.
1902	193,000	1906	102,000
1903	158,000	1907	96,000

ADELAIDE OPENS NEXT WEEK.

A contingent of representatives of Sydney buying-houses has left for Adelaide to attend the opening series in that selling centre on Thursday next. Large and attractive catalogues are expected to be submitted, and as there are no other selling fixtures to clash with the Adelaide auctions there should be a record attendance of buyers. News of the London opening will be through by that time, and the rulings on the other side will doubtless be reflected in the southern centre. With regard to the clip and prices an Adelaide selling broker, comparing it to the wools of the other States, says:—"In South Australia we are bound to have a preponderance of well-grown, sound wool, whereas the opposite is likely to be the case in the other States. The general expectation is that, although the wools from the other States were short and tender last year, they will be even worse this season, while in South Australia our wools have every appearance of being really well grown and sound. This is a distinct point in favour of South Australian clips selling at fairly good prices. With regard to the American demand, he said that American buyers took very little of South Australian wool until comparatively recently because the classing of the clips in days gone by was such that the American trade could not get what it wanted. Since the advent of more up-to-date classing the American buyers have been able to get the light-conditioned portions of the clip. As is well known, all wool going into the United States pays a duty of 11 cents per lb., hence wools heavy in condition are out of the question." Following upon the Adelaide sales come the opening of the weekly series in Sydney on October 6, a sale in Brisbane on October 10, and the opening of the weekly series in Victoria on October 12. The offerings and sales for the season to date in interstate centres are as follow:—

MODERN SHEARING.

Now that machine shearing is becoming general wet weather does not tend to prolong the removal of the clip as in the old days. The modern system is swifter, and leaves the sheep with a much more bare pelt than in the old style. How expeditiously a good team of machine shearers can go to work was exemplified at Alice Downs (Q.) this season. In three weeks and five days 70,538 were shorn by 27 to 28 men. They started on July 22 and finished on August 14 last. The average working day was 6 hours 44 minutes, and the average number of sheep shorn was 3526 per day. On four consecutive days 184½ sheep per man per day were machined, and the "ringer" put up 255 per day. This four days' shearing is claimed to be the biggest tally since the year 1892. The ringer earned £3 7s 11d on one day, and took a cheque for £43 3s 5d for the three weeks and three days, of a working day of 6 hours 44 minutes. Wolseley machines were used, and about 1000 bales stencilled with Whittington Bros.' brand. In the palmy days of hand shearing it would have taken at least six weeks to put the clip through.

BRADFORD TOPS QUIET.

According to our cable message of yesterday's date the Bradford top market was quiet, and prices were barely maintained. There was, however, no alteration in quotations. At the corresponding date last year there was a strong demand, improved inquiry; merino tops were at a high range of prices, and crossbreds were ruling at ¼d advance on the previous week's quotations. Compared to this week merinos were /6½ per lb higher; and /3 per lb higher than at the corresponding period in 1906. Crossbreds were within the region of /6 higher 12 months ago, but, unlike merinos, were ½d lower than at the close of September, 1906. How quotations compare may be seen as follow:—

64's (merino)	22½	29	26	27
Super 60's	22	28	25	26
Common 60's	21½	17½	18	19
46's (med. xbd.)	11½	17½	16	15
40's (coarse xbd.)	10½	16½	17½	17

With regard to the market on August 21 last, the "Observer" remarked that notwithstanding that a large proportion of machinery in the Bradford trade, including the whole of the combing, is this week standing idle, the tone of the market is by no means depressed. The stocks of wool in top-makers' hands are so small that there is no pressure to sell. On the other hand spinners are evidently working very close to the bone, and they are obliged to buy, it may be in small quantities, but in the aggregate sufficient to keep the market exceedingly firm. This is the case both as regards merinos and crossbreds. In the English trade there is a steady flow of small transactions, and although there is little life in the trade prices are steadily maintained.

SYDNEY WOOL RECEIPTS.

The arrivals of wool by rail and boat for the season to date as per daily wool manifests are as follow:—

	Bales.
By rail—
Corresponding period last year	133,234
Decrease	20,456
By sea—
From July 1, 1908, to Sept. 25	25,008
Corresponding period last season	26,709
Net seaboard decrease	22,159

WOOL SHIPMENTS.

Since last week's review five vessels have cleared the Sydney Customs for the United Kingdom and foreign ports, with an aggregate of 12,834 bales, as compared with six vessels, aggregating 19,219 bales, for the corresponding week last year. Of the destinations of the exports for the present season compared to last Germany shows an increase of about 6700, and the United Kingdom a decrease of nearly that number. Belgium shows a decrease of about 4000, and France 1400 bales. The vessels, with quantities for the week and totals to date, are as follow:—

	Bales.
Tropic, Sept. 18, for London	1,279
Wakool, Sept. 18, for London	3,031
Orotava, Sept. 19, for London	2,809
Durham, Sept. 22, for London and Continent	2,457
Australiac, Sept. 23, for Antwerp, Bremen, and Hamburg	3,258
Total since last review	12,834
Corresponding period last year	85,996
Decrease	2,656

SPECIAL LEASES.

DEPARTMENTAL EXPLANATION.

In connection with an article in these columns on September 7, in which it was complained that the general public are not made aware by the Department of Lands of any special reserves that may be obtained as special leases or occupation licenses, and that as a consequence those areas are secured by persons already in possession of large holdings, the department states that in all cases where a special lease of any large area is recommended by a land board the practice is to ask the district surveyor to give particulars of any areas already held by the applicant.

In case the applicant already holds a living area the district surveyor is at the same time asked to state whether there are any settlers in the locality with insufficient areas who would be glad to obtain the special lease as an adjunct to their holdings. Should it be found on inquiry that the applicant is a large landholder, and that there are one or more holders in the locality with insufficient areas who are desirous of obtaining the land, the practice of the department is to offer the special lease by tender, in order that each of the applicants may have an equal opportunity of securing it. One of the conditions under which the lease may be tendered for is that the Minister reserves to himself the right to refer the tenders to the local land board with a view to a report and recommendation thereon being obtained for his guidance in selecting the applicant whose tender should be accepted. This practice is also followed in cases where lands are offered for special lease on the motion of the department.

By the foregoing procedure the department considers that the claims of the "small man," the "landless man," and the general public receive every consideration. The department also states that special leases are not granted to large holders unless in very exceptional cases and for special reasons, such as destruction of noxious animals or weeds on lands adjoining or intervening between their holdings, which area it is necessary should be cleared for their protection, or in cases where access to water is required.

In all special leases granted a condition is inserted reserving to the Governor and Executive Council the right to terminate the lease upon giving the lessee 12 months' notice in writing to that effect. By this condition the lease can at any time be terminated should the land be required for residential settlement or for any public purpose.

In order to prevent holders of large areas from obtaining special leases by way of transfer, the Minister (Mr. Moore) has inserted a condition in such leases to the effect that the lessee shall not transfer the lease or sublet the land, or any part of it, before the approval in writing of the Minister has been obtained.

FRUIT-GROWERS' INTERESTS.

At a special meeting of the Council of the New South Wales Chamber of Agriculture the following items were decided upon for the agenda paper of the Fruitgrowers' National Conference, to be held in Melbourne on October 26:—

1. That any State legislation on fruit pests should contain a provision for the compulsory clearing of San Jose scale from orchards.

2. That this conference wishes to again draw the attention of the steamship owner to the rough handling in unloading and delivery of fruit on the wharves.

3. That the various railway authorities be requested to expedite the transit of fruit from the producing centres to the various markets.

LAND SETTLEMENT.

INCONSISTENCY OF LAND BOARDS.

Mr. H. R. M'William, Wagga Wagga, writes:—The Lands Acts and regulations provide that where conflicting applications are simultaneously made for the same land the land board shall decide upon those whom it considers to have equal claims to priority, and if several have equal claims then a ballot has to be held. Applicants are not required to attend the board unless they happen to be successful in securing a block. In deciding upon this priority some boards make a law unto themselves, and throw out applicants who do not attend, no matter how good their qualifications. This course seems to have been adopted at a recent Boorowa ballot. In other districts the boards appear to be afraid of appeals upon technical points, and they consequently throw out all applicants whose declarations have not been witnessed by a justice of the peace, although section 14 of the Act of 1889 allows an error of this kind to be remedied. In a very recent ballot an applicant with a plant and capital valued at £1000 was thrown out for this reason. He had formerly been an applicant before the same board, and had been allowed in numerous ballots. Then, again, some boards let in applicants with scarcely enough capital to pay the first year's rent. For instance, in a ballot held about three months ago one successful applicant was possessed of nothing but £20 cash, and with this he had to fence over 1000 acres, put up a home, make a water supply, and pay over £250 for improvements, besides pay the expenses of living, until the land returned him some benefit. Applicants such as these invariably break down, or become dummies or mere speculators. The Wagga board has adopted the wise system of rejecting all Victorian applicants who hold land in Victoria on the principle that if a New South Wales applicant who holds land is debarred from making an application it is only equitable that the same should apply to a Victorian. As there is no appeal against the board's decision as to who shall or who shall not be admitted to ballot the principle of the Wagga Board in this respect should be followed by all the land boards. This is not done, however, for at Dubbo last week we had the amazing spectacle of an applicant winning a conditional purchase lease on Terramungamine holding who holds 1780 acres of freehold land, valued at £6 per acre. His application was confirmed, yet there were fully 100 disappointed applicants for the same land who had never held an acre of land in their lives, and whose claims to priority were certainly far greater than his. I cannot see how any board could have found that this man had equal claims to priority with the other applicants. What a lesson in the rottenness of our land settlement system have we had during the past fortnight. In one week a fine stamp of settler, struggling by share-farming to make a living, is successful at ballot for a block of 1200 acres, but he is incompetent to hold it simply because in his thrifty way he purchased a country lot of two acres; yet a Victorian with 1780 acres, worth over £10,000, is allowed to hold a similar lease. What a farce!

In the same ballot with this wealthy Victorian were several female applicants, whose parents desired to start them in life, and were able to do so, some living hundreds of miles from the land in question, and therefore no question of dummying would be likely to arise; but, although the law allowed them to apply, and they were to be amply assisted, they were not allowed to ballot. Where is the consistency of the board? The Victorian already provided with land seems to have had even less claim to priority than these female applicants. When the present system of balloting first came in vogue the boards in some cases adopted a drastic culling process, and there can be no doubt by that means a first-class lot of settlers were secured. Mr. Ashton, however, yielded to the popular cry, and modified the regulations somewhat, so that now we find very often the weakest of the applicants successful. There are too many speculators, storekeepers, lawyers, agents, hotelkeepers, and ill-equipped farmers admitted to the ballots. Many applicants only desire to secure the land because they can, in from three to five years, with the Minister's consent, sell at a very considerable profit on the cost of improvements. The men we want to settle on our Crown lands are not those able to buy farms outright, nor those who would for years be struggling on in poverty, or waiting for a chance to sell, but the man who has by share-farming or the renting of land put together a good plant and a small reserve of capital. Such a man is invariably a success on a new selection, and he seldom wants his rents deferred or other assistance from the Crown. The Minister would not be wasting time if he gave a little attention to the present ballot system and its inconsistencies.

EXPORT OF INFERIOR FRUIT.

The Minister for Agriculture has been shown some samples of mandarins submitted for export to New Zealand, and the inspector, when handing in his report, stated that 20 per cent. of the fruit intended for export was of the character submitted. At first glance the fruit might be taken for very indifferent cumquats, but they were tendered as mandarins, and a more miserable collection of indifferent quality fruit, the inspector stated, it would scarcely be possible to see, some being of the size of marbles. The marvel is that anyone would attempt to dispose of such stuff either locally or elsewhere, and if in the past it has been customary to ship such produce between any of the States, the Minister is satisfied it was high time proper regulations were brought into force in connection with the export of fruit. A continuance of the export of such stuff must, unavoidably, bring the State into disrepute as a fruitgrowing one.

LIABILITY FOR A FENCE.

"J.B.B." writes:—A and B have each a block of land, divided by a reserve road, which is not used. The existing dividing fence, which is on B's land, and which he erected 28 years ago on his side, is worn out, and requires renewing. A says that as the road divides the land he will not fence. Can B erect a new fence on his own side of the road the full length of boundary, and recover half cost, provided A uses the fence, that is, by stocking his paddock?

2. Does not the fact of him stocking his land, and his stock being kept out of B's land by the fence hold him liable for using B's fence?

3. Can B recover the cost of A's share of fence through the local land board. Failing to be compensated for the fence, what would be the best means to use to get him to fence?

The Lands Department supplies the following replies:—

1. "B" has not any claim against "A" for contribution to a fence on boundary referred to.

2. No.

3. Under the circumstances stated, No. Bring under the notice of the district surveyor that A has enclosed the road without authority. Section 26, Act 1903, provides, "where permission to enclose a road is granted the side of such road shall be deemed to be a common boundary line, within the meaning of section 141 of the C.L.A., of 1884. A claim before the land board could be made under the last mentioned circumstances.

DISEASE AMONG HORSES.

LOCKHART, Thursday.

The disease which has lately been so prevalent in Melbourne among horses has made its appearance in this district. It has been erroneously called influenza. Mr. Hepburn, veterinary surgeon, describes it as laryngitis, frequently followed by pneumonia, and is accompanied by a swelling of the neck. The disease has every appearance of strangles, and horse-owners are liable to be misled.

THE ORCHARD.

ORANGE.—A meeting of the members of the Orange Fruit-growers' Association was held on Thursday, a large number of representative orchardists attending. The letter of the Commissioners, intimating that a special fruit train would be provided in the summer time able, commencing on October 18, leaving Orange at 10.5 p.m., and arriving at Sydney at 10.5 a.m., was received. This, the meeting considered, would be quite unsuitable to the orchards, and detrimental to them, as it meant that the fruit would not be available for market, after time had been spent in shunting and releasing it. The market would be lost, and the fruit, particularly the soft kinds, detrimentally affected. It was resolved to ask the Commissioners to reconsider their proposal, and arrange that a fast goods train should leave Orange between 4 and 6 p.m. daily, and reach Sydney before 6 a.m., Sydney being suggested, as it was easier to release the consignments there than at Darling Harbour, which was generally congested. A petition in the terms of the resolution was drafted and signed, and will be presented to the Commissioners by the member for the district.

CONSERVING FODDER.

GILGANDRA.—Farmers continue to evince a keen interest in experiments with fodder plants, with a view to determining what variety or varieties are best adapted for this district. Mr. A. Mortimer, of Lockwood, is conducting them on a fairly large scale. He is carrying them out on red soil, trying lucerne, Hungarian oats, millet, Johnstone grass, Rhodes grass, paspalum, and Phalaris commutata. The results will be looked for by many who feel that nature must be assisted if regular supplies of food are to be assured for stock.

DAIRYING.

CESSNOCK.—Mr. C. Pederson, dairy instructor, from the Department of Agriculture, is at present in the district lecturing in the various centres on dairying.

THE SHEARING.

GILGANDRA.—The majority of the sheds in the Bramble district have cut out. The fleeces are keeping up to the favourable average of last season, which must prove the great stamina of the sheep, when the exceedingly dry time they passed through during last winter is considered. The cold snap on Sunday and Monday last was hard upon the machine-shorn animals, but, fortunately, it was of short duration.

PARKES.—Wool is commencing to arrive at the local railway station. Several loads of the Curra clip have passed through town during the week. Shearing, which has been delayed in some places owing to the weak condition of the sheep, will be general by the end of the month.

SOCIAL.

The weather has been most trying, both alike to constitution and to temperament, during the past week, and in Sydney we have experienced the cold of winter and summer heat within the space of a few days. The gardens, which are in many places looking their best with such an abundance of glorious spring flowers, have suffered much by the strong winds, and human beings have also been affected by them, and severe colds and influenza are consequently in our midst.

The coming fortnight promises to be a continual round of festivities, and already the town is full of visitors, preparing for the Spring Meeting of the Australian Jockey Club at Randwick and the many social entertainments which have been arranged.

Their Excellencies the Governor-General and the State Governor have given their patronage to, and signified their intention of attending, an entertainment to be given by the members of the "Stage Society" in aid of funds for establishing "pure milk depots" or "infants' milk dispensaries," as proposed at a recent meeting at Government House. The "Stage Society," which has recently been formed, will give a matinee performance of Ibsen's "Doll's House" at the Palace Theatre about the middle of October, when the part of Nora will be taken by Frau Elsa Buhrow. The Lady Mayoress, as president of the committee, is making arrangements for the success of the undertaking.

On Tuesday afternoon Lady Poore gave the second of a series of garden parties at Admiralty House, and again the weather was all that could be desired. The guests were conveyed across from Man-o'-war Steps in launches and pinnaces, and were received by Lady Poore on the lawn, Flag-Lieutenant Fisher being in attendance. Tea was served in the dining-room and on the verandah, and the band of the flagship was stationed on the lawn, and played a bright selection of music. Amongst the invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Reid, Sir Francis and Lady Suttor, Miss Suttor, Captain and Mrs. Napier, Dr. and Mrs. Scot Skirving, Mrs. C. B. Stephen and Miss Stephen, Mr. and Mrs. Rutledge, Rev. J. H. and Mrs. Maclean, Mr. and Mrs. H. Levy, Mrs. and Miss Christian, Mr. and Mrs. Currie Elles, Mr. and Mrs. Learoyd, Dr. and Mrs. Pockley, Mrs. and the Misses Garran, Mrs. and Miss Maiden, Mr. Justice Pring, Rev. J. and Mrs. Stiles, Mrs. Antill, Mr. Mrs. and Miss Blaxland, Dr. and Mrs. Cordeaux, Miss Dickenson, Mr. and Mrs. Dobbin, Mrs. and the Misses Garvan, Mr. and Mrs. Gollin, Miss B. R. Jennings, Dr Mrs. and Miss Kirkland, Mrs. and Miss Maiden, Mrs. and the Misses Macnamara, Mrs. and the Misses Ranken, Mrs. Campbell Riley, Mr. and Mrs. C. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Bode, Mr. and Mrs. Cross, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. Hickson, Mr. Mrs. and Miss Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Lumsdaine, Dr. and Mrs. Munro, Mr. and Miss Cohen, Mr. Mrs. and Miss Harris, Mrs. J. Clarke and Miss Slaney, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Roberts, Miss Stanger Leathes, Miss Venables, Miss Alice Norton, Dr. and Mrs. Guy Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Youl, Mr. and Mrs. Rich, Mr. and Mrs. Rabett, Senator Neild, Dr. and Mrs. Odillo Maher, Dr. and Mrs. Hinder, Mr. and Mrs. R. Allen, Mr. Barraclough, Dr. and Mrs. Chisholm, Captain and Mrs. Green, Mr. and Mrs. Lucy, Mr. Mrs. and Miss Russell, Dr. and Mrs. A. Cox, Mrs. and the Misses Pockley, and the captains and officers of the warships in port. Lady Poore wore a cream chiffon face cloth, ornamented with cream soutache braid and a touch of turquoise blue on the bodice, the toilette being completed by a white chip hat, trimmed with lace and a long white feather, and a white feather boa.

A delightful little dance was given by Lady Poore at Admiralty House on Wednesday evening, when she entertained about 70 guests, principally young people. The weather was beautifully fine, and the gardens and grounds looked most picturesque, lighted as they were with Chinese lanterns and numerous fairy lamps. Lady Poore wore silver grey moire, with steel and silver guipure trimmings, and a bertha of fine lace. The double drawing-room was converted into a ballroom, and the band of the flagship was stationed on the verandah, and played through the programme of dances. The refreshments were served in the hall, and supper in the dining-room, where the tables were beautifully decorated with pink and white azaleas. Flag-Lieutenant Fisher was assiduous in his attentions to the guests, amongst whom were Miss Rawson, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wesche, Mrs. Cunningham and Miss Cunningham (debutante), Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Tremayne Rodd, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert, the Misses Vera Simpson, Gummow, Lue Dowling, Campbell (2), Robinson (2), Dorothy Owen, Muriel Dangar, Willis, Ryrie, Street, M. Thompson, and Clark, Captain Wilson, Captain Prowse, R.N., Captain Fyers, Captain Cobbe, R.N., Captain Nunn, R.N., Colonel Kappe, Captain Glossop, R.N., Messrs. C. Manning, K. Bennett, C. Parbury, B. Ryrie, Wyatt Rawson, and many naval officers.

The conversazione given by the members of the Royal Society in the great hall of the University last Tuesday evening was largely attended, and proved most enjoyable. The entertainment differed from similar gatherings, inasmuch that many rare and most interesting exhibits were on view, including not only scientific objects and microscopic views of vegetable and animal life, but a delightful collection of pictures from the Mitchell Library, many views of old Sydney, some historic books relating to the early days of Australia, and a valuable collection of gourds, some of the latter beautifully carved. One case contained valuable Chinese curios and old miniatures, another a collection of coins, and in the centre of the hall was a display of beautiful flowers; one table was a mass of orchids, azaleas, and other cultivated flowers, whilst on another were numerous specimens of our wild flowers. During the evening a selection of music was played on the organ at intervals by Mr. J. F. Lydall, and this, combined with the interest taken in the various exhibits, made the time pass most quickly and pleasantly. Some of the visitors attended short lecturettes in the laboratories, given by Professor Schofield and Professor Haswell. The guests were received by the president of the Royal Society, Mr. W. M. Hamlet, and the members of the reception committee. The company included the Vice-Chancellor of the University (Dr. W. P. Cullen) and many professors and students connected with the University, also Sir James and Lady Fairfax, the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress, Professor and Mrs. Wilson, Judge and Mrs. Backhouse, Dr. and Mrs. Ashburton Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. A. Lee, Judge Docker, Mrs. Fitzharding, Mr. and Mrs. Trebeck, Dr. Mary Booth, Miss Ranken, Miss Garran, Miss Flower, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Selfe, Mr. and Mrs. Kent, Mr. Barraclough, Mr. and Mrs. Kirkcaldie, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Maiden, Professor Pollock, Miss Pollock, Mr. P. Faithfull, Mr. and Mrs. Julius, Mr. and Mrs. C. Ross, Dr. and Mrs. Maguire, and Dr. and Mrs. Greig Smith.

The marriage of Lieutenant Alfred Englefield Evans, R.N., H.M.S. Powerful, second son of the late Dr. Evan William Evans, with Miss Christina Somerville Macneil, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Macneil, Fairlight, Edgecliff-road, took place at the Presbyterian Church, Woollahra, on Wednesday afternoon, September 23. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ronald Macintyre, in the presence of a large number of spectators. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a princess dress of soft white satin, with a coat of lace edged with bebe roses, and a wreath and veil which had been previously worn by the bride's mother. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley, and also wore a gold bangle set with pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. Miss Gladys Bowker acted as bridesmaid, and wore a semi-Empire dress of white silk muslin over white silk, the bodice trimmed with embossed filet net; her muslin and lace "Corday" hat had touches of black velvet, and she carried a beautiful bouquet, which, with a gold bangle, was a gift from the bridegroom. Lieutenant Clinton F. Danby, R.N., H.M.S. Powerful, was best man. The church was decorated with festoons of white clematis, suspended over the aisle from the hanging lamps in the centre of the building, and each pew was ornamented with tall palms, trails of clematis, and white lilies, the pillars being decorated with arum lilies and their handsome leaves. A charming effect was given by the red and white ensigns draped in the chancel. Owing to a recent family bereavement there was no reception after the ceremony. As the happy couple left the church the bridegroom's brother officers formed an arch of steel with their swords in the aisle, beneath which Lieutenant and Mrs. Evans had to pass, and a number of blue-jackets drew the motor car in which they were seated from the church to the residence of the bride's parents in the Edgecliff-road. Lady Poore, accompanied by Flag-lieutenant Fisher, Captain and Mrs. Napier, Captain Prowse, Mrs. Bramsden, Mr. and Mrs. Grenville Miller, a few intimate friends, and many naval officers were present at the church. Amongst the numerous wedding presents received were a travelling clock from his Excellency the Governor, a set of books from his Excellency the Admiral and Lady Poore, a silver cigar box from his wardroom officers, H.M.S. Powerful, a silver urn from his foretop men, and a case of fish knives and forks from the warrant officers of the flagship.

Another naval wedding took place last Wednesday, September 23, when the marriage of Lieutenant Kenneth Bowring Toms, R.N., H.M.S. Challenger, and Miss Sara Morgan-Martin, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Morgan-Martin, Alberto-terrace, Darlinghurst, was solemnised. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. C. Beck at St. John's, Darlinghurst, the church being beautifully decorated with greenery and white arum lilies. The bride was given away by her father, and wore a dress of soft white satin with transparent yoke of lace and touches of silver, the skirt being slightly draped, and her plain tulle veil was arranged over a wreath of orange blossoms. Her diamond and pearl pendant and beautiful bouquet of choice white flowers were gifts from the bridegroom. There were three bridesmaids in attendance—Miss Bertha Brady and the Misses Grace and Marjory Morgan-Martin (the bride's sisters). They were dressed alike—in semi-Empire dresses of white ninon over white satin, trimmed with filet lace. Their Charlotte Corday hats of white silk-spotted net were trimmed with pink roses and white lace, and they carried bouquets of pink roses, tied with pale blue ribbon, and wore gold cable bangles, the gifts of the bridegroom. Lieutenant Terry, R.N., H.M.S. Challenger, was best man, and Lieutenant Harri Foster, R.N., the groomsman. After the ceremony Dr. and Mrs. Morgan-Martin held a reception at Killoutan, Challis-avenue, Potts Point (kindly lent for the occasion by Mrs. Maxwell), the bride and bridegroom's carriage being drawn from the church to the house by a number of blue-jackets from H.M.S. Challenger. About 70 guests were present, amongst whom were Captain de Costa, R.N., and officers of H.M.S. Challenger, Dr. and Mrs. Brady, Mrs. and Miss Russell French, Mr. and Mrs. Rabett, Miss Maxwell, Mrs. Arthur Dowling, Miss Street, the Misses Dangar, Mr. and Mrs. Tremayne Rodd, Miss Barton, Miss Dorothy Dibbs, Mrs. M'Cabe and the Misses M'Cabe, Dr. and Mrs. Worrall, Miss Higgins. The band of H.M.S. Challenger played on the lawn, and added to the pleasure of all visitors. Later in the afternoon Lieutenant and Mrs. Toms left for a short honeymoon at Stanwell Park, the bride's travelling dress being a blue linen coat and skirt, and a blue hat with forget-me-nots and roses. The bride and bridegroom leave for England next Saturday in R.M.S. Orontes.

Mrs. R. R. Terry, who is leaving for England to-day in R.M.S. Victoria, was "at home" to a large number of friends at Springfield, Darlinghurst, last Tuesday afternoon, when she took the opportunity of wishing them good-bye. Tea was served on small tables, placed about the garden beneath the shade of the trees, so that the gathering took the form of an enjoyable garden party. Amongst those present were Lady Harris, Mrs. Hugh Dixson, Mrs. and Miss Airey, Miss Tully, Mrs. and Miss Christian, Mrs. and the Misses Ranken, Mrs. and the Misses Ivey, Mrs. Currie Elles, Mrs. and Miss Cowlishaw, Mrs. Muller, Mrs. and Miss Friend, Mrs. Cartwright Ashe, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. and the Misses Paul, the Misses Russell, and many others, some of whom left early to attend the garden party at Admiralty House, whilst others came later, after attending Lady Poore's "at home."

A successful meeting was held at the Town Hall, Camperdown, recently, when about 25 ladies responded to the invitation of Mrs. Gilpin (Mayoress) and met to discuss the best means of endowing a cot at the above institution, to be known as the "Camperdown" cot. Mr. Clarence R. Moss addressed the meeting on behalf of the hospital. It was decided to form a branch to organise methods of raising the amount required, namely, £30. The following office-bearers were elected:—President, Mrs. D. Gilpin (Mayoress of Camperdown); vice-president, Mrs. Wallace; secretary, Mrs. Preston; treasurer, Mrs. Sandbrook; and a working committee, consisting of the ladies present, with power to add to their number.

To welcome Miss Ada Crossley, who is expected to arrive in Sydney to-morrow, the musical societies of Sydney have issued invitations to a reception in the Town Hall on Monday, and on Wednesday Miss Crossley will be the guest of the members of the Girls' Realm Guild at Baumann's rooms.

There was a large gathering of visitors at the Royal Art Society's rooms on Monday evening, when Miss Gertrude Palmer arranged an enjoyable concert, to which she contributed several pianoforte pieces. Songs were rendered by the Misses Playfair (2), Geraldine Rivers, and Middenway. Mr. W. J. Grieves played the violin, Mr. G. F. Wilkinson sang, and so did Mr. P. Herford. Miss Aileen Neil whistled, and humorous recitals were given by Miss Bird, and picture poems by Mr. George Taylor. Amongst those present were Mr. and Mrs. Lister, Mr. Cook, Miss Cook, Mrs. Dane, Miss Sydney Jones, Dr. and Mrs. MacLaurin, Mr. Deck, Mrs. Learoyd, Miss Fiorelli, Mr. Grainger, Mr. and Mrs. Hadfield, Judge Heydon, Miss Ducker, Miss Danvers, Miss Robson, Mrs. Walters, Mr. and Mrs. Addison Freeman.

The thirteenth annual ball of E Company, 3rd Infantry Regiment, was recently held at the Oddfellows' Hall, Lithgow, and proved a great success. Dancing began shortly after 8 o'clock, when Captain Barton, officer commanding E Company, led the grand march, which was in charge of Sergeant M'Gann, one of the masters of ceremonies. Between 90 and 100 couples were present, also a large number of spectators. Captain Barton was president of the ball committee, Colour-sergeant Doherty treasurer, and Sergeant M'Gann secretary. Among those present were Majors Kirkland and Baxter, Mr. J. Dooley, M.L.A., and Lieutenants Roper and Thompson.

The sixth annual ball given by the pupils of Prof. and Mrs. Holst was held at Leigh House Academy, Castlereagh-street, on September 14, when about 100 were present. The drawing-room and the ballroom were decorated with large palms and pot plants.

At Dubbo on September 16 a linen tea was held at the District Hospital to provide linen requisites for the new wing. The entertainment was in every way a success, the ladies of the town and district responding most heartily to the invitation, and the function took the form of a pleasant social gathering. The Dubbo Orchestra gave their services, and rendered several selections, and songs were sung by Mrs. Hankin and Miss Irvine, and were much appreciated. Afternoon tea was served in the large ward, after which the National Anthem by the orchestra brought the afternoon to a close. The promoters were Mesdames Chrystal, J. S. Sherry, and Miss Toumey.

The ice carnival at the Glaciarium on Thursday evening presented a most picturesque scene, and although there were not so many teams as on previous occasions, there were about 350 skaters, all of whom were in fancy dress, and the standard of the dressing was on a higher and better scale. The programme included exhibitions of fancy skating by Professors Allander and Langley and Miss Dent, the procession of teams, led by Mr. Dunbar Poole, a burlesque hockey match, a potato race, and waltz skating. The teams included the "British Empire," "Early Victorian" (to whom the first prize was awarded), "Fishermen and Fisherwomen," "Postmen," and the ladies effectively dressed as "Pillar Post Boxes," "Nurses," "Tennis Players," "Shamrocks," "Showmen," "Tramps," and two "Pink Carnations," all of whom went through the many and intricate evolutions in an admirable manner. Every fancy dress imaginable was represented by those who skated, and the kaleidoscopic appearance was bright and amusing all the evening. There were very few falls, and the skaters showed great proficiency, and a marked improvement since the opening of the season, which closes at the end of this month. The carnival was witnessed by a large number of spectators.

The opening of the new kindergarten rooms, arbors, and sports field at Riviere College, Woollahra, formed a pleasant function on Thursday afternoon, when a large number of visitors accepted the invitation of Miss Meares to a garden-party. Miss Meares welcomed the guests on the entrance lawn, about 300 being present. During the afternoon the pupils and the college staff provided an interesting programme of recitations, fancy dancing, songs, and lightning sketches. Afternoon tea was served in the orchard, fernery, and lawns. The guests included the Rev. Ronald Macintyre, Lady Fairfax, Miss Martin, Mrs. Braithwaite, Dr. and Mrs. Steer-Bowker, Dr. and Mrs. Collins, Mrs. Haycroft, Dr. Hipsley, Mr. and Mrs. J. Thomas, Misses E. and M. Glasson, Mrs. Binney, Mrs. H. Binney, Mr. and Mrs. Nash, Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins, Mrs. Hammond, Mrs. Wallace Mort, Miss Bloomfield, Miss Sherwin, Rev. Mrs. and Miss Fielding, Mrs. Cramp, Miss Pomeroy, the students of the Norland Institute, Misses Hall, Mrs. and Miss Collum, Mrs. and the Misses Summerville, Mr. Percy Marks, Mrs. Cullen Ward, Mrs. Leslie King, Mrs. Cowlishaw, Mrs. Ward, Rev. A. A. and Mrs. Aspinall, Dr. and Mrs. Terrey, Mrs. Davenport, Mrs. Foster, Mrs. Molyneux Parkes, Miss Brodsiak, the principal of St. Andrew's College, Mrs. and the Misses Harper, Dr. and Miss Kendall, Dr. and Mrs. Ludlow, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dowling, Mrs. and Miss M'Clure, Mrs. M'Cathie and Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Hooper, Mrs. Perry, Mrs. Levy, Mr. and Miss M'Menemin, Mrs. Latimer, Mrs. Sheldon, Mrs. Christian, Dr. Mrs. and Miss Quaife, Mr. and Mrs. Gollin, Mr. and Mrs. Gerber, Mr. and Mrs. Vivian, and Mr. and Mrs. Turner.

The third of a series of dances organised by Mrs. N. Greenwood in aid of the Jubilee Bazaar Fund of the North Sydney School of Arts was held early in September. On this occasion the gentlemen purchased tickets, whilst the ladies' invitation specified that an article of either plain or fancy needlework or a dressed doll was expected from the guest. Quite 200 attended, of which the larger number were ladies. The hall and stage were tastefully arranged and prettily decorated by Mrs. and Miss Dolton. The ladies' bazaar committee provided the refreshments. The entertainment was thoroughly enjoyed, and proved a success both socially and financially.

Mrs. H. C. Dannevig, who is leaving for Melbourne, entertained a large number of friends at a farewell tea on Tuesday, 8th inst, at the Women's Patriotic Club. An enjoyable afternoon was spent, and a musical programme was contributed by the hostess and Miss Toose, Mrs. Wilson, and other friends. Miss Sigrid Dannevig recited. The rooms were decorated with a profusion of spring flowers, and refreshments were served during the afternoon. Among the visitors were Mesdames Aurousseau, Baker, Cross, Perrier, Tighe, Saywell, Wilson, L. McLeod, McLeod, Youl, Bradshaw, Richardson, Ferguson, Crane, Cooke, Willington, the Misses Willington, Toose, Daniels, Lillian Frost, Apperley, McClelland, McConochie (2), Crane, Kenward, Tidswell, and Cross.

Under the auspices of the women's branch of the British Empire League, an entertainment was given in aid of the Veterans' Fund at the A.B.C. Rooms on Tuesday, September 8. It was arranged by Mrs. Malcolm Stephen, of the veterans' fund amusement committee, and a large number of guests (about 150) spent a pleasant evening. Amongst those present were Miss Margaret Harris, Mrs. N. Thompson, Mrs. Rutter, Dr. Grace Boelke, Mrs. Perry, Mrs. Maimer, Mrs. Ashcroft, Mrs. Monk, Miss Phillips, Mrs. Carey, and Mrs. Muggridge.

The "Iolanthe" dance organised by a committee of ladies and gentlemen was held at the Carlton Hall, Summer Hill, on Tuesday, 1st instant. The hall was tastefully decorated, the decorations being carried out chiefly in the committee's colours, red and white. There were about 80 visitors present, amongst whom were Mrs. Murton, Mrs. Daunt, Mrs. Thompson, Miss F. Gourlay, Miss E. Gourlay, Miss Murton, Miss Miriam Huntley, Miss M'Leod, Miss K. M'Leod, Miss Daphne Monday, Miss Meikle, Miss Armstrong, Miss Nall, Miss G. Nall, Miss Stephen, Miss Rayson, Miss Davis, Miss Thompson, Miss Gabriel, Miss Fewtrell, Miss Henry, Miss Maclean, Miss Withers, Miss Kent, Miss Wilson, Miss Walker, Miss Taylor, Miss Swete, also Messrs. M'Leod, and P. H. Moses.

On September 9, at St. Matthew's Church, Cumnock, William, youngest son of Mr. J. E. Marston, of Cumnock, was married to Emily Grace, second daughter of the late Mr. W. Hillan, of Happy Valley, Cumnock. The Rev. Canon Alldis, from Molong, officiated. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. S. Hillan, wore a light grey travelling dress, trimmed with insertion and bands of pale blue silk, the bodice being trimmed with applique, Valenciennes lace, and silk tassels; and a hat to match. Miss Ivy Hillan was bridesmaid, and Mr. T. M. M'Donnell best man. A reception was subsequently held at Happy Valley, the home of the Hillan family.

At St. Lawrence's Roman Catholic Church on Tuesday, September 15, a marriage was solemnised between E. J. Kevin, second eldest son of Mr. C. Kevin, of Ashfield, and Edith Mary Hutchinson, eldest daughter of Mr. G. F. Hutchinson (Mayor of Forbes). Dean M'Auliffe, assisted by the Rev. Father Casey, officiated. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a dress of crepe-de-Chine over glace silk; and the bridesmaids, Miss Kathleen Kevin and Miss Rene Hutchinson, wore pale green and pale pink silk muslin respectively, and carried bouquets of stocks and roses. Mr. Frank Kevin acted as best man, and Mr. Arthur Curtis was groomsman. The presents were numerous and costly. The wedding breakfast, and a dance in the evening, were held at the residence of the bride's parents.

A wedding was celebrated at St. Clement's Church, Mosman, by the Rev. Clive Yarrington, M.A., on Monday evening, 14th inst, when Stanley Bennett-White and Meta, eldest daughter of Mrs. Hayter, Wynholme, Mosman, were married. The bride, who was given away by her uncle, Mr. C. E. Parkinson, wore duchesse satin, trimmed with lace, tiny wedding bells of silk net, and silver tassels. Her veil was embroidered with silver thread and sequins. She carried a shower bouquet of white flowers, and wore a beautiful diamond and sapphire brooch, the gift of the bridegroom. The bridesmaids were Miss R. E. Parkinson, Miss May Mitchell, and Miss Enid Brown. Their frocks were composed of white lace over white silk and chiffon, pale blue ostrich plumes and aigrettes on their hair, and carried bouquets of Comtesse Berthe roses, which, with their turquoise matrix and pearl bangles, were presented by the bridegroom. Mr. Clive Hayter acted as best man, and Messrs. Proctor and Browne as groomsmen. After the ceremony about 120 guests were received at the Town Hall by Mrs. Hayter and her daughter, Mrs. Faithful-Davies. The hall was a blaze of light and colour, wedding bells being suspended over the bride's head, both where she stood receiving her friends' congratulations, and at the breakfast table.

On Wednesday, September 9, at St. Martin's Church, Kensington, the marriage of Doris, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Toomey, of Redfern, to Albert, eldest son of Mr. A. and Mrs. Love, of Kensington, was solemnised. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a dress of white Louisine silk and a picture hat of soft white silk and tulle, also a diamond and emerald ring, the gift of the bridegroom. She carried an Early Victorian posey of snowdrops and double white stock. Miss Winifred Toomey (sister) attended as bridesmaid, and was dressed in white Louisine silk and picture hat of blue chip and wistaria, her gold cross being the gift of the bridegroom. The wedding breakfast and reception were held at the residence of the bride's parents, where the happy couple received the congratulations of their friends standing beneath a large floral wedding bell. About 40 guests were present.

A wedding was celebrated at Holy Trinity Church on Tuesday, August 11, by the Rev. E. Colvin, when Mr. H. M. H. Jenkyn was married to Miss E. F. M. Anderson, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Anderson, late of North Sydney. The bride was dressed in a white Duchess satin, trimmed with fine lace, silver tissue, and silver tassels, and also wore a wreath of orange blossom, and an embroidered Brussels net veil. Her shower bouquet and a cable bracelet were gifts from the bridegroom. She was attended by two bridesmaids, the Misses Nellie and Jessie Anderson (sisters), who were prettily dressed in cream cashmere. They also wore gold and pearl brooches, and carried shower bouquets, gifts from the bridegroom. Mr. A. Munnery was best man, and Mr. George Anderson groomsman. After the ceremony the party drove to the residence of Mrs. J. Bennett, aunt of the bride, Dulwich Hill, where the breakfast was served, and about 60 guests entertained.

At the Bexley Methodist Church on September 2 William R. Scott, eldest son of Mr. A. Scott, of Strathfield, was married to Agnes Ward, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Taylor, of Bexley. A reception and breakfast were held in the school hall later.

ROYAL BLACK ASSOCIATION.

The Royal Black Association of Ireland has just celebrated its 37th anniversary. The religious service held in the Protestant Hall was largely attended, and addresses were delivered by the Grand Chaplain (Rev. O. H. Plomell) and the Rev. W. Woolls Rutledge. On Wednesday the anniversary celebrations were continued by a concert in the same hall, when two new banners were unfurled. The chairman, Bro. H. A. Browne, R.W.G.M., explained that the aims of the association were the advancement of the social, moral, and religious life of the community, and the exercise of a watchful interest over the political life of the country—their action at all times being governed by charity without bitterness to any creed or cause, and a determination to uphold liberty.

A HOT CHASE.

CONSTABLE AND SUSPECT.

Constable Surridge, of No. 1 Police Station, had an exciting chase on Thursday night after a man suspected of being in possession of jewellery reasonably supposed to have been stolen. The constable was standing in a second-hand shop, off Elizabeth-street, city, when a man entered the shop, and attempted to sell part of a gold watch chain. Surridge asked him where he got it from, and he replied that it had been given to him by a man in the street. Surridge informed the man that he was a policeman, and the would-be seller immediately ran off, with Surridge in hot pursuit. They raced along Elizabeth-street into Park-street, and from there into Commonwealth-street. The pursued then dodged down a lane, and into a public-house. Surridge followed, but the object of his chase slipped down another right-of-way, and emerged at the intersection of Elizabeth and Goulburn streets, where he ran into the arms of Constables Anderson and Hush.

He was charged at the Central Police Court yesterday with being in possession of jewellery reasonably believed to have been stolen, and was remanded.

ALLEGED GAMBLING.

A LICENSEE CHARGED.

Before Mr. Love, S.M., yesterday, at the Central Summons Court, Albert Read, licensee of the Glasgow Arms Hotel, Harris-street, was proceeded against on an information charging him with having suffered gaming to be carried on in his licensed premises on the 17th inst.

Mr. Mant (Crown Law Office) appeared for the prosecution; and Mr. Russell Jones for the defence.

Inspector Roche stated that he, with a number of police, visited the Glasgow Arms Hotel, at 8.55 p.m., on the 17th inst. Previous to entering, several officers were placed outside the premises in Harris-street, whilst witness, with others, entered by the side door in William Henry-street. Witness passed along a passage at the back of the bar to a door leading to a public sitting-room. When witness had been listening for a little while at the door, defendant's wife, who was serving in the bar, rushed over and tried to get to the door, but was prevented from doing so. She then coughed loudly. Sergeant O'Dea, who was at the door, remarked, "You have a bad cold, missus," and defendant's wife then left. Listening further, witness heard the chink of silver and the sound of voices in the room. He opened the door quietly, and saw a number of men sitting and standing around the table. Witness saw a man at the table who had a box (like a dicebox) in his hand in the act of shaking it. The box fell on the table, and two threepenny pieces rolled out of it. Some confusion ensued upon witness's entry, and a rush was made by some for the door and window, but they were prevented from getting out. On the table were coins representing £1 10s 2d in value. Witness prevented the money from being picked up. The licensee (defendant) was in the room holding a tray containing some empty glasses in his hands. To witness' question, "What is the meaning of this?" defendant replied, "I only came a few minutes ahead of you. I told them to stop." Witness said, "Stop what?" to which defendant replied, "The game." There were 12 others in the room, all tramway employees, eight of whom were in uniform. Some of these struck the numbers off their caps, and endeavoured to place them in their pockets. Each of the men denied that the money was his, as did also the defendant, and each also denied bringing in the box or the two threepenny pieces. The defendant added, "They are bound to deny bringing it here. I know nothing about it." On being questioned, the men replied that they had not seen any gambling in progress, whilst others asserted that they were there for the purpose of discussing the victimised tramway employees. Witness said that the game was known as the new two-up, which since the breaking up of the clubs was being played in public-houses and billiard-rooms.

Albert Read, licensee of the Glasgow Arms Hotel, Harris-street, said that on the 17th inst he left the hotel at about 7.15 that evening. He went to the railway station. Previous to going away four or five men were in the parlour, and he had been told by his wife that they had wanted the room for the purpose of holding a meeting with reference to assisting a victimised tramway man. On returning to the hotel, Mrs. Read told him that he had better go into the room and bring the glasses out which had been used by the men. Witness collected the glasses, and was in the act of coming out when Inspector Roche entered. He had no suspicion that gambling was in progress. Defendant said he had been a policeman. The first time he saw the dicebox was when Inspector Roche had it in his hand. He knew nothing about the new two-up.

To Mr. Mant: Witness could not account for his wife's agitation on the arrival of the police, except that it was natural for a woman to be excited at the appearance in her house of several burly policemen.

Prudence Read, wife of the defendant, stated that several men came to the hotel on the 17th inst for the purpose of securing a room for a meeting. She saw no gambling. Witness denied having coughed, and was certain that there had been no gambling.

William Frederick Lloyd, a tramway conductor, stated that he and several other tramway employees were at the hotel for the purpose of raising funds for a testimonial on behalf of a dismissed comrade. It was arranged that each should pay 2s 6d, and the money was placed on the table.

John Lamont, tramdriver, said that he attended a meeting at the hotel. He placed 2s as his subscription towards the testimonial on the table. There had been no gambling.

The case was adjourned until Wednesday next.

FOOD ADULTERATION.

At the Balmain Police Court yesterday, before Mr. G. H. Smithers, S.M., Eva Freeman was charged with selling pepper not of the substance and quality demanded. Mr. Reeder was solicitor for complainant, Mr. F. J. Paris, sanitary inspector, and Mr. R. H. Levien for the defendant, who pleaded guilty. Dr. Cooksey's (Second Government Analyst) certificate showed that there was nothing deleterious in the sample taken, but that it contained 50 per cent. of ground rice. A fine of £3, with £1 2s costs, was imposed, or the alternative of 21 days' imprisonment with hard labour.

DEBILITATION, NERVOUSNESS.

HOW HEALTH WAS RESTORED.

"When I first made the acquaintance of Clements Tonic, some twelve years since, I was living in Croydon," said Mrs. Edith Browne, of 63 Mount Vernon-street, Forest Lodge, "and my memory is so clear concerning the details of my illness that it seems only yesterday that I threw all my infirmities away."

"If you don't mind, I'd like you to give me an outline of your sufferings," remarked the writer. "How long were you ailing?"

"Quite eighteen months, and during that time I was treated by several doctors, besides being an indoor patient of a hospital for six weeks, from which institution I returned home as bad as ever, and it really seemed to me that I was never going to get well again. For a mother with a young family to be in such a plight as I was in is enough to break one's heart to contemplate. My nerves were in a shockingly bad state—fairly jangling together. The imaginations that filled my brain were simply hideous. If I slept at all, I would wake up from dreams that were always of a dreadful nature, and I'd find myself shaking from head to foot. For six months I could take only the lightest of food, and very little of that, so you may conjecture that I diminished in weight a good deal."

"Do you require to exercise discretion over your food now?"

"No, indeed, not since Clements Tonic cured me years ago have I had to bother what I ate, for it made my digestion so sound that it doesn't matter what I take, as I can digest all foods readily. If you can eat well, and digest your food, there is nothing wrong. That is my experience, at any rate, and so long as I can do that I shall continue to be the healthy and contented woman that Clements Tonic has made me. Up to the time of starting with that remedy, I suffered from sharp pains, which ran from my chest right through to my back. I was never without them also headaches and giddiness, and I don't suppose a woman ever lived who was more fretful than I used to be. And I was given to fainting bouts as well. All of a sudden a quivering sensation would pass through me, and off I'd go. I am firmly convinced there is nothing to approach Clements Tonic for curing the ills I have mentioned. It drove away those headaches, it completely abolished the pains from the various parts of my body, the fits of giddiness and faintness have died years ago, my nights became restful, and—yes, happiest achievement of all, my nervousness was entirely banished. So publish these facts in any way you prefer."

"It's an Ill Wind
That Blows Nobody Good."

The Late Season Means Extra Trousers Free At LOWE'S, Again!!

Yes, they say it's an ill wind that blows nobody good, and we generally find that what is bad for one man is good for another. That's the way in business, anyway.

The Spring season this year is very late, and just when men began to think about investing in Spring Clothes, a sharp snap of bitterly cold weather set in. The presence of this boisterous, wintry element put thousands of men off ordering new garments, and so business with us has been slack.

We could not anticipate such unusual weather conditions, and in any case our orders for materials have to be booked well in advance. Consequently we have had arriving all the Spring Suitings, and instead of being sold out with the usual promptitude, they have "hung fire."

OUR LOSS YOUR GAIN.

As fresh shipments are arriving constantly—there is a big lot in the harbor now—we must do something to move out the stock quickly. It never pays to let the store get congested, and deperate diseases require desperate remedies.

So we intend to pull up lost ground quickly by putting on again our popular offer of Extra Trousers Free with every suit to order. The offer starts TO-DAY, but, mind you, the time will be strictly limited. Spring days are here for sure now, and men will simply rush this exceptional chance. So for the next few weeks we will be booking three suits where only one would come in in the ordinary course of things. The unique opportunity of Extra Trousers Free will be certain to effect this result, and so the stock of goods will be brought to normal level.

Are you prepared to miss this offer? You must have a new suit for Spring, and here you can secure an extra garment for nothing.

On top of the splendid tailoring value we always give this offer is simply marvellous. Of course our profits are considerably reduced, but that suits us better than keeping more stock than we require.

Note: there are some people who may not be familiar with the famous Lowe Tailoring. Probably they will imagine that we take the value of these extra trousers out of the suit, or simply give a pair of cheap "slop" pants. But that is not our way. The offer is a genuine, straightforward one, and the trousers we give are well made to your order.

So Order Your Spring Suit Now.

To show how ridiculous it is to say that we take the value of the pants out of the suit let us tell you how that would work out. It takes 3¼ yards of material to make a suit, and if we reduced the value of the material by, say, 6d a yard, that would only amount to 1/7½. And the merest novice could detect that the quality had been reduced. So it does not come out of the material! Nor do we in any way skimp the work or linings. We are after your permanent patronage, and it would not pay us to let you have a suit that was not so thoroughly satisfactory that you would return with repeat orders.

The trousers we give free vary according to the grade of suit you select. The very lowest grade that we usually make to order is that for 12/6. If you have ever had a pair of these pants you'll know the value is solid. With high-priced suits you get an extra pair of trousers worth up to 18/6.

We assure you that Lowe's Tailoring is unexcelled in Sydney. We do a vast business, and have such a skilful organisation that we can profitably tailor clothes for considerably less than any other firm in the city. And the fact that we are content to work on small profits is another factor in our success. Every grade of suit we make is good quality, and would cost you fully a pound more from any other tailor. That's quite apart from the free trousers offer, so you see what a rare opportunity this is for you.

LOWE'S 95/ SUITS, WITH EXTRA TROUSERS FREE.

Here's a Stirring Testimonial To LOWE'S Fine Tailoring:—

"I received suit and extra trousers free, with which I am highly gratified. I consider them the best fit and the cheapest clothes I have worn yet.

"In reference to the extra trousers free, I fully expected a pair of 'slops,' but I can safely say they are equal in fit and finish to the suit. I shall recommend your firm to my friends, and you can depend upon my future custom.

"H.W.D., Warren."

The selection of materials is too wide for detailed announcement, but it includes a really beautiful assortment of all the very latest colors and designs. Browns, Greens, Silver Greys, and Purples are here in profusion, interwoven with many fancy designs of medium and wide stripes. The popular Zebra stripes, too, can be secured in any priced suit, though other tailors will not give you them unless you pay a high price.

In Serges, too, we have a very fine stock, specially made to our order. These will stand the sun and sea and wear like iron.

This Spring Showing is the best we have ever put forth, and we want you to come and see them. When ordering your suit we make it a condition that the extra pair of trousers need not be delivered for a few days after the suit. The rush will be so great that we will need this extra time.

We advise very early ordering, even if you don't want to take delivery of your suit for a while. You can select your material, pay the deposit, and have the finished garments delivered when it suits you. You thus secure the four garments at the price of three. The great point is to—ORDER NOW!

You run no risk when you order at Lowe's, for we absolutely guarantee you satisfaction. If everything is not to your liking you get your money back.

Country men should fill in the coupon below, and send right away for two big books of patterns and one of our measurement charts. We send thousands of suits away to men, who use these charts, and find them absolutely accurate. We pay the freight, too, on all suits.

Now, just decide the question at once. You surely want to take advantage of this great offer of Extra Trousers Free with Every Suit to Order? He that hesitates, you know, loses the chance.

Messrs. W. Lowe and Co.,
Sydney.
Please forward me your two big books of Spring patterns and your easy measurement chart.

THE NEW GOVERNOR-GENERAL.

LORD DUDLEY.

SOME VERY FINE PHOTOGRAPHS.

READ WHAT THE SYDNEY PRESS SAYS.

The "S.M. Herald" of Sept. 10, '08, says:—

"The Daily Telegraph" of Sept. 10, '08, says:—
"Besides the photograph of Lord Dudley, in plain clothes, which, we mentioned in our last issue, was taken by the Crown Studios on Tuesday, his Excellency was also photographed yesterday by Mr. Mark Blow, of the studios, in his Windsor uniform, and likewise was the prominent figure in a group of the official staff. In the single portraits Lord Dudley's military bearing is not only shown to advantage, but there is also a happy effect produced by the artist in the photograph being well lighted with graduated half-tones. All the pictures are splendid examples of the photographer's art, for which the Crown Studios should receive much credit. By 6 p.m. not only were the portraits on view, but also an enlargement of each, thus showing how expeditiously high-class work can now be executed by a firm having up-to-date appliances. The photographs are well worth inspecting at the Crown Studios, George-street."

The "Australian Star" of Sept. 10, '08, says:—
"On Wednesday the Earl of Dudley gave sittings—the first sittings he has given in Australia—to the Crown Studios. In one the Governor-General appears alone in uniform, and in the other he is surrounded by a knot of military officials. The grouping in this case is excellent, and, indeed, both of the photographs are examples of first-class work. A big enlargement of the group is to be seen in the Crown Studios."

The "Evening News" of Sept. 10, '08, says:—

THE IDEAL DAY AND NIGHT WEAR

FOR MAN, WOMAN, AND CHILD.

WHY?

Because it does not shrink.

Because it is the most durable of washing fabrics.

Because it is unique in make and reputation; there is no other cloth "just the same."

Because, as "The Queen," the leading ladies' paper, says, "It has borne the test of time."

THE CHURCHES.

The subject of the east window which will be unveiled and dedicated to-morrow at the morning service in St. John's Church of England, Balmain North, is "the Good Shepherd." The window is in memory of Miss Sarah Gooud, for years a communicant, choir member and Sunday school teacher of this church. The painted panels representing the four evangelists, which will be dedicated, are in memory of Miss May Hart, lately a Sunday school teacher and communicant.

St. John's Church choir, Balmain North, this week won the church choir competition at the Balmain Eisteddfod, and with it the Paling Cup. The choir won them also in 1907. This year at the recent Hurstville Eisteddfod the same choir won the choral competition and Eisteddfod Cup; also the church choir competition. They have thus apeared on five occasions, and won each time.

At a recent meeting of the old students' committee of the Moore Theological College satisfaction was expressed at the progress of the fund for helping students through their course. This fund was inaugurated at the jubilee of the college to help students by grants or loans of money who are desirous of entering the ministry, but cannot afford the full fees. The collectors, Revs. E. A. Colvin and C. C. Dunstan, are continuing their work, with a view to completing the £5000 originally aimed at.

The anniversary tea meeting of the Sunday school was held in the Protestant Hall, Myrtle-street, Sydney, when the superintendent, Mr. H. Weatherburn, was presented with an illuminated address and present of books by the teachers and scholars of the school. The address was read by Miss Annie Bloomfield, a senior scholar, while the presentation was made by Mr. G. Sawyer, one of the teachers, who spoke of the services given by Mr. Weatherburn as superintendent during the past eight years. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Lyons, of the China Inland Mission, delivered addresses on the work in China.

Rev. F. W. R. Newton, of Trinity College, Melbourne, has been nominated to the incumbency of Christ Church, Geelong.

On Thursday evening, at the Bourke-street Congregational Church, a service was held on the occasion of the ordination of Mr. Henry W. Whyte, B.A., who has been appointed by the London Missionary Society to Vizagapatam, South India. Rev. C. Whyte, father of the missionary, presided, and there was a large gathering of ministers connected with the Congregational Union. The Rev. Joseph King gave a description of the field of labour, the Rev. W. Cunliffe Jones asked the ordination questions, and Dr. Fraser delivered the charge to the missionary. To mark the occasion a social was tendered Mr. Whyte by the church on Wednesday evening, when he was presented with a bicycle for use in his sphere of labour. The district to which he has been appointed embraces a considerable area. The missionary leaves for India to-day by the R.M.S. Victoria.

The 25th annual meeting of the Sydney Women's Prayer Union was held in the large hall of Vickery's Settlement. There was a good attendance of members and friends. Mrs. Eadie Peters presided. The hon. secretary, Mrs. Avery, read a very encouraging report of the union. The treasurer's statement was read by Mrs. Chisholm (hon. treasurer); Miss Weber gave an account of the mission work of the society. A feature of the afternoon was a presentation made to Mrs. Burgess, who for 24 years has held the position of organist. The branch secretaries gave an account of their work, and Mrs. Mark Blow an address. Solos were rendered by Mesdames Backhouse, Davoren, Baker, Alderton, Warren, and Cann. Mrs. Warren and Miss Campbell were the accompanists.

The Rev. Luke Parr, organising secretary of the Church Society, has been on a visit to Kiama, Jamberoo, Shellharbour, Dapto, and Albion Park in the interests of the society. To these parishes collectively the Church Society gave a grant of £90 last year, and received £33 16s 6d in return.

Rev. Carl Schmidt, Methodist missionary, arrived from Germany on Monday, and left Sydney on Tuesday by the Prinz Sigismund for work in New Britain. Reports received from Rev. W. V. Bromilow, who is doing deputation work in New Zealand, show that his efforts are meeting with great success. He is making collections on behalf of mission boards. Rev. J. G. Wheen left on Wednesday for South Australia on a similar mission.

The Lachlan Presbytery refuse to be absorbed into the Bathurst Presbytery.

The new manse at Inverell will be opened on Wednesday, September 30, and that at West Wallsend on September 28. The Right Rev. the State Moderator, Rev. John Macaulay, M.A., will preside.

The standing committees of the General Assembly of Australia met on Tuesday in Melbourne. The delegates from New South Wales were the Revs. Dr. Clouston, A. McKinlay, R. E. Davies, R. Scott West, J. Kemp Bruce, Jas. Cosh, John Edwards, W. H. Ash, and Messrs. John Kirkland, W. S. Park, and Wm. Wood.

The Presbyterian congregation at Grafton have given a unanimous call to the Rev. David Brown, of Hornsby. Mr. Hugh Paton, evangelist, has been doing excellent work in the Cobar district.

The foundation-stone of the Beecroft church was laid on Saturday last by Mrs. Chorley, of Mount Pleasant, Cheltenham. It was announced on Saturday that the late Rev. J. R. Brotchie had bequeathed £250 towards the new church.

A sale of work organised by the ladies of the Shoalhaven congregation with the view of clearing off a debit balance on the treasurer's account from last year, was held in the school hall on Friday, September 11. The result was most satisfactory; £38 was realised, and goods left over are expected to considerably augment that sum. In the evening, a musical programme was given by the choir, under the leadership of Mrs. Oliver. Vocal and instrumental items were also given.

Anniversary services were conducted at Eskbank on Sunday, 13th, by the Rev. Dr. Clouston. The weather was somewhat boisterous, but, notwithstanding, large congregations assembled. On Monday, 14th inst, a tea meeting and concert was held in the Oddfellows' Hall. Altogether, about 400 attended the tea.

The Campbell-street branch of the Young People's Mission Band held a succesful sale of work in the Lecture Hall on August 7 and 8. The sale was opened by the Mayoress (Mrs. W. J. Laws). Late on Saturday night, the Rev. J. F. Blair announced the takings to be over £43. Competitions were held, and musical items rendered in the evenings.

After a ministry of five and a half years Rev. J. Henwood Toms has intimated his decision to relinquish the pastoral care of the Manly Congregational Church early in December.

Rev. Father Luigi Sturzo died at Loyola, Greenwich, on Thursday week. He was 82 years of age, and had been 68 years a Jesuit, being received into the order when he was only 14½. Father Sturzo was a Sicilian, and lived in practical retirement at Loyola. The almost total loss of sight prevented him from doing work for which he was otherwise physically capable. Father Sturzo's remains were taken to St. Mary's Church, North Sydney. A Requiem High Mass was celebrated. About fifty priests assisted. The Right Rev. Monsignor Carroll, V.G., presided. The Rev. Dr. Burke, the Rev. M. A. Flemming, Very Rev. P. Keating, of St. Xavier's College, Kew, Melbourne, Rev. T. Claffey, Rev. E. Corish, Rev. George Kelly, Right Rev. Monsignori O'Brien and O'Haran, the Very Rev. T. Gartlan (Rector of St. Ignatius' College), the Very Rev. J. L. Begley, Very Rev. P. Treand, Very Rev. T. Fay (Rector of St. Aloysius' College) were amongst those present. Father Sturzo was buried in the Gore Hill Cemetery.

The Rector of the Irish College, Rome, Monsignor M. O'Riordan, recently presented to the Pope the jubilee offerings from the Diocese of Maitland, amounting to £460. The Pope sent through Monsignor O'Riordan the apostolic blessing to the bishops, priests, and laity of the diocese.

On the occasion of the annual open-air service under the "Gospel Oak" at Polstead (Suffolk) a congregation of nearly 800 assembled, many coming from London. The sermon was preached by Rev. J. H. Beibitz, vice-principal of Litchfield College, and the church choir and a band of music led the singing. The Gospel Oak is one of the oldest oak trees in Suffolk, and stands in the centre of the parish. Five feet from the ground the oak, which is somewhat decayed, is about 34 feet in girth; and local tradition says it is the tree under which the Christian missionaries preached to the heathen Saxons A.D. 649-700.

English Church papers are remarkably unanimous in finding the conclusions of the Lambeth Conference somewhat unsatisfying (says an exchange). One of them sees "signs of a nervousness and timidity which are not creditable to the bishops as a body;" another is constrained to admit that "indecision, and even downright weakness, may be detected here and there;" while a third great organ of Church opinion finds their lordships' advice "timid and indecisive," and their opinions "halting."

The opening of Russia to the Salvation Army seems now within measurable distance. Difficulties which appeared to be insurmountable a few years ago have, says the "War Cry," been cleared out of the way, and if nothing untoward happens the Salvation Army flag should soon be flying in the chief cities and towns of that vast empire. "It will, of course," says General Booth's official organ, "require much skill and great tact on the part of those who are selected to commence operations, but Salvationists have special readiness in adapting themselves to the needs of the countries to which they are appointed, and in adopting those measures which are best calculated to bring about the end in view, i.e., the temporal and spiritual benefit of every class." A special commissioner is in Russia making general inquiries, and his report is to be submitted in due course. M. Stolypin, the Russian Prime Minister, has stated that the Salvation Army "would at any rate interest the people, and might be useful."

A new enterprise has been taken in hand by the Wesleyans, who are responsible for the conduct of the West London Mission. The Lyceum Theatre, which claims to be the most capacious building of the kind in London, has been engaged for Sunday services. It appears that the new St. James's Hall proved too small for mission work. "It is a very beautiful hall," writes the Rev. J. E. Rattenbury, "but a building which will scarcely accommodate 1200 people gives no opportunity for appeal to the great crowds untouched by religion in London. The Lyceum affords that opportunity. The theatre is, of course, expensive, but the mission has received most generous support and encouragement from leading Methodist laymen."

The Rev. Peter Fleming, of Edinburgh, is representing the Baptist Union of Great Britain and Ireland at the Baptist Congress now being held in Sydney. Mr. Fleming stated during the week that there was promise, when he left home six months ago, of a settlement of the education difficulty in England. The trouble had been that Anglicans could not get what they wanted without adversely affecting the interests of Nonconformists and vice versa. A deadlock practically arose, and a practical way out of the difficulty was sought. The efforts of those who had been trying to arrive at a peaceful settlement were beginning to bear fruit, and the probability was that Anglicans, Roman Catholics, and the other denominations concerned would shortly hold a conference and arrive at a common understanding. The idea was to effect some compromise on the matters at issue and thus enable the Government to put a measure before Parliament which would be supported by all parties. And the indications were that such would prove to be the solution of the difficulty. Mr. Fleming also stated that there was practically no movement for the union of the churches in Scotland. But in England the cause was making good headway. Before anything could be done in Scotland there would have to be disestablishment. Then the two great Presbyterian bodies, the State Presbyterian Church and the United Free Church, might come together and pave the way. They were about equally strong, and governed practically by the same doctrine and laws.

To-day to the Jewish community of Sydney is Rosh Hashonah (New Year). In the Hebrew calendar it is Tisri 1, 5669, and the end of our September and beginning of October are marked by a cluster of holy days, for on Monday, October 5, falls Yom Kippur (Day of Atonement). The real Jewish New Year, for instance, 1st Nisan, the month of the Passover, is the anniversary of the formation of the Jewish nation, and with this has been associated the renewal of the ideal hope of Israel; but wherever there are Jews, of whatever shade of opinion or belief, there we are sure to find some kind of celebration of Rosh Hashonah and of Yom Kippur. These holidays are not times of festivity, nor, like the Passover, historical memorials, but are "more widely observed (says the "Hebrew Standard") than any other of our festivals." Services for the Eve of the New Year commenced at the Great Synagogue on Friday evening at 5.30 o'clock. On New Year's Day early morning services will begin at 7.30 and "Shacharis" at 8.10. The Reading of the Law will be entered upon at 9 o'clock. Being Sabbath, there will be no sounding of the Shofar on the first day, but, as usual, a sermon will be preached by the Rabbi. Evening service will commence on Saturday at 6 o'clock. On Sunday, the second day of the New Year, the service, it is expected, will be more largely attended than usual, on account of the postponement of the sounding of the Shofar from the first day. The occasion will accordingly be marked by the co-operation of the choir, and a sermon will be delivered. Early morning service will commence at 7.30, "Shacharis" at 8.10, and the Torah will be taken out at 9.10. During next week, early morning service will take place each day at 7.10.

Lady Hay has consented to open the bazaar at the Glebe Town Hall in aid of the local Presbyterian church on October 8.

At a meeting of the committee of the local section of the London Missionary Society, Mr. H. E. Wootton, treasurer of the Victorian auxiliary, conferred with the committee regarding the world evangelisation movement, with which he is connected. Mr. Wootton explained his views on the subject, and a motion was carried recommending the proposal to the Churches for consideration, and also to the London Board of Missions. Briefly, his scheme is: (1) Accurately to describe the area covered, to show where is the open door, to appraise what is required for the work. Such information will be supplied by various churches and societies. (2) To collate and sift this information, and secure its presentation to the whole Church. (3) To co-operate with Churches and societies in indicating what work and methods can best be adopted by each, thus economising energy. (4) To co-operate similarly with a view to bringing these points before the Churches in such a way as to secure the personal and material forces necessary for the complete evangelisation of the world. (5) Not to interfere in any way with any society.

The young people's demonstration recently held in the Town Hall represented about 40 schools, from which 1800 scholars attended. The offerings, amounting to £32, were contributed by 54 schools. Between November 15 and 22 a simultaneous missionary mission will be held, and it is hoped that it will take place in many centres in Great Britain as well as in Australasia.

NEEDS OF THE BAPTIST MINISTRY.

A STANDARD OF QUALIFICATION.

At the Baptist Congress now sitting some important criticisms of the present standard of the ministry and suggestions for radical reform were made by Rev. A. Gordon, of Victoria. His criticisms touched the whole Baptist body in Australasia. These he brought forward in a paper entitled "A Uniform Ministerial Standard."

He said the question of the hour was the training and enforcement of a standard as necessary for recognition in the regular ministry. He did not advocate the formation of a close corporation. There must be elasticity. A thorough mental and theological training was essential. The standard should be high, and there should be no short cuts. He suggested a course of at least three years, including University training; or as an alternative under specially qualified teachers in English, English literature, logic, and psychology; at the college Greek, exegesis, church history, apologetics, homiletics, pastoral theology, sociology. To put into effect a uniform standard there must be interstate agreement on the quality of the examinations. A schedule of studies might be drafted to be endorsed by the States and a board of examiners formed. The question of the home missionary arose. He fully recognised the grand work done by these brethren; yet it seemed imperative, in view of present demands on the regular ministry, that there should be examinations, comprehensive and sufficiently searching to approximate to the uniformity desired. No injustice would be done. Those who wished to enter should be willing to equip themselves thoroughly. It was true that the future of the denomination rested on membership. But they had frankly to face the fact that Baptist principles did not hold people to Baptist churches, irrespective of the quality of the ministry. Deficiency there, they would go elsewhere.

A committee, consisting of the Revs. W. M. Cartwright (N.S.W.)), W. Clark (Vic.), A. Gordon (Vic.), J. G. Raws (S.A.), F. W. Boreham (Tas.), J. J. North (N.Z.), and W. D. Grimes (Q.), had considered the matter, and presented a report as follows:—

Standard for Entrance.—(1) Clear evidence of preaching gifts; (2) general knowledge of the Scriptures; (3) passing at the University or its equivalent in four subjects of the junior public, English and history being compulsory.

College Course.—Not less than three years, comprising—(a) at a university or its equivalent, English and English literature, logic, psychology; (b) at the college, Greek, Old and New Testament exegesis, Church history, apologetics, homiletics, pastoral and systematic theology. Optional: Hebrew and sociology.

Board of Examiners.—That an interstate board of examiners be formed, whose duties shall be to set the papers for each State, and award the marks. This may be varied by recognised authorities.

Credentials.—Any member from another Baptist union or association shall present credentials to the executive or council, and on these being approved he shall be recommended to the churches, and on accepting a pastorate be given full ministerial status. In the event of such evidence not being forthcoming, the applicant will be required to give proof of pastoral ability and to pass an examination set by the college committee in logic or psychology, theology, history, English composition, Biblical knowledge, Baptist principles, Greek to be optional, each State being free to omit or add it as may be decided. The applicant shall also render efficient pastoral service for such a period (not exceeding three years) as the committee may determine.

Advice.—That the congress approves of regular communications being maintained between the boards of advice in the various States.

SECONDARY EDUCATION.

Professor Carslaw writes:—"In another leader on secondary education you return to the proposals which were the subject of the interview with me, which appeared three days ago in your paper. I regret that the 'elements of usefulness' which at first you recognised in the scheme seem to have disappeared from your mind, and that one of the results of my advocacy seems to be that it now appears to you 'to consist very largely of minus quantities.' Now, it is exactly because I believe it to be much more of a positive quantity than the proposals to which Mr. Board again returns this morning that I have supported its adoption. I believe it would have far-reaching effects, and that it would exercise an influence upon the secondary schools in very many directions which would make for greater efficiency. This is Mr. Board's aim, and I trust you realise that it is also mine.

"Mr. Board's council is not required for the organisation or inspection of the State High schools. They have done excellent work. They are under his own control; and what I hope to see with regard to them is a considerable increase in the number of such schools, wholly devoted to secondary education; a corresponding increase in the number of teachers trained for such work, and wholly occupied with it; and the creation of some inspectors of secondary schools properly qualified for these positions. Until recently the department has been chiefly concerned with primary education. The advance towards secondary education has been slow and gradual. I hold that if public progress were made by it the number of inefficient private schools, whose existence we deplore, would diminish, and that a duty which lies upon the State to perform would have been at last undertaken.

"But in addition to these High schools, there are other private schools called secondary—some with every right to the name, others whose qualification for the title are not so certain, and others still who have usurped the name without any justification for their action. We are at present attempting to devise some workable scheme which will be of advantage to the great majority of these schools, and which will, we hope, also have the further effect of reducing the others to the position of preparatory schools, for which they may be qualified, and in which they may be able to do good work.

"The varied interests which control the schools outside the State Department, some private, some religious, and the fact that no voluntary council has, in our opinion, any hope of bringing them together, or of acting with any effect upon them, are partly the reasons for the proposals I s... ...ate. The use the schools have made of the University examinations, and the sympathy and approval they have won, make it possible that a Department of Education in the University might do for these schools what the Department of Public Instruction can do for its own. If a professor of education were appointed one of his qualifications would be that he knew the nature and amount of education necessary in the various sections of the community; one of his duties would be that he should organise a system of inspection and examination of such schools as would be willing to look to the department over which he would preside for expert advice and assistance. The teaching staff would have to be increased, so that some of the senior lecturers might be able to assist him in this work when he required such assistance. The board for conducting public examinations would have to be reorganised, so that as far as possible inspection should accompany examination; and in this Department of Education there should be some representation of the schools themselves.

"If these changes were made I see no reason why all those things which Mr. Board looks to his voluntary council to perform might not be done, and I feel sure the inspection would be such as to inspire confidence, and that many more schools would avail themselves of it than under any other scheme.

"It is true that I have stated that 'there is no proposal for the regulation of the schools and for the determination of their efficiency or inefficiency,' but by this I mean that there can be no such regulation or determination of a school unless it desires that such be made. This is not the place to discuss details, but it is surely clear that the advantages which would accrue to such schools by the University accepting the certificates of its professor and those associated with him upon their work would act as an incentive. In the system of 'accrediting schools' I cannot say that I am a great believer. But if it is believed that it would be a condition of success that some system of leaving certificates be organised, the organisation of such would not form a matter of great difficulty, and the University examining board could quite well say that it would accept such leaving certificates in lieu of its entrance examination, provided of course they covered the subjects prescribed by the entrance examination for which it was desired to substitute them.

"When I said that the best leaving certificate for a school is the fact that a pupil has reached one of the higher classes, and done good work there, I meant to emphasise the fact that the important thing was that the work should have been done, not that the certificate should have been obtained. In the working out of the scheme which I advocate, and to aid in its efficiency, it is possible that the granting of such certificates would be a stimulus, and I see no reason why it should not be made a part of the proposal.

"Further, if registration of schools is thought by Mr. Board to be of value, even if it is purely voluntary, the machinery at our disposal would permit of this registration being carried out. In every case it would need to be on general lines, and for that reason, and on account of its voluntary character, I personally do not consider that such registration is of great importance. In this I may be wrong, and I am open to conviction. But I think the surest way of preventing the existence of inefficient schools is to provide sufficient efficient ones. The only other way—the enactment of a law preventing anyone from teaching who is not qualified to teach—is not proposed either by Mr. Board or anyone else in the present case.

"You have yourself very fairly, I think, stated the general conditions for the success of this scheme:—(1) That the Professor of Education should be a man of such commanding practical ability that there would be no questioning his judgments; (2) that the schools should be willing to remodel their methods in accordance with his recommendations; (3) that in instructing the professor the University should have regard to the real interests of secondary school work rather than its requirements for preparation for its own courses of study.

"With regard to the two last of these points, I think what I have already stated makes it clear that we have every reason to hope that they would be satisfied if a Department of Education constituted as I have suggested be created. With regard to the first point I think we are also entitled to assume that the condition essential for success will be fulfilled. Certainly the qualifications desired are more likely to be forthcoming in this case than in that of any inspectors brought out to serve under a council whose stability and powers are both so uncertain. It is true that I assert plainly that the State is expected to make it possible for the University to appoint such a professor, and to arrange to help the schools in this way. To say that you surprise me much by asking 'Why should it?' would be to put the matter mildly. The obvious answer is to ask another question—Why should it not? The State has already helped the University in many ways, and thanks to the help it has given we have been able to do much we could not otherwise have done. If there is one chair for which we could more than any other ask support it seems to me it is that of a professor of education. I agree with you that there should be such a professorship. In the Universities which have had in the past the privilege of direct support from the Crown, certain chairs have had the title Regius attached, and Regius professor has always been justly proud of the fact that the position he occupied was founded by the Crown, and that in past days the appointments were made by the King in Council. If any chair deserves the title Regius I think that of education surely does.

"And the present circumstances are a further reason for our belief that in this work the State revenues might wisely be used. The scheme of a voluntary council rests upon the financial support which is to render its working possible. We say that if the money which it is proposed to spend in this way were devoted to the foundation of a professorship of education and the organisation of a Department of Education, of which he would be the head, this work would be better done, and a step forward would have been taken in rendering help to the private secondary schools of this State, which have been attempting to do a work which is far from easy in the face of many difficulties."

FREETRADE LEAGUE.

Mr. Stace Lloyd, hon. secretary of the Freetrade League, reports that the committee has held several meetings, and the following constitution has been adopted:—To be called the Freetrade League of New South Wales. Object, the defence and propagation of freetrade principles and the advocacy of reforms based thereon; freedom of production and exchange. Platform, the abolition of all duties upon food supplies, wearing apparel, building materials, all raw materials, machinery, timber, metals, and paper.

The rules and regulations governing the league were also adopted. Immediate steps will be taken to start propaganda work, and to form branches of the league.

Why Not Consider The Man of the Family When Buying a Piano?

THE PIANOLA PIANO

HAS BROUGHT A NEW PLEASURE AND A VALUABLE RELAXATION TO THOUSANDS OF MEN.

A few years ago it made little difference to the man of the family what piano was bought.

He couldn't play himself, and it was out of the question for him to learn.

Whatever interest he had in the purchase was confined to the pleasure he might receive from listening to his wife or daughters play.

The purchase of the Pianola Piano, on the other hand, means just as much to a man as to the rest of the family.

The members who can play find the Pianola Piano just as satisfactory for hand-playing as any other piano.

The husband or father finds in the ability it gives him to produce music a new pleasure.

It is due to this fact, that EVERY MEMBER OF THE FAMILY SHARES IN THE ENJOYMENT OF THE PIANOLA PIANO, that this instrument has become so universally popular throughout the whole civilised world.

A cordial invitation to call is extended to everyone who may be interested in hearing the Pianola Piano, irrespective of any intention to purchase.

SOUTH COAST.

ALBION PARK, Friday.

A gold sovereign case and a purse of sovereigns were presented to Mr. James Missingham, J.P., last night in the Town Hall. Mr. James Musgrave, J.P., president of the Albion Park A. H. and I. Association, in making the presentation on behalf of the residents, referred to the services rendered by Mr. Missingham as an alderman of the Shellharbour municipality.

A social and dance were tendered Mr. and Mrs. Missingham and family in the Agricultural Hall last night.

CLIFTON, Friday.

The coal trade at the local collieries, with the exception of Coal Cliff, is very slack. During the present week South Clifton so far has worked only two days, which, with four last week, make only six days for the fortnight's pay on Friday next. The demand for coke, however, has been exceedingly brisk, and in a degree compensated for the slack work at the collieries. North Bulli colliery has lost some few days for the next pay, but the prospects at this mine are exceptionally bright, and arrangements are now nearly completed for dealing with a very extensive trade. Coal Cliff colliery worked full time for the past fortnight, and the miners and other employees of this colliery drew full time for to-day's pay.

During a heavy north-easterly squall about 10 o'clock to-day a portion of the iron roof of the main building of the Clifton R. C. Church was torn off.

A card party and social were held last evening, resulting in a profit of about £6, which will be given to the Clifton School of Arts Building Fund.

WOLLONGONG, Friday.

The coal trade continues brisk. Some of the collieries have secured fresh contracts. Next pay both Corrimal and South Bulli collieries have full time. Mount Kembla has ten days, and Mount Keira and Mount Pleasant eight days each.

The dam built during the winter by the company across the creek opposite the old Workmen's Club premises, which was broken away by the flood in August, is now about fully repaired. It is intended to place tanks with ball taps in different parts of the village for the supply of householders who may require water.

The repair of the southern jetty is expected to be completed within two or three weeks. There are three large cargoes on the list for loading, and the company has been urged to have the jetty ready by October 9.

An examination of probationary teachers for entrance to the Training College was held at the Technical College during the week. There were 14 candidates.

MITTAGONG WATER SUPPLY.

MITTAGONG, Friday.

At a meeting of the Mittagong council a letter was read from the Works Department, dealing with the proposed increase of four feet to the height of the wall at the dam, at the contractor's estimated cost of £150. The department contends that it would be necessary to raise the wings, as well as the crest of the wall, and estimates the cost at £530 which was strongly resented by the council. Alderman J. Napier warmly characterised the department's estimate as absurd, and beyond the reach of the ratepayers, and that the department's proposal to raise the wall 10 feet, so as to conserve 7,000,000 gallons of water, was unwarrantable and expensive. Alderman J. Leighton moved,—"That the clerk be instructed to write the department, stating that the council is prepared to have the crest of the wall raised 4 feet only, and to request that the same be proceeded with without delay while the contractor's plant is at hand; seconded by Alderman Robson, and carried unanimously.

LIBERATION OF TROUT.

MEDLOW BATH, Friday.

A fine supply of trout was liberated in Lake Medlow yesterday. The lake is the finest body of water on the Blue Mountains, and admirably adapted for trout. A further supply will be liberated later on.

THE HOSPITALS.

MOREE, Friday.

A benefit dance in aid of a deserving aged married couple was held last night in the School of Arts, and was very largely attended. It is anticipated that the financial result will approximate £20.

ORANGE, Friday.

The new operating theatre at the Orange Hospital was opened on Wednesday, with a demonstration of the purpose of the equipment. It was stated that there was not a better-fitted operating-room in the State, and that some of the appliances were superior to those employed in the leading hospitals of the metropolis. The operating table is the latest model.

WALGETT, Friday.

The annual ball in aid of Walgett Hospital was held last night in the School of Arts hall. It was a pronounced success, the net proceeds resulting in over £100.

SCHOOLS OF ARTS.

MOLONG, Friday.

Several functions were recently held at Cumnock in connection with the official opening of the new School of Arts, the amount realised totalling over £70. The building cost £500, and was opened free of all debt.

MUNICIPAL.

NARRANDERA, Friday.

The lighting committee of the borough council considers some action should be taken to secure for the town an up-to-date lighting system instead of kerosene lamps. It considered coal gas the most suitable. A public meeting will be held, when an expert will explain the working of a coal gas plant.

THE SCHOOLS.

GILGANDRA, Friday.

The agitation for a new school has reached the stage when an official report has been called for. Mr. Lithgow, secretary of the Parents and Citizens' Association, has been advised by Mr. Trefle, M.L.A., that instructions to this effect have been given.

PARKES, Friday.

The Public Instruction Department has decided to erect some more additional classrooms at the Parkes Public School, and tenders have been called for the work.

CASINO, Friday.

The Australian National Defence League held its first meeting on Wednesday. The election of officers resulted:—President, the Mayor (Alderman E. M. Geikie); vice-presidents, Messrs. L. E. Cope and C. O'Sullivan; treasurer, Mr. H. Braine; secretary, Mr. C. Mann. A motion was carried, "That this meeting is of opinion that the defence proposals of the Government do not provide sufficiently for the compulsory training of adults."

CARCOAR, Friday.

Mr. A. Gardiner, ex-M.L.A., who is at present organiser for the Australian Workers' Union, addressed a large meeting here on the subject of Labour politics.

CESSNOCK, Friday.

In response to advances made by the Aberdare Miners' Lodge, Mr. M'Geachie, general manager of the Caledonian Coal Company, announced himself as willing to pay half the cost of an ambulance waggon. Mr. M'Geachie also expressed his willingness to provide the necessary horse, feed, and stable, harness and attendant. The ambulance is for the use of the residents of Cessnock. The Cessnock Progress Association was responsible for the movement being brought forward, and at their meeting on Wednesday evening a hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mr. M'Geachie for his generosity.

GILGANDRA, Friday.

The Progress Association has been advised that, commencing on October 1, a daily train service will obtain between Dubbo and Coonamble. This is a convenience which has long been striven for, and it will be highly appreciated.

It has been decided to institute an annual friendly societies' demonstration here, the first gathering to take place on November 18 next.

GLEN INNES, Friday.

The Chief Commissioner for Railways accompanied by Mr. Harper, Chief Traffic Manager, arrived to-day to inspect the route of the proposed Glen Innes-Inverell railway. They were met at the station by the Mayor, aldermen, and a number of leading citizens. After a brief stay the party proceeded by motor to Inverell. On return to Sydney they will drive over the Inverell-Guyra route, taking the train at Guyra.

The Minister has arranged with the local council for floating a loan of £1000 for the erection of municipal saleyards.

KATOOMBA, Friday.

Mr. J. M'Dowell, deputy council-clerk at Katoomba, has been appointed assistant council clerk at Petersham. A large number of applicants sought the position.

LISMORE, Friday.

A meeting was held yesterday to receive the report of the deputation which waited on the Minister for Works in connection with Byron Bay Harbour improvements. Alderman Spinks presided, and the other members of the deputation present were:—Messrs. Glasgow, G. Nesbitt, and J. B. Kelly. The delegates present were:—Messrs. G. Latchem and Stanford (Council of the Progress Associations); Mr. A. French (president) and Mr. Whipps (Tintenbar Shire Council), and the secretary, Mr. R. F. Ball. Mr. Kelly disagreed with the report as being too mild and watery. After some sharp passages, the report was adopted.

The old-established sawmill known as Cootes and Sharp's has been sold, the purchaser being Mr. Knowles, of Maryborough, Queensland.

MOLONG, Friday.

Staff-sergeant Major Thomas, of Victoria, has been appointed drill instructor to the Molong and Forbes half-squadrons of the Second Australian Light Horse.

PARKES, Friday.

A death adder, 15in long, was killed at Baxter's Farm, near Coradgery, on Saturday. This is the first of these dangerous reptiles seen in the district.

TUMUT, Friday.

The railway survey running through the town leading to Tumbarumba has been completed to some miles beyond Batlow, and residents contemplate an early starting of the line.

WELLINGTON, Friday.

The twentieth anniversary of the Wellington Lodge of the Protestant Alliance Friendly Society was celebrated last night by a tea meeting and concert, Brother J. C. Humphrey, Grand Master, and Brother Salmon, Grand Secretary, being present. Brother Rose, who occupied the chair, stated that the lodge started in 1888 with 12 members, and there were now 251 members, and the accumulated funds on June 30, 1908, amounted to £887.

YASS, Friday.

Mr. Tom Collins, captain of the St. Augustine's Football Club, was presented with a handsome travelling bag last night on leaving for Young.

SCHOOL FOR FLEMINGTON.

DEPUTATION TO MINISTER FOR EDUCATION.

A representative deputation from Flemington and district, introduced by Mr. John Nobbs, M.L.A., waited upon Mr. J. A. Hogue, Minister for Public Instruction, yesterday, and asked for a new site for a Public school at Flemington.

Mr. Nobbs said that the Flemington people were long suffering, and for 15 years had urged the erection of a Public school. At present the children had to travel by train from Flemington to Homebush, and besides the danger from trains there was the trouble with cattle, which were continually passing backwards and forwards. The department recognised the need, and had selected a site, with which the residents were thoroughly satisfied. But now a railway was being constructed from Flemington to the cemetery and from Flemington to Belmore, and these lines rendered the present site absolutely unsuitable. So, as a result of a public meeting held, the residents decided to ask the Minister to select another site. The present block could be easily disposed of.

Mr. Hogue, in reply, said where practicable the department followed the principle of having one central school, but the population of Flemington and the danger from trains rendered a school absolutely necessary. The case was simple, the only difficulty being with regard to a site. The proposed railway lines would render the present site undesirable, dangerous, and noisy; so the department would dispose of the land and seek a site elsewhere. He promised to meet the wishes of the deputation at the earliest possible time.

FRIENDLY TIP.

RESTORED HOPE AND CONFIDENCE.

After several years of indigestion and its attendant evil influence on the mind, it is not very surprising that one finally loses faith in things generally.

A New York woman writes an interesting letter. She says:—

"Three years ago I suffered from an attack of peritonitis, which left me in a most miserable condition. For over two years I suffered from nervousness, weak heart, shortness of breath, could not sleep, etc.

"My appetite was ravenous, but I felt starved all the time. I had plenty of food, but it did not nourish me, because of intestinal indigestion. Medical treatment did not seem to help. I got discouraged, stopped medicine, and did not care much whether I lived or died.

"One day a friend asked me why I didn't try Grape-Nuts, stop drinking coffee and use Postum. I had lost faith in everything, but to please my friends I began to use both, and soon became fond of them.

"It wasn't long before I got some strength, felt a decided change in my system, hope sprang up in my heart, and slowly but surely I got better. I could sleep very well, and the constant craving for food ceased, and I have better health now than before the attack of peritonitis.

"My husband and I are still using Grape-Nuts and Postum." "There's a Reason."

The Sydney Morning Herald.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1908.

THE FEDERAL CAPITAL.

The debate in the House of Representatives on the Federal Site Bill is not such as to raise the prestige of that chamber or to soothe the apprehension and the indignation of this State. We had hoped that the Government would bring down not a skeleton bill but a piece of legislation, and would lead the House to the choice of a site which would command approval in New South Wales as a fair compromise in a difficult subject and as a solution which Australia could accept. We find instead that the Government, no doubt equally impeded by dissensions within itself and by the pressure of Melbourne influence, has chosen the weak, the ignoble course of casting all responsibility upon the House, and the question thus thrown upon the table has been the plaything, almost the jest, of a debate which stands adjourned to next week. To the level of that debate our reports bear witness. It has been everything but what it should have been, and lacking in leadership, in statesmanlike foresight, in reasonable consideration for the letter of the Constitution and the repeated urgent appeals of this State, in a wise reconciliation of conflicting ideals, the House has sunk indeed below the occasion and below the hopes of all federalists. We are told that the debate is "sound and fury, signifying nothing." "The numbers are up," in the racecourse phrase, and when the division is taken Dalgety will be found as before in the Federal Bill.

We desire even at this late hour to urge the House of Representatives, since to urge the Government is vain, to assert itself. The selection of Dalgety yet again, after the proofs of its geographical and climatic unsuitability, and with the knowledge that it is unacceptable to New South Wales, will be a cynical, a contemptuous decision. It will be taken in this State to mean that the Commonwealth has no intention of fulfilling the article of the Constitution relating to the capital. Not only so, but the method of rejecting our counsel and our legal claim is deliberately chosen in such a way as to affront this State. We could understand a Parliament and a Government taking high ground, and saying to us that in the state of the finances, in the state of division amongst New South Wales representatives, and in the geographical circumstances of the rest of Australia, the question ought to be left in temporary abeyance. We should not be satisfied with that declaration, but at least it could be made with a show of sincerity and public interest. But to palter with the matter as is now being done—to shirk its responsibility on the part of the Government, to debate a sham bill with levity, and to determine in private that the old site shall remain in the bill to the intent that an impasse shall be created out of which nobody can see a way of escape, that is to sink the whole question below the respect of men. Even now there is a chance of better things. But a different course must be taken next week. If the present method continues, and the decision now indicated is persisted in, the Government and the House of Representatives will have taken a heavier responsibility than they count upon. The reflex of this debate and of such action in New South Wales is beyond immediate foresight. We in this State have had much to endure from those in control of Federal affairs. Much has happened to disappoint federalists, and to justify the fears of anti-federalists. There is a growing number of the people here who resent bitterly the condition of things that has grown up in the dominance of Federal policy and administration by local and minority influences. It needs but the immediate provocation and a resolute leader to raise such a fire as will traverse this State from end to end.

THE AMERICAN PRESIDENCY.

At this distance it is difficult to gauge the probable effect which Mr. Hearst's sensational disclosures may have upon the American party position. They, however, add a further piquancy to the contest for the greatest of the world's elective positions—the Presidency of the United States. For the first time we have the candidates of both parties ranged up in opposition to money power. Whichever one is elected, the body politic of the United States stands to benefit. The position is most peculiar. For the first time in American history the money interest finds itself without a party champion, or, in other words, finds itself without a party candidate whom it can support in the anticipation of certain favours to come. It may be that even now the Trusts will prefer Mr. Taft to Mr. Bryan, in spite of the Rooseveltian campaign against them, but it is a choice of evils. Mr. Roosevelt has acted as strongly against these mammoth agencies of national undoing as ever Mr. Bryan has spoken; yet they evidently think that they have less to fear from Rooseveltism than Bryanism. Brought down to bedrock, the fight resolves itself largely into a question of fiscalism. The salvation of the Trusts lies in the prohibitive character of the United States tariff. By effectually "protecting" from outside competition certain of the great industries of the United States, the tariff has made possible the huge local combines which blackmail the local consumer, and assail the integrity of the State itself. The cover which the high tariff gives for robbery of the people by the big manufacturers has at last been recognised, not by the Democrats alone, who have ever constituted the low-tariff party, but now by the Republicans also. Thus we have for the first time an election in which both Republican and Democratic candidates are pledged to tariff revision. As between the two it is only a question of degree. Mr. Taft wishes to reduce the duties which shelter the great monopolies, Mr. Bryan would abolish them altogether. Whichever way the election goes, the tariff of the United States seems certain of important modification in favour of the outside trader. That, perhaps, constitutes the widest interest which the present contest has for the world at large.

There is, however, another interest. That is the persistence of one-man rule. Politically speaking, Mr. Roosevelt dies a few weeks hence. But he lives again in Mr. Taft, who is his pupil and nominee. Worthy man as Mr. Taft seems to be, it is doubtful if he would to-day be the Republican party's candidate for the Presidency had not Mr. Roosevelt made him such. Hence Mr. Bryan's gibe about the "Roosevelt dynasty." We can quite imagine with what deadly effect this phrase may be worked among that section of the American people who have the longest historical memories. The fathers of the Constitution agreed that it was necessary to commit great powers to the keeping of the nation's chief magistrate—powers greater, as it transpires, than those immediately exercisable by any of the world's monarchs—but they were very apprehensive about a too long tenure of office by any one individual. Although the Constitution interposes no legal impediment to a President offering himself for re-election as many times as he pleases, Washington set the precedent of making two terms a maximum. It was not in conscious assertion of any principle that Washington did this, but merely in vindication of his personal convenience, which had been disturbed, as it was, by his acceptance of office for a second term. His action, however, has governed the practice of every President since. For more than one of them a third term of power would have been possible, but each refrained from offering himself on the ground that to do so would have been an infringement of a wholesome principle. In the case of Mr. Roosevelt, he had to resist renomination rather than to seek it. Had he stood again there is no shadow of doubt that he would have been elected triumphantly. That he would not stand is perhaps a tribute to his good sense and to his regard for what is vital in the democracy of American institutions. But while he would not allow himself to be nominated for a third successive term, he has gone a step further than any of his predecessors in nominating the man whom he wished to follow him, and in forcing his nominee upon his party, notwithstanding the opposition of powerful factions.

Hence the possibility of a Roosevelt dynasty. For if Mr. Taft secures election, not only will the Roosevelt policy be perpetuated; but it has been hinted that at the end of Mr. Taft's term Mr. Roosevelt may himself return to active politics, and again offer himself as a Presidential candidate with a traditional right to a further two terms, if he chooses to insist, and his party is willing to support him. Did such a thing happen the United States, for the first time in its history as an independent country, would have been politically subject for nearly twenty years to the domination of one man. It would be a great tribute to Mr. Roosevelt's personal ascendency, and perhaps might be to the immediate advantage of the United States. As it is, no Presidents save Washington and Lincoln have so implanted themselves in the affections and confidence of the American people as has Roosevelt. He has done so by reason of his transparent honesty of purpose, his wholesome conceptions of life and duty, his courage and his vigour in combating the mammon of public unrighteousness. But strong in popular suport of his policy he has in his desire to give effect to it enormously expanded the range of the executive function as vested by the Constitution in the President. That he happens to be exercising his great power on the side of what is good and pure, that his nominee is a man after his own heart, and that his opponent, Mr. Bryan, is a man not inferior in intention, is a splendid thing for the American nation. Even so, none of them, nor all together, are likely to be quite effective against the unscrupulous plutocracy which is arrayed against them. How much worse, however, might it be if a strong man like Roosevelt chose to aid the plutocrats, instead of fighting them. It is conceivable that such a union of forces would soon result in a modification of Democratic forms, even as the operation of machine politics under the domination of money has already led to serious modification in Democratic substance. The only power which stands today in the United States between Democracy and Oligarchy is the President, and the very confidence which he may invoke for the protection of popular rights today may prepare the way for oligarchic consolidation to-morrow.

AIRSHIPS.

The triumph of Mr. Wright and the honourable failure of Count Zeppelin would be enough of themselves to make the year 1908 one of the most distinguished in the history of science. The two inventors have been working on very different lines, and with very different objects, but each of them has shown the folly of our setting any limits to the possibilities of the navigation of the air. Coun. Zeppelin has devoted his time and his wealth to the task of perfecting a machine with which the first great success was gained seven years ago by M. Santos-Dumont. His machine may best be likened to a motor car borne into the air by balloons, and propelled like an ocean liner by screws. It is compendiously described as belonging to the class that are lighter than the air. Mr. Wright's machine is built on the opposite principle. It is built to raise itself like a bird by the use of mechanical energy, and is a flying machine in the sense that it is heavier than the air. A few months ago it was declared that there were insuperable difficulties between these machines and success. It is generally agreed that if the air is to be completely mastered it will be by them. They have greater possibilities in speed, and may be made more independent of winds. But it was said that no aeroplane would be able to keep in the air for more than twenty minutes of erratic flight, owing—if for no other reason—to the difficulty of carrying sufficient water to cool the powerful motors. Mr. Wright appears to have surmounted this and other obstacles through the extraordinary courage and perseverance of himself and his brother. They have built a flying machine which has travelled for more than an hour and a half on a set course at a high rate of speed, and has given sufficient evidence of control both in changing its course and in rising and falling. The demonstration at Le Mans seems to have won the French people round to the view that the brothers were quite justified in refusing to make the result of their labours public until they had been assured of their price. They now see that the two Americans who began life as bicycle-makers have given a new starting point to the science which, until now, had developed in one direction, and have put their countrymen ahead of other nations in what may be one of the most important branches of warfare in the future.

For the present, however, the work of Count Zeppelin and his rivals shows the highest development of the air ship as a practical invention for purposes of war or peace. We get a clear idea of the progress of the science by contrasting the conditions imposed by the German Government with those prescribed by M. Deutsch for the competitors for his prize in 1901. He offered a hundred thousand francs to whoever would start from the depot of the Aero Club between Suresnes and Saint Cloud, on the banks of the Seine, make a circle round the Eiffel Tower, and without touching the ground return to his starting place, within half an hour. M. Santos-Dumont did all that was asked, or almost all, on the 19th of October, 1901, at his second attempt. He arrived at the park of the Aero Club amid a scene of extraordinary excitement in 29mins. 30secs. He failed to comply with the condition that his guide rope must be within reach of the ground when he finished, but the magnanimous M. Deutsch gave him the prize without hesitation, recognising that had he been willing to cut his machinery M. Dumont could have alighted in ten seconds. This journey—the wonder of the opening century—was made at four times the rate made by M. Renard in La France in 1885, but, as was admitted by M. Dumont, at a considerably slower rate than could have been attained but for certain avoidable mechanical defects. The conditions of the task set to the aeronauts of Germany, and attempted by Count Zeppelin, were the following:—His machine was to keep afloat for twenty-four hours, and to fly 600 miles. It was to be capable of arising from and alighting on land or water at will, and of ascending to a height beyond the reach of bullets, or about 4000ft. How nearly most of these conditions were accomplished we know at least approximately.

The difference and, according to German opinion, the superiority of Zeppelin's machine consists in its rigidity. He has a series of sixteen gas-chambers enclosed in aluminium, the whole enclosed in an aluminium sheath. He is therefore able to dispense with ballast, and causes the machine to rise and fall by withdrawing and admitting air between the gas-chambers and the sheath. By this arrangement he gains in stability, in economy in the escape of gas, and in driving power and speed; he is inferior to the English and French makers in lightness and buoyancy. Zeppelin's example has shown us what must be the limit of the use of airships unless some great change is made in the first principles of their construction, a greater change than will be brought about by a combination of the best points of the flying machine and the airship. They will never be of practical value for purposes of transport, though they may take the place of automobiles for crossing the sea or ranges of mountain with roads impossible in winter. There is no reason to imagine that airships will ever be used for the bombardment of towns or for dropping explosives on land armies, in spite of the gruesome imaginings of Mr. Wells. Count Zeppelin's ship is already only fifty feet shorter than the Dreadnought, and is regarded as too heavy. It would be quite unwieldy if it were weighted with men or artillery, and would be at the mercy of any enemy that could manoeuvre without them. Nevertheless, airships will soon become indispensable to an army in the field, or to a fleet. They will take the place that before the days of smokeless powder was held by cavalry. They will be of immense service to a besieged army which is anxious to establish communications with the country outside, and to a general to enable him to gain an idea of the general character of his surroundings which he may communicate by wireless telegraphy. In the pursuit of this end it is clear that the next few years will be devoted to securing greater speed and greater facility for steering, in which respect it is said that the Germans are behind the French, though both are ahead of the English.

To-day's "Herald."—Mr. Lucy was in Germany during the King's visit, and he notes the view there entertained of the political scope of the meetings of King and Emperors. And at the end of his letter is an agreeable paragraph on Captain Marryat's Portsmouth and the great naval station of our days. Colonel Burns on his travels sends a flattering account of our important Dutch neighbour, Java. Our special representative lately on a cruise aboard H.M.S. Powerful contributes the first of three articles on the navy of today, which may have some instruction for those who in their late excitement may have temporarily forgotten a force that still means quite a great deal for Australia. Mr. A. W. Relph, whose name is closely identified with surf-bathing here, writes a paper on Heroes of the Surf, which will show that the safety of the thousands of more or less absent-minded beggars who take their summer pleasures along our glorious beaches is carefully studied. Our London correspondent describes the side-shows of the Franco-British Exhibition. "In the Garden" contains, as usual, abundant matter for the amateur on the management of his favourites. We begin to-day the publication of our new tale, "Catherine's Child," by Mrs. Henry de la Pasture, the writer of many charming books, amongst them the "Lonely Lady of Grosvenor Square." A sketch of the conditions of State cricket for the season just about opening will also be found in today's "Herald," and an account of the great rifle meeting to begin soon, together with a reprint from the London "Times" of some papers on the men of the American navy, and a selection of typical comments on the Australian visit of the American fleet.

The Cabinet.—The public works policy of the Government for the current session was before the Cabinet yesterday, but, the Premier stated, nothing definite had been arrived at. Mr. Lee has a number of important railway and tramway proposals, including the line to connect Broken Hill with the railway system, which he is anxious to have submitted to the Public Works Committee for inquiry. As soon as the Cabinet has decided upon the programme the Minister for Works will ask Parliament to authorise investigation into the various undertakings.

The Surplus.—The cable message published by the London "Times" from its Sydney correspondent with respect to the surplus of revenue in New South Wales for the financial year which closed on June 30 last, was referred to the Treasurer yesterday. "The correspondent is evidently labouring under a misapprehension," Mr. Waddell said, "and regards the grants made from the consolidated revenue account to the Public Works Fund and the Closer Settlement Fund last year as ordinary charges payable out of the consolidated revenue, whereas the Government was in no way bound to make those grants if it did not so desire. The surplus which I gave as being for the year, taking it on its own transactions—£1,513,000—is, I notice, the same amount as stated by the Auditor-General in his annual report." Mr. Waddell had nothing to say regarding the "stage management" of "swollen surpluses for show purposes," nor did he care to comment on the fact that the criticism or the "Times'" correspondent was made before the Budget speech had been delivered.

Rawson Memorial Fund.—The amount now forwarded in response to the appeal on behalf of the Rawson Memorial Fund has reached a total of £1469 6s 6d, but liberal subscriptions are yet required from the public to carry out the proposal to suitably improve the premises of the Sydney Seamen's Institute, and thus to make a worthy memorial to the State Governor, Sir Harry H. Rawson.

Tarago-Braidwood Railway.—The Minister for Works left last night to make a trip over the route of the proposed line of railway from Tarago to Braidwood. Mr. Lee will be accompanied by a small party, and intends to return to Sydney on Monday.

Baptists and Loyalty.—At yesterday's meeting of the Baptist Congress the following motion was carried: "That this first Australasian Baptist Congress desires to record its thankfulness to God for the blessings of Empire, and to express its loyalty to his Majesty King Edward VII.; it also congratulates his Excellency the Governor-General, Lord Dudley, on the high honour to which he has been called, and to assure him of our loyalty and attachment to the throne." The motion was recorded as the first minute ever placed on record by the congress.

Ladies in Smoking Compartments.—Two correspondents take up the rights of woman, replying to Messrs. Edden and Waddell's remarks published yesterday on the subject of women in the smoking compartments of the trams. "In this age of women workers, who are shut up all day, and work quite as much as the poor men, why," demands one correspondent, "should they be debarred from the summer breeze? Let the Minister for Works run trams for men only, they being such a selfish lot." No lady, this correspondent adds, will get into a smoker unless by accident or because she does not mind smoking. "If we are not to be allowed to ride on the outside of a car," she complains, "there is only one thing for us—to smoke ourselves, and put those men in our place." Our second correspondent considers that ladies have enough to put up with on the trams already. In the winter they have to ride outside in the rain and cold, because the saloon is filled with men. Last Saturday night this correspondent, with her children, got on a smoker on the Botany-road line, the other car being crowded. The conductor informed her she would have to get off or pay the full fare for her children. She got off, but though she found a seat on the front car her children had to stand. Yet on this car there were as many men as women. "What are we to do?" she asks, "stand in a crowded car or be insulted by the conductor in a smoker?"

Jury Causes and Circuit Courts.—As far as jury causes are concerned the sittings of the Supreme Court terminated yesterday, and it is satisfactory to know that practically the list was cleared off. With the exception of the Chief Justice, who remains in town, the Common Law Judges will proceed almost immediately on circuit, the arrangement being as follows:—Mr. Justice Simpson, Dubbo (commencing September 30) and Bathurst; Mr. Justice Cohen, Lismore (October 9); Mr. Justice Pring, Wagga Wagga (September 30) and Deniliquin; and Mr. Justice Sly, Newcastle (September 29) and Tamworth. The Full Court is to commence the final Term of the year on October 26, and on November 23 the hearing of jury causes will again be opened.

Without a Teacher.—Mr. Samuel Watts, of Stony Creek, writes complaining of the failure of the Department of Public Instruction to appoint a teacher to the Fernlawn school, near Rouchell Brook, for a period of nearly three months. The Under-Secretary for Public Instruction, Mr. P. Board, stated yesterday that Fernlawn school had been without a teacher for some time. It is one of a few small schools to which it is necessary to appoint a male teacher, the position not being a suitable one for a woman. The department has no male teacher available for the position until the end of September, when a number of candidates for the service will have completed their period of training. "Very small schools of this kind," Mr. Board added, "could be filled more promptly if teachers were sent out to them without any preliminary training, but it is considered better that they should have this training, even although it involves the keeping of a few very small schools without a teacher for a short time. A teacher will be available for Fernlawn school at the end of next week."

The Price of Cleanliness.—Mr. E. A. Swinbourne draws the attention of the public and the municipal authorities to what he considers the excessive rates proposed for admission to the new baths in Woolloomooloo Bay, viz., 2s 6d for 12 tickets, and 3d on Sundays or holidays. This works out at 1s 6d a week, yet private lessees only charge 1s a week, or 3s a month, and 1d daily for children who are regular bathers. Surely, he contends, the Municipal Council can make these baths pay as well as a private person without increasing the weekly rates by 50 per cent., and the monthly rates by 130 per cent. If the proposed charges are adhered to, Mr. Swinbourne declares that the regular bathers will be driven away to the surf, where accommodation is provided free of charge.

Subsidence in Elizabeth-street.—As the employees of the City Council were opening up the roadway at the junction of Elizabeth-street and St. James'-road yesterday, in removing the wood blocks and concrete they came upon a cavity some yards in area, close to the tramline, which was in some places a foot deep. It is thought that a subsidence was caused by the packing in of the soil about a water main, but how the road remained level above the cavity, in spite of heavy traffic, is a mystery.

From Tuesday morning next the all-night tramway service which has been running between Railway gates and Circular Quay, via Pitt and Castlereagh streets, will resume running in George-street.

The Rev. Dr. Gunn, who has just arrived at Sydney from the mission field, points out that when he said that the natives of the New Hebrides were Christians he referred to the island of Futuna.

Professor Ennis, of Adelaide, will lecture on Beethoven for the University Extension Board on Monday. He will play many extracts from the composer's works and the whole of the A flat Sonata in illustration of the lecture.

An advertisement appears elsewhere stating that a course of 20 lectures on the history and philosophy of chemistry will be delivered by Acting-Professor Guthrie in the Chemical Lecture Theatre at the University during Michaelmas Term on two afternoons a week—Tuesdays and Thursdays at 4.30 p.m., commencing Tuesday, September 29.

Dr. Arthur will lecture on "Alcohol: Drunkenness and its Treatment," on Monday, before the Ladies' Sanitary Association.

The band of H.M.S. Challenger will render a programme of music in the Waverley Park this afternoon to assist the "Phillips" Sympathy Fund.

The attention of the travelling public is being invited by the Government Tourist Bureau to a new tourist district, by means of a personally conducted excursion through Port Stephens, Myall River and Lakes, Smith and Wallis Lakes, Cape Hawke, and the Manning River.

A NEW LAND TAX.

STRIKING SUGGESTION.

EXEMPTION OF AGRICULTURAL LAND.

Addressing the Women's Branch of the People's Reform League last evening, the president (Mr. Stinson) put forward a remarkable scheme for land taxation.

Nothing, he said, should be done to make food or necessaries dear to those who wanted them most. An indiscriminate land tax sent up the price of food grown on the land, just as it was making it too expensive to leave land for gardens in the cities. The socialists were doing exactly what they did not want to. If a land tax were put on, all food-growing land ought to be exempted. It would keep food cheap, and would cause land now useless to be farmed and planted. He had not heard the idea suggested before; but the Reform party could work it out. After all they wanted to see not what you could get out of the land but of what you could put into it.

GERMAN IMMIGRANTS.

BRISBANE, Friday.

The Rev. H. F. Niemeyer, head of the German Apostolic Church in Queensland, recently induced 27 German families, numbering about 80 persons, to emigrate, and they are now settled at Baffle Creek.

PERSONAL.

VICE-REGAL.

His Excellency the Governor, attended by Mr. Miller, private secretary, presented the Rawson Cup to the Y.M.C.A. Football Club last night. On Tuesday evening next his Excellency and Miss Rawson will be present at the annual meeting of the Sydney City Mission at the Town Hall.

On Wednesday Sir Frederick Bedford, Governor of Western Australia, Lady Bedford, Miss Bedford, and suite will arrive in Sydney, where they will be the guests of his Excellency and Miss Rawson.

On Wednesday afternoon Miss Rawson will open a sale of work in aid of the Church Building Fund of St. Simon and St. Jude's Church, Campbell-street, and in the evening the Governor and Miss Rawson will be present at the Town Hall at a Masonic concert in aid of the Freemasons' Benevolent Institution.

On Thursday afternoon next Miss Rawson will open a fete at Parramatta in connection with St. John's Church.

On Saturday his Excellency the Governor and Miss Rawson will be present at the A.J.C. races, and in the evening will witness a performance of "The Merry Widow" at Her Majesty's Theatre.

The Speaker of the House of Representatives yesterday received the following message from Lord Northcote, despatched from Manila, in reply to the resolution passed by both Houses of Parliament last week:—"Lady Northcote and I deeply appreciate the generous resolution adopted in both Houses as representing the people of the Commonwealth. We shall never forget Australia's kindness, and wish the country every prosperity. Its interest shall always be nearest our hearts."

Mr. Austin Chapman, Minister for Customs, who has not been in the best of health for some time past, paid the penalty yesterday for ignoring his doctor's advice in making a vigorous speech in the Federal capital debate on Thursday night. While at lunch on Friday with several of his colleagues at Parliament House he complained of feeling faint, and on attempting to rise collapsed. Dr. Carty Salmon, M.P., was close handy, and he attended to the Minister till his own medical adviser arrived. After resting for two hours the member for Eden-Monaro recovered sufficiently to be taken to his residence.

There are few alive to-day who can claim to have first seen the light in Sydney back in the twenties. One of the rapidly-dwindling company died a week ago in the person of Thomas Utrick Whitfield, who was born near the corner of Elizabeth and Liverpool streets in 1824, and lived to celebrate the 84th anniversary of his birthday. He was the second son of William Gibson Whitfield, a large landowner of early Sydney. For many years Mr. Thomas Whitfield resided at West Maitland, and more recently with his daughter, Mrs. Irving, of Rose-street, Darlington.

Captain A. Fontaine, of the Chilian warship General Baquedano, paid an official visit to General Gordon, State Commandant, at Victoria Barracks yesterday.

The Premier left by last night's express for Melbourne to confer with Sir Thomas Bent respecting the Murray waters agreement. He will return to Sydney by Tuesday morning's express.

Mr. Morton, M.L.A., has been advised by his Excellency the Governor that he will visit Nowra on Thursday, October 15, for the purpose of meeting the townspeople. Arrangements will probably be made for the holding of a levee. The municipal council has been notified of his Excellency's proposed visit.

Madame Ada Crossley slipped quietly through Melbourne yesterday, on her way from Adelaide to Sydney, where she begins her comprehensive tour on Thursday next. In view of the fact that Madame Crossley, who is in the best of health and spirits, had two nights in the train to undergo, the proceedings were made as informal as possible. She was met at the station by a number of personal friends, whose welcome was of the most cordial description, and these were added to during the day by a constant stream of callers, who took the opportunity of renewing their friendship with the famous contralto.

Mrs. Edward Sully sent in her resignation of the position of hon. treasurer of the Y.W.C.A. Realising that the present prosperous financial condition of the Young Women's Christian Association is largely owing to her devoted efforts, the general committee has asked Mrs. Sully to reconsider her resignation and to take six months' leave of absence. This she has consented to do, and meanwhile Mrs. Pattinson has kindly undertaken the position.

Archdeacon Dixon's condition was at an early hour this morning unchanged. He is still very low.

Mr. James Richard Styles died at Bullamalita, Goulburn, yesterday morning. He had resided there for 60 years, and was 80 years of age. His sister, Mrs. Morphy, of Melbourne, who died a few days ago, was the first white child brought to the Goulburn district.

Twelve Queenslanders, all the Tasmanians, most of the New South Wales representatives, and half the Victorian and Western Australian riflemen, who have been attending the rifle matches at Port Adelaide, left Adelaide by the Melbourne express yesterday.

A presentation was made yesterday by the manager, Mr. Sendey, on behalf of the staff at the head office of the Union Bank to Mr. C. B. Evans, who has been acting as accountant during the absence on leave of Mr. Shimmon.

Lieutenant J. H. Price, of the Royal Marines, Wellington, N.Z., has been appointed to the newly-created post of officer for the construction of fortifications in the Dominion.

Mr. John Mather, manager of Howlong station for the past 22 years, and director of the Hay Pastures Protection Board, was presented with a sovereign purse and a number of other gifts by the station employees on the occasion of his departure.

DEATH OF EX-JUDGE WILKINSON.

The death took place yesterday morning at his residence, Hereford House, Glebe-road, Glebe, of Mr. William Hattam Wilkinson, who was for many years a Judge of the District Court. Judge Wilkinson was in his 78th year, and had been in failing health for some time, and during the last few weeks he was in a precarious condition. He was the son of Captain Henry Richard Wilkinson, of the East India Company Navy. Born in London, he attended the Bluecoat School, and afterwards the King's College. He married in 1852 Elizabeth Sibyl, second daughter of Dr. Milligan, of the Sixth Enniskillen Dragoons, and the same year he set sail for New South Wales, where he commenced his career as a teacher in a school at Meads, Enfield, in which his uncle, the Rev. F. Wilkinson, taught before him. But the deceased always had a love of studying law, and it was not long before he became a law student. He read with the late Mr. Justice Wise, father of Mr. B. R. Wise, who afterwards made him his associate. He was admitted and practised for some time, and was subsequently appointed Parliamentary draughtsman and law reporter. Then he was made Acting District Court Judge, and afterwards a permanent District Court Judge. He was also President of the Court of Claims. With fully 20 years' service on the Bench Judge Wilkinson retired in 1894. He was the editor of the "Australian Magistrate," which work has now reached its seventh edition. The Judge, who was a widower, left four sons, Mr. Frederick Bushby Wilkinson, solicitor, of Sydney; Dr. W. Camac Wilkinson, who is at present on a visit to England; Mr. Henry Lane Wilkinson, solicitor at Deniliquin; and Mr. Edward Weston Wilkinson, solicitor at Hay. The daughters are Mrs. E. F. Hayes, Miss Elizabeth Sibyl Wilkinson, and Miss Lucy Rachael Wilkinson. The Judge's second daughter, Maria Grace, died in 1900, two years before her mother. Judge Wilkinson, in addition to his success as a lawyer and a Judge, was well known for his charitable work in many directions and his great assistance to the Anglican Church, of which he was always an active member. He represented St. John's Church, Glebe, in the Synod for several years.

NEWCASTLE ELECTION.

LABOUR CAUSES LIBERAL DEFEAT.

LONDON, Sept. 25, 11.15 a.m.

The polling in the election of a representative for Newcastle-on-Tyne to fill the vacancy in the House of Commons, due to the death of Mr. Thomas Cairns (Liberal), took place yesterday, and the result was made known shortly before 11 o'clock this morning.

Mr. George Renwick (Conservative), a former member for the constituency, was successful, defeating Mr. Shortt (Liberal) by 2143 votes. The Labour candidate, Mr. Hartley, secured only 2971 votes.

The polling was:—

Mr. George Renwick (Conservative)	13,863
Mr. Shortt (Liberal)	11,720
Mr. Hartley (Labour)	2,971

The polling shows that the Liberal defeat was caused partly by the presence of the Labour candidate, and partly by the apathy of Liberal voters. There have, however, been some converts to the Conservative party. At the general election in 1906, the Conservative candidates, Sir W. R. Plummer and Mr. George Renwick, who had represented the constituency since 1900, were severely defeated, polling 11,942 and 11,223, as against 18,869 polled by Mr. Walter Hudson, Labour, and 18,423 by Mr. Thomas Cairns, Liberal. The Conservative vote has thus increased by 1921, and at the same time 1821 Liberals who voted at the last election failed to vote on this occasion.

Mr. George Renwick, the successful candidate, is a member of Fisher, Renwick, and Co., shipowners, Newcastle-on-Tyne, Manchester, Cardiff, and London. He is chairman of the Manchester Ship Canal. At the election in 1900 he polled 14,752 votes.

TRUST DISCLOSURES.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S INDICTMENT.

GOVERNOR HASKELL'S RECORD.

LONDON, Sept. 24.

President Roosevelt has replied to the challenge of Mr. W. J. Bryan, Democratic candidate for the Presidency, that Governor Haskell is willing to appear before any tribunal which President Roosevelt may name to answer the attacks made by Mr. Hearst in his revelations of the dealings of the Standard Oil Company.

Mr. Roosevelt declares that Governor Haskell is a disgrace to the nation, and totally unfit to occupy a public position.

He cites Governor Haskell's former record as a company promoter in Wall-street, and describes him as "a corrupt official and tool of the Standard Oil Trust."

GOVERNOR HASKELL'S REJOINDER.

THE LIE DIRECT.

INEFFECTIVE DEMOCRATIC MEASURES.

The Standard Oil Company states that the letters which Mr. W. R. Hearst published regarding its dealings with Senator Foraker, Mr. J. C. Sibley, Governor Haskell, and Senator Bailey were stolen.

President Roosevelt warns Mr. W. J. Bryan, Democratic candidate for the Presidency, that the measures he is advocating will be wholly ineffective for curing a single evil now existing, and will merely throw business into hopeless confusion.

The New York "Evening Post" complains of the undignified attitude of President Roosevelt in plunging into an ignoble election row.

BULGARIA SEEKS A QUARREL.

SEIZURE OF A RAILWAY.

URGENT DEMAND BY TURKEY.

LONDON, Sept. 24.

Owing to the Porte's slight of M. Gueshoff, the Bulgarian Agent, in not inviting him with the regular diplomatists, Bulgaria, profiting by a short-lived railway men's strike, seized the Bulgarian sections of the Orient railway, and claimed a proportion of the profits hitherto paid to Turkey.

Sept. 25.

The "Times" writes that the action of the Bulgarian Government is manifestly incorrect diplomatically, and against international law. The controversy is serious, but is capable of adjustment, unless Bulgaria is bent on provoking a quarrel.

CHOLERA IN ST. PETERSBURG.

INCREASE OF CASES.

STRIKE OF GRAVE-DIGGERS.

LONDON, Sept. 24.

There is a serious increase of cholera in St. Petersburg, largely due to the strike of grave-diggers.

DISCOVERIES IN THIBET.

DR. HEDIN'S ADVENTURES.

LONDON, Sept. 25.

Dr. Sven Hedin, the Swedish traveller, who recently returned from Thibet, a few days ago privately lectured at Simla to the Earl of Minto, the Governor-General; Lord Kitchener, the Commander-in-Chief; and a select assembly of high officials regarding his travels.

Lord Minto, in complimenting him on his wonderful stories of adventure and incident, declared that Dr. Hedin had divulged discoveries of great geographical value.

BRITISH OLD-AGE PENSIONS.

LONDON, Sept. 25.

Application forms for old-age pensions were issued yesterday at all post-offices in the United Kingdom. It is estimated that 50,000 people in the poor districts of London applied for the forms. Many pathetic scenes were witnessed.

A HERO FUND.

DISTRIBUTION OF HIS MILLIONS.

LONDON, Sept. 25.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie has given £250,000, producing £12,500 a year, as the foundation of a hero fund for the United Kingdom, to reward the heroes of peace and for the maintenance of their widows and children.

Mr. Carnegie states that we live in a heroic age, and are often thrilled by deeds of heroism, where men and women are injured or killed in attempting to preserve and rescue their fellows. These heroes of civilisation ought to be freed from pecuniary cares resulting from their heroism. Men and women alike, sailors, railwaymen, nurses, doctors, police, and firemen in the British Isles and the waters thereof will be eligible. The Carnegie Dunfermline trustees will administer the fund.

The King approves of the scheme. The trustees are directed whenever the King expresses a wish regarding a case of heroism that his will shall be law.

Mr. Carnegie has now distributed £34,000,000 in charity and in aid of education.

Mr. Carnegie's gifts to libraries amount to over £8,000,000. To the Scottish Universities for the payment of class fees to students he gave in 1901 £2,000,000. To Birmingham University he gave £50,000, and he also presented a Public school and a large public park to Dunfermline, and has been a generous helper of the University of Pennsylvania, the Pittsburg Polytechnic School, and other smaller institutions. He then gave £200,000 for founding the Carnegie Institute at Pittsburg, and a similar sum to establish the Carnegie Institute at Washington, D.C. In 1902 he presented Mr. John (now Lord) Morley with Lord Acton's library, 60,000 to 80,000 vols., and Mr. Morley in turn presented it to Cambridge University. In 1903 Mr. Carnegie founded the Dunfermline Trust, with an annual income of £25,000, "to be used in attempts to bring into the monotonous lives of the toiling masses of Dunfermline more sweetness and light." He has arranged to build a Palace of Peace at the Hague at a cost of £300,000, and 1905 he announced a gift of £2,000,000 for providing teachers in American Universities and colleges with pensions. In 1906 to promote international peace Mr. Carnegie gave £200,000, and to Princeton University he paid the cost of construction of an artificial lake 3½ miles long by 400 to 1000 feet wide. Next year he gave £150,000 towards the construction at Washington of a Peace Palace for America, £1,200,000 to the Carnegie Institute for the purposes of forming Technical schools, and £100,000 to the King's Hospital Fund. During the present year he added £1,000,000 to the Carnegie Institute.

AUSTRALIAN NAVY.

CONTROL IN WARTIME.

LONDON, Sept. 25.

The "Daily Chronicle" writes that the Admiralty very properly stipulates in its despatch to the Commonwealth Government that in wartime its control of the Australian navy must be absolute.

Nothing is more certain, the "Daily Chronicle" continues, than that Australia will be unable for many years to assume sole responsibility for her naval defence. Her safety depends on the British navy, and will continue so to depend.

FRENCH NAVY DISASTERS.

A COSTLY RECORD.

LONDON, Sept. 24.

Since 1900 there have been killed by disasters in the French navy 288 officers and men, the financial loss being estimated at £3,400,000.

PERSECUTION OF THE JOELS.

ATTEMPT TO LAME HORSES.

LONDON, Sept. 25.

A sensation was caused at Newmarket yesterday by the discovery near the stables of Mr. Solly Joel, brother of Mr. J. B. Joel, that 50 small indication posts had been removed from the sides of the tan exercise course, and buried beneath the tan. The intention of the miscreants who shifted the posts was to lame the horses in exercising.

UNEMPLOYMENT INCREASING.

DOUBLED IN TWELVE MONTHS.

LONDON, Sept. 25.

Colonel Seely, Parliamentary Under-Secretary for the Colonies, speaking at Chesterfield yesterday, admitted that unemployment, was now nearly nine per cent., compared with four per cent. in the same period of 1907.

HOME RULE FUNDS.

LONDON, Sept. 24.

Mr. John Redmond, M.P., and Mr. Joseph Devlin, M.P., addressed a convention of the United Irish League at Boston, at which the sum of 80,000 dollars (£16,000) was raised.

DESTRUCTIVE TYPHOON.

LONDON, Sept. 24.

A typhoon, occasioning great loss of life and property, has swept over the islands of Samar, Leyte, Luzon, Panay, Masbate, and Romblon, in the Philippines.

No details have been received.

PAPER MILLS STRIKE.

NEWSPAPERS JEOPARDISED.

LONDON, Sept. 25.

A strike in the paper mills of North America seriously jeopardises the American newspapers. All the great northern international mills have closed.

ELECTRIC TRAINS IN COLLISION.

DISASTER IN A FOG.

LONDON, Sept. 24.

Two electric trains in Philadelphia came into collision in a fog.

Seven persons were killed, and 12 were maimed.

THE BISHOP OF PERTH.

LONDON, Sept. 24.

The Right Rev. Dr. Riley, Anglican Bishop of Perth, will sail for Western Australia on October 8.

VICTORIAN GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The amateur golf championship of Victoria was won to-day by M. Scott, with a total of 355. A. R. Lempriere and N. E. Brookes tied for second place with 360, but in the play-off Lempriere just won. Scott has, now won this event four times—in 1904, 1905, 1907, and 1908.

MOTOR CAR RACING.

HIGH SPEED TEST.

WON BY A HUTTON VEHICLE.

LONDON, Sept. 24.

Thirty-six competitors started in a 25-horsepower 4in-cylinder motor car contest in the Isle of Man over a distance of 339½ miles to determine the highest speed with an unlimited consumption of fuel.

Ten ambulance stations have been appointed along the route, with many medical men.

Sept. 25.

A Hutton car, built by the Napier Company, and driven by W. Watson, won the Isle of Man race, covering 339½ miles in 4h 44m 45s. Watson started first and was never passed.

The second and third cars were Darracqs, occupying a few minutes longer than the Hutton. A number of cars were damaged, but there were no serious accidents.

The "Four-inch" race, the result of which has just been cabled, is one of the most important contests held in Britain. It took the place of the annual "Tourist Trophy" event, and was open to any car in the world with cylinders not exceeding 4in in diameter in a four-cylinder car, or the equivalent in a six-cylinder vehicle. There were 40 entries, 22 of these being of British manufacture and 18 of foreign make. These were as follows:—Two Rover, three Hutton, three Arrol Johnston, three De Dion, three Darracq, two Hillman-Coatalen, two Scat, two Vulcan, two Coventry Humber, two Beeston Humber, two Metallurgique, two Berliet, three Thornycroft, two Vinot, two Calthorpe, two Deary, and two Westinghouse. With the exception of the two Berliets, which were of 24.8-h.p., all the competing machines were of 25.6-h.p., according to R.A.C. rating.

The race differed from previous tourist trophy contests in that it was shorn of technicalities. There was no question of petrol consumption. It was in reality a speed contest for little-powered cars. To make the event a thoroughly representative one, not more than three vehicles of similar design were allowed to be entered by the same manufacturer.

The course over which this year's competition was held was that on which the old Gordon Bennett eliminating tests were run. It measured a fraction over 38 miles, and had to be negotiated nine times. The last lap, however, finished a few miles short, as the road was straight and wide at that point. The start took place at Douglas, the motorists having then to drive via Castleton to Fordale, thence to Glen Helen on to Kirk Michael. From there the route was along the level mile at Ballaugh up to Ramsey, thence over the mountain and back to Douglas. The Manx authorities did everything possible to make the roads over which the race was held perfect. The surveyors of the different sections received instructions to clear the many corners back as far as possible, and to effect improvement in all parts that required attention.

The announcement that a Hutton car built by the Napier Company has won is somewhat misleading. The winning vehicle is obviously a Napier owned by Mr. Hutton, who is well known in Dublin and London, where he has big motor-car establishments. Watson, the driver, is not prominent in automobile circles. His name has not hitherto figured in races, and according to latest files he is not even given in the list of drivers.

That this year's race has been a desperate one is proved by the wonderful speed put up on such a difficult and dangerous course. For a 25-h.p. car to average over 50 miles an hour tends to show that the limiting of cylinder capacity has little restraining influence. Watson's performance is a marvellous one, considering the course.

NAVIGATION BILL.

SHIP-OWNERS' VIEWS.

COST OF £100,000 INVOLVED.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

A memorandum which has been prepared by the Australasian Steamship Owners' Association, and circulated amongst the members of the Federal Parliament, gives the ship-owners' views regarding the Navigation Bill, now before the Senate.

Objection is taken to the unlimited powers conferred upon the Governor-General. A comparative table shows that the penalties in the bill are much higher than those provided for in the merchant shipping Acts; and it is suggested that they should be made to correspond.

The provisions of the bill regarding accommodation for seamen are regarded as unfair. In the case of a large steamer like the Kyarra the provision of separate messrooms would mean an annual loss of £3500.

The bill provides for half-yearly surveys, while the Merchant Shipping Act and the laws of Victoria, New South Wales, and Queensland provide for surveys every 12 months. The cost of this to ship-owners is estimated at £1300 year for extra survey fees, and £2000 for docking and painting; in addition there would be tonnage charges at the value of the lost time.

The power given to the Minister to detain a ship at any time for survey purposes is regarded as unnecessary. It is urged that the section relating to the deck to load lines should be altered so as to conform to the Board of Trade regulations. The alteration in load line which the bill will cause is estimated to cost an annual loss to ship-owners of £35,000. This applies to coal cargoes only.

The manning schedules are regarded as unnecessary, since there is felt to be no need to alter the present manning scales. The loss entailed on ship-owners if the bill were passed is set out as follows:—

Six months' surveys, £21,000 a year.
Total, £87,000 a year.

Under the heading of manning there would also require to be added the cost of provisioning the extra men. The loss of freight caused by providing extra accommodation for the whole of the crews would also have to be considered; and it is expected that total increases in expenditure to ship-owners would be not less than £100,000.

THE "BARRACKING BLOT."

SIR HARRY RAWSON SEVERE.

In presenting the Rawson Cup last evening to the Y.M.C.A. Football Club, which carried off the premiership in the Australian game, Sir Harry Rawson referred to the practice of barracking.

He had been brought up, he said, in the old style, in an English Public school, to take a beating in a proper manner, and to cheer his opponents. They should do away with what was at present a very great blot on the games in Australia—the barracking that went on. It was the greatest pity. It spoilt sport, this singing out in the way the larrikins did, instead of cheering a good stroke. In the old times there was none of the booing and howling which was the disgrace of sport. If they took this matter in hand they could put an end to it.

Football was the finest possible training for young people, but this barracking was against the whole spirit of the training they had at school, which was to treat your adversary with the greatest courtesy.

"FELT A BIT VENGEFUL."

POLICEMAN WRONGLY CHARGED.

BROKEN HILL, Friday.

Constable Magill was to-day before the police court charged with misconduct in striking a prisoner, Walter R. Beezley, while the latter was in custody.

When the case was called on Beezley said he wished to withdraw the charge. He had ascertained that there was no foundation for it, and he was sorry he made it. He was suffering at the time and felt a bit vengeful. The Court allowed the summons to be withdrawn and completely exonerated the constable. Beezley was ordered to pay all costs, in default 14 day's goal. He was also fined 5s for being drunk and 30s for using profane language.

ACTION AGAINST A.U.S.N. CO.

CAIRNS, Friday.

In the case of Wm. Rowe against the A.U.S.N. Co., in which the plaintiff claimed £2000 damages for injuries sustained on board the steamer Aramac, which he alleges were due to negligence in leaving open and unguarded part of a hatchway, the defence gave a denial of negligence.

The jury returned a verdict for plaintiff of £1750.

MILK TROUBLE.

MEETING OF COMPANY SUPPLIERS.

PEACE FORESHADOWED.

A meeting of suppliers of milk to the Fresh Food and Ice Company was held at the Great Southern Hotel yesterday to consider the latest circular issued by the company in regard to milk supplies. Mr. John A. Porter, of Camden, was voted to the chair. There were present Messrs. A. V. Moore, A. T. Bennett, J. A. Porter, and F. W. A. Downes, M.L.A. (Camden), J. Haynes (Windsor), John Miller, Jas. Sharpe, A. Campbell, and J. R. Miller (Gerringong), R. Miller and J. G. Miller (Omega), J. East (Shellharbour), Thos. M'Intyre (Jasper's Brush), C. W. Craig (Jamberoo), T. W. Lindsay and Geo. Lindsay (Dapto), John Love (Kiama, president of the South Coast and West Camden Milk Suppliers' Association), Jas. Devery (Toolegoon, general secretary of the association), and T. Musgrave (Albion Park).

It was explained that the meeting was called in consequence of receipt of a communication from the Fresh Food and Ice Company, covering a draft form of contract between Messrs. A. Bennett, A. V. Moore, J. Haynes, and Thomas Musgrave, representing the Fresh Food and Ice Company's suppliers, of the one part, and Mr. James Moir, chairman of the board, and Mr. Donald M'Fadyen, manager of the company, representing the Fresh Food and Ice Company, Limited. It was stated that with a view to arriving at a settlement in the present dispute in the milk trade, the company offers to pay 9d per gallon for milk supplied between September 13 and 20, 1908, and thence the company's market rate for 12 months, with a minimum of 7d per gallon till December 31, thence a guaranteed minimum of 6d per gallon for the balance of the period. The representatives of the milk suppliers, undersigned, undertake to recommend all the New South Wales Fresh Food and Ice Company suppliers to accept the terms offered. Existing written contracts with the company to be observed are exempt from this settlement. Stop days to be minimised as much as possible. The company agrees to consult duly elected representatives of its milk supplies before any change in milk rates takes place." The names of Messrs. Bennett, Moore, Haynes, and Musgrave were appended.

At the outset there was a good deal of discussion. Mr. Moore explained his action in regard to the agreement with the company. Mr. Love explained the position of the milk companies. All of them except the Fresh Food and Ice Company recognised the Milk Suppliers' Association. It was stated that Mr. Antill, chairman of directors, and Mr. Lockhead, a director of the Farmers and Dairymen's Company, had met the Suppliers' Association in conference, and that the authorities of the Dairy Farmers' Co-operative Company were willing to meet the Suppliers' Association, but could not confer with representatives of any other company.

Finally the following motion was carried, on the motion of Mr. Craig, seconded by Mr. A. Campbell,—"That this meeting of the Fresh Food and Ice Company's milk suppliers refuse to consent to the agreement or conditions signed by Messrs. Moore, Haynes, Musgrave, and Bennett and the Fresh Food and Ice Company."

A further motion was unanimously carried, on the motion of Mr. East, seconded by Mr. Craig,—"That this meeting of milk suppliers is prepared to accept 7½d per gallon for milk, providing the executive of the Milk Suppliers' Association consents to the same, such price to date from September 13 until further notice."

In the course of the discussion it was suggested that Mr. M'Fadyen be invited to attend, and he accepted the invitation.

Mr. M'Fadyen stated that his company was prepared to recognise the association on the grounds that the association be formed of Fresh Food and Ice Company's suppliers, that associations might be formed of other companies' suppliers, and a council formed from representatives of these associations might conduct the affairs of the milk suppliers.

A further motion, providing for general co-operation between suppliers of different districts was carried,—"That is is desirable that representatives of the milk suppliers of the South Coast meet in conference in Sydney representatives of the tablelands, and discuss questions of interest once a quarter."

PRACTICALLY SETTLED.

In the evening the suppliers met Mr. F. T. Taylor, acting chairman of directors of the Fresh Food and Ice Company, and Mr. M'Fadyen, manager of the company, and laid before them the resolutions passed at the afternoon meeting. There was a three-hours discussion, and in the end the two representatives of the company agreed to the resolutions, and one other matter was raised on their behalf. It was agreed that it be remitted to a meeting of the executive of the Suppliers' Association, which will be held to-day.

SPLIT IN SUPPLIERS' CAMP.

ALLEGATIONS OF DESERTION.

ALBION PARK, Friday.

At a meeting of the Albion Park branch of the Milk Association in the Town Hall last night there was a large attendance. Mr. L. R. Mood, branch president, presided. Mr. John Love, president of the association, was present.

The secretary of the United Milk Suppliers' Association wrote giving particulars of the agreement come to with the Farmers and Dairymen's Company and Messrs. Hillman and Co., stating that the price had been fixed at 7d per gallon till September 30, and then 8d per gallon till further notice.

A letter was also received stating that the Albion Park delegate, Mr. Musgrave, and Messrs. Bennett, Haynes, and Moore had signed a contract with Mr. M'Fadyen, contrary to the doings of the conference.

Mr. A. Wilson, secretary of the local branch, explained what took place at an interview with Mr. Musgrave regarding the signing of the contract. As a result of the interview Mr. Musgrave tendered his resignation, which was accepted.

Mr. James M'Donagh was elected to the position of delegate to represent the Albion Park branch.

Mr. John Love, president of the association, was pleased at the appointment of the delegate. The farmers required men who would act in their interests without fear or favour; the milk companies would look after their own interests. He expected a crisis in the milk trade, but not at this early period. He explained what had led up to the executive serving notices on the milk companies. Messrs. Nicholson, Devery, and himself had called at the F. F. and I. Company's offices, and only himself (Mr. Love) was admitted. He asked the company to withdraw its notice of the reduction in price, and promised that the executive would withdraw its 14 days' notice. The F. F. and I. Company refused to do as it was asked. Every opportunity had been given the F. F. and I. Company to avoid a crisis, but the company would not make any concessions. He strongly condemned the action of the four gentlemen who had signed Mr. M'Fadyen's agreement, whereby the farmers would be bound for twelve months to supply the company. He appealed to all dairy farmers to put aside all local jealousies and feeling for any particular company, and stand firm and united for the future welfare of the milk trade. He was confident that the association would win the struggle.

A motion was carried unanimously:—"That this meeting endorses the action of the executive, pledging itself to stand firm and loyally by the association."

A TRUCE ASKED FOR.

GERRINGONG, Friday.

Last night a meeting of milk suppliers who send their milk to the Fresh Food and Ice Company through the Crown Factory, Gerringong, was held here, Mr. Sharpe (president of the directors) being in the chair.

Mr. W. J. Bailey moved, and Mr. John Walker seconded,—"That this board recommends that the executive of the association be asked to grant a truce of 14 days from Monday next, with the view of arriving at an amicable settlement of the existing dispute."

There were eight in favour of this, and four against it.

The secretary was instructed to forward it on to the executive of the association.

A meeting of the Gerringong branch of the association is to be held here to-morrow (Saturday) night, in re the 14 days' notice which expires on Monday next. No doubt the decision of the executive on this 14 days' truce will be announced.

MELBOURNE SHIPPING INSPECTOR.

REGRET FOR ANGER.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Inspector of Shipping, Captain Deary, expressed his regret to the Marine Board to-day for having said that he absolutely refused to work under the jurisdiction of the secretary, Mr. J. G. M'Kie. Captain Deary said the statement was made in a moment of great heat and excitement. He did not intend to make the slightest reflection upon the integrity of the secretary, and was sorry for the statement.

The board accepted Captain Deary's expression of regret.

WOMEN'S PARLIAMENT.

IN SYDNEY NEXT MONTH.

CONFERENCE OF REFORM LEAGUES.

DISCUSSIONS EXPLAINED.

There will gather, on October 12, to Sydney a veritable parliament of women. "It is the biggest movement of its kind ever undertaken in Australia," said Mr. Stinson, president of the People's Reform League, to a meeting at the Women's Patriotic Club last night.

There are a peculiarly interesting list of discussions for the parliament. It will talk about the new conditions which the women will be bringing into politics more and more; besides those older subjects which men have found out for themselves, and threshed to death. It will ask for the teaching of domestic economy in all State schools; for a law giving divorce to a wife if she has the same grievance as would give a husband divorce—and that the law should be made uniform through Australia; for one uniform law protecting infant life through all Australia; it will thresh out what the position of women would be under socialism; and "our influence to-day—where felt—what it means." Over and above women's affairs it will talk of matters which rather affect women—"the censorship of literature; suppression of the undesirable;" "the elector's place in legislation"—which is the only place in it that women have at present; "should the Government control the liquor traffic?"; "effective and compulsory voting;" not to speak of one subject which one had not thought to appeal to women—"misguided humanitarianism." Subjects which men, too, sometimes tackle are:—

Defence and the naval subsidy, State debts, the Braddon clause, new protection and the producer, government by party, industrial legislation, and (1) the primary producer, (2) the worker; State and Commonwealth, responsibility of individualism, including better housing of the poor; immigration and land settlement.

Ladies will be sent to the conference by the Women's Political or Reform leagues in every State except one—Western Australia. For Western Australia Sir John Forrest will come instead. Mr. Irvine, M.P., from Melbourne, will speak to a big meeting the first night. The conference will begin on October 12, and hold two or three meetings a day until the 19th.

"REFORM."

Mr. Stinson last night sketched to the Women's Branch of the People's Reform League an outline of the business. He said their subject was "Reform." It was very simple—the mending of those things which were wrong, vicious, incomplete. There was an enormous amount of wrong in the world. To mend it they must find it. They could find it by reading what others said in books, or by hearing what others thought at such a conference as this.

WHY ANTI-SOCIALISTS MISSED.

At the conference socialism would be the chief subject. At the last election they had formed an anti-socialist party to attack socialism. But the results had not been too successful in binding their party together, because socialism was far too wide a subject to attack. It covered Christian socialists, who would give their last penny to save distress, and all sorts of foreign socialists who would simply take the capitalists' property if necessary by force. It was these they should fight. Australian socialists said such socialists did not exist here. But in the case of a man who had land—paid for at over its full value, perhaps—the Australian socialist wanted not to pay for the land but to put on it a tax to take its value away from the owner, and then buy it cheap. The intentions were often quite honest; but it was really foreign socialism all the same. Mr. Stinson advised the leagues to combine and choose the candidates they wanted, and to find out what was wrong and needed righting by going out and seeing for themselves their sisters in the west or in the slums.

ALLEGED LIBEL.

JACKSON v HAYNES.

At the Central Summons Court yesterday, before Mr. Love, S.M., Alfred Jackson proceeded against Charles J. Haynes for alleged criminal libel. The information set out that the defendant, on August 8 last, wickedly and maliciously published in the "Newsletter" certain false and defamatory matters, meaning that the plaintiff was a perjurer, and was guilty of an attempt to suborn William James Jackson, Sophia Jackson, and William James Jackson, jun., to commit perjury.

Mr. Parker appeared to prosecute, and Mr. W. A. Walker (instructed by Messrs. Buchanan and Smithers) was for the defence.

Mr. Walker said that beside the ordinary plea of not guilty he wished to enter a special plea of truth and justification.

The Bench held that the Court had no jurisdiction to accept the plea.

The complainant, Alfred Jackson, said he was a contractor living at Artarmon. He purchased of defendant, on August 12, a "Newsletter," dated August 8. He paid a penny for it. Witness read an article in that paper, a copy of which was produced, headed "Conspiracy to Murder." Throughout the article the Alfred Jackson mentioned referred to witness. He remembered the trial of Grand and Jones, and gave evidence against Jones. The parties named Jackson in the newspaper were known to witness. It was not true that he tried to suborn any witness, nor was it true that he had tried to swear any man's life away. The article was directed chiefly to him. The whole of the statement appearing in the article by his brother William was untrue. Witness also denied the truth of further statements made about him. Both the statements of Sophia Jackson and William James Jackson, jun., were untrue. There was no truth in the paragraph bearing upon perjury. For the past five or six years witness had lived at Artarmon, doing contracting work, and also looking after the Broughton estate.

Cross-examined by Mr. Walker, complainant admitted that he had served a three years' sentence for the manslaughter of a Chinaman. That was in 1885, when he (complainant) was about 12 years of age. He believed that the Chinese was found dead on the road with a bullet wound. The trial of that case did not take place until five years after. He was convicted for an attempted safe robbery at Ingleburn about the end of 1899, and did two years. Witness was also sentenced to three years for cattle stealing about 10 or 12 years ago, and for stealing, in company, he had served a sentence of six months. He had served time in Goulburn, Bathurst, Darlinghurst, and Berrima gaols. At Bathurst he received 15 strokes for attempting to assault a warder who was kicking a prisoner, and at Goulburn he received 24 strokes for assaulting several warders. It was also true that at Parramatta he hit a man with a hammer. It was a case of who would get in the first blow.

Witness was subjected to further cross-examination, during which he denied that he had been concerned in the robbery at David Jones' or that he had threatened Hudson's paymaster. He had not threatened to shoot Senior-sergeant Saunders, nor did he take part in any robbery at the Auburn meat works.

Inspector John Roche stated that he was the officer in charge of the prosecution at the trial of Grand and Jones. Complainant gave evidence on behalf of the prosecution. Witness got a statement from him, but he could not remember the exact time. It was probably a day before the trial.

In answer to Mr. Walker, witness said that the statement would probably be in the possession of the Crown Law Office with the rest of the papers in the Grand and Jones case.

At this stage, the further hearing of the case was postponed until Wednesday next.

LAZY AUSTRALIANS.

DR. ARTHUR WANTS NEW BLOOD.

At the Yorkshire banquet last evening Dr. Arthur, in dealing with the need for immigration, said that what Australia wanted was an influx of new blood into the country. The people were too fond of sport. They were too lazy and afraid to work. New blood was necessary to keep them up to the mark and show them how to work.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT ACT.

MINISTER FORESHADOWS AMENDMENTS.

Yesterday a deputation, consisting of Messrs. Dooley, M.L.A., the Mayor of Lithgow (Alderman Robinson), and the council clerk, waited on the Minister for Works to place before him the necessity for amending the Local Government Act in certain respects.

The deputation submitted five amendments, the more important being those relating to the rating of coal mines and general rating.

Mr. Lee said he quite recognised that steps would have to be taken to secure an amendment of the Act. Amendments from other bodies would be considered with those submitted by the deputation.

COMPULSORY MILITARY TRAINING.

LABOUR DISSATISFACTION.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

It is stated that so great is the opposition to the action of the Federal conference in approving of the principle of compulsory military training, that a special conference is almost certain to be called within a short time.

EXPLORING IN PAPUA.

MR. DONALD MACKAY'S PARTY.

A TRAMP OF 150 MILES.

A good deal of interest is being manifested—not only in Sydney, but in the other States—in connection with the scientific expedition now being led into the interior of New Guinea by Mr. Donald Mackay. The explorers, who propose to traverse country hitherto unvisited by white men, have already had many hazardous experiences, and have endured many hardships. Mrs. Donald Mackay, of Sydney, has just received from her husband an interesting epistle, in which he narrates some of the difficulties with which the party has had to contend.

It succeeded in reaching the Purari River after a difficult walk of 150 miles along the coast. Mr. Mackay and his colleagues had expected that on arrival at Samarai they would be conveyed to the Purari by the Government steamer Merrie England, and that their real exploratory work would commence from that point. It was, however, ascertained at Samarai that, owing to the fact that during the present season of the year the sea breaks with great fury along the coast, and for a distance of eight miles out to sea, the risk of taking the Merrie England to the Purari was too great to be attempted.

Mr. Mackay, who had passed through rougher experiences during his great cycle ride round Australia, was undaunted, and, with his comrades, resolved to walk to the Purari River—a journey which could have been accomplished under favourable circumstances by steamer within a day. The wet season having set in, the creeks and rivers were swollen to twice their normal size, and some of the watercourses were fully 600 yards in width. When last writing, Mr. Mackay said that the party had yet to travel a considerable distance before they would reach the point which had been chosen for the start of the investigations.

A visit was paid to a native village in the vicinity of Orikolo, and the chief kindly volunteered to provide the members of the party with canoes in order that they might reach the head of the Purari River, whence the explorers proposed to press on in a westerly direction, so that Mr. Mackay's first plan of making for the head waters of the Fly River might be accomplished.

Mr. Bell, who now occupies the position of Resident Magistrate at Orikolo, did not encourage the party with hopeful accounts of the country in the vicinity of the head of the Purari River. He informed them that they would probably find the country either uninhabited or sparsely populated by weak mountain tribes, who would be unable to supply such a large expedition with necessary food. On account of these adverse reports Mr. Mackay at time of writing, proposed to establish a depot at the head of the Purari River, and to divide the expedition into three divisions, each proceeding in a different direction in the hope of coming across native villages in a position to furnish sufficient food supplies for the requirements of the party. The plan formulated by Mr. Mackay was that the three divisions should again unite, according to arrangement, at the central depot, and push forward as one body towards the village which could supply their wants.

Mr. Mackay says that all the members of the expedition are in good health, and he feels confident, if native villages with ample food can be located, that he will be able to carry out his original intention, notwithstanding the enormous difficulties to be contended against, and despite the unfavourable reports of the country given by the resident officials.

DANGERS OF ROCKCHOPPING.

A SYMPATHETIC PREMIER.

According to medical evidence, men who work as rockchoppers in tunnels or open cuts take their lives in their hands. Fine dust and sand inhaled through nostrils or mouth are easily got rid of, but the little quartz crystals that find their way into the lungs sink deeper and deeper, and doom the sufferer to a painful and lingering death. Representatives of these workers in stone, accompanied by Mr. Parkes, Dr. Arthur, and Mr. M'Garry, members of the Legislative Assembly, waited upon the Premier yesterday to ask that remedial steps be taken to lessen the dangerous nature of the occupation, and to relieve the necessities of victims whose cases are hopeless. The deputation asked for assistance and medical treatment to those in the last stages of the disease, and for those sufferers who have a chance of recovery; that a six-hour day be recognised in the occupation; and that inquiry be made as to what could be done to minimise the dangers of rockchopping.

The Premier said he fully realised how dangerous the occupation was, and how important it was from the standpoint of public health. There were two aspects for consideration—First, the general methods of the work and the development of some scheme to make it less dangerous; second, the making of provision for relieving the necessities of those in the last stage of the disease. He would have inquiries made without delay as to the various individuals who were suffering, and who were in need. Instructions would be at once given to the Government Medical Officer to supply relief, treatment, and attention. He had been supplied with a list of 15 urgent cases. These would be attended to at once, and any other cases brought under notice would be dealt with. As to the general question of improving the system of the work he admitted that whatever could be done should be done to make the occupation as free as possible from risk. He would have the views expressed by the deputation conveyed to the Department of Works, and the matter would be investigated.

TROUBLE ON THE WORKS.

The rockchoppers are again having trouble with the employers, and at the Trades Hall last evening sewer workers were told not to accept work at Bromley's works at North Sydney, or works at Bondi Beach.

GALES IN VICTORIA.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Boisterous weather set in early this morning, and more or less violent gusts prevailed throughout the day, accompanied at intervals by driving showers of rain. When the wind was at its height the front part of Holy Trinity Church, Port Melbourne, was blown down. The main building, which was constructed of corrugated iron, was one of the historical structures of Victoria, having been imported from England upwards of 50 years ago. A new front was built of brick in recent years, and part of it towered over the old building. This portion was blown down, and in the fall it completely wrecked a large section of the old church. Pews were smashed to matchwood, and the back gallery was carried away. Fortunately no one was in the building at the time.

BOLT IN THE CITY.

CONSTABLE STEWART AGAIN.

About midday yesterday a horse attached to a van was being driven down George-street, city, by Herbert Campbell, of Tempe. When opposite the Queen Victoria Markets the winkers fell off, and the animal bolted down George-street. Traffic-Constable Stewart saw the runaway, and managed to grab the animal's head. It carried him along for about 20 yards, until the van became jammed between a tram and a cab, when it came to a standstill. The wheels of the tram were lifted off the line, but went back on the cart being released. Stewart had several fingers lacerated, but no one was seriously injured, the driver of the van having retained his seat during the bolt. Traffic-Constable Stewart already possesses two medals for stopping runaway horses.

BRAYBROOK DISASTER.

A POINT OF LAW.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

In the Criminal Court to-day, at the trial of drivers Leonard Milburn and Gilbert Dolman for alleged manslaughter arising out of the Braybrook railway disaster, the point was argued whether evidence as to the lateness in the running of trains was admissible.

The Chief Justice considered that as a feature of the defence in the mitigation of punishment it might be admissible.

Mr. Maxwell, for the accused, submitted that this evidence also affected the quality of negligence; but his Honor was inclined to think that if a driver broke the regulations by disobeying signals he was necessarily guilty of criminal negligence.

No final ruling was given, and the case will be continued on Monday.

COLLISION WITH A COW.

HORSE AND RIDER FALL.

MUNDOORAN, Friday.

Whilst galloping across Biamble paddock on Tuesday evening Mr. John M'Neil's horse collided with a cow, throwing the rider to the ground, and falling on him, rendering him unconscious for some hours. Dr. M'Creadie was immediately summoned, and owing to the serious condition of the patient, he is still in attendance.

FEDERAL CAPITAL.

ANGRY DEBATE.

ALLEGATIONS OF HUMBUG.

MEMBERS FINALLY GO TO SLEEP.

A CHOICE ON TUESDAY.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The battle of the sites has occupied another day in the House of Representatives. It is to be resumed on Tuesday, commencing at 11 a.m. As matters progressed it was seen that there was no chance of any conclusion being arrived at.

To-day, as yesterday, little real business was accomplished. The Dalgetyites were few among the speakers, it being generally acknowledged that the numbers were up—that the name would remain, and therefore they sat and said little. Throughout the debate there was much heard of the Australian national sentiment. "Look at it from a Commonwealth point of view," was the cry whenever a New South Wales member referred to the terms of the Constitution and the 100-mile stipulation. As a rule the member loudest with such interjections proceeded to make a parochial speech, entirely forgetting the constitutional compact.

It was interesting to watch the fencing of the Government members, when asked what their proposals were for building the capital city when the site was selected. There is the point that although Dalgety may be the choice of the Federal Parliament, the territory has yet to be granted by New South Wales. That the Legislature remains in Melbourne to-day is another thing. It will probably be here for a long while to come. Nobody seems to anticipate that any change is impending. Admissions on this score from Ministers were dropped incautiously or even indifferently. They plainly indicated that the idea in the Cabinet was "Sufficient for the day is the bill thereof." The future could look after itself. It was like one of Sir William [illegible] measures—"Let it go, and I'll see about it afterwards." The Minister has no scruple in bluntly asserting that he will never be a party to shifting to the snowy regions of Monaro, and if this does not indicate his intention to resign his portfolio when the Cabinet conflict comes it must mean that there is no conflict to come. The subject was taken up by one of the members strongly in to-day's debate; and it was pointed out that from this circumstance nothing but a policy of delay and evasion could be anticipated. The question was put plump to Mr. Deakin in the morning, would he, in the event of Dalgety being adhered to, place a sum of money on the Estimates to enable the construction of the capital to be pushed on? Mr. Deakin made a long circumlocutory statement to the effect that if there was a desirability for an early transfer to the capital members should be satisfied with temporary accommodation. Last night Mr. Chapman predicted that "hardly anyone here" would ever see the capital at Dalgety. It was as though the boundaries of the territory were under Government direction. The feeling is that there is a lack of sincerity in the adherence to Dalgety. Melbourne members have no desire to be faced with a weekly trip such as the representatives from other States have to endure; and those from the adjacent States look at the matter in much the same way.

It is expected that the bill will be put through on Tuesday. In the Senate no different result is anticipated, if it goes to that Chamber with Dalgety standing as the choice of the Representatives.

THE DEBATE.

The speech of the Minister for Customs last night, little as it had to do with the sites, created something of a stir. It was typical of the main underlying spirit of the debate, when taken up in certain quarters of the House, touching barely on the matter of locality, merits, or demerits, and teeming with the rancour of petty strife.

Mr. Wilks, who opened the engagement this morning, characterised it as a speech which would have better fitted as a reply to an attack on the seats of the Ministry than on the selected seat of government. "Full of bluster, bitterness, bullying, and political vituperation, and ancient and modern history," said Mr. Wilks, "it was nothing more nor less than an attack on the Opposition side of the House. We from New South Wales are drubbed and castigated as being incapable of any national feeling whatever. You don't go north of the North Murray—except to get cash from New South Wales. If you do you are no longer Australian in your views.

"The way to spell the word Dalgety is delay. It is the only hope of those who vote for it. Delay, gain time—anything, rather than shift from Melbourne."

Mr. Wilks declared "the whole business" to be humbug. The fight, he said, was all pretence, because the numbers were up.

At the conclusion of his remarks, no fewer than five members were on their feet. Mr. Catts caught the Speaker's eye. He complained that New South Wales members had had to suffer from the attitude taken up by certain State politicians and sections of the press. In his State he claimed for the Labour party that it had done more than anybody in the direction of having the thorny question settled, and to demonstrate the truth of the assertion. Mr. Catts gave out an endless amount of history. What it had to do with the qualification of the site was not apparent. Following the custom of the labour corner he attacked the Government for having done nothing in getting ahead with the question. "It did not appear to be very earnest," he said, in reply to a denial by the Attorney-General that the Ministry had been lax. "We know, of course, what the reason is—that the Cabinet cannot agree on the subject among themselves."

Mr. J. T. Brown: Well, they ought to go out, then.

Mr. Catts: Now we are told that one Minister will never go to Dalgety. That means that every little step by the others will be opposed by this one, and, of course, delay is inevitable.

Mr. Catts declared himself for Lyndhurst, should there be another ballot, he was not going, he said, to vote for the east site, but for what he considered would meet the demands of the Constitution.

HIS OLD LOVE.

To nearly an empty House, Mr. Catts continued to emphasise the claims of Sydney and New South Wales for some material advantage from the capital. People voted for Federation because they thought they were going to get that advantage. In "stating the case for Lyndhurst," he said he had hunted as a boy over every foot of the district. It was one of the most fertile parts of Australia.

Mr. Storrer: If it's good land you want, why not come to Tasmania?

Mr. Catts painted a most attractive picture of the western site, and emphasised its close proximity to Sydney, where, he said, members of Parliament could make their homes, and have ample amusement.

A Member: We don't want amusement.

Mr. Catts: Yes, we do. All work and no play make Jack a dull boy.

A Member: Well, don't we sometimes get amusement in Melbourne?

Mr. Catts said the site could not be equalled. Its water supply was perfect. There was an immense coal supply at the door, and for defence purposes it could not be surpassed, protected as it was by the Blue Mountains.

Mr. Catts thought that there would be a much better chance of Lyndhurst being selected in preference to Dalgety than Canberra.

MR. CHAPMAN'S SPEECH CRITICISED.

Mr. Dugald Thomson said as he knew no argument would influence the vote of any honourable member, he would not have spoken but for the speech of Mr. Chapman, and that speech was a masterpiece of sound and fury. The Minister raked the dustbins of the history of New South Wales to attack opponents of Dalgety. He attacked all sides of the House—even a fellow Minister. After doing that he said the Treasurer would live long in the memory of the people of Australia.

Mr. Webster: So he will (Laughter.)

Mr. Thomson: "You misunderstand." He meant the memory would be favourable. (Oh, oh). He did that to heal the scar caused by his bitter attack, in which he had attempted to show that his colleague could not be believed.

North Sydney's representative caustically criticised Mr. Chapman for abusing members for altering their opinions, and the champion of Dalgety had little excuse for such conduct, for he himself had changed over from Bombala to Dalgety. The attitude of most of those advocating Canberra was justifiable. They thought Lyndhurst the best site available, but not being able to get it supported the next best place—Canberra.

In the course of Mr. Thomson's speech Dr. Salmon, a Victorian member, interjected that Melbourne was not regarded in Australia as the seat of government. This was refuted by Mr. Thomson.

Dr. Salmon: Then why did they drag the Governor-General away to Sydney to swear him in? (Roars of laughter.)

Mr. Dugald Thomson: It just happened that the Governor-General landed there. The action of the Government of New South Wales made it difficult for the New South Wales members in the Federal Parliament to maintain the rights it considered it had under the Constitution, because while rejecting Dalgety it had offered a site which was more distant from Sydney than Tumut. Tumut, however, was not isolated. It was connected with the main arterial channels of communication; but Dalgety was unapproachable. The railway to it would not give that speed which was important in connection with the capital of Australia. Bathurst was an ideal site. The importance of water supply was overrated. Engineering could give requisite provision in most cities. Some of the criticisms directed against the various other sites would exclude Sydney itself. The centrality of Lyndhurst made him support that site. Centrality was paramount. However, the matter should not be dragged on from Parliament to Parliament. The Government should push on with any accommodation sufficient for its purposes, and not wait for the erection of magnificent palaces.

A COLD CONTRAST.

Mr. Bamford began his speech by quoting from a report showing the distances of the various proposed sites from Sydney. He then pointed out that most of those who had laid so much stress on the term "within reasonable distance of Sydney" had expressed themselves in favour of places almost as far from Sydney as Dalgety. Referring to the climate of Mr. Chapman's choice the Queensland representative said it was not so cold as some people wished to make it out to be. It was invigorating, and as for being cold it was not as cold as Ottawa, Washington, London, Berlin, or St. Petersburg.

A member: What about the capital of Iceland? Is it warmer than that?

Mr. Archer said it did not matter to Queensland where the capital was in New South Wales; a hundred miles either way was a matter of little importance to them. He, however, thought that the site should be as near Sydney as it was possible, taking into consideration the 100 miles limit. The water question was not the most important factor in the matter of the selection of a site for a capital. If there was enough water at one place for the population, it did not want to go to another where there was five times as much water as was required, especially if other conditions were not so favourable at the latter place. His choice of the many sites was Lyndhurst. Dalgety was the most unsuitable place that could be mentioned. It was perishingly cold there. There was very little timber, and it was a most out-of-the-way place. The only advantage Dalgety had was its water supply; but water did not make a perfect city. He thought it would be much better if the question were hung up for 100 or 200 years, as he did not think Australia had made up its mind about the subject. They would then get a calm and reasonable choice.

Mr. Fisher: It would be a gross breach of faith. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Archer: I would not assist in doing that unless the movement was countenanced by the representatives of New South Wales.

Mr. Coon contended that the people of New South Wales were not anxious to have the question of the capital site settled.

Mr. Dugald Thomson: You don't want to have the question settled for 50 years.

Mr. Fowler urged the Government to use every effort to reach finality in the matter. His remarks were addressed to practically empty benches, the total number present being nine, four of whom were Ministers; of the remaining five two were dozing.

After Mr. Fowler concluded his remarks the debate was adjourned at 4.45 p.m. till Tuesday.

NORFOLK ISLAND.

September 16.

Messrs. Burns, Philp, and Company's island mail steamer Tambo, Captain Wetherall, arrived from Sydney on Monday morning, the 7th instant, anchoring off town, and after discharging mails, passengers, and cargo, resumed her voyage to the islands the same afternoon. Mrs. Mallet was a passenger by the steamer from here.

The Melanesian Mission yacht Southern Cross, Captain Tinker, arrived from Auckland on the 7th instant, and sailed for the islands at 5 p.m. on the 9th, taking as passengers Misses Wilson and Owen, Revs. Stewart, Howard, Caine, Messrs. J. Palmer, Moir, Stephen, and 12 natives. The Southern Cross will make a round of all the mission stations, and is due back here the beginning of November, when she will proceed to Auckland for the season.

Whaling is very backward. So far no whales have yet been taken, but with the return of better weather conditions the whalemen still hope to make a decent catch.

The island is just now enjoying a spell of good weather, after the bleak and uncongenial winter, and the roads which were very bad during the rainy season are now quite good again; the grass, too, is springing, and the grazing stock are looking better.

Weather conditions for August.—Ther.: Max., 75; min., 55. Rain on 14 days, 5.48in. Winds, easterly 16, westerly 15 days.

PORT KEMBLA JETTY.

ELECTROLYTIC COMPANY'S DIFFICULTY.

WOLLONGONG, Friday.

It is asserted on behalf of the company that the failure of the Government to carry out its understanding with the Electrolytic Company at Port Kembla in the matter of providing a jetty for unloading ores, etc., within such time as required, has placed the company in a difficulty. The low level jetty was to have been completed in October, but not more than 3 per cent. of the work is done. Ores from Mount Morgan must be carried by sea. The terms of treatment will not admit of transhipment to rail, so if there is no berth for ships ores must remain at Mount Morgan. The company anticipated being able to begin smelting early in December, and to have this business fairly going by the end of that month; but unless some temporary provision for unloading can be made it will not be this year that the first ton of copper will be turned out.

The contract with the Adelaide S.S. Company for the carriage of ores from Rockhampton has now been cancelled.

If the department will do nothing then the company will consider the question of suspending further construction work in the meantime.

THE TEMPERANCE QUESTION.

OPPOSITION TO GROCERS' LICENSES.

BOYCOTT URGED.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

At the W.C.T.U. Convention, which was continued to-day, a report was read dealing with licenses issued to grocers for the sale of liquor.

In the discussion which followed Mrs. Nolan (Australasian president) said that they ought to boycott grocers who sold liquor. The liquor was a danger to the men who worked there and to the women of the country. Besides, it was not fair to the publicans that men who sold almost everything under the sun should be allowed to add strong drink to their list.

Mrs. Peirce stated that in Maitland many ladies had taken up a determined attitude against grocers who sold liquor.

Mrs. Lynch quoted the case of one country town in which a woman had been fined for sly grog-selling. Next day, however, a cart from the grocer's shop delivered another supply of liquor to her. Other speakers contended that grocers' licenses and wine licenses held by fruit shops should have been the first to be taken away.

In a report upon Sabbath observance, read by Mrs. Marsden, stress was laid upon the duty of all to bring about a better state of public opinion in regard to the proper observance of the Sabbath.

Mrs. Medcalf, senr., brought up the subject of the keeping open of Italian shops in some of the suburbs of Sydney on Sundays, and another delegate stated that an officer of police had told her union that he believed a league existed amongst the Italians through which all fines were paid, for they continued to sell on Sundays in spite of prosecution.

The sittings of the convention were concluded this evening. The election of officers this afternoon resulted as follows:—State president, Mrs. Courtenay Smith; State corresponding secretary, Mrs. Masterman; State recording secretary, Mrs. Greenstreet; State treasurer, Mrs. Ada; State "Y" secretary, Miss Henry; State vice-president, Mrs. Ardill.

During the afternoon the Rev. G. Masterman was presented with an oak inkstand with silver shield inscribed "G. M., from the W.C.T.U., 1908."

MOUNTAIN INDUSTRIES.

LITHGOW, Friday.

At the Cobar smelting works the furnaces are working up to their capacity. The Burraga smelting works, however, are not active. One furnace continues under fire, and in this only "hearths" and ore from Bulga copper mine, near Orange, are being treated. The coal trade during the week has been normal.

A TWO-HEADED CALF.

GERRINGONG, Friday.

Last week a cow of Mr. Peter Quinn's, Rose Valley, gave birth to a calf with two heads. Its tail was formed about half-way up along the back. It did not survive long after birth.

ANTI-TRUST LAW.

DEPARTMENT TAKES ACTION.

ALLEGED COAL AND SHIPPING COMBINE.

HUDDART, PARKER, AND CO., DEFENDANTS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

To-day proceedings were commenced against an alleged combine in the shipping trade by the Federal authorities, when they applied for summonses under the Australian Industries Preservation Act, more popularly known as the Anti-trust Act.

The summonses were obtained by the Federal Crown Solicitor at the City Court for service on Messrs. Huddart, Parker, and Co., and on Mr. Appleton, manager for Messrs. Huddart, Parker, and Co. The complaint was that defendants refused to answer certain questions which had been put to them by the Crown Solicitor under powers contained in the Act. The information in each case read as follows:—

"The information of Richard William Moorehead, of Melbourne, in the State of Victoria, an officer of Customs, duly authorised by his Majesty's Attorney-General of Commonwealth of Australia to institute these proceedings, who saith that Comptroller-General of Customs, believing that offences had been committed against section 5, subsection 1 (a), and section 8, subsection 1, respectively, of part 2 of Australian Industries Preservation Act, 1906, did on the 22nd day of September, 1908, by writing under his hand, dated 17th day of September, 1908, require Huddart, Parker, and Co. Proprietary, Limited, whom said Comptroller-General believed to be capable of giving information in relation to alleged offences, to answer certain questions, to wit, the following:—

1 (a) Is Huddart, Parker, and Co. Propty., Ltd., now, or has it been at any time since September 24, 1906, either by itself or in conjunction with any other shipping company, a party to any agreement, arrangement, or understanding with all or any of the following persons and companies:—J. and A. Brown, J. and W. Brown, Australian Agricultural Company, Seaham Colliery Company, Ltd., Abermain Coal Company, Ltd., Caledonian Coal Company, Ltd., East Greta Coal-mining Company, Ltd., Newcastle Coal-mining Company, Ltd., Newcastle-Wallsend Company, Scottish-Australian Mining Company, Ltd., Hetton Coal Company, Ltd., Dudley Coal Company, Ltd., Stockton Coal Company, Ltd., Heddon Greta Coal Company, Ltd., William Laidley and Co., Ltd., Frances Sneddon and Daniel Sneddon (the trustees of Andrew Sneddon, deceased), Walter Rutledge Johnson, Alex. Ross and William Cork (the trustees of J. W. Johnson, deceased), Robert Maddison, the Pacific Coal Company, Ltd., the New Lambton Land and Coal Company, Ltd., James Ruttley, Frederick R. Croft; by which it is, or was, agreed, arranged, or understood that Huddart, Parker, and Co. Propy., Ltd., shall or should not purchase, sell, or deal with, either as principal or agent, in Victoria, South Australia, Western Australia, or Queensland coal obtained from any person or company other than those set out in the list above, or some of them, excepting a specified quantity of coal from the southern collieries of New South Wales?

(b) Is Huddart, Parker, and Co., Ltd., now, or has it been at any time since September 24, 1906, either by itself or in conjunction with any shipping company, a party to any agreement, arrangement, or understanding with all or any of the persons and companies mentioned in the list set forth in the last preceding question, by which it is or was agreed, arranged, or understood that Huddart, Parker, and Co. Propty., Ltd., shall or should not purchase, sell, or deal in, either as principal or agent, in Victoria, South Australia, Western Australia, or Queensland, coal obtained from any person or company other than those set forth in the said list, or some of them, excepting a specified quantity from the southern collieries of New South Wales, and coal gotten from the Newcastle-Wallsend Company?

(c) Is Huddart, Parker, and Co. Propty., Ltd., now, or has it been at any time since September 24, 1906, either by itself or in conjunction with any other shipping company, a party to any agreement or understanding with all or any of the persons or companies mentioned in the list set forth in question 1(a) hereof, by which it is or was agreed, arranged, or understood that Huddart, Parker, and Co. Propty., Ltd., shall or shall not purchase, sell, or deal in, either as principal or agent in Victoria, S.A., W.A., Queensland, or New Zealand, the coal obtained from any person or company other than those set forth in the said list, or some of them, excepting a specified quantity from the southern collieries of New South Wales?

(d) Is Huddart, Parker, and Co. Propty., Ltd., now, or has it been at any time since Sept 24, 1906, either by itself or in conjunction with any other shipping company, a party to any agreement, arrangement, or understanding with all or any of the persons and companies mentioned in the list set forth in question 1(a) hereof, by which any limitation or restriction of any kind is or was placed upon the right of Huddart, Parker, and Co. Propty., Ltd., to carry, deliver, sell, purchase, or deal in coal other than that obtained from the persons and companies set forth in the said list, or any of them?

(e) If there is or was any such agreement, arrangement, or understanding as that referred to in any or all of the four last preceding questions, who are or were parties to such agreement, arrangement, or understanding, and what are or were the terms thereof, and if the same has been determined, when it was determined?

2(a) Is Huddart, Parker, and Co. Propty., Ltd., now, or has it been at any time since September 24, 1906, either by itself or in conjunction with any other shipping company, with any one or more of the persons and companies mentioned in the list set forth in question hereof, by which it is or was agreed, arranged, or understood that the said persons and companies, or any of them, should or should not supply coal for consumption in the States of Victoria, South Australia, Western Australia, and Queensland, or any of the said States, except to or through Huddart, Parker, and Co. Propty., Ltd., the Adelaide Steamship Company, Ltd., Howard, Smith, and Co., Ltd., M'Ilwraith, M'Eacharn, and Co. Propty., Ltd., and the Union Steamship Company, Ltd., or any or some of them?

(b) If there is or was any such agreement, arrangement, or understanding, what are or were the terms thereof, and who are or were the parties thereto, and if the same has been determined, when was it determined?

3. (a) Is Huddart, Parker, and Co., Proprietary, Ltd., now, or has it been at any time since September 24, 1906, either by itself or in conjunction with any other shipping company, a party to any agreement, arrangement, or understanding with any one or more of the persons and companies mentioned in the list set forth in question (a) hereof, by which it is, or was, agreed, arranged, or understood that the said persons and companies, or any of them, should or should not supply coal for consumption in the States of Victoria, South Australia, Western Australia, Queensland (or to any of the said States), or New Zealand, except to or through Huddart, Parker, and Co., Proprietary, Ltd., the Adelaide Steamship Company, Ltd., Howard Smith Co., Ltd., M'Ilwraith, M'Eacharn, Proprietary Co., Ltd., and the Union Steamship Company of New Zealand, or some or one of them?

(b) If there is or was any such agreement, arrangement, or understanding, what are, or were, the parties thereto, and if the same has been determined, when was it determined?

4. (a) Is Huddart, Parker, and Co., Proprietary, Ltd., now, or has it been at any time since September 24, 1906, either by itself, or in conjunction with any other shipping company, a party to any agreement, arrangement, or understanding with any one or more of the persons or companies mentioned in the list set forth in question 1 (a) hereof, by which any limitation or restriction is, or was, placed upon the price at which Huddart, Parker, and Co., Proprietary, Ltd., may, or might, resell to purchasers coal obtained by Huddart, Parker, and Co., Propty., Ltd., from, or sold by Huddart, Parker, and Co., Proprietary, Ltd., for such persons or companies, or any of them, in any State or place other than New South Wales?

(b) If so, (1) who are or were the parties to such agreement, arrangement, or understanding? (2) What are or were the terms? (3) Does it or did it provide that if the parties thereto shall or should in the event of war, strikes, or lockouts agree to a reselling price in excess of the price so limited the amount of such excess, shall or should be shared annually or in some other proportion between Huddart, Parker, and Co., Propty., Ltd., and the said persons and companies or some of them? And (4) if it has been determined when was it determined?

(c) If there is or was any agreement, arrangement, or understanding of the kind referred to in either of the last two preceding questions, has there been any occasion or occasions since September 24, 1906, when a price over the sum fixed by such agreement, arrangement, or understanding has been obtained for coal sold by Huddart, Parker, and Co., Propty., Ltd., and the excess over such fixed sum divided between Huddart, Parker, and Co. and any one or more of the said persons and companies in accordance with such agreement, arrangement, or understanding.

(d) If so, what was the occasion or occasions, and the date or dates thereof?

5. (a) Has Huddart, Parker, and Co., at any time since September 24, 1906, been asked either as principal or agent, to sell or to quote a price for coal obtained for any or more of the persons and companies mentioned in the list set forth in question 1 (a) hereof, for consumption or delivery in any State of the Commonwealth or any place other than in New South Wales, such coal to be delivered to the purchaser f.o.b. at Newcastle in New South Wales? If so, what answer was given to such request or requests, and what was the date or dates of such request or requests, and the answer or answers thereto?

(b) Has Huddart, Parker, and Co., at any time since September 24, 1906, either as principal or agent, sold or offered to sell, obtained from any one or more of the said persons and companies, for delivery or consumption in—(1) Victoria, South Australia, Western Australia, or Queensland, or (2) in New Zealand, except at a price which included the cost of carriage from Newcastle to the port of delivery?

6. (a) Is there now or has there been at any time since September 24, 1906, any agreement, arrangement, or understanding between Huddart, Parker, and Co., Limited, and all or any of the following shipping companies:—Adelaide Steamship Company, Limited, Howard Smith Company, Limited, Huddart, Parker, and Co. Proprietary, Limited, M'Ilwraith, M'Eacharn Proprietary, Limited, the Union Steamship Company of New Zealand, Limited, by which it is or was agreed, or arranged, or understood that Huddart, Parker Proprietary, Limited, shall or should not sell either as principal or agent any coal obtained from the persons mentioned in the list set forth in question 1 (a) hereof, or any of them for delivery—(1) in Victoria, South Australia, Western Australia, or Queensland, or (2) in New South Wales, except upon the terms that such coal should be carried—(1) by the vessels or of one or other of the said shipping companies, or (2) by such vessels as were agreed upon by and between the said shipping companies?

(b) If there is or was any such agreement, arrangement, or understanding, what are or were the terms of same, which of the said shipping companies are or were parties thereto, and if the same has been determined, when was it determined?

To Richard Moorehead, a person named by the said Comptroller-General in relation to the said alleged offences. Yet the said Huddart, Parker, and Co. Proprietary, Ltd., did, on the 22nd day of September, 1908, refuse to answer the said questions, and each of them, contrary to the statute in that case made and provided. (Signed) R. W. Moorehead, informant.

Defendants were summoned to appear on 28th September, 1908, at the Court of Petty Sessions, Melbourne, to answer to the information.

AJAX-LEURA COLLISION.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Court of Marine Inquiry to-day concluded the taking of evidence regarding the charge of careless navigation preferred against Captain Sprott, master of the Leura, in connection with the Ajax-Leura collision.

Judgment was reserved.

COAL AND OTHER EXPORTS.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

The following vessels cleared at the Customs-house to-day:—Sydney, s, for Melbourne, via Sydney, with 710 tons coal; Andromeda, bq, for San Francisco, with 1729 tons coal; Ururoa, sch, for Wanganui, with 289 tons coal; Chillagoe, s, for Rockhampton, with 1320 tons coal; Edmund, bq, for Valparaiso, with 4846 tons coal; Laura, sch, for Kaipara, with 230 piles, 437 pieces of sawn timber; Westralia, s, for Hobart, with 1400 tons coal; Ashridge, s, for Melbourne, with 4700 tons coal; Frankby, s, for Bombay, via Colombo, with 5800 tons coal.

WEEKLY COAL EXPORT.

The total quantity of coal exported from Newcastle during the week ended to-day amounted to 71,876 tons. Commonwealth and New Zealand ports took 45,142 tons, while 26,734 tons were despatched to foreign destinations.

SMELTING RETURNS.

The ore treated at the sulphide works, Cockle Creek, during the week ended to-day yielded 1824oz of gold, 59,057oz of silver, and 380 tons of lead.

MINERS' FEDERATION.

HIGH-HANDED ACTION ALLEGED.

The adjourned meeting of the Miners' Federation was held to-day. An application from the miners of Rix's Creek to become affiliated with the federation was granted, and it was also reported that the miners at Black's colliery were desirous of forming a lodge. A report was given by Messrs. Bowling and Biggers in regard to trouble at Bell Bird. It was stated that 51 men had handed in their names as desirous of forming a lodge to become affiliated with the federation, and their entrance fees were to be paid to-day. Since their names were handed in, however, a number of the men had been discharged. Several members of the committee expressed great indignation at what they considered to be high-handed action on the part of the management of the mine, and it was decided that two of the executive officers should have an interview with the manager with a view to having the men reinstated.

WORK ON BACK SATURDAY.

A notice of motion was received by the committee of management of the Miners' Federation from the Aberdare lodge.—"That in the opinion of the Aberdare lodge the miners of the Newcastle and Maitland district should in future only work six hours on back Saturday." The motion was rejected; but a resolution was carried,—"That the general secretary be instructed to write to the Colliery Proprietors' Association requesting that they should have a conference between the two bodies to discuss the question of the abolition of work on back Saturday."

PUBLIC ABATTOIRS.

Some weeks ago a deputation waited upon the Chief Secretary, Mr. Wood, to urge the need for establishing a public abattoirs in Newcastle. Mr. Wood then stated that when the municipalities affected had agreed on the main points of the question he would be prepared to further consider their request. The Mayor, Alderman Cook, has now received from the department a copy of the bill introduced in 1903 and other documents dealing with the matter, with the request that the interested municipalities should intimate the amendments to the bill which they would like to see introduced. The Mayor has consequently convened a conference of municipal representatives, to be held on October 7, to deal with the matter.

BLAZE AT STOCKTON.

A weatherboard cottage near the old Stockton colliery at Stockton, and occupied by three men, caught fire last night, and was completely destroyed. The fire brigade was greatly handicapped, owing to the insufficient water supply, and recourse was had to pumping a stream from the harbour, which was directed on to some contiguous dwellings to prevent their catching alight. The origin of the fire is not known, neither could any information be gathered as to whether the building was insured.

LIGHT RAILWAY LINE.

WANTED AT LISMORE.

LINKING UP THE NORTH.

LISMORE, Friday.

A public meeting was held in the council-chambers last night to consider the advisability of urging the Government to construct a line of railway from Lismore to Nimbin. The attendance was representative of the town and district. The Mayor (Alderman Spinks), who presided, moved,— That on account of the rapid development of the dairying and timber industries, and the daily increased demand for lands for settlement, in the opinion of this meeting it is desirable that the Government should take immediate steps to construct a light line of railway from Lismore to Nimbin." The people of Nimbin, he said, wanted better means of access than bad roads. The distance to Nimbin was 21 miles. The light line to Barren Jack, a distance of 24 miles, had cost, with rolling stock, about £50,000, and where 30s per ton had been paid for the carriage of good 5s was now the rate per ton. A light line could be constructed to Nimbin for one-third the cost of that to Barren Jack.

Mr. G. Nesbitt seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously.

Councillor Greene (president, Terania Shire) moved,—"That this meeting requests the Minister for Works to authorise an immediate trial survey, so that the proposition may be laid before Parliament at the earliest possible moment, and that the Mayor of Lismore be empowered by the meeting to forward the foregoing resolution to the member for the district for presentation to the Minister for Works." Alderman Frith seconded the resolution, which was carried.

The Mayor then read a circular from the Inverell Railway League in favour of the construction of a line from Glen Innes to Inverell, and one from Tenterfield to Casino, and asking for the opinion of the meeting. On the motion of Mr. Kelly it was agreed,—"That this meeting desires to again affirm the urgent necessity of having railway connection from Glen Innes to Inverell, and Tenterfield to Casino, carried out without further delay."

Councillor Greene moved,—"That the meeting form itself into a league to carry on an agitation for the construction of a light line of railway to Nimbin, and linking up the southern line from Tenterfield with the Grafton-Tweed line at Casino. Mr. Ofyn seconded the motion, which was carried.

THE MISSING LOCH LOMOND.

LIST OF THE CREW.

The Union Company's missing barque Loch Lomond is now 73 days out from Newcastle with a cargo of coal consigned to Lyttelton, and anxiety for the safety of her crew is increasing.

The following are the officers and sailors who left the northern port in the Loch Lomond:—J. Thompson (of North Sydney), master; John Court, first officer; John Jathieson, second mate; J. M'Coffett, carpenter; John Miller, E. Waddington, O. Brierley, J. Blanche, J. Jones, T. Query, John M'Vicar, E. Stenson, J. M'Kay, M. D. Harrison, E. Roache, E. Reid, Norman Ravist, seamen; H. Cooper, cook; A. Young, cabin boy.

The master and mate shipped on the vessel at Newcastle, the others having joined at Melbourne, where the vessel was taken over by the Union Steamship Company at the time of her purchase.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Friday.

BROKEN HILL MINERS ORGANISING

BROKEN HILL, Friday.

Mr. Tom Mann will visit Broken Hill next week at the invitation of the labour unions primarily for organising purposes, but probably in connection with the threatened wages trouble.

Speaking of the proposed registration of the A.M.A. under the Federal Arbitration Act, Mr. Barnet, secretary, said yesterday (in reply to a query, "What is the object of registration?") "The Act only applies to industrial disputes extending beyond the boundaries of any one State, and we want to be in a position to take advantage of it if necessary, and when we are affiliated with the branch of the A.M.A. in the other States. I have correspondence to show that we will be affiliated very soon."

"What will be the effect if a dispute in the mining industry comes before the Federal Court?"—"It will enable the Court to fix a common rule for the industry if necessary, with due regard to local conditions. Of course it will not interfere in a dispute confined to any one State."

The non-political industrial union, the A.M.A., is already registered under the Federal Act.

THE COMMONWEALTH.

ITS RELATION TO WAGES.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Mr. Hughes in the House of Representatives to-day asked the Prime Minister if, in view of the breakdown of the new protection, proceedings could not be taken under the Anti-trust Act against manufacturers of agricultural implements, compelling them to pay what Mr. Justice Higgins termed fair and reasonable wages. The member for West Sydney pointed out that action could be taken under those clauses providing for fair competition. He claimed that there could be no fair competition if unfair wages were paid to workers.

Mr. Deakin said that he would bring the matter under the notice of the Attorney-General.

DEFENCE BILL.

On Tuesday when the House of Representatives meets the Minister for Defence will explain the provisions of the Defence Bill. After he has done so the debate will be adjourned to allow members to consider the measure.

The bill for establishing a Federal Bureau of Agriculture, which was read for the first time in the House of Representatives to-day, provides for a bureau for distributing information and collecting and distributing new and valuable seeds and plants, and carrying out experiments; and also for the investigation of diseases.

FREE HIGH SCHOOL.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA FLATTERS HERSELF.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

The Adelaide High School, formerly known as the Continuation School, was declared open yesterday by the Minister for Education. The Director of Education stated that they flattered themselves that they had as fine a secondary school as could be found in Australia. More than that, it was the first free public high school opened in the Commonwealth. The headmaster is Mr. W. J. Adey.

THE DRIFTING WHANGAPE.

UNSUCCESSFUL SEARCH.

SUVA, Friday.

The steamer Atua has returned after an unsuccessful search for the steamer Whangape, which is drifting with a broken tail shaft.

FRIENDLY SOCIETIES' ASSOCIATION

WAGE LIMIT CLAUSE.

The Friendly Societies' Association of N. S. Wales, at its meeting last night, gave consideration to the British Medical Association's model agreement. Correspondence relative thereto was read from a large number of friendly societies affiliated with the association. In almost every case societies expressed repugnance to the clause of the agreement concerning the wage limit. The chairman (Bro. Salmon) referred to the clause as being the crux of the whole matter. The clause reads as follows:—"That any person joining a lodge shall be deemed ineligible for any medical benefit from such lodge if, on joining the society, he and his wife have a joint income of over £200 per annum, or at any time thereafter these joint incomes exceed £300."

Bro. Watson (I.O.O.F.), in moving—"That this association does not agree to any agreement including any wage limit," said that the B.M.A. should be made to realise that it was only one factor. The doctors must not forget that in dealing with the friendly societies they were treating with a body that must be considered.

Other members expressed the opinion that there was no possibility of friendly societies accepting the wage limit clause. There were numbers of men earning £100 per year who, owing to the circumstances of their lives, were infinitely better off than others earning £300.

The motion was carried.

INSTITUTE OF JOURNALISTS.

A social evening for pressmen arranged in connection with the Institute of Journalists was held last evening at Beach's Cafe. The attendance was large and representative, and the reunion proved a source of considerable pleasure. Mr. F. Wilkinson, president of the institute, occupied the chair. Senor Luis Popelaire, a Chilian journalist, travelling with the Chilian training ship, General Baquedano, was the principal guest, and in responding to the toast of his health, he conveyed fraternal greetings to the journalists of New South Wales.

WILL THE "MESSIAH" BE HELD?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I note from your issue of this morning that there is a strong probability of the Sydney Philharmonic Society being compelled to abandon the usual Christmas Night production of the "Messiah" at the Town Hall, on account of a higher tender having been received for the use of the hall on that evening. This news will be received with regret, not only by residents of Sydney, but by the numerous country visitors to the metropolis at Christmas time who have always so liberally patronised the production of this noble and uplifting creation of a great master.

There is a ray of hope, however, that the City Council at their meeting on Tuesday next to consider the tenders may decide to accept the tender of the Philharmonic Society, although the lowest; and it is to be hoped that the following reasons will weigh with them:—

1. The society is the oldest and most consistent customer of the council in respect of the Town Hall, having held all their concerts there since the hall was built, say for 18 years. During that time the City Treasury must have benefited to the extent of many hundreds of pounds, having regard to the fact that five regular concerts, in addition to festivals, have been given each year by the society.

2. The Christmas production of the "Messiah" has become so sanctified by uninterrupted performance on a splendid scale for so many years that public sympathy is sure to be on the side of the society, and would support the council in removing Christmas Night from the list of dates open for tender, and I am convinced would even sanction the absolute reservation of the hall for the society on that one night in each year.

3. The society is not run for profit, and the executive, with the exception of the office of conductor, is a purely honorary one. As an institution existing for the education of the masses it should be given some preference. It pays away hundreds of pounds per annum to professional musicians, and has always shown itself most enterprising in engaging the best available talent, both locally and visiting.

There can be no two opinions that the public of Sydney are under a heavy debt of gratitude to the Philharmonic Society for disseminating good music at a cost within the means of the great majority of the citizens. The result has been that although the hall is crowded on subscription concert nights heavy monetary loss has been invariably sustained thereon, as can easily be ascertained from the annual balance-sheets which are published for public information. It is to the annual production of the "Messiah" that the executive looks to make up the loss on the subscription concerts, and if there is any uncertainty about securing the Town Hall, which is the only suitable place for the purpose, the very existence of the society will be imperilled, and a great educational factor perhaps lost to the community. It is to be remembered that the society cannot afford to tender so high as an outsider, whose expenses beyond the cost of the hall are very light. For instance, the society has to provide an expensive professional orchestra, and must engage thoroughly competent vocalists, the cost of which I should imagine far exceeds the difference of £46 10s between the two tenders.

I trust that the public of Sydney will devise some means of making known their desire that the custom of so many years remain undisturbed. I am, etc.,

VICTORIA.

OLD STAMP FRAUDS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Further investigations have revealed the fact that the frauds committed by the removal of the duty stamps from old court documents and their use again as new stamps have not been confined to the Ballarat group of courts. Frauds have been committed at other courts. So far evidence sufficient to warrant a prosecution has not been obtained.

TASMANIA.

A STRANDED STEAMER.

HOBART, Friday.

The steamer Warrentinna was reported a few days ago aground near Whales Head, but in no danger. The Koonookarra returned yesterday from the scene of the stranding. Captain J. Holyman, when interviewed, merely stated that the vessel was all right, and it was hoped to get her off in a day or two.

It appears that the stranded vessel was moored to the rocks, and owing to a heavy sea, broke loose. An attempt was made to steam out to sea, but the cable became entangled with the screw. The engines were stopped in consequence, and the vessel drifted on to the beach, taking ground almost broadside on, with her bow a little in towards the shore. When the Koonookarra left about 40 of the 70 tons of copper ore had been landed. The hull had not been damaged to such an extent as expected.

THE LICENSING BILL.

The Legislative Council last night concluded consideration of the Licensing Bill in committee. Many amendments were made, the most important being the change of voters at the licensing polls to ratepayers instead of Parliamentary electors, each ratepayer to have only one ballot.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA.

RAILWAY EMPLOYEES AND ARBITRATION.

PERTH, Friday.

At the annual conference of the Amalgamated Society of Railway Employees a motion affirming the desirableness of cancelling the registration of the society under the Arbitration and Conciliation Act was defeated by an overwhelming majority.

MRS. McDONALD'S DEATH.

The inquest which was held concerning the death on September 18 of Mrs. M'Donald, who on the previous day attempted by drowning and administering poison to put an end to the lives of herself and her two children, was concluded to-day.

The jury found that the deceased died from arsenical poisoning, self-administered, while temporarily insane.

THE EXTRADITION APPLICATION.

The extradition proceedings in connection with George Mueller, the young German at present under arrest on a charge of having committed murder and robbery within the jurisdiction of the German Emperor, were concluded at the City Police Court to-day. The magistrate reserved his decision.

QUEENSLAND.

ETHERIDGE TROUBLE SETTLED.

BRISBANE, Friday.

The conference dealing with the Etheridge trouble took place to-day, and a settlement was arrived at. All persons who took part in the strike are allowed to return to work and the minimum rate of pay is to be 9s a day, with not less than 10s a day to men filling ballast in pits. There is to be no reduction in the wages of the men who, previous to the strike, were receiving 9s. Sunday work is to be at the rate of time and a half.

By the R.M.S. Ortona 79 immigrants sailed for Queensland last Friday.

W.C.T.U. CONVENTION.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

The W.C.T.U. Convention to-day passed resolutions dealing with a number of subjects. Satisfaction was expressed at the inclusion of clauses in the Police Offences Bill dealing with street solicitation and opium smoking, and it was considered that the liability of owners and occupiers of houses let for immoral purposes should be amplified on the lines of the English law and the enactments of the other Australian States. A resolution was carried to the effect that the attempt made to introduce conscription in Australia was dangerous. It had been a menace in other countries where it had been tried, and Australians were not desirous of becoming a military people. Approval was accorded the clause in the Girls' Protection Bill raising the age of protection to 17 years. It was decided to protest to the Chief Railway Commissioner against allowing liquor to be sold to townspeople at railway refreshment rooms on Sundays, and it was also resolved that a petition be presented to Parliament against the passage of the Totalisator Bill.

H.M.S. GIBRALTAR.

RELIEF OFFICERS FOR SYDNEY.

After a trip of 54 days from Plymouth, via Albany, the second-class cruiser Gibraltar entered the Heads last night, and anchored in Farm Cove. The object of the voyage was to bring out relief crews for the cruisers Challenger and Prometheus.

With the exception of the incident of certain gun sights being thrown overboard, the trip was almost uneventful. The offender, who, it is alleged, has confessed his guilt, is still in irons, and will be tried before a court-martial on Monday.

Very trying weather was experienced in the Red Sea, the heat being so intense that five stokers nearly succumbed to its effects. One named Staddon was unconscious for three hours, and was expected to die.

On Thursday, when in the vicinity of Wilson's Promontory, Fred. Smith, an A.B., died of nephritis, after an illness of two days.

FOR THE CONSUMPTIVE.

SUPPORT OF FRIENDLY SOCIETIES.

At last night's meeting of the Friendly Societies' Association the following recommendation by the A.N.A. was discussed at considerable length:—

"That the Friendly Societies' Association recommend that the societies connected therewith should endow and support beds in the Queen Victoria Home for Consumptives, and with that object in view each society subscribe the sum of £1 1s per annum for each 1000 members, and that the beds so endowed shall be known as the New South Wales Friendly Societies' beds."

There were, it was pointed out by one member, roughly speaking 100,000 members of friendly societies in the State, and that the contribution therefore would not be a heavy one. Others held that the matter concerned the State, and that the whole people should deal with it. The State was not doing enough for the consumptives.

The recommendation was agreed to.

HURSTVILLE EISTEDDFOD.

The concluding concerts of the recent eisteddfod were held at the Hurstville Hall on Monday and Thursday. All the artists were first prize winners in the recent competitions. Mr. Mel. B. Barker, who was adjudicator, paid a compliment to the conductor (Mr. W. H. P. Edwards) and his committee for their efforts in making the eisteddfod a complete success. He said the talent that had appeared at the 1908 festival would hold its own in any part of the Commonwealth. The Hurstville Eisteddfod was now the largest in New South Wales, and more than likely would become the Ballarat of the State.

The conductor, Mr. W. H. P. Edwards, gave an interesting summary of the districts from which the prize winners came. These were:—Balmain 10 first and 10 second prizes, Newtown 17 and 13, Paddington 10 and 7, Rockdale 7 and 12, Hurstville 6 and 6, Waverley 5 and 2, Moore Park 5 and 2, Leichhardt 5 and 5, Marrickville 4 first, Dulwich Hill 4 and 1, Kogarah 4 and 2, Petersham 3 and 3, Parramatta 3 firsts, Lewisham 3 and 2, North Sydney 2 and 3, Glebe 2 and 4, Bondi 2 firsts, Sydney 2 and 9, Hay 2 and 1, Newcastle 2 and 1, Bexley 2 and 4, Carlton 2 and 1, Redfern 2 and 5, Coogee 1 first, Annandale 1 and 5, Forest Lodge 1 and 1, Potts Point 1 and 1, Tempe 1 and 1, Waterloo 1 first, Haberfield 1 first, Stanmore 1 and 3, Kensington 1 and 2, Enmore 1 and 8, Auburn 1, Oatley 1, Heathcote 1 and 1. Winners of second prizes: Granville 5, Surry Hills 5, Sutherland 2, St. Peters 2, Wollongong 1, Sydenham 1, Waterloo 1, Erskineville 1, Burwood 3, Woollahra 2, Alexandria 1, Corrimal 1. Balmain District Choral Union (conductor, M. A. J. Walker) annexed two prizes, value £26, and a gold medal to conductor.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.

The Antarctic disturbance has contracted considerably, covering on the mainland of Australia only half its former area. It is now situated over the south-eastern States, showing great intensification, the central barometric value being 29.18in at Hobart. Some of its isobars exhibit similar characteristics to those in the preceding disturbance responsible for the recent hail and snow falls. The depression is closely followed by an incipient high, which now covers the western half of the continent. The above pressure distribution favours stormy and squally NW to SW winds generally, with showers, and possibly thunder and hail. Squalls south of the Lachlan, reaching to south slopes and central tablelands. Fine in north and on coast.

Ocean Forecast.—Bad weather over the Southern Ocean, with boisterous stormy winds from between north-west and south-west between Sydney, Melbourne, Hobart, and Adelaide.

METEOROLOGICAL REPORTS.

THE YORKSHIRE FEAST.

FIRST ANNIVERSARY.

Yorkshiremen attended in large numbers at the New Masonic Hall last evening to celebrate the anniversary of the formation of the society, and to partake of the annual Yorkshire feast. The president, Mr. E. Kilburn Scott, presided.

After the usual loyal toast, the president proposed the health of Sir Harry Rawson, patron of the society. His Excellency had found his way into the hearts of the Australian people as no other Governor had done. They felt his approaching departure keenly, and only hoped that the Imperial authorities could find another such Yorkshireman for Governor.

Senator Gray proposed the "Army and Navy," to which Senator Nield responded.

The president, in proposing "Yorkshire, Our County," told of the many great Yorkshiremen who had helped to make New South Wales. Captain Cook first made Australia a part of the Empire, Lieutenant Braithwaite, Richard Goldsbrough, and J. S. Horsfall were identified with the wool trade, Rev. Samuel Marsden was the father of the Church in Australia, Sir Charles Cowper was the second Premier of the State, Thos. Holt, the first Colonial Treasurer, John Whitton was intimately connected with our railway construction; while Henry Copeland, Phil. May, Mel. B. Spurr, J. W. Nicholson, Rev. W. G. Taylor, Dr. Geo. Brown, Professor Liversidge, Dr. Gamidge, and scores of others, and, last but not least, Sir Harry Rawson, were all Yorkshiremen. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. S. D. Townsend, vice-president, proposed "The Land We Live In," and Mr. Sevann supported the toast.

Dr. Arthur, M.L.A., said that people should be prepared to assume the duties of citizenship, and be ready to defend Australia if occasion arose. If the people were not prepared to volunteer, then they should be made.

Mr. J. B. Dance proposed "Kindred Societies," to which Mr. E. M'Donald (Highland Society) and Mr. L. C. R. Jones (Cymric Society) responded.

PUBLIC WORKS COMMITTEE.

The Public Works Committee met yesterday and further considered the expediency of constructing a breakwater on the northern side of the entrance to the Clarence River. Mr. W. Rossbach, assistant engineer, Department of Public Works, was further examined on the matter. The committee will sit at Lithgow on Monday next.

FINANCIAL.

THE "TIMES" ON THE SURPLUS.

The criticism of the "Times" Sydney correspondent that the State Treasurer's surplus is in effect a "bogus" one, deliberately manipulated to throw dust in the eyes of the people at home and the creditors abroad, oversteps the mark. As a matter of fact Mr. Waddell has minimised rather than attempted to inordinately expand his surplus. The only point on which the Treasurer lays himself open to criticism—and this is really an affair of his predecessors rather than his own—is in connection with the land revenue. As is well known, the ex-Premier got a bill through Parliament authorising him to transfer two-thirds of the net proceeds of the sale of Crown lands, less 20 per cent., to the Public Works Fund. Now, as a matter of fact the whole of this money should be so transferred, or at any rate should not be treated as revenue. The State revenue last year was stated as £13,995,865, in which was included £894,134 from the alienation of Crown lands. Were this sum excluded the net revenue would still be £13,101,731. The expenditure is stated as £12,160,806, leaving a balance of £940,925. Among the expenditure, however, is included £406,145, of which £390,000 goes to the sinking fund, and £50,000 to the redemption of Treasury bills. These sums, and certainly the first-named, cannot be regarded as expenditure proper. If this £406,145 be added to the £940,925 already mentioned, we have a surplus on the year's transactions of £1,347,070, which is very different from the "Times's" £665,000. This is placing the position in its very worst light. Had the Treasurer adopted the plan of most of his predecessors he might have regarded his surplus as £2,050,000.

WOOLLY MILLIONS.

Though the first seven months is a period unfavourable to Australia, it is interesting to see how this country compares with her competing wool-producers as suppliers to the United Kingdom. This can be readily seen from the Board of Trade returns. These give the value of the imports of wool into the United Kingdom from all sources during the first seven months of the current year as £19,587,679, of which Australia's share was £8,831,098, and New Zealand's £5,183,090. This apparent disproportion between the Commonwealth and the Dominion is due to the fact that whereas most of the wool of the latter country came into the period quoted, a comparatively small proportion of Australia's product was included. But it is in other countries that most interest lies. Here are the figures for the last two years:—

From—	First seven months, 1907. £	1908. £
Belgium	208,879	121,256
France	795,739	626,965
Turkey	149,077	74,611
Uruguay	161,730	208,020
South American E. Coast (except Uruguay and Argentine Republic)	—	146
South America (West Coast)	686,874	714,221
British South Africa	2,304,695	1,663,716
British East Indies	801,625	570,779
Australia	9,820,551	8,831,098
New Zealand	7,068,726	5,183,090

LONDON FINANCIAL CABLE NEWS.

The Bank of England return this week discloses no feature of outstanding interest. This institution is still in an exceptionally strong position, with 54.28 per cent. of its liabilities in reserve. The mining market exhibits some irregularity. Short loans are firmer, while three months' bills have eased. In Paris money is dearer, in Berlin cheaper, than a week ago. Consols have advanced 2/6, while Australian securities have varied but slightly in price. Butter in Tooley-street is advised as dull, with prices unchanged, and no Australian offering. Wheat has hardened in sympathy, with the rise in the American markets, coupled with the quarantining of Russian shipments, on account of the cholera scare. Bradford tops are advised as quiet, with prices barely maintained. Metals have generally eased during the week, copper being 15/, tin £1/17/6, lead 2/6, and spelter 7/6 lower.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

While Australia is talking about its great iron resources, and leaving it at that, somnolent China has floated a company in Berlin, with a capital of £4,000,000, to take over the Hanyang Iron and Steel Works and two coal mines.

For some years these works have been turning out iron and steel on most up-to-date lines.

A shipment of some thousands of tons of steel was recently shipped from China to New York, where it is said to have been sold at a profit.

It is proposed to so extend these Hanyang works as to enable them in the course of a few years to meet the Government requirements of arms, rails, and machinery.

At present the production of these Chinese works is 80,000 tons per annum.

Commonwealth gold shipments from January 1 to date this year have totalled £10,426,000, an increase of £4,356,000 over those of last year for the corresponding period.

The "Investors' Review" (London) is of the opinion that the New South Wales Government is still spending too much borrowed money on works not directly reproductive.

Foster Brewing Company, Limited, has been placed on the Stock Exchange list. This company has issued 57,600 shares of 20/ each.

P. L. C. Shepherd and Son, Limited, has been formed with a capital of £10,000 in £1 shares, of which 7500 are issued as fully paid, to take over the business of P. L. C. Shepherd and Son, seedsmen and nurserymen. The governing director of the company, whose registered office will be in Sydney, is Herbert Garratt.

The Eastern takes 19 boxes of gold, valued at £16,800 for Hongkong to-day.

COMMERCIAL.

GOVERNMENT TEA CONTRACTS.

The Stores Supply and Tender Board is inviting tenders for the supply of 65,500lb tea for the use of Government institutions at a uniform price of /7½ per lb, to samples to be submitted by the tenderers. Tenders close on October 6, and the conditions specify that all the tea is to be delivered within eight weeks from the date of the acceptance of tender. Full particulars are advertised.

BREADSTUFFS.

The market was very firm. Holders were firm at 4/3, although some operations were reported at a little better. Bear sellers were on the market for wheat, as were also buyers for Queensland. Local millers were taking things quietly. New wheat attracted buyers at 3/8½ to 3/9, but holders were not reciprocating.

Flour was unchanged. Standard quotations were £9/5/ and £9, but, as on the previous day, there was plenty of Southern and country flour to be had at £8/10/ to £8/15/.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE.

Two years ago	9 9	11 10

Teas.—The auctions were disappointing. The greater part of a catalogue of Indians was passed in owing to buyers being unwilling to come up to vendors' ideas. Up to /9¼ was bid for the Assams cleared. Cable advices from Calcutta were to the effect that shipments could not be duplicated under ½d advance. Private business on spot was quiet. 300 Ceylons were reported as being sold up to 1/2.

Messrs. Alfred Harvey and Co. offer, on behalf of Messrs. Claude Healy, a catalogue of Ceylon and Indian teas on Tuesday.

Messrs. H. W. Carey and Co. offer next Friday China teas as advertised.

Groceries.—Ordinary distributing business was reported. 150 boxes cleaned amalias sold at /5¼. Australians sold on spot at /6. 150 boxes two-crown sultanas moved at /6¼, three-crown /6½, four-crown /6¾, five-crown /7. Lexias sold from /4 to /5, according to grade. 100 boxes of apples, in bulk, sold at /7½, 50 boxes, in 1lb cartons, at /8¼; evaporated apricots from /10 to /10½; pears, /10½; peaches, /11. All fruits were in strong demand. 100 cases Scroll salmon sold at the previous rate of 10/3 quarters, 6/6 halves. 50 cases Horseshoe karluk passed at from 7/6 to 7/9. Sardines were in fair request. Ordinary halves brought 4/9, ordinary quarters 2/9. Tref. halves (scarce), 7/, quarters 3/9. All malted vinegars were in strong demand. Holbrook's sauces sold at 15/6 quarts, 8/3 pints, 6/ half-pints. D.R.J. candles brought /7. Goudas /7½, Schiedams /7 for export. All milk had fair sales, Gold Medal moving more freely at the reduced rate.

Oils.—A normal demand was experienced. Business, however, was chiefly confined to distributing channels. B.S. linseed sold in small lots at the unaltered rate of 3/3, and 3/5, with second brands /1 lower, and parcels of either obtainable at a concession of /1 on distributing rates. Megill's oil sold at 3/ in casks, and 3/2 drums. Some makers' linseed at £8/10/ to £9, according to parcel. Castor had attention at 2/10 to 2/11, according to parcel. Pure China was worth 4/10, delivered; matured China at 5/3. Merrison's lamp oil was quoted at 3/4 in small lots. Fish oils were taken at unaltered rates. Business was done in fine whale at £30. Second grade Colza sold at 3/6, 4/, 4/6, and 4/9. 20 cases oil being quoted at 2/11, and 40 cases Pinetree at 2/7 to 2/8.

The British-Imperial Oil Company were quoting:—Silverlight kerosene, in tins, /9¼ per gall. f.o.r. Sydney; Shell (Mota) benzine, 1/2½; Shell (Mota) naphtha, 1/5½; Shell (Mota) motor car spirit, 1/5½. Spirit terms net cash 14 days.

Metals.—A good deal of business in fencing wire and nettings was placed with Continental manufacturers. On spot fair business was done at unaltered rates. Among sales reported were 10 tons Iowa No. 12 £15, and No. 14 £16, in distributing lots. 25 tons of 8 German black and a similar quantity of 10 German sold at £7/17/6 and £8/7/6; American, similar descriptions, sold at £8 and £8/10/. White Cross wire moved at £12 and £12/5/. 10 miles of 36-1½-18 B grade W.U. netting sold at £16/10/, 5 miles 36-1½-18 B W. U. £10, 12 miles 36-1½-17 £21/10/, 10 miles 42-1½-13, Rylands £23/10/. The revised decision as to duty on metal harness fittings was considered by the trade. As it stands it will mean an increase in prices. An endeavour is to be made to secure a modification of the decision.

Jute.—Calcutta, reported weaker the day before, was further reported as having recovered its position. Sack business was done on spot at 4/11, for Septembers, and a shade less for shipments further forward. Old sacks sold at 6/9. Packs sold at 2/3½. Branbags were quoted nominally at 4/1½. Ore pockets from 2/6 to 3/5, according to size.

This brings the shipments of cornsacks to Sydney up to 7200 bales, as against 10,891 bales at the corresponding period of last year, reckoning one September boat as yet to come.

TARIFF DECISIONS.

The following are among recent tariff decisions:—

Eureka rubbing stone, Bender's bimmstein, free as unspecified.

Boiler plates, rolled or curved to shape, for the manufacture of boilers and gas producers. Item 160 (C).

Trade-marks on Match Boxes.—A case recently arose in which an importer asked permission to import matches marked "R. Bell and Co., Ask for Tooth's Beer Vestas, 45 Matches, London," and "R. Bell and Co., Tooth's Beer Vestas, 45 Matches, London," without payment of additional duty, under Item 79 (D). It has been decided that if such marks as "Tooth's Beer" vestas are not the registered trade-marks of the manufacturers or importers of the matches, they cannot be used without rendering the matches liable to additional duty under Item 79 (D). If they are the registered trade-marks of the manufacturers or importers of the matches they are to be treated as advertising matter, rendering the boxes containing the matches liable to duty under Item 356 (A) when of paper, and under Item 389 when of material other than paper.

Machines, hand, band-saw, filing, and setting. Item 162 (C) (since September 14, 1908).

Stonwod preparative, Stonwod cement. Item 240. (Vide pamphlet, "The Stonwod Fireproof Flooring Co., Ltd., 109 Victoria-street, Westminster, London, S.W.")

Mounted poles for vehicles, consisting of pole, whiffle-tree bars, and hickory circle, imported in the same shipment, to be put together in Australia:—Poles, Item 319; whiffle-tree bars, Item 320; hickory circle, Item 330 (G).

LONDON MARKET CABLES.

WHEAT.

LONDON, Sept. 25.

The higher American quotations, together with the cholera scare, which is causing Russian shipments to be quarantined at most European ports, has had a hardening effect upon the wheat markets. There was a good demand for prompt shipments, and new crop shipments. 6000 tons of New South Wales wheat for December-January steamer shipment has been sold at 36/6. There is a quiet trade in Australian on spot at 40/6 to 41/ per 496lb.

FLOUR.

Flour is rather firmer, but inactive. Australian patents were quoted in London at 25/ to 25/6 per sack.

GRAIN FREIGHTS.

Grain freights are active, South Australian October fixtures being made at 21/, ditto for new season's wheat 22/6 and 23/9; Victorian, 22/6; New South Wales, 22/3 and 22/ per ton.

BUTTER.

Butter was dull, and the market unchanged. No colonial is offering.

INTERSTATE MARKETS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Wheat was firm; old was quoted at 4/1½ to 4/1¾; the new crop of wheat for forward delivery was quoted at 3/9 to 3/9½, the latter price for December and January delivery. Flour was quoted at £8/10/; 300 tons were sold for export at £8/2/6 to £8/3/9, some millers asking an advance on the association quotation. Bran was quoted at 1/2, but outside sales were at 1/1½. Pollard was steady at 1/3. Algerian oats were dull at 2/8 to 2/10. Maize was weaker, with larger supplies offering; flat red was quoted at 4/1 to 4/1½; small lots at 4/2. Peas were dull at 3/11. Chaff was quiet and unchanged. Hay was quiet, with small supplies. Potatoes were dull; Snowflake brought £3/10/ to £4; Pinkeye, £4; choice Excelsior to £4/10/; Tasmanian, £5 to £5/10/. Onions were quiet at £8 to £10/10/.

Butter was easier, with a weaker tendency; choice western was quoted at 1/0½, occasionally to 1/1; other prime, 1/ to 1/0½, occasionally 1/0¾. Eggs were a halfpenny firmer, /10 to /10½. Bacon shows a firmer tendency.

Business in tea includes 300 Ceylons to /8¼, and 250 Indians up to /9. Two tons of soft shell almonds were placed. Cornsacks were quiet at 4/11, some sellers asking 5/. Branbags were quoted at 4/2. Woolpacks had small sales. Over 1000 casks of cement were sold for forward delivery. Three hundred and fifty drums of B.S. and Co.'s and 250 drums B.O.C. linseed oil were sold; 7 tons of Champion's and 4 tons of Mersey white lead were placed.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

The wheat market continues firm; farmers' lots were quoted at 3/10½, and for the new crop 3/10½ and 3/9; parcel business is quiet, nothing could be obtained under 4/1. Flour is very dull at £9/5/. Bran and pollard are quoted at 1/1½. Eggs are quoted /10 and /8.

PRODUCE INWARDS.

LAUNCESTON, Friday.

The steamers Kakapo and Perth left Devonport to-night for Sydney with 19,826 bgs potatoes, of which 14,354 are for Sydney; also 230 bgs peas, 500 bgs oats, 153 bgs turnips. The quotations for prime potatoes are 80/ to 87/6, for oats 2/6, and for chaff £5/15/.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

TRADE IN SUSSEX-STREET.

A dull atmosphere still prevailed in the Sussex-street produce market. Choice qualities of chaff continued scarce, and brought good prices. Medium qualities were plentiful, but did not command much attention. There was not a large amount of maize offering, and retailers did not seem anxious to buy, consequently the market was unchanged. A few agents spoke of the demand improving, and expected to see the price increase. White was scarce, and holders were not anxious to dispose of their stocks. Lucerne continued to bring good values, prime green bales selling up to £3/10/. Oats were moving off steadily at unchanged rates. A shipment of potatoes arrived from Tasmania by the Wakatipu, consisting of 2308 bags. The best of the redskins brought as high as £5/10/. Onions were selling mietly at current values. Bran and pollard were bringing firm prices. Practically all of the recent shipment of Victorian oaten hay was now sold.

Onions.—Japanese: £15. Californian: £14. Victorian: £12.

DAIRY PRODUCE.

The turnover in dairy produce was good, retailers operating steadily in all departments. Large supplies of butter came to hand, and met a good local inquiry. Seconds continued in most demand, and realised good prices. Superfine brands moved off steadily, while pastry sorts were scarce, and continued to bring a satisfactory return. There was a firmer feeling with bacon. The demand was good, and the higher values were being well maintained. Well matured cheese was bringing good prices. Many retailers were endeavouring to procure new makes below quotations, but agents were not disposed to make sales at the price. A fair amount of matured makes were being packed ready for shipment to the West and Victoria. The local demand was good. The supplies of lard were still light, although the stocks were larger than last week. The prices ruled somewhat irregular. Some were receiving current values, while others seemed inclined to sell at /0¼ less. A weaker feeling was noted in the egg market. The demand had fallen away, and operations were largely restricted as compared with last Friday. Prices, however, underwent very little change. The supplies from the Northern Rivers were not as large as was expected. The Clarence boat brought 278 cases, the Richmond 73, and a fair quantity from the Manning River arrived later on in the day. The market opened fairly firm in the morning, but gradually became weaker. Northern River eggs were unaltered, although a fair number sold at the lower figure, while Southern were /0¼ easier. New-laid were dragging at unchanged rates.

Butter.—Special flavoured brands 116/, choice 112/ to 114/, second and medium grades 110/ to 112/, pastry 108/ per cwt.

Cheese.—Local: Prime loaf /8½, good /8 to /8¼, inferior /7½ to /8, prime medium /8 to /8¼, good /8; special brands from /9 to /9½ per lb.

Lard.—Packets and small bladders /9¼ to /9½; bulk /8¾ to /9; special brands, packets and small bladders /9, bulk /8¾ per lb.

Eggs.—Northern Rivers, /9 to /9½; Southern, /9½ to /10; new-laid suburban, /10 to /10½; duck eggs, new laid /10 to /10½ per doz.

Messrs. Mossman and Ellis report having obtained the following prices at their auction sale yesterday:—Eggs, case /9¼ to /9½, new laid /10 to /10½, choice suburban brands, /10½, duck /9¼ to /10½ per doz.; country killed pork, /6½ to /7; veal, /2½ to /3½ per lb; fowls, young roosters 6/ to 7/6, choice 8/, very small kinds from 4/, fat hens 4/3 to 4/9, choice 5/6; ducks, English 4/7 to 5/3, choice suburban 6/1, Muscovy 4/9 to 5/3, choice suburban 7/; drakes, Muscovy 8/ to 11/, choice suburban 12/; turkeys, hens 11/ to 13/, choice 14/, gobblers 22/6 to 25/, choice 27/6, no small forward; geese to 7/9; guineafowls, 5/ to 5/7; pigeons, 1/7 to 1/10 per pair; sucking pigs, 7/ to 10/ each, no choice weighty to hand; honey, /2½ to /2¾, inferior /2, choice /2¾ per lb.

APIARY PRODUCTS.

Honey was moving off very quietly. The choice western brands meeting with a little inquiry. Wax continued dull of sale.

FIREWOOD.

There were 33 truckloads of firewood offered for auction, and fair sales resulted. Boxwood met with a slight reduction.

The following prices were realised:—

Best boxwood, 14/ to 15/3, good 13/ to 14/; bakers' wood, 12/ to 12/6, good 10/ to 11/; ironbark, 10/6 to 13/; stringy, 10/6 to 13/.

POULTRY.

River.—Hens, choice 4/9, good 3/ to 4/; roosters, choice 6/, good 3/6 to 5/; chickens, 2/6 to 3/6; English ducks, choice 5/, good 3/6 to 4/; Muscovy, choice to 5/, good 3/6 to 4/; drakes, choice 5/, good 4/; geese, choice 7/6 to 8/; goslings, 5/; turkeys, hens 6/ to 7/6, choice 9/; gobblers, good 11/ to 19/, extra heavy to 21/; guineafowls, 4/ to 5/ pair.

AUCTION SALES.

Twenty-five truckloads of mixed produce were submitted at auction at the sale held in the railway goods shed to-day, and 19 lots were disposed of. A large number of buyers were in attendance, and competition was very animated. The prices obtained for the various commodities remained firm at yesterday's rates. The offerings were made up in the following manner:—Chaff 14, lucerne hay 5, oaten hay 1, potatoes 1, Swede turnips 4. Chaff was fairly plentiful, and met with a fair demand. Nine sales were effected at prices which were, if anything, slightly in advance of late rates. Extra choice green wheaten chaff realised 8/5, price cuts from 7/ to 7/1, medium 5/6 and 5/7; and straw chaff from 2/9 to 3/5 per cwt. The whole available supply of lucerne hay, which amounted to five truckloads, was knocked down at prices which remained firm at current rates. Queensland truss hay moved off at 5/5, prime small bales at 5/6, and medium large bales at 3/5, per cwt. A truckload of prime oaten hay was also offered, but was reserved for private dealings after bidding had ceased at 7/2 per cwt. A truckload of good potatoes was disposed of at 8/8 per cwt. Prime Swede turnips were worth 3/5, medium from 2/4 to 2/10 per cwt.

An asterisk (*) denotes a private sale.

VEGETABLES.

Business in the vegetable markets on Friday was quiet, as buyers were not disposed to operate freely on account of the high prices ruling. Kidney potatoes, onions, sweet potatoes, and pumpkins were rather scarce, and, consequently, were quoted at high rates. Small red pickling cabbages were selling freely at 2/ per doz. A very small consignment of chillies, which are now almost unprocurable, was offered, and was eagerly snapped up at 9/ per bushel.

Current quotations were:—

Cauliflowers, large 10/, medium 8/6, small 5/, 6/; cabbages, large 10/, medium 8/, small 5/; pumpkins, large 15/, medium 10/, small 7/; lettuce, 1/; cucumber, 2/, 2/6; red cabbage (small), 2/ per dozen; carrots, 2/6; parsnips, 3/; turnips, 1/6; beetroot, 1/3; leek, 1/; eschalots, 1/; garlic, 6/; spinach, 1/6; parsley, 1/6; mint, /9; herbs, 1/; watercress, 2/; rhubarb, large 8/, small 2/; celery, large 4/, small 3/; radishes, 1/; horseradish, 12/ per dozen bunches; Circular Head potatoes, 6/6, sweet potatoes 9/, kidney 18/; onions, 14/, 16/; Swede turnips, 4/; artichokes, 8/ per cwt; French beans, 6/; green peas, 6/; chillies, 9/ per bushel; tomatoes, 4/ per quarter-case, half-cases unprocurable.

FRUIT MARKETS.

BATHURST-STREET.

Good business was being transacted in the Bathurst-street fruit exchange. The recent shipment of apples from Tasmania, as was expected, moved off well, and brought firm prices. Mandarins were splendid property. A rise of nearly 4/ for special cases was noted, and agents looked forward to securing high rates. One case of very choice mandarins already realised as high as £1. Oranges were selling readily at unchanged rates. Passionfruit and loquats met a steady demand. Pineapples were not too plentiful, and the extra inquiry warranted a rise in prices. The Fiji shipment of bananas arrived, consisting of about 12,000 bunches. The offering for Monday's market were expected to bring good prices.

Apples.—Tasmanian: S.P.M., extra choice, 12/, choice 11/, good 9/ to 10/, medium 8/ to 9/, small 5/ to 6/; N.Y.P., extra choice 11/, choice 8/ to 9/; S.T.P., choice 7/6 to 8/6, good 6/ to 7/. Tomatoes.—Queensland: Extra choice coloured 6/6 to 7/, choice 3/ to 5/ per quarter-case.

BELMORE.

Sellers report that a large amount of business has been transacted in this portion of the fruit markets, and that there is a good demand for all classes of fruit. Mandarins and loquats are becoming scarcer, and, consequently, are quoted at advanced rates. Cucumbers are selling well on account of the warm weather, and are realising higher prices. Agents state that they do not anticipate receiving any further supplies of pears this season.

Apples.—Tasmanian: S.T.P., choice 8/ to 9/, medium 6/ to 7/, small 4/ to 5/6; S.P.M., choice 12/ to 14/, medium 9/ to 11/. Cooking: F.C., 6/6 to 8/; S.P., 6/ to 7/ per bushel-case.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

In the Western Market to-day fruit sold as follows:—Local apples, eating 7/ to 11/ per case, cooking 5/ to 8/; passionfruit, 5/ to 7/6; lemons, 3/ to 4/6; Mildura oranges, 8/ to 9/; navels, 9/ to 10/; Tasmanian apples, eating 8/ to 12/, cooking 6/ to 9/; N.S.W. oranges, 6/ to 7/6; mandarins, 8/ to 9/; Sevilles, 2/6 to 3/; lemons, 4/ to 5/; passionfruit, 5/6 to 8/; Queensland oranges, 6/ to 8/6; mandarins, 7/ to 8/; tomatoes, 5/ to 7/ per half-case, 6/6 to 7/6 per double case; bananas, 18/ to 19/ double case, and 5/ to 6/ per bunch.

STOCK TRUCKINGS.

For the sale of September 28, 285 sheep vans and 99 cattle waggons, and for that of October 1 458 sheep vans and 150 cattle waggons have been ordered. Order books are closed for sheep vans up to and including the market of December 17, and for cattle waggons up to and including the market of December 1.

CITY YARDS.

At the week-end auction sale 282 pigs were yarded, consisting of an equal proportion of porkers and baconers, the balance being backfatters. The demand was very strong, but prices were without material alteration on last day's rates.

The following prices were realised:—Backfatters £6 to £7, good £5/10/ to £6, medium £3 to £5/10/, inferior and rough from £4; baconers, 80/ to 90/, good 79/ to 80/, medium 65/ to 70/, others from 48/; porkers 40/ to 45/, good 35/ to 40/, medium 27/ to 35/, others from 20/, a few suckers forwarded 5/ to 10/6.

STATION PRODUCE SALES.

The Australian Mortgage, Land, and Finance Co., Ltd., John Bridge and Co., Ltd., Dalgety and Co., Ltd., Goldsbrough, Mort, and Co., Ltd., Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Ltd., Hill, Clark, and Co., New Zealand Loan and Mercantile Agency Co., Ltd., Pastoral Finance Association, Ltd., Pitt, Son, and Badgery, Ltd., Schute, Bell, and Co., and Winchcombe, Carson, and Co., Ltd., report:—

Sheepskins.—Three-quarter to full wools in good condition improved ½d per lb., with other lines firm at late rates. Crossbreds unchanged, and occasionally easier. Quotations:—Merino: Three-quarter to full wools, /5 to /7; half-wools, /4½ to /5½; short wools, /3½ to /4½. Crossbred, /5 to /6½. Lambs, /4 to /5½. Pelts, /2½ to /3½.

Hides.—Sales opened on a par with last week, but declined, and values were generally slightly easier for best conditioned lots, and /0⅛ per lb lower for heavy conditioned lots of all weights.—Quotations:—Queensland butchers' hides: Heavyweights (60lb and up), /5½ per lb and up; medium weights (50lb to 56lb), /4½ to /5½; light medium weights (40lb to 46lb), /4½ to /4¾; light weights (33lb to 38lb), /4½ to /4¾; dry hides, /4 to /5½. New South Wales butchers' hides: Extra stout heavyweights (picked lots), /6¼ per lb and up; heavyweights (60lb and up), /4¾ to /5½; medium weights (50lb to 56lb), /4½ to /5½; light medium weights (40lb to 48lb), /4½ to /4¾; light-weights (32lb to 38lb), /4½ to /4¾; inferior and faulty, /2 to /3½; dry hides, /4 to /5½; yearlings, to 12/ each; calf, to 3/9; horse hides, to 11/.

SHEEP AND LAMBS FOR EXPORT.

Pitt, Son, and Badgery, Limited, Sydney, report having sold on account of the A.A. Company, Warrah, 10,000 of their six-tooth station-bred wethers, at 18/ per head; also 7000 crossbred sucking lambs at 14/ per head, both lots for delivery on trucks, Willow Tree. It will be interesting to raisers of fat lambs to learn that these lambs were principally the progeny of Border Leicester rams out of Warrah-bred merino ewes, and incidentally it might be mentioned that the company having established a stud flock of Border Leicesters will next year have rams for sale similar to the sires of the above lambs.

MAITLAND HORSE SALES.

WEST MAITLAND, Friday.

A special horse sale was conducted by Mr. E. W. Sparke at the Campbell's Hill yards to-day; 200 head, comprising all descriptions, were yarded, and the sale was largely attended by representative buyers. Competition for good sorts was keen. Prices realised showed an improvement on late rates. Unbroken draughts made £30 to £37/10/, pit nuggets £25 to £30, light draughts £17/10/ to £25, light harness horses £15 to £25, medium £10 to £12/10/, best class ponies £12 to £17, others from £8, inferior £4 to £8.

PROPERTY MARKET.

A fair amount of business was transacted in real estate during the current week. The inquiry for city property continued, and some satisfactory sales resulted. Suburban building sites also commanded fair attention, while residences handy to the city brought good prices.

Messrs. This firm also reports having completed the purchase of an additional 600 acres, comprising the balance of the Stanwell Park estate, which it is intended to offer for sale in subdivision at an early date.

FORTHCOMING SALES.

Drummoyne.—The Centre estate at Five Dock Drummoyne, which commands splendid panoramic views of the Parramatta River and the Blue Mountains, will be offered for auction sale on the ground this afternoon at 3 by Arthur Rickard and Co., Ltd. The auctioneers have arranged to run a free tram to convey intending purchasers to the property. It is timed to leave Circular Quay for Five Dock at 1.54.

Belmore.—Messrs. H. W. Horning and Co. will sell the Dudley Park estate, which is about five minutes' walk from the Belmore station, at 3 o'clock this afternoon on the ground. The property stands on the heights of the suburb, and views can be obtained of the surrounding district. Trains leave Sydney in time for the sale at 12.20, 12.50, 1.2, 1.22, 1.45, and 2.25. Free 'buses have been arranged to meet each train at Belmore station.

Strathfield.—Some good building sites will be offered this afternoon at 3 by Richardson and Wrench, Ltd. The Hayfield estate, which is subdivided into 48 allotments, and is within two minutes' walk of the railway station, will be sold by auction. The terms are liberal and the title is Torrens.

This afternoon, at 3 o'clock, Arthur Rickard and Co., Ltd., are offering allotments on the Centre Estate, Five Dock. The property has been named Centre on account of its position. It is situated opposite the Five Dock Post Office. The trams stop there. Very easy terms are advertised for these allotments, and the auctioneers are running a special free to the estate. The sale is at 3 p.m.

MINING.

THE SHARE MARKET.

In the opinion of some operators the satisfactory feature of Thursday's London Stock Exchange quotations, received by private cables yesterday morning, was the fact that out of 19 stocks mentioned, buying offers were given in the case of 15, whilst only four showed selling quotations. There was also the further fact that copper had recovered 10/ a ton, with lead standing unchanged at £13/2/6. In addition, an improved tone existed for copper shares, whilst a slightly better feeling was evinced for "some," but not all, silver stocks.

For instance, improved offers were made for B.H. Proprietary and B.H. South Blocks, whilst B.H. Block 14 (pref) and Zinc Corporation (ord) were unchanged. Curiously enough, whilst local sales in B.H. South (paid) were booked at 74/, there were sellers in London at 72/6. London buyers of Mount Elliotts moved from 72/6 to 75/.

Locally, the business recorded in copper shares showed a better feeling, the sales in Mount Molloys (ord), O.K. Copper, and Queen Bee being good at slightly advanced rates. In the silver section B.H. Souths (paid), as previously remarked, sold at 74/, a recovery of /3 on the previous sale, with fair offers for B.H. South (contg), and advanced buyers of B.H. Proprietary. B.H. Junction North also hardened /3. Tin shares were represented by transactions in Briseis and Pioneer Tin.

A considerable amount of business was recorded in gold stock, scattered throughout the Commonwealth. East Mexicans commanded support at advanced rates, but Sandstone Development eased a little.

In the afternoon copper and silver shares quietened down perceptibly, tin stocks were out of favour, whilst gold shares were principally noticeable by reason of a good demand for East Mexican scrip.

MINING NOTES.

The 281oz of amalgam obtained by the Great Northern Company (Gympie) from 212 tons of ore, sweated in the retort to 148oz of gold, being an average of close on 14dwt per ton.

The newly-appointed mine manager of the Hermidale Copper Company reports that the crosscut is now in 231ft from the bottom of the shaft, and that the face of the drive is in the same formation that forms the footwall of the Budgerygar lode. He anticipates that when another 60ft has been driven the lode will be cut.

Since July 30 last prospecting work in the Scottish Consolidated Tin Mines has been continued, with the result that tin-bearing wash was met with on the 22nd inst. The manager reports that he has very little doubt but that it is the proper run of the tin. It will take quite a month to prove this to any extent.

The registered office of the Budgery Mines Company is now at 23 Equitable-building, Sydney, and Mr. E. J. Baker has been appointed legal manager. A contract has been let for the sinking of the main shaft for a further depth of 125ft. The mine manager reports that the contractors have got the shaft down to 298ft, and lode matter is still in the north-east corner of the same.

Private cables state that amongst the shares quoted on the London Stock Exchange on Thursday were the following:—B.H. Block 10, b 5/3; B.H. Proprietary, b 40/; B.H. Block 14 (ordinary), b 12/6; ditto, pref., b 13/; B.H. Souths, paid, s 72/6; B.H. South Blocks, b 20/; Zinc Corporation (ordinary), b 6/; B.H. Norths, b 49/; Mount Elliotts, b 75/; Hampdens, b 11/9; Chillagoe, contg, b 4/7; Munganas, b 4/6; Mount Lyells, b 39/; Briseis, s 8/3; Boulder Perseverance, s 5/9; Oroya, b 12/9; Associated, 26/3 (m); Lake View Consols, b 13/6; Gwalia Consols, s 4/6. Copper was quoted at £60, a further recovery of 10/ per ton; but lead was not mentioned, so it is presumed that it still stands at the weak price of £13/2/6.

The Tewkesbury Amalgamated Gold-dredging Company is again making a distribution of 1/ per share, payable on October 19. Of this amount /8 is payable as a dividend, and /4 as a return of capital, and £3325 will be absorbed by this payment, making a total distribution to shareholders this year of £13,300. No. 2 dredge will be stopped in about a fortnight's time to install a more up-to-date main engine of a compound tandem type, manufactured by Ruwolt and Co., of Wangaratta. In addition to the engine several other important alterations will be made, which it is considered will greatly add to the efficiency of the plant. The dredge will be idle for about six weeks.

We are requested by Mr. J. S. Richardson, attorney for the New Hillgrove Proprietary Mines, Limited, to publish the following circular, which has been sent to shareholders in the company:—"Dear Sir or Madam,—It is officially announced that owing to an insufficiency at the present time of payable ore in the Hillgrove section, Smith's vein being poor at the 12th and 13th levels, and both veins having pinched out on the 14th level, and to difficulties experienced in the mill treatment of the Eleanora ore, it has been considered advisable to close down both sections at the end of this month. A report on the mines will be issued to shareholders at a later date. September 24, 1908."

JOHN SANDS' INDENT COST SYSTEM is acknowledged to be the only simple yet reliable method for checking charges and keeping profitable prices. Investigate at SYSTEM DEPT., 374 GEORGE-STREET. TEL., 888.

W. JNO. BAKER TABLE CUTLERY. SPECIAL DESIGN. HAND-FORGED BLADES. TABLE KNIVES, 21/ per dozen; DESSERT KNIVES, 18/6. CARVING KNIFE and FORK to Match, 12/6 per pair. Very few Hand-forged Table Knives are now made, owing to the extra cost. This, however, is more than made up in the superior wear and the cutting quality of the blade. W. JNO. BAKER, CUTLER, 3 HUNTER-STREET.

MINING IN THE STATE.

MILLTHORPE, Friday.

A new party, consisting of ten shareholders, with a capital of £200, have taken up the Ballarat Mine at the reefs on tribute. Operations were commenced to-day. At a meeting of shareholders last night, Mr. Thomas Maroney was appointed general manager, and Mr. D. Redmond secretary.

THE GORDON COPPER COMPANY.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

Mr. John Barrett, who for some considerable time was manager of the Balaclava Copper Mine and the Rising Sun Mining Company, Broken Hill, and was for five years underground manager in the Proprietary Block 10 Mine, has been appointed mining manager of the Gordon Brook Copper Mine, Fine Flower Creek, Upper Copmanhurst.

THE WATTLE FLAT FIELD.

LITHGOW, Friday.

A mining report from Wattle Flat states:—At the Big Oakey Mine, a big body of stone shows gold freely. Water has been troublesome. The Solitary Dredging Company is gradually getting machinery on the ground, and hopes are entertained of an early start. The Caledonian Company has a good parcel for crushing. Campbell, on his mine, called the Klondyke, is taking out a crushing. The reef is small, but gold is seen in the stone, and dollies fairly well. The Little Oakey is on fairly good stone. The same may be said of Atherton and Sons, of the Queenslander. Davis and Mate, on their claim on Old Surface Hill, are landing some fair stone. The alluvial miners out Piper's Creek way are doing fairly well.

MANAGERS' REPORTS.

Band of Hope Company (Charters Towers).—Sept. 18: The water has been taken out of main underlie shaft between No. 9 and 10 levels, and underlie repaired. No. 10 plat put down and truck road laid for 35ft. About 20ft more level to clean up, and lay truck road, when one machine will be started to break stone 30ft back from present end. Reef from the end of No. 10 level back to the main slide, distance of 60ft, averages 3ft.

Kyloe Copper Mines.—Sept. 19: Main shaft sunk 2ft and timbered 8ft 9in. No. 2 level crosscut at 242 feet south from shaft put in westerly 6ft through hard quartz, assaying trace to 3½ per cent. copper, without cutting western wall of lode. No. 1 south winze sunk to 10ft, first grade ore 3ft 6in, balance of winze in seconds. Ore raised 17 tons of firsts, assaying 18.5 per cent., 5 tons seconds, assaying 9 per cent. No. 2 south winze sunk 3ft. First-grade ore 6in wide in south end, and 2ft wide in north end; remainder of winze shows seconds. Raised 4 tons firsts, assaying 15.3 per cent. Main stope: Raised 25 tons, assaying 20.5 per cent. The north end of stope shows high-grade ore in back broken, and mixed with seconds, but the greater part of stope shows clean high-grade ore. Furnace smelted 54 tons ore, producing 17 tons 3cwt 2 qrs matte, containing 9 tons 11cwt 2 qrs 15lb copper.

NEW MUSIC.

Miss Esther Kahn, one of the more ambitious, and it may be added more talented, of our resident composers, is now responsible for "Fruhlingslied," a spring song for the piano, published by Messrs. W. H. Paling and Co. This forms a decidedly clever and attractive salon or concert number. Whilst not difficult to play, it is showy and effective, with dainty trills that please the ear and a joyous vein of melody running through it.

RUPTURE. Those who need an ABSOLUTELY COMFORTABLE and PERFECTLY FITTING TRUSS should try GUYATT and CO., who for OVER 50 YEARS have made the mechanical TREATMENT OF HERNIA a speciality. Whilst wearing one of GUYATT'S TRUSSES there can be no DISCOMFORT. Trusses from 5s; made specially to order from 10s 6d. GUYATT and CO., 301 George-street, Sydney.

BAPTIST CONGRESS.

YESTERDAY'S SITTINGS.

The Baptist Congress continued its sittings yesterday.

MISSIONARY BREAKFAST.

All congress delegates who were members of the various State foreign missionary committees were entertained at breakfast at Sargent's Cafe at the invitation of Mr. W. Buckingham. Mr. Buckingham (treasurer of the Baptist Foreign Mission Society of New South Wales) was, unfortunately, unable to be present owing to illness. Rev. C. J. Tinsley presided in his stead. A motion conveying the greetings of the conference to Baptist missionaries in India was carried, to which Mrs. Thompson (Tasmania) and Miss Tuck (S.A.) returned thanks. An informal conference was then held on the subject of missionary salaries and allowances.

Rev. J. G. Raws (S.A.) submitted a statement of the allowances to missionaries from the different Australasian societies and the British Baptist Missionary Society. He moved,—"That the various State unions be asked to consider the desirability of having uniform rates of allowances to missionaries, and of generally increasing the amounts now being paid." Rev. J. C. Martin (N.Z.) seconded the motion, which was carried. A further resolution was recorded that the statement of allowances be placed before each of the State unions for consideration.

At the morning session Mr. Stow Smith (S.A.) presided. During the meeting Miss Rose Scott and Mr. Alfred Allen, as a deputation from the Peace Society, were well received.

BAPTIST LITERATURE.

Rev. A. Metters (N.S.W.) read a paper on "Baptist Literature." He said his subject—the literary productions of Baptist minds—was a formidable one. They were richer than most of them knew, as Dr. A. H. Newman's "Century of Baptist Achievement" (1901) showed. In history they had not produced a Macaulay, but Armitage, Carlisle, Newman, Vedder, Ivimey, had done much to pave the way. It was not generally known that two Baptists, Denck and Haetzer, had translated the Scriptures into German before Luther. Carey's fame in India was widely known, and had earned him the title of "Leader of his age in Oriental literature and philosophy," and he was ably supported by Marshman and Ward, by Judson in Burmah, and by Brown in Japan. In exegesis, theology, and sermonic literature the 17th and 18th century Baptists were men of higher scholarship than was generally known. In Scotland Carmichael, the Haldane brothers, and Anderson were famous names, the latter being one of the most popular preachers in Scotland in the early nineteenth century. The monumental work of Andrew Fuller, Dr. Joseph Angus, John Foster's essays, Hugh Stowell Brown, and Robert Hall were mentioned, leading up to two brilliant names, Spurgeon and Maclaren, orator and expositor. Time would fail to tell of John Clifford, F. B. Meyer, and others who had supplemented their pulpit work by writing. Coming to Australia the late Revs. James Martin and Samuel Chapman, of Melbourne, were referred to. Of literature on Baptist principles there was plenty. Perhaps the standard work was Dr. Alexander Carson's. In devotional literature Spurgeon, Meyer, and Gordon were prominent; while in general work, biography, travel, art, and science many had helped to remove the false impression that Baptists were not a literary people. Baptist hymn-writers ranked with the best. Stennett, Fawcett, Turner, Anne Steele, Beddome, Robert Robinson, Samuel Medley, and many others were on the list. Spurgeon wrote some charming hymns. In America the national hymn, "My Country 'tis o' Thee," was written by a Baptist, Samuel F. Smith. In this literature they had inherited a great obligation. He would urge the necessity for more united and effective methods of propagating their principles. The American Baptist Publication Society was an object-lesson; last year it issued over 50 million copies of periodicals.

Mr. Westmore G. Stephens (Victoria) speaking on "Church Finance" condemned such methods of raising revenue as bazaars, fancy fairs, concerts, garden parties, or Punch and Judy shows, all of which, in his opinion, were wrong and dishonouring to the cause of Christ. Pew rents were also open to serious objection. Voluntary offerings through envelopes were most satisfactory. They wanted system in church finance despite the fact that to some it might savour of business.

INDIAN MISSIONS.

At the afternoon session the chair was occupied by Mr. T. W. Jackson (Victoria). The time was devoted to Indian missions. Mrs. Thompson (Tasmania) and Miss Bertha Tuck (South Australia), in dealing with "Field Problems," described the methods and difficulties of the Baptist missionaries, and the opportunity for extension that lay within their reach. The missions take the threefold form, evangelistic, including open-air preaching at fairs, markets, and bazaars; indoor services, village itinerating, Gospel and tract distribution, and Zenana work; medical; and educational, comprising schools, and, in some of the larger stations, orphanages and boarding schools. India needed Christ, because Hinduism and Mohammedanism had failed to satisfy. More volunteers were needed. The widows of India numbered 26 million, and of these nearly 20,000 were baby wives. Native asylums had long been established for animals, but man had been neglected.

Rev. S. Mead (Western Australia) was down to read a paper on "Home Problems," that is, the support of the missions, but in his absence the paper was read by Miss C. K. Brown, of the same State. It put in a plea for the unification of the efforts of the various States.

A motion was carried approving the principle of arbitration in the settlement of international disputes.

THE NEXT CONGRESS.

At the business meeting, held in the Bathurst-street School Hall, Rev. A. Gordon (Vic.) moved,—"That a remit be sent to the various unions that another congress be held in 1911." This was carried, together with a supplementary resolution that the Victorian Union be asked to receive the congress. A further machinery motion, by Rev. A. Metters, was carried, requesting the unions of Australia and New Zealand to authorise their secretaries to act generally as a congress committee till such time as State congress committees should be appointed to arrange for the next congress; and that Rev. H. Clark continue to act as congress secretary.

A telegram was received from Adelaide:—"Heartily congratulate congress. The Baptists of Australasia are one; let us keep the front of the fighting line."

EVENING MEETING.

In the evening a large meeting was held in the Lewisham Baptist Church, Mr. H. Priestly (Congress president) being chairman. Rev. G. M. Rice (Queensland) read a paper on "Home Missions." This was well received, but the next speaker aroused remarkable enthusiasm.

Rev. Carey (Melbourne), who was scheduled to speak on "Foreign Missions," really gave an historical review. He said his subject was the steady march of Christ to the conquest of the world. (Applause.) Reviewing the centuries, since the coming of Christ, he could divide them into six periods. First, the church was carried into every portion of the Roman Empire. In the next stage to the middle of the seventh century, paganism was mortally wounded, but not before it enfeebled Christendom. In the next three centuries, Mahomet tore a portion from the map of the world. The fourth period of the Crusades checked his advance. Then for 300 years down to the 17th century, the steady march of Christ was seen. Men's minds widened and awakened. Natural freedom was secured. The final period brought them down to the present. The struggle for civil and religious liberty was waged. Education, democracy, philanthropy, science, became the watchwords. Mohammedanism and paganism were being conquered by Christianity. Of the increase of Christ's government and the world's peace, there could be no end. (Applause.)

CONGRESS SUNDAY.

To-morrow will be "Congress Sunday," and the city and suburban pulpits will be supplied by visiting ministers.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

The Hawkesbury Race Club caters this afternoon for metropolitan racegoers on the Clarendon Racecourse; the Newcastle Jockey Club holds its September reunion at Broadmeadow; Victorian sportsmen assemble at Moonee Valley, where the Melbourne Hunt Club provides an outing; South Australian Tattersall's Club's spring meeting takes place at Adelaide; and the Brisbane Jockey Club furnishes sport in the neighbourhood of the northern capital.

The scratchings notified yesterday in connection with the Spring Meeting of the Hawkesbury Race Club were:—Soultline and Dowdingstown out of all engagements; and Veronite and Breakpan out of the Park Stakes.

Metropolitan visitors to the September meeting of the Newcastle Jockey Club this afternoon will be in ample time for the first race by travelling per train, which leaves the Central Railway Station at 8.15 a.m., and which will be met at Newcastle by trams running direct to the Broadmeadow Racecourse.

Messrs. Wm. Inglis and Son announce that at noon on Monday next they will offer for sale by public auction the well-known hurdle racer Garches, by Voyou (imp.) from Fairy.

Up to 4 p.m. on Monday next, Mr. J. Denmeade, secretary, Wollongong Jockey Club, will receive entries for the October meeting on the 6th prox. The prize-money for the five events totals £110, of which £25 each goes to the Unanderra Stakes and Wollongong Handicap. The programme is published elsewhere in this issue.

An intimation appears in our advertising columns from Messrs. Wm. Inglis and Son that they will hold their annual spring sale of thoroughbred horses at Payten's Newmarket stables, Randwick, on the 12th prox. Among the lots to be offered on that occasion are the racehorses in training owned by the late Mr. J. J. Macken.

The bill of fare drafted by City Tattersall's Club for its spring reunion on the 17th prox. demands the attention of owners and trainers of racehorses before 4 p.m. on Monday next, when entries close with the secretary, Mr. Frank Walton. The half-dozen events carry £700 added money, of which £200 endows the principal event, City Tattersall's Handicap. Particulars are advertised.

The Victoria Park Racing Club has received a record of 193 entries for the race meeting which takes place next Wednesday, and the entries for the Great Motor Handicap are also satisfactory. A convenient tram service has been arranged for the meeting.

HAWKESBURY RACE CLUB.

SPRING MEETING.

The old convincing ground at Clarendon will be the sporting rendezvous this afternoon, when the spring reunion of the Hawkesbury Race Club will be the attraction. The bill of fare to be discussed is an interesting one, and the sport will be enhanced by the appearance under silk of several candidates for the classic event and the big handicaps to be decided during the spring campaign at headquarters. The transit arrangements comprise special trains, starting from the Central Railway Station, at 10.11 a.m. (horses and attendants), 11.13 and 11.50 a.m. (mixed), 12.22 p.m. (first-class), and 12.57 p.m. (mixed)—the lastnamed a fast special, which runs right through without stoppage to the racecourse platform, and may not be in time for the first race. The track is in excellent condition, and everything points to a successful meeting. The sport opens with the Flying Handicap, in which Eric, Malt Rose, Lunar Light, and Flavour should run prominently, and the places may be filled by Eric, Malt Rose, and Flavour. A good race is foreshadowed for the Stewards' Mile among Rhoebus, Proportion, Nicetus, and Shimose, and the judge may declare for Nicetus, Proportion, and Rhoebus. A large field may be anticipated for the Park Stakes, which wears a very open appearance, but the finish may be fought out among Xanthippus, Peter Pan, Carnarvon, Grand Vitesse, and Glade, and the numbers may be hoisted for Xanthippus, Grand Vitesse, and Glade. With Plunder, The Brewer, Welcome Trist, Proportion, Golden Slipper, King's Cross, and other good performers engaged in the Spring Handicap a most interesting race is promised, and the issue may be contested by Plunder, Eric, The Brewer, Golden Slipper, and Exsul; while The Brewer, Plunder, and Golden Slipper may occupy the situations. The sport winds up with the Highweight Welter, in which the prospects of Rhoebus, Belfry, Splice, and Carnarvon seem the brightest, and the numbers may go up for Splice, Rhoebus, and Belfry. The programme is appended:—

VICTORIA PARK RACECOURSE.

NEW MILE AND A QUARTER TRACK.

At the invitation of Mr. J. J. Smith, a press inspection of the new mile and a quarter track of the Victoria Park Racecourse, Zetland, took place yesterday, and in addition to the press representatives there was a large gathering of owners and trainers and others interested in turf pursuits. The change that has been effected in the property of the Victoria Park Racing Club during the past 12 months is strong testimony to the enterprise and energy of that body, for during that period it has, at a large outlay of capital, been transformed from a waste of swamp, sand-dunes, and scrub into one of the finest racecourses in Australasia, equipped with grass, cinder and tan training tracks, a splendid course proper, spacious grand stand and St. Leger enclosures, and all the requirements of a first-class convincing-ground. In order to admit of racing at an earlier date than would have been possible had the proprietary waited for the course proper to be brought into use, the cinder track was the first rink completed, and on it racing has been conducted for some time past; while, in the meantime, the formation of the course proper and the grass training track was carried on to completion, and the former will be brought into use for the first time on Wednesday next.

The new track is a mile and a quarter in circumference and 90ft wide, with nearly three furlongs of a straight run from the home turn to the judge's box, and a similar stretch along the back from the mile post. It has been laid down on sound lines, the curves being bold and safe, and the track properly battered. In the formation of the track the natural surface of peaty turf, which prior to its reclamation has proved first-class going, covers the sand foundation to a depth of about eight inches, and imparts a degree of elasticity to the going, while it is firmly bound together by the native couch grass. A projecting rail bounds the track on the inside; while at the back and western side a protecting rail has been fixed on the inside of the outer fence in order to prevent accident in the event of a horse bolting.

The grass training track situated inside the course proper and concentric therewith is also an excellent rink, nine furlongs in circumference, and 85ft wide, and provides ample facilities for the preparation of racehorses. The recent favourable weather has been responsible for a grand shoot of grass on the tracks and in the reserves, and the latter have been greatly improved by ornamental flower-beds, bright with spring blooms. The cinder track will be used for the motor contests, and, in that connection, arrangements have been made so that the auto-cars will in no way interfere with the horses. The cars enter from the eastern side of the grounds, between the eight and nine furlongs posts, and cross the grass tracks on to the cinder rink. The electric tram system has been extended to the racecourse gates, and connects with the Botany line, as well as the direct line from the city to Zetland. The new track will be declared open on Wednesday by Sir Joseph Carruthers.

MELBOURNE SCRATCHINGS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Montague, Prophecy, and Master Foote have been scratched for the Toorak Handicap, and Olivaster and Simington for the Melbourne Cup.

The V.R.C. committee to-day dismissed the appeal of the owner of Jolly Kate against the decision of the Mentone stewards in disqualifying her for first place in the Flying Handicap, which she won at Mentone on September 12, and awarding the race on the ground of interference to Canticle.

Finger Post has been struck out of the Maribyrnong Trial Stakes, to be run at V.R.C. October meeting. Kuala Lumpur having met with an accident in his box will not, it is understood, be sent to Sydney for the A.J.C. meeting.

CUP CANDIDATES FOR MELBOURNE.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

Mr. P. A. Connolly's two Cup candidates, Posttown and Enchanteur, who have been in Adelaide for several weeks, leave for Melbourne on Monday.

GOULBURN RACING CLUB.

MOROK WINS INVERALOCHY HANDICAP.

GOULBURN, Friday.

The spring meeting of the above club was concluded to-day, when the weather was unfavourable, being windy and dusty. There was, nevertheless, a good attendance. The sport was of an interesting nature, but, as was the case yesterday, the fields were small. In the September Handicap, Casson, the rider of High Rock, fell off, sprained an ankle, and sustained slight concussion. The stewards are investigating the cause of the accident. In connection with the Inveralochy Handicap an inquiry was held with regard to the riding of Black, who was cautioned for crossing Gloss in the straight.

Results:—

Flying Handicap of 10 sovs, 6f.—D. M'Donald's Eris, by War God—Cressider, 7st (Casson), 1; R. W. M'Kinnon's Jeannie Cameron, 9st 5lb (Black), 2; F. M'Grath's Footles, 7st 13lb (Kuhn), 3. Maltrona, 8st (Doyle) also ran. Betting: 6 to 4 v Jeannie Cameron, 2 to 1 v Maltrona, 3 to 1 v the others. Won by a couple of lengths; while Footles just beat Maltrona out of second place. FOOTBALL.

AUSTRALIAN RULES.

SIR HARRY RAWSON PRESENTS THE CUP.

At a complimentary concert arranged by the Y.M.C.A. Football Club, and held in the Y.M.C.A. Hall last evening, Sir Harry Rawson presented the cup won by the Y.M.C.A. in the N.S.W. Football League's competition under Australian Rules. The hall was packed. The president of the club, Mr. J. J. Virgo, welcomed the audience on behalf of the football club, and a telegram of congratulation was read from the North Shore team, "the tail of the competition."

After several musical items, Sir Harry Rawson, who received an ovation, said he was glad to be able to present the cup. Football was one of their games at school, and he had been captain of their own teams in the navy and in Scotland. There was something he wanted particularly to say to the young men of the Y.M.C.A. He congratulated the Y.M.C.A. on their winning of the cup. He also congratulated himself, because if the Sydney Club had won it again that would have been their third win in succession, and he would have had to provide another cup. (Laughter.) Sir Harry congratulated Mr. J. H. Matthews on behalf of the club, and presented the cup. Mr. Matthews briefly thanked the Governor for his attendance and presentation, and trusted that the clubs would play a clean, straightforward game at all times.

Mr. A. E. Nash, the president of the N.S.W. Football League, then presented the pennant, and the evening concluded with the presentation by the chairman of diplomas to the gymnasts. Among the items rendered during the concert a couple of excellent recitations by Miss Ella Crone stood out. The other artists included Messrs. Graham and Virgo, Miss Maud Howard, and Miss Agnes Cole.

ENTRIES CLOSE THIS EVENING.

The 100-guinea motor handicap, which is to take place at the Victoria Park Racecourse on Wednesday, is arousing great enthusiasm in local automobile circles. The contest, which is open to all motorists, is likely to prove a great success. The cars that have already entered comprise some of the speediest vehicles in the Southern Hemisphere. Many of these are capable of developing speeds which at least to the Sydney public may be classed as sensational. In addition to M. Fauvel's 60-h.p. Berliet, there is Mr. Gordon Dixon's 25-h.p. Talbot, which won the last championship, and many other fast motors, some of which will be seen for the first time.

Mr. J. Joynton Smith, the promoter of this big competition, has decided to limit the number of entries to 12. The event will be run in two heats and a final, the first and second in each to count. Yesterday a number of motorists availed themselves of Mr. Smith's offer to practice on the track. Some of the cars in their trial spins developed exceptional speeds. Following gives a list of the competitors so far entered. As nominations do not close until this evening the full list will not be available until Monday.

AN AUSTRALIAN "MARATHON."

NOWRA, Friday.

A number of local gentlemen are making arrangements to establish an annual long-distance Australian championship footrace on the same lines as the great Marathon event. It is proposed to hold the race here on February 13, the second day of the show, and that it shall finish on the showground. A sum of £55 has already been guaranteed by Dr. Bohart, Messrs. H. D. Morton, and F. W. Edgell Bush.

GREAT PUBLIC SCHOOLS' SPORTS.

The annual sports meeting of the Great Public Schools' A.A.A. was held yesterday afternoon at the Sydney Cricket Ground in the presence of a large attendance. The weather was fine, though hot and dusty.

The leading athletes of the great public schools in New South Wales competed, the schools represented being Newington College, the King's School, Sydney Grammar School, Sydney Church of England Grammar School, Cooerwull Academy, the Scots College, the Armidale School, St. Joseph's College, All Saints' College, and Sydney High School. The result of the schools' championship was a most pronounced win for the Sydney Grammar School, which scored no fewer than 82 points. Representatives of the black and gold secured places in every event barring the broad jump. In the half-mile and mile they swept the board. In the mile the school secured the possible 14 points, one, two, and three under standard time, which was worth nine points; and first in the teams event, which was counted five. Sydney Church of England Grammar School ran second in the championship with 53 points; then came the King's School with 10, Newington College with 5½, and the Scots College, St. Joseph's College, and the All Saints' College with one point each.

Two records were broken. In the mile G. P. Arnold did the distance in 4m 41 2-5s, and broke the all schools' record of 4m 48 1-5s, established by S. A. Marden (S.G.S.) in 1906. In the high jump W. J. Rofe and A. T. Woodriff, both of Sydney Grammar School, tied at 5ft 7in, and broke the record of 5ft 5½in made by H. L. St. Vincent Welch (S.C.E.G.S.) in 1904.

The sport all through was excellent, and the keenest interest was taken by the spectators in all competitions.

Results:—

HAYDON v SHAW.

After several weeks of hard training A. Haydon, 11st 2lb weight, will scull R. Shaw, 9st 8lb, for a stake of £100, on the Parramatta River, this (Saturday) afternoon, the race being under the charge of W. Beach, who will act as umpire, or, rather, as referee. A good deal of interest attaches to the race although neither sculler has any pretentions to first-class form. Shaw will use a boat built by Chris. Neilsen, and he has been trained by the veteran and ex-champion Peter Kemp. He has a fair turn of speed, and should be able to last the distance, which is just about two miles. The start will be made near Mortlake point, and the judge will be stationed at Searle's Monument.

Haydon seems a more powerful rower than his rival, and has a longer stroke, with more swing. He will use a Towns' boat, and has been assisted in his training by A. Priddle. Haydon is the favourite, and if he can hang on to Shaw for the first half of the distance he should win. The steamer Kookooburra is advertised to leave Fort Macquarie, and call at Balmain and Abbotsford on the way to the starting place for the race.

NORTH SHORE CLUB.

The North Shore Rowing Club is opening the season this afternoon by holding a scratch four race. About eight crews will compete.

ANGLING.

SALMON SHOALS.

The weight of the Fiona sun-fish was announced last week as 2 tons 3cwt, which, if correct, should entirely establish the giant as the world's record fish of the species. The Tasmanian fish referred to by two correspondents during the week was a little over a ton. The Fiona fish is said to have been weighed on a lorry on a public weigh-bridge, the weight of the lorry of course being deducted. The monster had to be swung on to the lorry with a steel hawser, and was then drawn by two horses to a Sydney suburb, where it was exhibited. Charging 3d for the privilege of viewing it the enterprising proprietor cleared in a few days no less than £14. The flesh was white, but extremely tough.

Rough seas and variable winds have been recorded along the coast during the past week, and ocean sport has accordingly been but moderate on the whole. Still a few courageous fishermen, chiefly professionals, were out for whatever they could catch, and some profitable hauls were recorded. Long-liners have been working a Coogee wide ground, and on favourable days have secured some fair hauls of good quality fish. They have not yet, however, learned the necessity for cleaning their fish soon after capture.

Brisbane Water fishing is looking up. Whiting are plentiful below the Rip, and may be met with on some of the upper shallow grounds in the evenings at high tide. The bait should be thrown well away from the boat. Messrs. D. Solomon and E. W. Smart caught a nice lot of whiting on one of the shallow sandy grounds of the resort during the week.

A consolation trophy casting tournament will be held at Centennial Park to-day for a prize presented by Dr. H. L. Maitland (president New South Wales Anglers' Casting Club). The contest will include dry-fly casting for accuracy and delicacy, wet-fly casting for accuracy and style, and distance casting. There are several promising members of the club, who will probably do good work.

Salmon shoals are about again in Port Hacking, and beach fishermen should also meet with them as soon as the beaches are fishable. Several stretches of ocean frontage have been out of fishing condition owing to the presence of sea weeds torn from the adjacent rocks. Men who can use the rod and spinner from the beaches should have a few days at this sport, for the fish are amongst the best fighters in our waters. The fish will take prawn and nippy baits freely early in the season, but when the big shoals arrive they will not be so ready to bite, but they may then be jagged or caught on the spinning baits. Yesterday's westerly should have suited sportsmen.

It may be pointed out, as an encouragement to those desirous of forming a club, that the A.F.A. of New South Wales has a subscription of 5s per annum, and a joining fee of 5s, and that after 13 years' existence it has assets insured for £450, and a substantial credit balance in money, one portion being on fixed deposit and interest-earning.

Our schnapper fishermen will have to bestir themselves, or their brethren of Port Phillip will wrest the laurels from their brows. Last season Mr. A. A. C. Loftus, fishing close inshore off Sandringham, which is not far from Melbourne, caught three schnapper weighing respectively 30lb, 29lb, and 27½lb, and the shallower parts of the bay are reported to be full of red bream.

The spoliation of many of our offing fishing grounds is undoubtedly due to the deposition of mud and refuse from Sydney Harbour by mud and offal punts. The offal has brought sharks, rays, and other scavengers about the entrance to the harbour, and the mud has covered many of the old feeding grounds of first-class ocean fish, and destroyed the natural food. Although tipped well out at sea, the mud and other stuff has covered miles of ocean floor, as the current has set it southward. The difficulty in the way of suggesting a remedy is to state where the contents of the punts should be tipped.

Last year 14,950 yearling trout of the varieties rainbow, Loch Leven, and brown were liberated in Victorian streams by the Fisheries Department of that State. The Ballarat and Geelong Acclimatisation Societies also placed 26,150 yearlings in the rivers. This is a fine record, worthy of emulation here. A yearling trout is worth perhaps a hundred fry, but requires more careful carrying.

The failure recorded last year in connection with the effort to introduce roach ova to this State from Victoria was due to the unsatisfactory condition of the Yarra, from which river the fish were to be obtained. When the Yarra fish were examined in October and November they were found to be spent. Opinions are divided as to the advisability of placing these fish in our waters. They are wonderfully prolific spawners, and once introduced soon eat all the food sought by other fish. Victorian trout fishermen are agreed that their confreres this side of the Murray will be sorry if the fish once get their fins into our waters. On the whole, sportsmen and fish-eaters would prefer to see the local perch dealt with in hatcheries here. The river perch is one of our best sporting and edible fishes, and infinitely superior to roach.

Drifting in Rose Bay yesterday Messrs. A. Williams and E. Clarris caught a sawfish 3ft 6in long. It was a female, and gave birth to some young ones (longest 13 inches) in the boat. In addition to this interesting catch the fishermen secured four gurnard and two schnapper (largest 8lb).

Mr. H. Harpur and three friends out with Goldsmith in a launch off Botany Heads recently caught 35 fish, which included several large flathead. The flathead will be some time yet working into the estuaries in large numbers.

A party out in the Woy Woy last week end struck a rough sea and heavy wind, but managed to catch about 150 fish off Bird Island. Mr. T. Komura caught the largest schnapper (16½lb).

Some nice gurnard (Trigla kumu) have been taken lately off the coast. The fish are bottom feeders, and when they are met with in shoals may be caught freely, as they are not easily frightened off their feeding grounds. They take the bait without hesitation, but are not extra good fighters. The flesh is firm, white and dry—something like flathead—but in the hands of an expert cook may be made very appetising.

FISHING LINES.

When you see fishing lines make sure that you are using "Cobber" fishing lines. Eastway's are the only people that make "Cobber" fishing lines. Our 36-cord schnapper line is the best line it is possible to make. We ask you to come along and inspect our lines. Should you be too far away to call, drop us a postcard, and we will send you a list of nice lines. Just see the splendid gut we have just opened. EASTWAY'S, George-street.—Advt.

AMUSEMENTS.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.

Every seat in dress circle and stalls having been booked for to-night's production of "The Merry Widow," which ran for nearly three months in Melbourne, a brilliant attendance is assured. The new artists will be Miss Carrie Moore (after an absence of five years), as Sonia; Mr. Victor Gouriet, as Baron Popoff; Mr. George Castles, as St. Brioches; and Mr. Andrew Higginson, as Prince Danilo. Mr. J. C. Williamson's company still includes such favourites as Miss Florence Young, Messrs. Reginald Roberts, W. S. Percy, and Claude Bantock. Attention is drawn to the time at which the curtain rises, and to the regulations for entering, as duly notified in another column.

CRITERION THEATRE.

"The Belle of Mayfair" is drawing large audiences at the Criterion Theatre, where playgoers now see their one-time Dutch friends of Messrs. Meynell and Gunn's Company in the new costumes and new characters of aristocratic social life in England. The Gibson girls are an attraction the wedding bell quartette by Misses Lincoln and Sinclair, Messrs. Bottomley and Cromwell, is encored nightly; and Misses Orford and Ferrin, Messrs. Brett and Payne, are all brightly prominent.

FAREWELL TO "MRS. WIGGS."

After five weeks of rustic humour and real-life comedy of the broadest character, varied by the occasional touches of pathos which the situations of the deserted wife and the trembling Lovey Mary supply, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" reached the end of its season last night. The time had come to say "goodbye" to the clever American artists Mr. J. C. Williamson had brought from the United States to reproduce the quaint atmosphere of the story, and above all, to bid farewell to Miss Ada Dwyer, the clever and gracious artist who has so ably expounded the philosophy of Mrs. Wiggs. There was, accordingly, a scene of enthusiasm, and at the end of the evening, after many recalls, the applause was sustained until the popular actress responded feelingly with "I just thank you, and I'm sorry to say goodbye."

THEATRE ROYAL.

This afternoon, and on Wednesday, the two last matinees of "Peter Pan" will be given at the Theatre Royal, where the "people who believe in fairies" have now but one week remaining in which to prove the faith that is in them. Miss Tittell Brune as Peter, and Miss Florence Kelly as Wendy, continue to close the story poetically with the dainty love scene in the little cot upon the tree-tops.

DOROTHY VERNON.

Next Saturday Mr. J. C. Williamson's Dramatic Company will be re-formed for the production that evening of Paul Kester's romantic costume-drama "Dorothy Vernon," with Miss Tittell Brune once more in the name-part, Mr. Thomas Kingston as Sir John Manners, and Mr. Maurice Dudley as the Jester. Important changes in the cast will place Mrs. Brough as Elizabeth, Queen of England, Miss Nellie Calvin as Mary, Queen of Scots, Miss Emma Temple as Lady Vernon, Mr. Gregan MacMahon as Sir George Vernon of Haddon Hall, and Mr. Loring Fernie as Sir Malcolm Vernon. Plan arrangements are duly notified.

PALACE.—"CHARLEY'S AUNT."

"Charley's Aunt" will form the attraction for the last two weeks of Mr. Frank Thornton's season at the Palace Theatre. The popular comedian will, of course, appear in the name-part (Lord Fancourt Babberley), and the cast will include Messrs. Templer Powell and Chas. Stone as the two undergraduates, Mr. Douglas Hamilton as Sir Francis Chesney, Mr. Harry Ashford as old Spettigue, Miss Harriet Trench as Donna Lucia (the real aunt from Brazil), Misses Belle Donaldson and Clare Manifield as the vivacious girls, and Mr. Keppel Stephenson as the university scout Brassett. The plan is at Nicholson's.

"TWO LITTLE SAILOR BOYS."

On Saturday, October 10, Messrs. Meynell and Gunn's Dramatic Company will open at the Palace Theatre in a drama of strenuous human interest, entitled "Two Little Sailor Boys," by Walter Howard, the author of "The Midnight Wedding" and other successful pieces. The cast will include Miss Lilian Meyers, Mr. James Lindsay, and Mr. Conway Wingfield, all in their original characters. There will be a number of thrilling and emotional scenes in the play.

"THE PRINCE CHAP."

Mr. H. R. Roberts and "The Prince Chap" Company have just terminated a splendid season at the Theatre Royal, Perth, and are now enjoying a successful time at the new Town Hall, Kalgoorlie. After a brief tour of Western Australia, the company will leave for Sydney, where they are due to open at the Palace Theatre on November 14. "A Message from Mars" is now included in the repertoire, Mr. Roberts appearing as Horace Parker.

THE ADA CROSSLEY SEASON.

Mme. Ada Crossley, who will arrive here from Adelaide to-day, in anticipation of the welcome to be extended her by the three great musical societies of the city at the Town Hall on Monday afternoon, will open her concert season on Thursday. This famous singer has been absent five years, and as on the occasion of her last triumphant tour under the J. C. Williamson management, she is bringing with her a group of artists eminently before the public in England. The star contralto will be associated with Messrs. John Harrison (of whose career an account appears in our "Music and Drama" column), Hamilton Earle (baritone), Leon Sametini (violinist), and Percy Grainger (pianist), with Mr. Harold Whittle as accompanist. There will also be concerts next Saturday and Tuesday, and on October 8 and 10. The box plans for the first three concerts only will open at Paling's at 9 o'clock on Monday morning. Coupons giving precedence of booking will be distributed at the same place at an earlier hour on the same day. Very generous country booking has also taken place.

THE NEWBURY-SLAPOFFSKI CONCERT.

Next Friday evening Mr. Philip Newbury will give a concert at "million" prices at the Town Hall. This favourite tenor, one of the finest who ever visited Australia, will sing some of his best numbers, and will be associated with Mme. Slapoffski, the operatic soprano, in excerpts from "La Boheme," "Il Trovatore," and other works. Miss Emilee Fenn (new contralto), Mr. R. L. Nield (baritone), Mr. Henri Staell (violinist), Mr. Sydney Scott (the new English organist), and Mr. J. Edward Sykes (accompanist) will also appear. The tariff is unusually low for such an attractive combination.

TIVOLI THEATRE.

This afternoon and evening, at the Tivoli Theatre, Mr. Harry Rickards' Company will include Abdullah's sensational troupe of 12 acrobatic Arabs, Mr. and Mrs. Moymott, in their new piece, "Naval Manoeuvres," Mr. Burt Shepard in his clever entertainment, Austin Rudd (last week), Ted Kalman, the Barnard Family in "Dolls Alive," and other artists.

NATIONAL AMPHITHEATRE.

At the National Amphitheatre, both afternoon and evening, the new artists to appear will be Ardell, eccentric equilibrist; Harry Little, baritone; Leah Leichner, serio and dancer; and the Four Musical Ibsons. There will be new pictures by the Miorama, and a score of other artists, including the Kranks, Carney, and Kearns.

LYCEUM.—SPENCER'S THEATRESCOPE.

This afternoon and evening, at the Lyceum, Mr. C. Spencer's Theatrescope Company, in addition to the "speaking marvels" of the Chronomegaphone in relation to Lauder, "the highest salaried artist in the world," will show a budget of new pictures, including "Dragoons Crossing the Elbe," "The Exhibition of 1908," "Puss in Boots" (coloured), "Father's Fault," "A Son's Crime," and the latest comic stories.

TOWN HALL.—BURNS-SQUIRES FIGHT.

Messrs. Macmahon and Carroll have concluded arrangements with Mr. Edwin Geach for a final representation at the Town Hall to-night of the successful biograph display of the recent Burns-Squires fight, which for the past few weeks has been attracting audiences in all parts of the Commonwealth. In addition, the latest London pictures will be presented, through the medium of the British Biograph. Popular prices are notified, and De Groen's Band will supply the incidental music.

SATURDAY CLASSICAL MATINEES.

Next Saturday afternoon Mr. Laurence Godfrey Smith will resume his classical matinees for students and others at the Y.M.C.A. Hall, when his programme will include a romance and two intermezzos by Brahms, a romance by Ernest Wunderlich, two pieces by Arthur Hinton, and the Mendelssohn "G Minor Concerto." Miss Ethel Liggins will be the vocalist. The plan will open at Paling's on Tuesday next.

MISS ANNIE PERRY'S CONCERT.

Miss Annie Perry will sing "From Mighty Kings" and other soprano numbers at her concert at the Y.M.C.A. Hall on Tuesday evening, at which she will introduce Miss Kathleen Dornhy. This young contralto's programme will include the beautiful aria from "Samson et Delilah." Miss Louie Foulis, Messrs. Bryce Carter, Edgar Fulton, and J. Edward Sykes (musical director) will assist. The plan is at Paling's.

"PLAYGOERS'" FIVE-PLAY NIGHT.

"The Playgoers" will submit five short plays of local origin at the Royal Standard Theatre next Tuesday evening of which two, "Her Bad Habit" and "The Turn of the Worm," with Miss Louise Broad in the chief characters, will be by the director, J. Clarence Lee. The other pieces will be "The Merry Grass Widows," an operetta, by Virginia Gabriel and Geo. March, "The Alternative," by Ethel Kelly, and "A Quiet Little Dinner," by E. O'Sullivan.

THE STAGE SOCIETY'S MATINEE.

The initial representation of the newly-formed Stage Society will be "A Doll's House," the play by Henrik Ibsen, in which Miss Janet Achurch made such an impression in the early nineties. Mme. Bobrow's appearance as Nora is certain to prove of interest. Mr. G. E. Fletcher (Helmer) and Mr. Frank Arnold (Dr. Rank) will be in the cast. The whole will be in aid of the Infants' Milk Dispensaries, and will take place on October 17 at the Palace Theatre.

THE SYDNEY MUFFS.

Reference is made in another column to the forthcoming productions of "The Merchant of Venice" and "Twelfth Night" by the Sydney Muffs Dramatic Society in November and December next. Amateurs desiring to join should communicate with the secretary of the Sydney Muffs Dramatic Academy.

QUEEN'S HALL PICTURES.

This afternoon and evening Messrs. Chas. MacMahon and Edward Carroll will give a complete change of programme at the Queen's Hall, where the new central feature will be a comprehensive series of dramatic pictures, illustrating "Robbery under Arms," with stirring bush scenes.

VICTORIA HALL PICTURES.

At Victoria Hall, both afternoon and evening, the American Picturescope Company will show a whole series of newly-arrived films dealing with current events in Europe and America, and showing both humorous and dramatic stories, with incidental music.

OXFORD.—PICTURES AND VAUDEVILLE.

This evening the Oxford Theatre will open a new entertainment with a first part entitled Oxford Frolics, and a programme in which Wild Friday and Wild Rose, Sam Gale and Little Sadie, Peare Sisters, Ashman Sisters, Bob Cottier, Will Devereux, and other artists will appear. There will be new moving pictures, and the Eight Choristers will assist.

BIJOU THEATRE PICTURES.

At the new Bijou Theatre, George-street, Mr. J. F. W. Thiel will present a new entertainment of the latest pictures, with an especially strong selection of humorous and dramatic incidents, combined with allusions to current events of the day in other countries.

CLAY'S VAUDEVILLE COMPANY.

This evening Mr. Harry Clay's Vaudeville Company will appear as usual at the Royal Standard Theatre, when half a dozen new artists will strengthen the combination. Next week's circuit, opening at Petersham on Monday, will include Balmain, Newtown, Ashfield (dramatic company), and North Sydney (Friday).

THE HAYMARKET HIPPODROME.

To-night at the Haymarket Hippodrome Mr. Cole will present a new set of moving pictures, including the latest arrivals. To-morrow night a special programme will be presented, including pictures, and illustrated songs and solos.

ART SOCIETY'S EXHIBITION.

The closing entertainments at the Royal Art Society's Exhibition included an enjoyable "at home" on Thursday night, given by Mrs. G. W. Hadfield, when the Yorkshire Choral Union assisted, and an enjoyable programme was presented. Yesterday afternoon Miss Ruth Lincoln presided as hostess, and her good nature attracted many visitors to the galleries, who admired her artistic work in comic opera at the Criterion. Mr. Arthur Appleby also consented to appear, and both artists, skilfully adapting their vocal style to the more modest requirements of the salon, successfully rendered the soprano song "Mignon" (d'Hardelot) and "Spring Again" (Ellen Wright), and the baritone numbers "Eldorado" and "The Pretty Creature." Miss Tempe Pigott cleverly contributed a recitation, and Miss Vera Barnett, Miss Minnie Daniells, and others assisted. This evening the season will terminate with a Students' Musical Soire, by the combined students of the Royal Art Society, Mr. Dattilo-Rubbo, and Mr. Fischer.

WOOLLEY MEMORIAL CONCERT.

The date for the Woolley Memorial Concert has been altered to Wednesday, October 14, and a highly interesting programme will be presented by the Sydney Amateur Orchestral Society, directed by Herr Slapoffski. It will be remembered that the late Miss Woolley was a founder and ardent supporter of this society. A strong support has been obtained by the generous assistance of Madame Slapoffski, Mr. Andrew Black, and Mr. L. Godfrey Smith. The plan opens at Paling's on October 7.

THE CHERNIAVSKI CONCERTS.

The Cherniavski concerts were successfully opened last Saturday at the Town Hall, Melbourne, where the entire concert party arrived from the Cape, in prosecution of their world's tour under Mr. Edward Branscombe's direction a few days earlier. The brilliant classical trio of juvenile artists, Leo, Jan, and Mischel Cherniavski (piano, violin, and 'cello) have been reviewed in terms of the highest praise. Miss Marie Hooton (contralto), and Mr. Driver (baritone), are with the party, which will open here October 24, at the Town Hall.

FREEMASONS' CONCERT.

On Wednesday evening next a concert will be given at the Town Hall in aid of the Freemasons' Benevolent Institution, when the State Governor, Miss Rawson, and Sir Frederick Bedford (Governor of W.A.) and suite will be present. A miscellaneous programme of a popular character will be contributed to by Miss Bessie Fraser, Estelle Bowen, Sara Collins, Messrs. Philip Newbury, A. H. Richards, W. Scheinpflug, Sidney T. Price, A. Bertram Flohm, Cyril Monk, Edgar Fulton, B. Walshe, Sid Shipway, A. B. Sedgley, Ernest Truman, and others. All expenses on this charitable occasion are being borne by the directors of the N.S.W. Masonic Club.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS' CONCERT.

The Commercial Travellers' Association will give a club smoking concert to-night, at which Messrs. Philip Newbury, Cyril Monk, Sidney Price, Ratcliffe, Noble, A. Wunderlich, Aitken, Herbert, Clark, James, and Woodgate will assist. Several speeches will be made.

WONDERLAND CITY.

On Monday, October 5 (Eight-hour Day), Mr. Anderson will open Wonderland City, when all the favourite side-shows will be available, and the spacious floor of the King's Theatre will be open for public dancing. The vaudeville items will be supplied on the open-air stage.

SYDNEY SKATING RINK.

The recent juvenile championship night at the Prince Alfred Park Rink was an unqualified success, the various contests resulting as follows:—Half-mile juvenile championship: Master Roche. Waltzing championship and graceful skating: Miss Dorothy Pritchard. Juvenile promenade step: Baby Jackson. The Prince Alfred Skating Club teams had a night out, defeating the Sydney Club at pushball by 2 goals to nil, Parramatta at hockey, and Kiera Football Club at football by 12 points to nil. At the poster and fancy dress carnival next Thursday, the Maypole dance will be repeated. The two miles championship of Australia and a novice handicap will be contested, amongst other items. To-night's events include a pushball match and novice handicap.

KURING-GAI CHORAL SOCIETY.

The fifth concert of the above society was held at the Hornsby School of Arts on Wednesday, under the hon. conductorship of Mr. L. S. Robertson. The hall was very prettily decorated, and the part-singing was much appreciated. The assisting artists included Miss Geraldine Rivers, Miss James, and the Misses Deloitte, Miss Leigh, and Mr. Roy Agnew.

THE GLACIARIUM.

For to-night the management announces a half-mile race on the ice for the amateur championship of New South Wales. The event is likely to attract general interest among the ice devotees, as the winner will rank as first half-mile champion ice-skater of the State. There will be a hockey match also to-night, as well as one for the boys after the children's leave-taking session this morning. The season closes on Wednesday.

SAILING.

SYDNEY DINGY CLUB.

NARROW GAUGE RAILWAYS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I have read with interest in your issue of the 23rd instant a letter signed by Mr. Owen Blacket on the above subject, giving a valuable suggestion, that outside of our regular trunk lines in 4ft 8½in gauge, private companies should be permitted to build narrow gauge lines. Mr. Blacket gives some most interesting thoughts to those who know the advantages of these narrow gauge lines, but he does not appear to have fully shown in which direction the public would benefit by allowing private companies to do this work.

Were private companies allowed to construct light railways much benefit would accrue to surveyors, civil engineers, general contractors, etc., and would also provide a large field of employment for labour in their construction and working. Additionally an increase of business would be afforded to stock and share brokers, whilst the employment of labour in the manufacture of steel sleepers, rails, engines, trucks, waggons, carriages, etc., would be of much benefit to this State.

Again should a private company construct a light line which in a few years were found to be a financial failure, such line could be removed to another area of usefulness, but if same was constructed by the Government and afterwards removed, trouble would probably be caused through settlers advancing the reason that they had taken up country on the strength of a Government railway having been in existence. How often during the last 20 years have we seen mining towns worked out that would have paid much more handsomely had they had a cheap railway for a few years.

I consider that before the question of narrow gauge lines is settled by Parliament the question of private construction should be thoroughly gone into, although many of our would-be socialistic members of Parliament will doubtless oppose anything in the way of private enterprise. The broad question is surely what is for the benefit of the country, and one is glad to think that there appears to be some chance that at least some of our small towns may in the near future be in a position to deliver and receive goods at reasonable rates to and from the trunk lines.

I am, etc.,
A. M. JACKSON.

DID IT EVER STRIKE YOU that by investing your money in PEMELL'S CHICKEN MIXTURE you get better value for your money and a Chicken Mixture that has been made by an expert for the special purpose of rearing chickens? Everything used in its manufacture is of the very best quality. It is being used by the most successful breeders in Australia. Are not these reasons why you should use it? Your gain if you do; your loss if you do not. But beware of imitations, sold by others, who know nothing of rearing chickens, and who would never have offered chicken mixture if it had not been for our Mr. Pemell. Anthony Hordern and Sons and Produce Merchants in city and suburbs stock and deliver PEMELL'S CHICKEN MIXTURE at Sydney prices.

DO YOU DICTATE MANY LETTERS?
If you do, you will find the Edison Business Phonograph a wonderful help. It's better than the best shorthand writer—quicker, more accurate, and indefatigable. You cannot overwork the phonograph, and by its aid you can keep a whole staff of typists always busy.
Don't think it's hard to understand, or a risky experiment. It is very simple, and is in use in thousands of progressive houses.
We will post you a descriptive booklet on receipt of your address. You cannot fail to be interested and convinced of the usefulness of the machine.

A MILLION POUNDS spent in Sydney could not build a reputation to outrival that of
STOTT AND HOARE'S BUSINESS COLLEGE.
The reputation of a school can only be built by time, hard work, judicious management, and successful results. It cannot be bought by costly advertising. Solid merit and actual facts must lie behind the claims made by a school, for the Public demands results, not promises. Our overwhelming successes in Public examinations, and our unapproachable record of positions secured for students, are the undeniable proofs of the superiority of our instruction. They are the true sources of that popularity and prestige which has called forth a host of would-be imitators.
SOME OF OUR SUCCESSES.
FIRST PASSES at all Government Examinations (both State and Commonwealth) for Lady and Male Shorthand Writers and Typists for six years past.
FIRST PASSES for three years in succession at State Public Service Promotion Examinations to salaries rising to £150 per annum.
ALL SILVER and Bronze Medals awarded in open competition to New South Wales Shorthand Writers by Sir Isaac Pitman and Sons.
HIGHEST PASSES at all Incorporated Phonographic Society's Speed Examinations, including the record speeds for Great Britain and Australia.
435 PASSES in the Shorthand Speed Examinations of the Incorporated Phonographic Society as compared with 129 passes from all other sources combined.
38 PASSES with DISTINCTION in the Society's Shorthand Theory Examinations, etc, etc. For a complete list of recent successes see our pamphlet "The Best by Test."
POSITIONS FOR STUDENTS.
Notwithstanding that we fill upwards of 500 positions annually, the demand for our graduates has for years been greatly in excess of the supply.

DAIMLER MOTOR CARS.

WHAT THEY REPRESENT.

DAIMLER, AUSTIN, F.N., ALLDAYS, AND ENFIELD CARS.

These Agencies have been secured by the Agents with a view to being able to meet the requirements of all inquirers. From them may be chosen—the magnificent car, the medium-priced car, and the inexpensive car; whilst, again, these are divided into different models, such as Limousines, Touring Phaetons, and Run-abouts, etc. In Horse-power, they range from 10-h.p. 2-cylinder to 60-h.p. 6-cylinder, with intermediate sizes at 14, 15, 18, 20, 30, 36, 38, 40, 42, 48, and 58 h.p. It is also important to note that among the many various makes offering these were selected as being the most thoroughly suited for Australian conditions. In sending in your inquiry it would greatly facilitate matters if you would kindly state about what Horse-power would suit your requirements.

"MODEL SUBURB."

It will really repay you to pay us a visit. The display of lovely flowers and well-kept green lawns is a treat to behold. The wide and well-designed avenues, all planted with lovely shade trees, and in all cases studded with artistically-designed Cottage Villa Homes and gardens, give a picture not seen elsewhere, which is absolutely up to the ideal of suburban areas so

OFTEN SPOKEN OF AND WRITTEN ABOUT IN ENGLAND AND AMERICA.

Why do we put this picture before you? Because we want to induce you to give up paying rent year after year. We want you to realise that an interview with us and a small amount of cash enables you to ultimately accomplish the ownership of the property you reside in.

AS AN EXAMPLE.
We have just now a very quaint style of Bungalow Cottage, with large porch verandah, double doors entering into wide lobby hall. This hall has a wooden dome ceiling with brackets under, returning down the wall to bracket shelf, all dull stained walnut, and panelled with a beautiful frieze of roses. In the centre of this hall is suspended a beacon copper lamp of most quaint and original design, completing the whole highly artistic treatment. Then you have 5 very large rooms, all treated differently, in each case to suit the class of furniture likely to be installed in these villas. The door furniture, beaten copper finger-plates, tiling, marble work, gasfittings, all in harmony with the general treatment. Kitchen, bath, laundry, etc., all up to date.

A COTTAGE OF THIS DESCRIPTION,

You need only pay, if you wish, the small amount of £50, and the balance, say, 25s per week. Where will you find a residence of this kind that you can rent at 25s per week? If you do not want to occupy the cottage at once, we will let it for you at about £70 a year, and the tenant will actually pay for the property. Haberfield is a wonderful place in this respect:—
It is all restricted to residential, other than one portion set apart for the business sites. It has gas, water, and sewerage, 5 and 10 minutes' electric service of trams. You can also walk to the railway station easily. We have lovely

HABERFIELD ... Suburb, the Place of Beautiful Homes. STANTON and SON, 109 Pitt-street and Summer Hill, Managing Agents.

YOU WANT A NICE SPOT on which to build your new home, don't you? Where the surroundings are already fully occupied with good and neat residences, thus preventing any "gunyahs" being built close by. Well, I have THE BLOCK YOU WANT. The land is practically level (very slight slope), the frontage is already kerbed and guttered, a neat substantial fence encloses it. Pretty shrubs and handsome shade trees in full growth; in fact, it is an IDEAL BLOCK, having easterly aspect. Torrens Title. Corner block. Frontage 120ft; depth from 110 to 125. Tram at the door; railway station eight minutes' walk. Will sell as a whole or one-half. Price, only £5 5s per foot.
Apply Marcoma, c.o. Herald Office.

KENSINGTON.

A BIG CATCH IN SUBURBAN REAL ESTATE !

If you're looking for a CATCH in Real Estate, something better, and greater value for money than is procurable elsewhere, you should—nay, you must—"HOOK ON TO KENSINGTON."

Have no fear that you may be making a mistake if you do so. You can't possibly go wrong land-buying at Kensington. You can't help making money out of a land transaction with us there.

Any number of our early buyers are reselling their lots and making big profits. No reason why you can't do the same. That is, if you buy now, at once, at our present low prices and on easy terms.

Kensington must appeal to you. It's on a tuppenny electric tram section from Sydney, only 20 minutes' journey through beautiful tree-shaded avenues from G.P.O., and is, as a matter of fact, almost part of the city.

The immediate surroundings are of the best. Well laid out parks and public reserves adjoin and almost surround Kensington, and only the better class of homes may be found there.

Gas and water are available at Kensington, the sewerage about to be installed, streets are formed, roads metalled, footpaths asphalted, kerbed, and guttered.

Every building allotment there is perfectly level, and measures 50 x 148. The TITLE to the property is Torrens, and a building restriction of £300 protects our purchasers.

Now, we particularly want you to pay a lot of attention to the price and terms. 45s and 50s is the money asked per foot, and the land offered at this price is equal to that being sold to-day in the further away suburbs—Double Bay, Bondi Junction, Marrickville, Annandale, and Glebe Point—at from £4 to £12 a foot.

That's a good argument in favour of Kensington, don't you think? And it's an absolute fact.

More than that, we are prepared to say that these very lots priced at 40s and 50s foot to-day will be fetching similar big money in the future, and that, too, before very long.

The terms are £2 down and £1 month. Think of it—£1 a month, 5s a week, about eightpence a day. Almost anyone can afford that, can't they? And if YOU are of the opinion that just at present YOU can't, why, make up your mind to go without something—some of the many little luxuries you indulge in. Never mind even if you suffer a little inconvenience, but try and save that 8d a day to pay for one of these Kensington Lots.

You can get plans, illustrated booklets, and lots of Kensington information from us if you ask for it, but just as a final reminder we will repeat the price and terms for Kensington Lots in large type.

Price, £2:5:0 to £2:10:0 Foot.

TERMS: £2 DOWN, £1 MONTH.

THE SURFING SEASON.
The Surfing Season is here, right on us, and already the brown boys, and damsels, too, for that matter, may be seen disporting themselves among the breakers.
Out Freshwater way, the other side of Manly, many surfers, in addition to "Breaker Shooting," find time to look over the cheap "Land Lots" for sale at Surfers' Rest, and a payable business they find it, too.
It's ideal land for surf bathers, this Surfers' Rest Estate, and cheap at the £20 a Block asked. Close to the beach, elevated, no rocks, level land, with splendid soil; what surfer could desire more for a week-end WHARE.
The size of the Lots is 30 x 148, and Torrens the Title. £1 down, 10s month the terms, and Surf Bathers, intending Surfers, Week-enders, Campers, or Casual Beach Visitors can do no possible harm by securing one. There's money in them, and plenty of it. Prices at present—now, mark this, "at present," as it's early in the season—£20 each. Terms, £1 down, 10s month.

TWELVE ACRE BLOCKS AT £4 AN ACRE.
A few nice-sized Blocks, suitable for Fruitgrowing, Poultry Farming, Vineyards, Horticulture, or Bee Farming, are on our books for Sale, on Easy Terms, £1 a month per Block to be exact.
There's only three left, and at the price this land is very, very cheap. £4 an acre is the money, and the only reason such a low price is asked is that the blocks are not up against the Station, nor yet just across the road from it, but some little distance away.
Don't misunderstand us, and jump to the conclusion that it's away out in the wilds, for it is not. It's just a pleasant drive to either Liverpool or Cabramatta.
There is a road both front and back of some of the Lots; it is nice undulating land, soil is very fair, Torrens Title, and £2 down, £1 month, are the terms for each block, which is about 12 acres in area.
Ask for a Plan of this £4 an Acre land, for there's nothing on the market at the same money to compare with it.

MACHINERY.

ARE YOU A BATTERY USER?

The user of an Edison Primary gets more real service out of it than from any other battery. It's cheaper in the end, too.
There is no polarisation, no loss of energy while the cell is idle, and the internal resistance is very low.
The renewals are the most condensed and cheapest form of battery energy known; but you need to be sure that the renewal material is the genuine Edison. Don't accept a substitute.
Our descriptive booklet will be posted you on request. Ask for it.

JARVISFIELD AYRSHIRE CATTLE.
(Established 1875.)
FRIDAY AND SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 20th and 21st, COMMENCING AT 1 O'CLOCK EACH DAY.

WILLIAM INGLIS and SON, Sydney, in conjunction with W. LARKIN, Picton, have received instructions from Mr. R. H. ANTILL, JARVISFIELD, PICTON, to sell by auction, ON THE ESTATE, as above, THE WHOLE OF HIS CHOICE HERD OF AYRSHIRE CATTLE, comprising
220 HEAD, consisting of
12 Pure Bulls, 1 year to aged, including the Champion Bull LORD DOUGLAS, winner of champion prizes at both SYDNEY and MELBOURNE SHOWS; also, HERD LADDIE (imp.), specially selected in Scotland for Mr. Antill by that well-known judge of Ayrshires, Mr. G. L. Wilson, of Victoria.
87 Pure Cows. Specially mentioned amongst them is the CHAMPION COW ALICE of OAKBANK, and two of her Heifers.
Also,
64 Grade Cows.
67 Ditto Heifers, 1 to 3 years.

The JARVISFIELD BREED of Ayrshire Cattle are CELEBRATED THROUGHOUT the WHOLE of AUSTRALIA. During the many years the herd has been established great care has been taken in the selection of stock, and no money spared in the purchase of the best STRAINS THAT COULD BE IMPORTED. The special aim of the owners has been to produce a high-class GENERAL UTILITY ANIMAL, with good size, ROBUST CONSTITUTION, and HEAVY MILKERS, a strong feature being the production of stock of dark colours.

Mr ANTILL'S SOLE REASON for DISPOSING of his HERD is that he has LEASED HIS ESTATE in SMALL HOLDINGS.

 BREEDERS about to establish a stud of pure Ayrshires, also those wishing to improve their herds, Farmers, Dairymen, and others, will have an opportunity of purchasing at this sale such as very rarely offers.

THE HERD IS ONE OF THE OLDEST IN AUSTRALIA, THE CATTLE ARE OF THE PUREST AND BEST STRAINS OBTAINABLE, AND THE SALE ABSOLUTELY A BONA FIDE ONE FOR THE REASON ALREADY GIVEN.

LET ONE POUND REMAIN IN YOUR PAY ENVELOPE

When you open your pay envelope next Saturday, don't take the whole of the money out. Leave a pound in the corner, fold it up again, put it safely back in your pocket. Then, when the good wife asks, "What it's all about, and why she is a pound short," tell her the story. Tell her about

RICKARD'S AUCTION AT MORTLAKE.

Tell her how well that pound will be spent if put into a block of Land on Nash's Estate. Explain how values must rise; make it perfectly clear how easy the payments are, and how you can't possibly miss the 10s month. We undertake to say that there's scarcely a good wife in the land that will not fall in with hubby's views and applaud the idea. Not only that, many will be prepared to accompany the wageearner to our sale.

NEXT SATURDAY, OCTOBER 3.

GAS, WATER, VIEWS, SCHOOLS, CHURCHES, FIRE STATION, TORRENS.

Seldom, indeed, is it that Home Sites on Easy Terms are offered, possessed of as many advantages as are these Lots. To begin with, Nash's Estate is right in the centre of Mortlake, just off the tram line, commanding magnificent views of Parramatta River, handy to ferry, and adjoins the Golf Links. One could stand on the ground, and throw a stone on to the Public School, St. Patrick's School, any one of the three Churches, or on to the Fire Station; and just along the street is the Mortlake Institute. The approach is excellent, and the homes there are above the average. Now, you can't improve on this. Better land for workers' homes was never offered. The lots will be sold practically without reserve, and it must prove a profitable undertaking if you get hold of one. The Terms are

£1 DOWN. 10/- MONTH.

DOZENS OF TRAINS STOP AT BURWOOD DAILY, AND NASH'S ESTATE, MORTLAKE, IS BUT A SHORT AND PLEASANT TRIP BY TRAM FROM THERE. TRAINS LEAVE NEXT SATURDAY AT 1.5, 1.12, 1.17, 1.23, 1.30, 2.5, AND 2.30, AND OUR SPECIAL FREE TRAM WILL LEAVE AT A TIME TO BE ADVERTISED.

PLANS OF NASH'S ESTATE, MORTLAKE.

IDEAL WHEAT-GROWING, STOCK-FATTENING, WOOL-GROWING, AND DAIRY LANDS.

SUBDIVISION OF THE WELL-KNOWN

WAGGA WAGGA, N.S.W.,
ONE MILE FROM URANQUINTY RAILWAY STATION.
TO BE SOLD BY AUCTION AT THE ODDFELLOWS' HALL, WAGGA WAGGA, AT 2 P.M.,
ON TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 10th, 1908
19,240 ACRES FREEHOLD LAND.
SUBDIVIDED INTO 32 FARMS. AREAS FROM 400 TO 1300 ACRES.
AVERAGE RAINFALL: 24 INCHES. VIRGIN SOIL.
NOTE THE IDEAL SITUATION.

SITUATION.—"Sandy Creek" is situated on the main Southern line (Wagga Wagga to Albury). One mile from URANQUINTY RAILWAY STATION, and Township, three-quarters of a mile from BON ACCORD RAILWAY STATION, and nine miles from the WAGGA WAGGA RAILWAY STATION, TOWNSHIP, BUTTER FACTORY, and FLOUR MILL, and only 70 miles from ALBURY and the VICTORIAN Border.
SOIL.—A large proportion of the Estate is DEEP RED SOIL and RICH CREEK FLATS, all especially suited for WHEAT-GROWING. The whole is VIRGIN SOIL, except a small area.
WHEAT.—There is NO FINER WHEAT-GROWING LAND IN THE STATE. Lands immediately joining have been cropped from 25 to 30 years, and are still under cultivation and growing good crops.
STOCK AND WOOL.—The property has also been known for years for its excellent STOCK CARRYING and FATTENING and WOOL-GROWING QUALITIES. During the recent drought it carried over a sheep to the acre without loss, and marked nearly 60 per cent. of lambs.
FAT LAMBS.—The raising of FAT LAMBS promises to be one of the most profitable industries in the State, and the PROXIMITY to the RAILWAY STATION and the character of the soil make the property particularly well adapted for this industry.
GENERAL SUITABILITY OF THE LANDS.—To those in search of farms where WHEAT-GROWING, LAMB and SHEEP FATTENING, WOOL-GROWING, and DAIRYING can be carried on under the easiest, pleasantest, and most profitable conditions, inspection is confidently recommended.
Both Sydney and Melbourne Markets are available for Stock and Produce.
TIMBER.—The Property is VERY LIGHTLY TIMBERED, and the timber being dead for 20 years, the lands can be cleared ready for the plough at very small cost in plenty of time for next season's ploughing.
WATER.—The Property is ABUNDANTLY and PERMANENTLY WATERED by numerous SPRINGS and TANKS, besides double frontage to Sandy Creek, which runs through nearly the whole Estate, and is fed by never-failing Springs.
EACH BLOCK TO BE OFFERED WILL BE SPLENDIDLY WATERED.
SCHOOLS, Etc.—There are GOOD SCHOOLS, with large attendances, at both URANQUINTY and WAGGA WAGGA, the latter a most progressive township, having a population of 6000, which is rapidly increasing and providing an excellent LOCAL MARKET for stock, farm, garden, orchard, and dairy produce.
RAILWAY.—THE RAILWAY TRAIN stops and passes Uranquinty from Sydney twice daily, except Sunday, and also from Melbourne, via Albury, twice daily, except Sunday, bringing the property into direct touch with both Metropolitan markets. It will thus be seen that the railway facilities are quite exceptional, and enhance materially the profit-earning capabilities of the lands. The wonderful prosperity of farmers in the neighbourhood is evidence of the richness of the lands.
POSSESSION OF THE FARMS SOLD WILL BE GIVEN ON 15th JANUARY, 1909.
Buyers will be driven to inspect from Uranquinty or Wagga Wagga by arrangement with the Auctioneers.
TERMS.—The Lands will be sold on the most liberal terms, viz.:—10 per cent. deposit, 10 per cent. 1st March, 1909, balance in ten equal annual instalments commencing 1st March, 1910. Interest at 5 per cent., which will only be charged from the date of taking possession, viz., 15th January, 1909.
Lithographs and all information obtainable from the Auctioneers:—

DIVIDED INTO

37 HIGH-CLASS FARMS,

FOR ABSOLUTE AUCTION SALE, QUIRINDI, NOV. 18.

THE LAND consists of splendid Black Soil Flats, suitable for Lucerne, with Rich Volcanic Ridges, and is WONDERFULLY PRODUCTIVE. The Timber is mostly Appletree and Box, the greater portion ringbarked, and some of it cleared and almost ready for the plough. The COUNTRY is as it carries a heavy growth of grass, and the Flats can all be utilised for growing fodder crops, including lucerne.

UNIQUE SITUATION.

THE FARMS will have an ideal situation. The Main Northern Railway passes through the subdivision, and Willow Tree railway station is in the centre of it. The furthest farm is less than 4 miles from the station, so that each farm will have easy access to the Goods Shed and Trucking Yards.

ABUNDANCE OF WATER.

Borambil Creek (permanent water) runs through the greater portion of the blocks, and the remainder are watered by minor Creeks and Springs; water also obtainable at a depth of 25ft.

RAINFALL, 30 INCHES. CLIMATE, PERFECT.

GENEROUS TERMS:—15 Per Cent. Cash, 5 Per Cent. at end of first year, and 10 Per Cent. annually thereafter. Interest, 4 Per Cent. Buyers to have the option of Paying Off the Whole or Any Portion on giving 3 months' notice.

BONNIE DOON.

THURSDAY, 15th OCTOBER, at 11 o'clock.

A high-class Grazing, Fattening, and Agricultural Property, in the Goulburn district, to be offered by auction at Messrs. O. H. FURNER and CO.'s Rooms, Goulburn, on the above date.

O. H. FURNER and CO., Ltd. (in conjunction with Messrs. WOOD and CO.), have received instructions from ANGUS M'PHEE, Esq., to sell by auction his well-known Grazing and Fattening Property, BONNIE DOON, situated 5 miles from Lake Bathurst and Tarago railway stations, and 22 miles from Goulburn, adjoining the well-known and famous properties of Messrs. Reynolds and Don, Hall and Cropper, and practically on the shores of the noted lake.

1878 acres Cond. Lease.
1010 acres Annual Lease.

Subdivided into 8 paddocks, all well fenced by 5 wires, and every paddock watered by never-failing dams and creeks.
HOMESTEAD.—A comfortable Brick Residence of 6 rooms, kitchen, servant's room, pantry and bathroom, verandah back and front.
IMPROVEMENTS.—Woolshed for five shearers, men's hut, stabler, hayshed, dairy, and all necessary outbuildings.
BONNIE DOON is undoubtedly one of the best grazing and fattening properties in the Goulburn district. The homestead is comfortable, and the general surroundings most picturesque. Railway communication is all that can be desired, and excellent roads give every facility for travelling.
The homestead paddocks are all cleared, and eminently suitable for cultivation. The balance of the country is all ringbarked and mostly picked up. The Auctioneers recommend this estate with every confidence, and the owner has decided to sell.
INTENDING PURCHASERS will be shown over the estate on application to the Agents.

CITY PROPERTY—
TO REALISE A TRUST.

ARDROSSAN, that most complete City Residence, situate at the corner of YORK-STREET and MARGARET-STREET, and in the immediate neighbourhood of PETTY'S HOTEL, the GROSVENOR, and other high-class properties.

ARDROSSAN occupies a Corner Site, having FRONTAGE of 48ft 6in to MARGARET-STREET by a depth along YORK-STREET of 100ft 11in, extending to MARGARET-LANE rear.

THE ACCOMMODATION is ample, and well arranged for the comfort and requirements of all visitors of high-class, whether requiring only SINGLE APARTMENTS or SUITES, while, although so centrally situated, the views obtainable over the pretty grounds of WYNYARD-SQUARE give occupants all the pleasure of a country residence, while in town.

Like all city positions, the exigencies of Progress may shortly so increase the value of this position that ere long the SITE itself may be required for Extension of the Railway, and the proposed extension and connection with the NORTH SHORE line. Should this be the case a purchaser at the present time may be sure of a fair profit for his deprivation and loss of one of the most desirable and improving positions.

PLANS of the Property and Building may be inspected and full particulars as to tenancy and rental returns obtained on application.

THE TITLE IS FREEHOLD.

BATT, RODD, and PURVES Ltd., are instructed by the TRUSTEES to offer the above Property, at their Rooms, by PUBLIC AUCTION, on TUESDAY, the 13th OCTOBER, at 11.30.

SPRING SUITS! SPECIAL INDUCEMENTS!

There are big inducements at R. C. Hagon's for the man who is wanting to secure the finest Tailoring for the least money.

SUITS AT 63/, 70/, 75/, TO ORDER.

These run 63/, 70/, 75/, and 84/ the Suit to Order, fashioned and finished in our faultless style.

ANOTHER BIG PURCHASE!

£6/5/ SUITS AT £4/4/. £4/4/ SUITS AT £2/15/. TO ORDER.

He failed to take delivery on the accepted terms.
We were 'phoned for, and got them at a big reduction for Spot Cash—they're a fine lot, too.
Of course, these double-bank our own importations, and we are naturally willing to make a quick clearance at prices estimated to do it. Read the prices at the side, and save on your suit.
Patterns of all lines and improved Self-measurement Form—free. Mention this paper.

HOWES AND HOWES' SUMMER TAILORING.

SUMMER TAILORING. There are so many tailors bidding for your trade that it's doubtless hard to know which one to give your order to. It's a matter you've got to figure out for yourself.

SUMMER TAILORING. Try a suit at Howes and Howes, and pay cash—then order one on the credit plan elsewhere.

SUMMER TAILORING. The difference will be most marked, and unquestionably in our favour.

SUMMER TAILORING. We believe we take more trouble over a suit than most tailors—we take more than ordinary care in the measuring and cutting—we use the finest trimmings, and put the highest possible grade of workmanship into every garment.

SUMMER TAILORING. We have private, well-fitted fitting rooms, and leave absolutely nothing undone to ensure the greatest possible satisfaction to YOU.

63s, 70s, 75s, 84s, 90s, 100s

THERE IS NO REASON why your eyesight shouldn't last as long as any of your other faculties.

WAS Osborn and Jerdan, NOW Jerdan's for short.

Properly treated, it would be so. When you find your vision weakening, call on us to determine in what state your eyes are.
May be, by the wearing of glasses occasionally, the trouble can be quickly corrected.
After making your glasses, we agree to make further frequent re-testings, and to alter your glasses when you require it free of all charge for a period of from 3 to 5 years.
We do this in terms of our written agreement.
IT COSTS YOU NOTHING TO CONSULT US ABOUT YOUR EYES.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR AND MOLES.

When you remember that to permanently remove a hair you must kill the root, it's very easy to see why no chemical depilatory can be successful. Any paste, powder, or liquid simply takes the hair off at the surface, and it grows more vigorously after every application. You might just as well use a razor.
But Electrolysis, the system I have been practising for years, goes right to the root, and kills that. And I am so skilled in this treatment that there is no risk of pain or after-effects.
To prove my method to you I will gladly remove a few hairs free of charge. When you are quite satisfied of the Permanency of the Removal, you can have me complete the treatment. Could I say fairer than that?

WHY not have a pretty Cambric, a new style, from George Bridges. The Linen Shop, Pitt-st.

MARK FOY'S,

SATURDAY — PAY DAY.

When the second king of the fourth Egyptian dynasty—Cheops—built his great Pyramid he used up 100,000 men for ten years, merely for the making of the road that led from his stone quarries to the Pyramid's site.

FOY'S

are similarly proud of their offerings to-day, because they are

and will indeed be the wonder of many housewives for many days to come. Will you come in and see them, please, Ladies?

Dent's 2-butt. Real Kid Gloves, from the celebrated French manufacturing centre—Grenoble, 3-cord silk twist points, in Black, White, Beaver, Putty, Tan, Brown, and Champagne, 2/11½ pr. These are of perfect cut, will fit smartly, and wear well, the skins being of an elastic nature, and good quality.

Special purchase of 2-butt. White Super Lisle Gloves, to be sold to-day at 6½d pr. There are 150 doz. only—a very small quantity, considering Foy's is the outlet—and each pair is worth at least 1s 0½d.

"ROUSING" SATURDAY VALUES.

Slaves to the expensive stores' prices will be spurred to visit Foy's counters on reading such attractive items as these.

NEW ORIENTAL COLOURED NETS AND INSERTIONS, CHARMING EASTERN EFFECTS.—Paris Bretonne Net, with coloured Coin Spots, 38in wide, 3s 3d yd. Insertions to match, 1¾in, 2½d; 2½in, 4½d; 3½in, 6½d yd.

SHOWROOM LINES.

These have a "pulling" power greater than the usual run of offerings made elsewhere, and the strength of the values may well be compared with the many hundreds of men who put the Pyramid's great stones in place.

Coloured Linen Costumes, smartly tucked and trimmed with embroidery insertion and pipings of contrasting colours. All sizes, newest colourings, 18s 11d, 21s, 25s 6d.

White Lawn and India Muslin Skirts, smartly tucked and trimmed with embroidery insertion, all sizes, 3s 11d to 7s 11d.

MANCHESTER SECTION.

The Sphinx couldn't solve the question of economy better than this section does for the housewife. These are only a few of the values that await the keen, "up-and-coming" shoppers.

Applique Sideboard Cloths, hundreds and hundreds of pretty styles line the fixtures, from which you can choose. Ladies, at 11½d, 1s 3d, 1s 4½d, 1s 6d, to 2s 6d each.

OXFORD-STREET, SYDNEY.

SAVE MONEY
by giving just as much attention to the economy resulting from long wear as to the sum of money you are asked to pay for them.
BUY GOOD BOOTS,

The wear of either of these two boots will more than satisfy you.

THE CULTURE OF BEAUTY.

Have you ever experienced the delicious luxury of face massage? To women wearied with the round of social gaiety it acts like a charm, at once dispelling every sense of fatigue and giving a fresh buoyancy that is most delightful. Wrinkles and crows'-feet are gently kneaded away, the circulation of the blood is heightened, and all tired muscles and languid nerves are given a new lease of energy. Why not steal a few minutes from your social calls and spend a delightful hour at the Valaze Massage Institute? You will find it so soothing and restful, and your looks will be greatly enhanced. Then there are the special treatments for more serious blemishes. Superfluous Hairs are permanently eradicated. Warts, Moles, and Double Chins are all successfully removed.
For all skin treatments a good skin food is an absolute essential. Valaze is the most reliable, pleasantest, and safest skin food on the world's market. The effect of Valaze is certainly magical. Freckles, Wrinkles, and Pimples all disappear under its magical spell immediately. 3s 6d, 6s 6d, and 6d postage.
The Valaze Massage Rollers perfect the Valaze treatment. They fill out hollows, remove wrinkles, and give proper facial development. Single, 8s 6d; set of two, 18s 6d; and a full set of three, in case, 25s; 6d postage. Beauty in the Making is the title of Mlle. Rubinstein's new booklet. Its subject is the complexion, its defects, and their remedies. Write for it, and enclose 3d for postage. It will be posted to any address in Australasia. All Valaze preparations obtainable from MLLE. RUBINSTEIN and CO.
